6. Neither Party may, as a condition for engaging in importation or for the importation of a good, require a person of the other Party to establish or maintain a contractual or other relationship with a distributor in its territory.

CHAPTER THREE AGRICULTURE

ARTICLE 3.1: SCOPE AND COVERAGE

1. This Chapter applies to measures adopted or maintained by a Party relating to trade in agricultural goods.¹
2. In addition, Article 3.2 shall apply with respect to all goods included in Appendix 2-B-1 of a Party's Schedule to Annex 2-B (Tariff Elimination), whether or not those goods are agricultural goods.

ARTICLE 3.2: ADMINISTRATION AND IMPLEMENTATION OF TARIFF-RATE QUOTAS

1. Each Party shall implement and administer the tariff-rate quotas set out in Appendix 2-B-1 of its Schedule to Annex 2-B (Tariff Elimination) (TRQs) in accordance with Article XIII of GATT 1994, including its interpretive notes, and the Import Licensing Agreement.
2. Each Party shall ensure that:
 - (a) its procedures for administering its TRQs are transparent, made available to the public, timely, non-discriminatory, responsive to market conditions, minimally burdensome to trade, and reflect end-user preferences;
 - (b) any person of a Party that fulfills the importing Party's legal and administrative requirements shall be eligible to apply and to be considered for a quota allocation under the Party's TRQs. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, any processor, retailer, restaurant, hotel, food service distributor or institution, or other person is eligible to apply and to be considered to receive a quota allocation. Any fees charged for services related to an application for a quota allocation shall be limited to the actual cost of the service rendered;
 - (c) except as specified in Appendix 2-B-1 of its Schedule to Annex 2-B, it does not allocate any portion of a quota to a producer group, condition access to a quota allocation on the purchase of domestic production, or limit access to a quota allocation to processors; and
 - (d) it allocates quotas in commercially viable shipping quantities and, to the maximum extent possible, in the amounts that importers request. Except as otherwise provided in each TRQ provision and the applicable tariff line in Appendix 2-B-1 of a Party's Schedule to Annex 2-B, each quota allocation shall be valid for any item or mixture of items subject to a particular TRQ, regardless of the item's or mixture's specification or grade, and shall not be conditioned on the item's or mixture's intended end-use or package size.
3. Each Party shall identify the entities responsible for administering its TRQs.
4. Each Party shall make every effort to administer its TRQs in a manner that allows importers to fully utilize quota quantities.

5. Neither Party may condition application for, or utilization of, quota allocations under a TRQ on the re-export of a good.
6. On the written request of either Party, the Parties shall consult regarding a Party's administration of its TRQs.
7. Except as otherwise provided in Appendix 2-B-1 of its Schedule to Annex 2-B, each Party shall make the entire quota quantity established in that Appendix available to quota applicants beginning on the date the Agreement enters into force during the first year, and on the first business day of each year thereafter. Over the course of each year, the importing Party's administering authority shall publish, in a timely fashion on its designated publicly available Internet site, utilization rates and remaining available quantities for each TRQ.

ARTICLE 3.3: AGRICULTURAL SAFEGUARD MEASURES

1. Notwithstanding Article 2.3 (Elimination of Customs Duties), a Party may apply a measure in the form of a higher import duty on an originating agricultural good listed in that Party's Schedule to Annex 3-A, consistent with paragraphs 2 through 8 if the aggregate volume of imports of that good in any year exceeds a trigger level as set out in its Schedule to Annex 3-A (trigger level).
2. The duty under paragraph 1 shall not exceed the lesser of the prevailing most-favored-nation (MFN) applied rate, or the MFN applied rate of duty in effect on the day immediately preceding the date this Agreement enters into force, or the tariff rate set out in its Schedule to Annex 3-A.
3. The duties each Party applies under paragraph 1 shall be set according to its Schedule to Annex 3-A.
4. Neither Party may apply or maintain an agricultural safeguard measure under this Article and at the same time apply or maintain, with respect to the same good:
 - (a) a safeguard measure under Chapter Ten (Trade Remedies); or
 - (b) a measure under Article XIX of GATT 1994 and the Safeguards Agreement.
5. A Party shall implement any agricultural safeguard measure in a transparent manner. Within 60 days after imposing an agricultural safeguard measure, the Party applying the measure shall notify the other Party in writing and provide the other Party with relevant data concerning the measure. On the written request of the exporting Party, the Parties shall consult regarding application of the measure.
6. The Joint Committee or the Committee on Agricultural Trade established under Article 3.4 may review and discuss the implementation and operation of this Article.
7. Neither Party may apply or maintain an agricultural safeguard measure on an originating agricultural good:
 - (a) if the period specified in the agricultural safeguard provisions of the Party's Schedule to Annex 3-A has expired; or
 - (b) if the measure increases the in-quota duty on a good subject to a TRQ set out in Appendix 2-B-1 of its Schedule to Annex 2-B.

8. Originating agricultural goods from either Party shall not be subject to any duties applied pursuant to any agricultural safeguard measure taken under the Agriculture Agreement.

ARTICLE 3.4: COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURAL TRADE

1. Not later than 90 days after the date this Agreement enters into force, the Parties shall establish a Committee on Agricultural Trade, comprising representatives of each Party.

2. The Committee shall provide a forum for:

- (a) monitoring and promoting cooperation on the implementation and administration of this Chapter;
- (b) consulting on matters related to this Chapter in coordination with other committees, subcommittees, working groups, or other bodies established under this Agreement; and
- (c) undertaking any additional work that the Joint Committee may assign.

3. The Committee shall meet at least once a year unless the Parties otherwise agree. Meetings of the Committee shall be chaired by the representatives of the Party hosting the meeting.

ARTICLE 3.5: DEFINITIONS

For purposes of this Chapter:

CHAPTER FOUR
TEXTILES AND APPAREL

ARTICLE 4.1: BILATERAL EMERGENCY ACTIONS

1. If, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a duty under this Agreement, a textile or apparel good benefiting from preferential tariff treatment under this Agreement is being imported into the territory of a Party in such increased quantities, in absolute terms or relative to the domestic market for that good, and under such conditions as to cause serious damage, or actual threat thereof, to a domestic industry producing a like or directly competitive good, the importing Party may, to the extent and for such time as may be necessary to prevent or remedy such damage and to facilitate adjustment by the domestic industry:

- (a) suspend the further reduction of any rate of customs duty on the good provided for under this Agreement; or
- (b) increase the rate of customs duty on the good to a level not to exceed the lesser of
 - (i) the most-favored-nation (MFN) applied rate of duty on the good in effect at the time the action is taken; and
 - (ii) the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect on the date this Agreement enters into force.

2. In determining serious damage, or actual threat thereof, the importing Party:

- (a) shall examine the effect of increased imports of the good from the exporting Party on the particular industry, as reflected in changes in such relevant economic variables as output, productivity, utilization of capacity, inventories, market share, exports, wages, employment, domestic prices, profits, and investment, none of which is necessarily decisive; and
- (b) shall not consider changes in technology or consumer preference as factors supporting a determination of serious damage or actual threat thereof.

3. The importing Party may take an emergency action under this Article only following an investigation. The importing Party shall:

- (a) carry out any investigation under this Article in accordance with procedures it has established; and
- (b) transmit its procedures to the other Party on the date this Agreement enters into force or before it initiates an investigation under this Article.

4. The importing Party shall deliver to the exporting Party, without delay, written notice of its intent to take emergency action and, on the request of the exporting Party, shall enter into consultations with that Party regarding the matter.

5. An importing Party:

- (a) may not maintain an emergency action for a period exceeding two years except that the period may be extended by up to two years;

- (b) may not take or maintain an emergency action against a good beyond ten years after the date the Party must eliminate its customs duties on that good pursuant to this Agreement;
- (c) may not take an emergency action more than once against the same good of the other Party; and
- (d) shall, on termination of the emergency action, apply to the good that was subject to the emergency action the rate of customs duty that would have been in effect but for the action.

6. The Party taking an emergency action under this Article shall provide to the exporting Party mutually agreed trade liberalizing compensation in the form of concessions having substantially equivalent trade effects or equivalent to the value of the additional duties expected to result from the emergency action. Such concessions shall be limited to textile or apparel goods, unless the Parties otherwise agree. If the Parties are unable to agree on compensation within 30 days of the application of an emergency action, the Party against whose good the emergency action is taken may take tariff action having trade effects substantially equivalent to the trade effects of the emergency action taken under this Article. The tariff action may be taken against any goods of the Party taking the emergency action. The Party taking the tariff action shall apply the tariff action only for the minimum period necessary to achieve the substantially equivalent trade effects. The importing Party's obligation to provide trade compensation and the exporting Party's right to take tariff action shall terminate on the date the emergency action terminates.

7. Neither Party may take or maintain, with respect to the same good at the same time, an emergency action under this Article and:

- (a) a safeguard measure under Chapter Ten (Trade Remedies); or
- (b) a measure under Article XIX of GATT 1994 and the Safeguards Agreement.

ARTICLE 4.2: RULES OF ORIGIN AND RELATED MATTERS

Application of Chapter Six

1. Except as provided in this Chapter, including Annexes 4-A and 4-B, Chapter Six (Rules of Origin and Origin Procedures) applies to textile or apparel goods.
2. The rules of origin set forth in this Agreement shall not apply in determining the country of origin of a textile or apparel good for non-preferential purposes.

Consultations

3. On the request of either Party, the Parties shall consult to consider whether the rules of origin applicable to a particular textile or apparel good should be revised to address issues of availability of supply of fibers, yarns, or fabrics in the territories of the Parties.
4. In the consultations referred to in paragraph 3, each Party shall consider all data presented by the other Party that demonstrate substantial production in its territory of a particular fiber, yarn, or fabric. The Parties shall consider that there is substantial production if a Party demonstrates that its domestic producers are capable of supplying commercial quantities of the fiber, yarn, or fabric in a timely manner.

5. The Parties shall endeavor to conclude consultations within 60 days after delivery of a request under paragraph 3. If the Parties agree in the consultations to revise a rule of origin, the revision shall supersede any prior rule of origin for such good when approved by the Parties in accordance with Article 24.2 (Amendments).

Transitional Procedures for Goods Containing Fibers, Yarns, and Fabrics Not Available in Commercial Quantities

6. Annex 4-B sets out provisions applicable to certain goods containing fibers, yarns, or fabrics that are not available in commercial quantities in a timely manner in a Party's territory.

De Minimis

7. A textile or apparel good that is not an originating good because certain fibers or yarns used in the production of the component of the good that determines the tariff classification of the good do not undergo an applicable change in tariff classification set out in Annex 4-A shall nonetheless be considered to be an originating good if the total weight of all such fibers or yarns in that component is not more than seven percent of the total weight of that component. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, a good containing elastomeric yarns in the component of the good that determines the tariff classification of the good shall be considered to be an originating good only if such yarns are wholly formed and finished in the territory of a Party.¹

Treatment of Sets

8. Notwithstanding the specific rules of origin set out in Annex 4-A, textile or apparel goods classifiable under General Rule of Interpretation 3 of the Harmonized System as goods put up in sets for retail sale shall not be regarded as originating goods unless each of the goods in the set is an originating good or the total value of the non-originating goods in the set does not exceed ten percent of the customs value of the set.

ARTICLE 4.3: CUSTOMS COOPERATION FOR TEXTILE OR APPAREL GOODS

1. The Parties shall cooperate for purposes of:
 - (a) enforcing or assisting in the enforcement of their respective measures affecting trade in textile or apparel goods;
 - (b) verifying and ensuring the accuracy of claims of origin;
 - (c) enforcing, or assisting in the enforcement of, measures implementing international agreements affecting trade in textile or apparel goods; and
 - (d) preventing circumvention of international agreements affecting trade in textile or apparel goods.
2. (a) Except as provided in subparagraphs (b) and (c), Korea shall obtain and update

¹ For purposes of paragraph 7, wholly formed and finished means all production processes and finishing operations, beginning with the extrusion of filaments, strips, film, or sheet, and including drawing to fully orient a filament or slitting a film or sheet into strip, or the spinning of all fibers into yarn, or both, and ending with a finished yarn or plied yarn.

3. On the request of the importing Party, the exporting Party shall conduct a verification for purposes of enabling the importing Party to determine that a claim of origin for a textile or apparel good is accurate. The exporting Party shall conduct such a verification, regardless of whether an importer claims preferential tariff treatment for the good. The exporting Party also may conduct such a verification on its own initiative.

4. On the request of a Party, the other Party shall endeavor to examine transshipped textile or apparel goods.⁴

5. Where the importing Party has a reasonable suspicion that a person of the exporting Party is engaging in unlawful activity relating to trade in textile or apparel goods, the exporting Party shall conduct, on the request of the importing Party, a verification for purposes of enabling the importing Party to determine that the person is complying with applicable customs measures affecting trade in textile or apparel goods, including measures that the exporting Party adopts and maintains pursuant to this Agreement and measures of either Party implementing any other international agreement regarding trade in textile or apparel goods, or to determine that a claim of origin regarding a textile or apparel good exported or produced by that person is accurate. For purposes of this paragraph, reasonable suspicion means a suspicion based on relevant factual information of the type set forth in Article 7.5 (Cooperation) or factors that indicate:

- (a) circumvention by an enterprise of applicable customs measures affecting trade in textile or apparel goods, including measures adopted to implement this Agreement; or
- (b) the existence of conduct that would facilitate the violation of measures relating to other international agreements affecting trade in textile or apparel goods or that would otherwise facilitate the nullification or impairment of rights or benefits accruing to a Party under those agreements.

6. The exporting Party, through its competent authorities, shall permit the importing Party, through its competent authorities, to assist in a verification conducted pursuant to paragraph 3 or 5, including by conducting, along with the competent authorities of the exporting Party, visits in the territory of the exporting Party to the premises of an exporter, producer, or any other person that may have evidence that is relevant to the verification. Any such visit should occur without providing prior notification to the exporter, producer, or other person.⁵ The exporting Party shall seek permission to conduct the site visit from the person at the time of the visit. If an exporter, producer, or other person refuses to consent to a visit by the appropriate officials of the importing Party, the importing Party may consider that the verification cannot be completed and the determination described in paragraph 3 or 5 cannot be made and may take appropriate action as described in paragraph 10.

7. Each Party shall provide to the other Party, consistent with its law, production, trade, and transit documents, and other information necessary to conduct a verification under paragraph 3 or 5. Each Party shall consider any documents or information exchanged between the Parties in the course of such a verification to have been designated as confidential within the meaning of Article 7.6 (Confidentiality). Notwithstanding the preceding sentence and Article 7.6, a governmental entity of a Party may share information provided to it under this Article with other governmental entities of that Party for a purpose set forth in paragraph 1.

8. While a verification is being conducted, the importing Party may, consistent with its law, take appropriate action, which may include suspending the application of preferential tariff treatment to:

- (a) the textile or apparel good for which a claim of origin has been made, in the case of a verification under paragraph 3; or

9. The Party conducting a verification under paragraph 3 or 5 shall provide the other Party with a written report on the results of the verification, which shall include all documents and facts supporting any conclusion that the Party reaches. Article 7.6 (Confidentiality) shall apply to any information contained in the report that the Party providing the report designates as confidential.

10. (a) If the importing Party is unable to make the determination described in paragraph 3 within 12 months after its request for a verification, or makes a negative determination, it may, consistent with its law, take appropriate action, including denying preferential tariff treatment to the textile or apparel good subject to the verification, and to similar goods exported or produced by the person that exported or produced the good.
- (b) If the importing Party is unable to make one of the determinations described in paragraph 5 within 12 months after its request for a verification, or makes a negative determination, it may, consistent with its law, take appropriate action, including denying preferential tariff treatment to any textile or apparel good exported or produced by the person subject to the verification.

11. Before taking any action under paragraph 10, the importing Party shall notify the exporting Party. The importing Party may continue to take action under paragraph 10 until it receives information sufficient to enable it to make the determination described in paragraph 3

⁵ In carrying out paragraph 6, Korea shall presume, due to the risk that the person would destroy or alter relevant evidence, that the purpose of the verification would not be achieved if its officials provided prior notice to the person.

or 5, as the case may be. A Party may, consistent with its law, make public the identity of a person that the Party has determined to be engaged in circumvention as provided under this Article or that has failed to demonstrate that it produces, or is capable of producing, textile or apparel goods.

12. On the request of either Party, the Parties shall consult to resolve any technical or interpretive difficulties that may arise under this Article or to discuss ways to improve the effectiveness of their cooperative efforts. In addition, either Party may request technical or other assistance from the other Party in implementing this Article. The Party receiving a request under this paragraph shall make every effort to respond favorably and promptly to it.

13. Any request for cooperation under this Article shall be made in writing and shall include a brief statement of the matter at issue and the cooperation requested.

ARTICLE 6.2: REGIONAL VALUE CONTENT

1. Where Annex 6-A specifies a regional value content test to determine whether a good is originating, each Party shall provide that the importer, exporter, or producer may calculate regional value content based on one or the other of the following methods:

- (a) Method Based on Value of Non-Originating Materials (Build-down Method)

$$RVC = \frac{AV - VNM}{AV} \times 100$$

- (b) Method Based on Value of Originating Materials (Build-up Method)

$$RVC = \frac{VOM}{AV} \times 100$$

where,

RVC is the regional value content, expressed as a percentage;

AV is the adjusted value of the good;

¹ For greater certainty, whether a good is originating is not determinative of whether the good is also admissible.

VNM is the value of non-originating materials, other than indirect materials, acquired and used by the producer in the production of the good; VNM does not include the value of a material that is self-produced; and VOM is the value of originating materials, other than indirect materials, acquired or self-produced and used by the producer in the production of the good.

2. Each Party shall provide that all costs considered for the calculation of regional value content shall be recorded and maintained in conformity with the Generally Accepted Accounting Principles applicable in the territory of the Party where the good is produced.

3. Where Annex 6-A specifies a regional value content test to determine if an automotive good² is originating, each Party shall provide that the importer, exporter, or producer may calculate the regional value content of that good as provided in paragraph 1 or based on the following method:

Net Cost Method (for Automotive Goods)

$$RVC = \frac{NC - VNM}{NC} \times 100$$

where,

RVC is the regional value content, expressed as a percentage;

NC is the net cost of the good; and

VNM is the value of non-originating materials, other than indirect materials, acquired and used by the producer in the production of the good; VNM does not include the value of a material that is self-produced.

4. Each Party shall provide that, for purposes of the regional value content method in paragraph 3, the importer, exporter, or producer may use a calculation averaged over the producer's fiscal year, using any one of the following categories, on the basis of all motor vehicles in the category or only those motor vehicles in the category that are exported to the territory of the other Party:

- (a) the same model line of motor vehicles in the same class of vehicles produced in the same plant in the territory of a Party;
- (b) the same class of motor vehicles produced in the same plant in the territory of a Party; or
- (c) the same model line of motor vehicles produced in the territory of a Party.

5. Each Party shall provide that, for purposes of calculating regional value content under paragraph 3 for automotive materials³ produced in the same plant, an importer, exporter, or producer may use a calculation:

 - (ii) over any quarter or month; or
 - (iii) over the fiscal year of the automotive materials producer,provided that the good was produced during the fiscal year, quarter, or month forming the basis for the calculation;
- (b) in which the average in subparagraph (a) is calculated separately for such goods sold to one or more motor vehicle producers; or
- (c) in which the average in subparagraph (a) or (b) is calculated separately for those goods that are exported to the territory of the other Party.

ARTICLE 6.3: VALUE OF MATERIALS

4. Each Party shall provide that a certification may apply to:

- (b) it is a good for which the importing Party does not require the importer to present a certification or information demonstrating origin.

ARTICLE 6.17: RECORD KEEPING REQUIREMENTS

1. Each Party shall provide that an exporter or a producer in its territory that provides a certification in accordance with Article 6.15 shall maintain, for a minimum of five years from the date the certification was issued, all records necessary to demonstrate that a good for which the producer or exporter provided a certification was an originating good, including records concerning:

3. Each Party shall provide that an importer claiming preferential tariff treatment for a good imported into the territory of that Party based on a certification issued by the exporter or producer shall maintain, for a minimum of five years from the date of importation of the good, a copy of the certification that served as the basis for the claim. If the importer possesses records demonstrating that the good satisfies the requirements to remain originating under Article 6.13, the importer shall maintain such records for a minimum of five years from the date of importation of the good.

4. Each Party shall provide that an importer, exporter, or producer may choose to maintain the records specified in paragraph 1, 2, or 3 in any medium that allows for prompt retrieval, including, but not limited to, digital, electronic, optical, magnetic, or written form.

ARTICLE 6.18: VERIFICATION

1. For purposes of determining whether a good imported into its territory from the territory of the other Party is an originating good, the importing Party may conduct a verification by means of:

- (a) written requests for information from the importer, exporter, or producer;
- (b) written questionnaires to the importer, exporter, or producer;
- (c) visits to the premises of an exporter or producer in the territory of the other Party, to review the records referred to in Article 6.17.1 or observe the facilities used in the production of the good;
- (d) for a textile or apparel good, the procedures set out in Article 4.3 (Customs Cooperation for Textile or Apparel Goods); or
- (e) such other procedures to which the importing and exporting Parties may agree.

Where an importing Party conducts verification by the means referred to in subparagraph (a) or (b), the importing Party may request that the importer arrange for the exporter or producer to provide information directly to the importing Party.

2. The Parties shall agree on procedures for conducting visits provided for in paragraph 1(c).

3. A Party may deny preferential tariff treatment to a good where:

- (a) the importer, exporter, or producer fails to provide information that the Party requested under paragraph 1(a) or 1(b) demonstrating that the good is an originating good;
- (b) after receiving a written notification for a visit pursuant to paragraph 1(c), the exporter or producer declines to provide access to the records referred to in Article 6.17 or to its facilities; or
- (c) the Party finds a pattern of conduct indicating that an importer, exporter, or producer has provided false or unsupported declarations or certifications that a good imported into its territory is an originating good.

4. If, as a result of a verification, a Party finds that a good is not originating, the Party shall provide the importer with a proposed determination to that effect and an opportunity to submit additional information demonstrating that the good is originating. Each Party shall provide that the importer may arrange for the exporter or producer to provide pertinent information directly to the Party.

5. After providing the importer with an opportunity to submit additional information pursuant to paragraph 4, the Party that conducted the verification shall provide the importer a final determination, in writing, of whether the good is originating. The Party's determination shall include factual findings and the legal basis for the determination. Where the exporter or producer has provided information pursuant to paragraph 1 or 4 directly to the Party conducting the verification, that Party shall endeavor to provide a copy of the determination to the exporter or producer that provided the information.

6. Where an importing Party determines through verification that an importer, exporter, or producer has engaged in a pattern of conduct in providing false or unsupported statements, declarations, or certifications that a good imported into its territory is originating, the Party may suspend preferential tariff treatment to identical goods covered by subsequent statements, declarations, or certifications by that importer, exporter, or producer until the Party determines that the importer, exporter, or producer is in compliance with the requirements of this Chapter.

ARTICLE 6.19: OBLIGATIONS RELATING TO IMPORTATIONS

1. Each Party shall grant any claim for preferential tariff treatment made in accordance with this Chapter, unless the Party issues a written determination that the claim is invalid as a matter of law or fact.

2. A Party may deny preferential tariff treatment to a good if the importer fails to comply with any requirement in this Chapter.

3. Neither Party may subject an importer to any penalty for making an invalid claim for preferential tariff treatment, if the importer:

- (a) did not engage in negligence, gross negligence, or fraud in making the claim and pays any customs duty owing; or
- (b) on becoming aware that such a claim is not valid, promptly and voluntarily corrects the claim and pays any customs duty owing.

4. Each Party may require that an importer who claims preferential tariff treatment for a good imported into its territory:

- (a) declare in the importation document that the good is an originating good;
- (b) identify the applicable tariff rate;
- (c) have in its possession at the time the declaration referred to in subparagraph (a) is made, a written or electronic certification as described in Article 6.15, if the certification forms the basis for the claim;
- (d) provide a copy of the certification, on request, to the importing Party, if the certification forms the basis for the claim;
- (e) when the importer has reason to believe that the declaration in subparagraph (a) is based on inaccurate information, correct the importation document and pay any customs duty owing;
- (f) when a certification by the exporter forms the basis for the claim, have in place an arrangement to have the exporter provide, on request of the importing Party, all information relied on by such exporter in making such certification;
- (g) when a certification by the producer forms the basis for the claim, have in place, at the importer's option:
 - (i) an arrangement with the producer to provide; or
 - (ii) an arrangement with the exporter to have the producer provide, all information relied on by the producer in making its certification; and

- (h) when the importer's certification or knowledge forms the basis for the claim, demonstrate, on request of the importing Party, that the good is originating under Article 6.1, including that the good satisfies the requirements to remain originating under Article 6.13.

5. Each Party shall provide that, where a good was originating when it was imported into its territory, but the importer of the good did not make a claim for preferential tariff treatment at the time of importation, that importer may, no later than one year after the date of importation, make a claim for preferential tariff treatment and apply for a refund of any excess duties paid as a result of the good not having been accorded preferential tariff treatment, on presentation to the Party of:

- (a) a written or electronic declaration or statement that the good was originating at the time of importation;
- (b) a copy of a written or electronic certification if the certification forms the basis for the claim, or other information demonstrating that the good was originating; and
- (c) such other documentation relating to the importation of the good as the importing Party may require.

6. Nothing in this Article shall prevent a Party from taking action under Article 4.3 (Customs Cooperation for Textile or Apparel Goods).

ARTICLE 6.20: OBLIGATIONS RELATING TO EXPORTATIONS

1. Each Party shall provide that:

- (a) an exporter or a producer in its territory that has provided a written or electronic certification in accordance with Article 6.15 shall, on request, provide a copy to the exporting Party;
- (b) a false certification by an exporter or a producer in its territory that a good to be exported to the territory of the other Party is originating shall be subject to penalties equivalent to those that would apply to an importer in its territory that makes a false statement or representation in connection with an importation, with appropriate modifications; and
- (c) when an exporter or a producer in its territory has provided a certification and has reason to believe that the certification contains or is based on incorrect information, the exporter or producer shall promptly notify in writing every person to whom the exporter or producer provided the certification of any change that could affect the accuracy or validity of the certification.

2. Neither Party may impose penalties on an exporter or a producer for providing an incorrect certification if the exporter or producer voluntarily notifies in writing all persons to whom it has provided the certification that it was incorrect.

ANNEX 6-A SPECIFIC RULES OF ORIGIN

Part I – General Interpretative Notes

1. For purposes of interpreting the rules of origin set forth in this Annex:
 - (a) the specific rule, or specific set of rules, that applies to a particular heading or subheading is set out immediately adjacent to the heading or subheading;
 - (b) the requirement of a change in tariff classification applies only to non-originating materials;
 - (c) where a specific rule of origin is defined using the criterion of a change in tariff classification, and it is written to exclude tariff provisions at the level of a chapter, heading, or subheading of the Harmonized System, it shall be construed to mean that the rule of origin requires that materials classified in those excluded provisions be originating for the good to qualify as originating;
 - (d) when a heading or subheading is subject to alternative specific rules of origin, the rule will be considered to be met if a good satisfies one of the alternatives;
 - (e) when a single rule of origin is applicable to a group of headings or subheadings and that rule of origin specifies a change of heading or subheading, it shall be understood that the change in heading or subheading may occur from any other heading or subheading, as the case may be, including from any other heading or subheading within a designated group. When, however, a rule refers to a change in heading or subheading “outside that group” this shall be understood to require that the change in heading or subheading must occur from a heading or subheading that is outside the group of headings or subheadings set out in the rule;
 - (f) reference to weight in the rules for goods provided for in Chapters 1 through 24 of the Harmonized System means dry weight unless otherwise specified in the Harmonized System; and
 - (g) for Chapters 1 to 40, a good shall not be considered to be originating solely by reason of mere dilution with water or another substance that does not materially alter the characteristics of the good.

2. The following definitions apply:

chapter means a chapter of the Harmonized System;

heading means the first four digits in the tariff classification number under the Harmonized System;

section means a section of the Harmonized System;

subheading means the first six digits in the tariff classification number under the Harmonized System.

For purposes of this chapter, a “chemical reaction” is a process (including a biochemical process) that results in a molecule with a new structure by breaking intramolecular bonds and by forming new intramolecular bonds, or by altering the spatial arrangement of atoms in a molecule.

The following are not considered to be chemical reactions for the purposes of this definition:

- (c) the addition or elimination of water of crystallization.

For purposes of heading 27.10, the following processes confer origin:

- (a) Atmospheric distillation: A separation process in which petroleum oils are converted, in a distillation tower, into fractions according to boiling point and the vapor then condensed into different liquefied fractions.
- (b) Vacuum distillation: Distillation at a pressure below atmospheric but not so low that it would be classed as molecular distillation.

Note 2:

Notwithstanding Note 1, a good is an originating good if it meets the applicable change in tariff classification or satisfies the applicable value content requirement specified in the rules of origin in this Section.

Rule 1: Chemical Reaction Origin

A good of Chapters 28 through 38, except goods of heading 38.23, that results from a chemical reaction in the territory of one or both of the Parties shall be treated as an originating good.

Note:

For purposes of this section, a “chemical reaction” is a process (including a biochemical process) that results in a molecule with a new structure by breaking intramolecular bonds and by forming new intramolecular bonds, or by altering the spatial arrangement of atoms in a molecule.

The following are not considered to be chemical reactions for the purposes of determining whether a good is an originating good:

- (a) dissolution in water or in another solvent;
- (b) the elimination of solvents including solvent water; or
- (c) the addition or elimination of water of crystallization.

Rule 2: Purification

A good of Chapters 28 through 38 that is subject to purification shall be treated as an originating good provided that the purification occurs in the territory of one or both of the Parties and results in the following:

- (a) the elimination of not less than 80 percent of the impurities; or
- (b) the reduction or elimination of impurities resulting in a good suitable:
 - (i) as a pharmaceutical, medicinal, cosmetic, veterinary, or food grade substance;
 - (ii) as a chemical product or reagent for analytical, diagnostic, or laboratory uses;
 - (iii) as an element or component for use in micro-elements;
 - (iv) for specialized optical uses;
 - (v) for non-toxic uses for health and safety;

- (vi) for biotechnical use;
- (vii) as a carrier used in a separation process; or
- (viii) for nuclear grade uses.

Rule 3: Mixtures and Blends

A good of Chapters 30, 31, or 33 through 38, except for heading 38.08, shall be treated as an originating good if the deliberate and proportionally controlled mixing or blending (including dispersing) of materials to conform to predetermined specifications, resulting in the production of a good having different essential physical or chemical characteristics that are relevant to the purposes or uses of the good and are different from the input materials, occurs in the territory of one or both of the Parties.

Rule 4: Change in Particle Size

A good of Chapters 30, 31, or 33, shall be treated as an originating good if the deliberate and controlled modification in particle size of the good, including micronizing by dissolving a polymer and subsequent precipitation, other than by merely crushing or pressing, resulting in a good having a defined particle size, defined particle size distribution, or defined surface area, which is relevant to the purposes of the resulting good and having different essential physical or chemical characteristics from the input materials, occurs in the territory of one or both of the Parties.

Rule 5: Standards Materials

A good of Chapters 28 through 38 shall be treated as an originating good if the production of standards materials occurs in the territory of one or both of the Parties.

For the purposes of this rule “standards materials” (including standard solutions) are preparations suitable for analytical, calibrating, or referencing uses, having precise degrees of purity or proportions that are certified by the manufacturer.

Rule 6: Isomer Separation

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, this Chapter does not apply to:

- (a) technical specifications prepared by a governmental body for its production or consumption requirements; or
- (b) sanitary or phytosanitary measures.

ARTICLE 9.3: INTERNATIONAL STANDARDS

In determining whether an international standard, guide, or recommendation within the meaning of Articles 2 and 5 and Annex 3 of the TBT Agreement exists, each Party shall base its determination on the principles set out in Decisions and Recommendations adopted by the Committee since 1 January 1995, G/TBT/1/Rev.8, 23 May 2002, Section IX (Decision of the Committee on Principles for the Development of International Standards, Guides and Recommendations with relation to Articles 2, 5 and Annex 3 of the Agreement), issued by the WTO Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade.

ARTICLE 9.4: JOINT COOPERATION

1. The Parties shall strengthen their cooperation in the field of standards, technical regulations, and conformity assessment procedures with a view to increasing the mutual understanding of their respective systems and facilitating access to their respective markets. In particular, the Parties shall seek to identify, develop, and promote trade facilitating initiatives regarding standards, technical regulations, and conformity assessment procedures that are appropriate for particular issues or sectors. These initiatives may include cooperation on regulatory issues, such as transparency, the promotion of good regulatory practices, alignment with international standards, and use of accreditation to qualify conformity assessment bodies.

2. On request, a Party shall give favorable consideration to a sector-specific proposal that the requesting Party makes for further cooperation under this Chapter.

¹ For greater certainty, the Parties understand that any reference in this Chapter to a standard, technical regulation, or conformity assessment procedure includes those related to metrology.

The Parties shall intensify their exchange of information on these and similar mechanisms with a view to facilitating the acceptance of conformity assessment results.

2. Where a Party does not accept the results of a conformity assessment procedure conducted in the territory of the other Party, it shall, on request of the other Party, explain the reasons for its decision.

3. Each Party shall accredit, approve, license, or otherwise recognize conformity assessment bodies in the territory of the other Party on terms no less favorable than those it accords to conformity assessment bodies in its territory. Where a Party accredits, approves, licenses, or otherwise recognizes a body assessing conformity with a specific technical regulation or standard in its territory and it refuses to accredit, approve, license, or otherwise recognize a body assessing conformity with that technical regulation or standard in the territory of the other Party, it shall, on request of the other Party, explain the reasons for its decision.

4. A Party that accredits, approves, licenses, or otherwise recognizes conformity assessment bodies shall do so on the basis of criteria published by the Party for determining whether a conformity assessment body is competent to receive accreditation, approval, licensing or other recognition.

5.  - (c) make available to the public, preferably by electronic means, comments it receives from persons or the other Party on the proposed technical regulation or conformity assessment procedure.

Each Party shall also publish and notify new technical regulations and amendments to existing technical regulations that are in accordance with the technical content of any relevant international standards. standards. Each Party shall also take such reasonable measures as may be available to it to ensure that new technical regulations and amendments to existing technical regulations of local governments on the level directly below that of the central government that are in accordance with the technical content of any relevant international standards are published and notified through the inquiry point referenced in paragraph 3(b).

5. Each Party shall publish, preferably by electronic means, notices of proposed and final technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures required under Articles 2.9, 2.11, 5.6, and 5.8 of the TBT Agreement in a single official journal and shall encourage the government bodies that issue them to disseminate them through additional channels. With respect to notices of proposed and final technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures notified under Articles 3.2 and 7.2 of the TBT Agreement, each Party shall ensure to the extent practicable, that all such notices are accessible through a single Internet site or other information source.

6. Each Party shall include in the notice of a final technical regulation or conformity assessment procedure that it publishes in its official journal:

Such requests may include requests for information regarding the matter the technical regulation or conformity assessment procedure is designed to address, alternative approaches the Party considered, and the merits of the particular approach the Party chose.

ARTICLE 9.7: AUTOMOTIVE STANDARDS AND TECHNICAL REGULATIONS

1. The Parties shall cooperate bilaterally, including in the World Forum for Harmonization of Vehicle Regulations of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (WP.29), to harmonize standards for motor vehicle environmental performance and safety.

2. Each Party shall ensure that technical regulations related to motor vehicles are not prepared, adopted, or applied with a view to or with the effect of creating unnecessary obstacles to international trade, to the extent provided in Article 2.2 of the TBT Agreement. For this purpose, technical regulations related to motor vehicles shall not be more trade-restrictive than necessary to fulfill a legitimate objective, taking account of the risks non-fulfillment would create. Such legitimate objectives are, inter alia: national security requirements; the prevention of deceptive practices; and protection of human health or safety, animal or plant life or health, or the environment. In assessing such risks, relevant elements of consideration are, inter alia: available scientific and technical information, related processing technology, or intended end-uses of products.

The Honorable Susan C. Schwab
United States Trade Representative
Washington, D.C.

Dear Ambassador Schwab:

I have the honor to confirm the following understanding reached between the delegations of the Republic of Korea and the United States of America during the course of negotiations regarding Chapter Nine (Technical Barriers to Trade) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

K-ULEV

Korea shall provide that:

- (1) a gasoline-powered motor vehicle produced by a manufacturer that sells no more than 4500 of these vehicles in the territory of Korea complies with the requirements contained in Attachment 20 of the Ministerial Regulation adopted pursuant to the Air Quality Conservation Act (K-ULEV) if the vehicle meets the Low Emission Vehicle Standard (LEV);
- (2) a gasoline-powered motor vehicle produced by a manufacturer that sells between 4501 and 10,000 of these vehicles in the territory of Korea complies with the requirements contained in K-ULEV if the fleet average non-methane organic gas (NMOG) value of the manufacturer's fleet sold in the territory of Korea meets the LEV/Ultra Low Emission Vehicle Standard (LEV/ULEV); and
- (3) a gasoline-powered motor vehicle produced by a manufacturer that sells over 10,000 of these vehicles in the territory of Korea complies with K-ULEV if the fleet average NMOG value of the manufacturer's fleet sold in the territory of Korea meets the Ultra Low Emission Vehicle Standard (ULEV).

Korea shall use the methodology applied by the State of California under California LEV II Regulations, Cal. Code Regs. tit. 13, § 1961, and any amendments thereto, to calculate the number of motor vehicles sold by a manufacturer in the territory of Korea and the fleet average NMOG value for these purposes.

In determining whether a gasoline-powered motor vehicle produced by a manufacturer complies with K-ULEV, Korea shall apply the following LEV, LEV/ULEV, and ULEV standards:

Model Year	Fleet Average NMOG Value (gram per mile of NMOG) 50,000 miles/five years
	2009	2010	2011 and thereafter
LEV	0.075	0.075	NMOG value for motor vehicle type of relevant model year, specified in Cal. Code Regs. tit. 13, § 1961(b)(1)(C)
LEV/ULEV	0.060	0.060	NMOG value for motor vehicle type of relevant model year, specified in Cal. Code Regs. tit. 13, § 1961(b)(1)(D)
ULEV	0.040	≥0.038	NMOG value for motor vehicle type of relevant model year will not be more stringent than that specified in Cal. Code Regs. tit. 13, § 1961(b)(1)(A)

OBD-II:

Before December 31, 2008, Korea may not apply the requirements contained in the Ministerial Notice adopted pursuant to the Air Quality Conservation Act, and any amendments thereto, to motor vehicles produced by an automotive manufacturer that sells 10,000 or fewer vehicles per year in the territory of Korea.

Self-certification:

- (1) Korea may not apply new or amended regulations relating to self-certification for Korean Motor Vehicle Safety Standards (KMOVSS) to imported motor vehicles for at least two years after the date the regulations are issued; and
- (2) Korea shall provide that:

- (a) the regulations only apply to an imported motor vehicle model if it is subject to a recall that Korea has mandated;
- (b) a motor vehicle produced by a manufacturer that sold no more than 6500 vehicles in the territory of Korea during the previous calendar year complies with the regulations if it is in compliance with either the 42 items contained in KMVSS and identified in the attached Annex or the corresponding U.S. Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards; and
- (c) a motor vehicle produced by a manufacturer that sold more than 6500 vehicles in the territory of Korea during the previous calendar year complies with the regulations if it is in compliance with the 42 KMVSS items identified in the Annex.

I have the honor to propose that this letter and your letter in reply confirming that your Government shares this understanding shall constitute an integral part of the Free Trade Agreement.

Sincerely,

[SGN]

Hyun Chong Kim

대한민국은 다음을 규정한다.

- 가. 대한민국 영역에서 그 차량을 4,500대 이하로 판매하는 제작사에 의하여 생산된 휘발유를 동력으로 하는 자동차는 저배출차량기준을 충족하는 경우, 대기환경보전법에 따라 채택된 시행규칙 별표 20(대한민국 초저배출차량기준)에 포함된 요건을 준수하게 된다.
- 나. 대한민국 영역에서 그 차량을 4,501대와 1만대 사이로 판매하는 제작사에 의하여 생산된 휘발유를 동력으로 하는 자동차는 대한민국 영역에서 판매된 그 제작사의 총판매차량의 비메탄유기가스의 평균 배출량이 저배출차량기준/초저배출차량기준을 충족하는 경우, 대한민국 초저배출차량기준에 포함된 요건을 준수하게 된다. 그리고
- 다. 대한민국 영역에서 그 차량을 1만대를 초과하여 판매하는 제작사에 의하여 생산된 휘발유를 동력으로 하는 자동차는 대한민국 영역에서 판매된 그 제작사의 총판매차량의 비메탄유기가스의 평균 배출량이 초저배출차량기준을 충족하는 경우, 대한민국 초저배출차량기준에 포함된 요건을 준수하게 된다.

제작사에 의하여 생산된 휘발유를 동력으로 하는 자동차가 대한민국 초저배출차량기준을 준수하는지 여부를 결정함에 있어, 대한민국은 다음의 저배출차량기준, 저배출차량기준/초저배출차량기준 및 초저배출차량기준을 적용한다.

배출가스자기진단장치 II

대한민국은 대기환경보전법에 따라 채택된 고시 및 그 개정에 포함된 요

건을 대한민국 영역에서 연간 1만대 이하를 판매하는 자동차 제작사에 의하여 생산된 자동차에 대하여는 2008년 12월 31일 이전에는 적용할 수 없다.

자기 인증

가. 대한민국은 대한민국자동차안전기준을 위한 자기 인증에 관한 새로운 또는 개정된 규정을 수입 자동차에 대하여 그러한 규정이 발표된 후 최소 2년간 적용할 수 없다. 그리고

나. 대한민국은 다음을 규정한다.

- 1) 그 규정은, 수입 자동차의 모델이 대한민국의 강제 리콜의 적용대상이 되는 경우, 그 모델에만 적용한다.
- 2) 전년도에 대한민국 영역에서 6,500대 이하를 판매한 제작사에 의하여 생산된 자동차는 대한민국자동차안전기준에 포함되고 첨부 부속서에서 확인된 42개 항목이나 이에 상응하는 미합중국 연방자동차 안전기준 중 어느 하나를 준수하는 경우, 그 규정을 준수하게 된다. 그리고
- 3) 전년도에 대한민국 영역에서 6,500대를 초과하여 판매한 제작사에 의하여 생산된 자동차는 첨부 부속서에서 확인된 42개 대한민국자동차안전기준 항목을 준수하는 경우, 그 규정을 준수하게 된다.

본인은 이 서한과 귀 정부가 이 양해를 공유한다는 것을 확인하는 귀하의 회답 서한이 자유무역협정의 불가분의 일부를 구성함을 제안하는 영광을 가지는 바입니다.

CHAPTER TEN
TRADE REMEDIES

Section A: Safeguard Measures

ARTICLE 10.1: APPLICATION OF A SAFEGUARD MEASURE

If, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a customs duty under this Agreement, an originating good of the other Party is being imported into the territory of a Party in such increased quantities, in absolute terms or relative to domestic production, and under such conditions that the imports of such originating good from the other Party constitute a substantial cause of serious injury, or threat thereof, to a domestic industry producing a like or directly competitive good, the Party may:

- (a) suspend the further reduction of any rate of customs duty on the good provided for under this Agreement;
- (b) increase the rate of customs duty on the good to a level not to exceed the lesser of:
 - (i) the most-favored-nation (MFN) applied rate of duty on the good in effect at the time the action is taken; and
 - (ii) the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect on the day immediately preceding the date this Agreement enters into force; or
- (c) in the case of a customs duty applied to a good on a seasonal basis, increase the rate of duty to a level that, for each season, does not exceed the lesser of:
 - (i) the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect for the corresponding season immediately preceding the date of application of the safeguard measure; and
 - (ii) the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect for the corresponding season immediately preceding the date this Agreement enters into force.

ARTICLE 10.2: CONDITIONS AND LIMITATIONS

1. A Party shall notify the other Party in writing on initiation of an investigation described in paragraph 2 and shall consult with the other Party as far in advance of applying a safeguard measure as practicable, with a view to reviewing the information arising from the investigation and exchanging views on the measure.

2. A Party shall apply a safeguard measure only following an investigation by the Party's competent authorities in accordance with Articles 3 and 4.2(c) of the Safeguards Agreement, and to this end, Articles 3 and 4.2(c) of the Safeguards Agreement are incorporated into and made a part of this Agreement, mutatis mutandis.

3. In the investigation described in paragraph 2, the Party shall comply with the requirements of Article 4.2(a) of the Safeguards Agreement, and to this end, Article 4.2(a) of the Safeguards Agreement is incorporated into and made a part of this Agreement, mutatis mutandis.

4. Each Party shall ensure that its competent authorities complete any such investigation within one year of its date of initiation.
5. Neither Party may apply a safeguard measure:
 - (a) except to the extent, and for such time, as may be necessary to prevent or remedy serious injury and to facilitate adjustment;
 - (b) for a period exceeding two years, except that the period may be extended by up to one year if the competent authorities of the importing Party determine, in conformity with the procedures specified in this Article, that the measure continues to be necessary to prevent or remedy serious injury and to facilitate adjustment and that there is evidence that the industry is adjusting, provided that the total period of application of a safeguard measure, including the period of initial application and any extension thereof, shall not exceed three years; or
 - (c) beyond the expiration of the transition period, except with the consent of the other Party.
6. Neither Party may apply a safeguard measure more than once against the same good.
7. Where the expected duration of the safeguard measure is over one year, the importing Party shall progressively liberalize it at regular intervals.
8. When a Party terminates a safeguard measure, the rate of customs duty shall be the rate that, according to the Party's Schedule to Annex 2-B (Tariff Elimination), would have been in effect but for the measure.

ARTICLE 10.3: PROVISIONAL MEASURES

1. In critical circumstances where delay would cause damage that would be difficult to repair, a Party may apply a safeguard measure on a provisional basis pursuant to a preliminary determination by its competent authorities that there is clear evidence that imports of an originating good from the other Party have increased as the result of the reduction or elimination of a customs duty under this Agreement, and such imports constitute a substantial cause of serious injury, or threat thereof, to the domestic industry.
2. Before a Party's competent authorities may make a preliminary determination, the Party shall publish a public notice in its official journal setting forth how interested parties, including importers and exporters, may obtain a non-confidential copy of the application requesting a provisional safeguard measure, and shall provide interested parties at least 20 days after the date it publishes the notice to submit evidence and views regarding the application of a provisional measure. A Party may not apply a provisional measure until at least 45 days after the date its competent authorities initiate an investigation.
3. The duration of any provisional measure shall not exceed 200 days, during which time the Party shall comply with the requirements of Articles 10.2.2 and 10.2.3.
4. The Party shall promptly refund any tariff increases if the investigation described in Article 10.2.2 does not result in a finding that the requirements of Article 10.1 are met. The duration of any provisional measure shall be counted as part of the period described in Article 10.2.5(b).

ARTICLE 10.4: COMPENSATION

1. No later than 30 days after it applies a safeguard measure, a Party shall afford an opportunity for the other Party to consult with it regarding appropriate trade liberalizing compensation in the form of concessions having substantially equivalent trade effects or equivalent to the value of the additional duties expected to result from the measure. The applying Party shall provide such compensation as the Parties mutually agree.
2. If the Parties are unable to agree on compensation within 30 days after consultations begin, the Party against whose originating good the measure is applied may suspend the application of concessions with respect to originating goods of the applying Party that have trade effects substantially equivalent to the safeguard measure.
3. The applying Party's obligation to provide compensation under paragraph 1 and the other Party's right to suspend concessions under paragraph 2 shall terminate on the date the safeguard measure terminates.

ARTICLE 10.5: GLOBAL SAFEGUARD ACTIONS

1. Each Party retains its rights and obligations under Article XIX of GATT 1994 and the Safeguards Agreement. This Agreement does not confer any additional rights or obligations on the Parties with regard to actions taken under Article XIX of GATT 1994 and the Safeguards Agreement, except that a Party taking a global safeguard measure may exclude imports of an originating good of the other Party if such imports are not a substantial cause of serious injury or threat thereof.
2. Neither Party may apply, with respect to the same good, at the same time:
 - (a) a safeguard measure; and
 - (b) a measure under Article XIX of GATT 1994 and the Safeguards Agreement.

ARTICLE 10.6: DEFINITIONS

For purposes of Section A:

domestic industry means, with respect to an imported good, the producers as a whole of the like or directly competitive good operating in the territory of a Party, or those whose collective output of the like or directly competitive good constitutes a major proportion of the total domestic production of that good;

safeguard measure means a measure described in Article 10.1; serious injury means a significant overall impairment in the position of a domestic industry; substantial cause means a cause that is important and not less than any other cause; threat of serious injury means serious injury that, on the basis of facts and not merely on allegation, conjecture, or remote possibility, is clearly imminent; and transition period means the ten-year period following the date this Agreement enters into force, except that for any good for which the Schedule to Annex 2-B (Tariff Elimination) of the Party applying the safeguard measure provides for the Party to eliminate its tariffs on the good over a period of more than ten years, transition period means the tariff elimination period for the good set out in that Schedule.

Section B: Antidumping and Countervailing Duties

ARTICLE 10.7: ANTIDUMPING AND COUNTERVAILING DUTIES

1. Each Party retains its rights and obligations under the WTO Agreement with regard to the application of antidumping and countervailing duties.
2. Except for paragraphs 3 and 4, no provision of this Agreement shall be construed to impose any rights or obligations on a Party with respect to antidumping or countervailing duty measures. Neither Party may have recourse to dispute settlement under this Agreement for any matter arising under this Article.¹

Notification and Consultations

3. (a) Upon receipt by a Party's competent authorities of a properly documented antidumping application with respect to imports from the other Party, and before initiating an investigation, the Party shall provide written notification to the other Party of its receipt of the application and afford the other Party a meeting or other similar opportunities regarding the application, consistent with the Party's law.
- (b) Upon receipt by a Party's competent authorities of a properly documented countervailing duty application with respect to imports from the other Party, and before initiating an investigation, the Party shall provide written notification to the other Party of its receipt of the application and afford the other Party a meeting to consult with its competent authorities regarding the application.

Undertakings

4. (a) After a Party's competent authorities initiate an antidumping or countervailing duty investigation, the Party shall transmit to the other Party's embassy or competent authorities written information regarding the Party's procedures for requesting its authorities to consider an undertaking on price or, as appropriate, on quantity, including the time frames for offering and concluding any such undertaking.
- (b) In an antidumping investigation, where a Party's authorities have made a preliminary affirmative determination of dumping and injury caused by such dumping, the Party shall afford due consideration, and adequate opportunity for consultations, to exporters of the other Party regarding proposed price undertakings which, if accepted, may result in suspension of the investigation without imposition of antidumping duties, through the means provided for in the Party's laws and procedures.

¹ Although recourse to dispute settlement is not available with respect to paragraphs 3 and 4, the Parties reaffirm that those paragraphs create binding rights and obligations.

- (c) In a countervailing duty investigation, where a Party's authorities have made a preliminary affirmative determination of subsidization and injury caused by such subsidization, the Party shall afford due consideration, and adequate opportunity for consultations, to the other Party and exporters of the other Party, regarding proposed undertakings on price or, as appropriate, on quantity, which, if accepted, may result in suspension of the investigation without imposition of countervailing duties, through the means provided for in the Party's laws and procedures.

Section C: Committee on Trade Remedies

ARTICLE 10.8: COMMITTEE ON TRADE REMEDIES

1. The Parties hereby establish a Committee on Trade Remedies, comprising representatives at an appropriate level from relevant agencies of each Party who have responsibility for trade remedies matters, including antidumping, subsidies and countervailing measures, and safeguards issues.
2. The functions of the Committee shall be to:
 - (a) enhance each Party's knowledge and understanding of the other Party's trade remedy laws, policies, and practices;
 - (b) oversee implementation of this Chapter, including compliance with paragraphs 3 and 4 of Article 10.7;
 - (c) improve cooperation between the Parties' agencies having responsibility for trade remedies matters;
 - (d) provide a forum for the Parties to exchange information on issues relating to antidumping, subsidies and countervailing measures, and safeguards;
 - (e) establish and oversee, for officials of both Parties, development of educational programs related to the administration of trade remedy laws; and
 - (f) provide a forum for the Parties to discuss other relevant topics of mutual interest including:
 - (i) international issues related to trade remedies, including issues relating to the WTO Doha Round Rules negotiations;
 - (ii) practices by the Parties' competent authorities in antidumping and countervailing duty investigations, such as application of "facts available" and verification procedures; and
 - (iii) practices of a Party that may constitute industrial subsidies.
3. The Committee shall meet at least once a year and may meet more frequently as the Parties may agree.

CHAPTER ELEVEN INVESTMENT

Section A: Investment

ARTICLE 11.1: SCOPE AND COVERAGE

1. This Chapter applies to measures adopted or maintained by a Party relating to:
 - (a) investors of the other Party;
 - (b) covered investments; and
 - (c) with respect to Articles 11.8 and 11.10, all investments in the territory of the Party.
2. For greater certainty, this Chapter does not bind either Party in relation to any act or fact that took place or any situation that ceased to exist before the date of entry into force of this Agreement.
3. For purposes of this Chapter, measures adopted or maintained by a Party means measures adopted or maintained by:
 - (a) central, regional, or local governments and authorities; and
 - (b) non-governmental bodies in the exercise of powers delegated by central, regional, or local governments or authorities.

ARTICLE 11.2: RELATION TO OTHER CHAPTERS

1. In the event of any inconsistency between this Chapter and another Chapter, the other Chapter shall prevail to the extent of the inconsistency.
2. A requirement by a Party that a service supplier of the other Party post a bond or other form of financial security as a condition of the cross-border supply of a service does not of itself make this Chapter applicable to measures adopted or maintained by the Party relating to such cross-border supply of the service. This Chapter applies to measures adopted or maintained by the Party relating to the posted bond or financial security, to the extent that such bond or financial security is a covered investment.
3. This Chapter does not apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party to the extent that they are covered by Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services).

ARTICLE 11.3: NATIONAL TREATMENT

1. Each Party shall accord to investors of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that it accords, in like circumstances, to its own investors with respect to the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, and sale or other disposition of investments in its territory.
2. Each Party shall accord to covered investments treatment no less favorable than that it accords, in like circumstances, to investments in its territory of its own investors with respect to the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, and sale or other disposition of investments.

3. The treatment to be accorded by a Party under paragraphs 1 and 2 means, with respect to a regional level of government, treatment no less favorable than the most favorable treatment accorded, in like circumstances, by that regional level of government to investors, and to investments of investors, of the Party of which it forms a part.

ARTICLE 11.4: MOST-FAVORED-NATION TREATMENT

1. Each Party shall accord to investors of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that it accords, in like circumstances, to investors of any non-Party with respect to the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, and sale or other disposition of investments in its territory.

2. Each Party shall accord to covered investments treatment no less favorable than that it accords, in like circumstances, to investments in its territory of investors of any non-Party with respect to the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, and sale or other disposition of investments.

ARTICLE 11.5: MINIMUM STANDARD OF TREATMENT¹

1. Each Party shall accord to covered investments treatment in accordance with customary international law, including fair and equitable treatment and full protection and security.

2. For greater certainty, paragraph 1 prescribes the customary international law minimum standard of treatment of aliens as the minimum standard of treatment to be afforded to covered investments. The concepts of “fair and equitable treatment” and “full protection and security” do not require treatment in addition to or beyond that which is required by that standard, and do not create additional substantive rights. The obligation in paragraph 1 to provide:

- (a) “fair and equitable treatment” includes the obligation not to deny justice in criminal, civil, or administrative adjudicatory proceedings in accordance with the principle of due process embodied in the principal legal systems of the world; and
- (b) “full protection and security” requires each Party to provide the level of police protection required under customary international law.

3. A determination that there has been a breach of another provision of this Agreement, or of a separate international agreement, does not establish that there has been a breach of this Article.

4. Notwithstanding Article 11.12.5(b), each Party shall accord to investors of the other Party, and to covered investments, non-discriminatory treatment with respect to measures it adopts or maintains relating to losses suffered by investments in its territory owing to war or other armed conflict, or revolt, insurrection, riot, or other civil strife.

5. Notwithstanding paragraph 4, if an investor of a Party, in the situations referred to in paragraph 4, suffers a loss in the territory of the other Party resulting from:

- (a) requisitioning of its covered investment or part thereof by the latter’s forces or authorities; or ¹ Article 11.5 shall be interpreted in accordance with Annex 11-A.

- (b) destruction of its covered investment or part thereof by the latter's forces or authorities, which was not required by the necessity of the situation, the latter Party shall provide the investor restitution, compensation, or both, as appropriate, for such loss. Any compensation shall be prompt, adequate, and effective in accordance with paragraphs 2 through 4 of Article 11.6, mutatis mutandis.

- 6. Paragraph 4 does not apply to existing measures relating to subsidies or grants that would be inconsistent with Article 11.3 but for Article 11.12.5(b).

ARTICLE 11.6: EXPROPRIATION AND COMPENSATION²

1. Neither Party may expropriate or nationalize a covered investment either directly or indirectly through measures equivalent to expropriation or nationalization (expropriation), except:

- (a) for a public purpose;
- (b) in a non-discriminatory manner;
- (c) on payment of prompt, adequate, and effective compensation; and
- (d) in accordance with due process of law and Article 11.5.1 through 11.5.3.

2. The compensation referred to in paragraph 1(c) shall:

- (a) be paid without delay;
- (b) be equivalent to the fair market value of the expropriated investment immediately before the expropriation took place (the date of expropriation);
- (c) not reflect any change in value occurring because the intended expropriation had become known earlier; and
- (d) be fully realizable and freely transferable.

3. If the fair market value is denominated in a freely usable currency, the compensation referred to in paragraph 1(c) shall be no less than the fair market value on the date of expropriation, plus interest at a commercially reasonable rate for that currency, accrued from the date of expropriation until the date of payment.

4. If the fair market value is denominated in a currency that is not freely usable, the compensation referred to in paragraph 1(c) – converted into the currency of payment at the market rate of exchange prevailing on the date of payment – shall be no less than:

- (a) the fair market value on the date of expropriation, converted into a freely usable currency at the market rate of exchange prevailing on that date, plus
- (b) interest, at a commercially reasonable rate for that freely usable currency, accrued from the date of expropriation until the date of payment.

² Article 11.6 shall be interpreted in accordance with Annexes 11-A and 11-B.

5. This Article does not apply to the issuance of compulsory licenses granted in relation to intellectual property rights in accordance with the TRIPS Agreement, or to the revocation, limitation, or creation of intellectual property rights, to the extent that such issuance, revocation, limitation, or creation is consistent with Chapter Eighteen (Intellectual Property Rights).

ARTICLE 11.7: TRANSFERS³

1. Each Party shall permit all transfers relating to a covered investment to be made freely and without delay into and out of its territory. Such transfers include:

- (a) contributions to capital, including the initial contribution;
- (b) profits, dividends, capital gains, and proceeds from the sale of all or any part of the covered investment or from the partial or complete liquidation of the covered investment;
- (c) interest, royalty payments, management fees, and technical assistance and other fees;
- (d) payments made under a contract, including a loan agreement;
- (e) payments made pursuant to Article 11.5.4 and 11.5.5 and Article 11.6; and
- (f) payments arising out of a dispute.

2. Each Party shall permit transfers relating to a covered investment to be made in a freely usable currency at the market rate of exchange prevailing at the time of transfer.

3. Each Party shall permit returns in kind relating to a covered investment to be made as authorized or specified in a written agreement between the Party and a covered investment or an investor of the other Party.

4. Notwithstanding paragraphs 1 through 3, a Party may prevent a transfer through the equitable, non-discriminatory, and good faith application of its laws relating to:

- (a) bankruptcy, insolvency, or the protection of the rights of creditors;
- (b) issuing, trading, or dealing in securities, futures, options, or derivatives;
- (c) criminal or penal offenses;
- (d) financial reporting or record keeping of transfers when necessary to assist law enforcement or financial regulatory authorities; or
- (e) ensuring compliance with orders or judgments in judicial or administrative proceedings.

ARTICLE 11.8: PERFORMANCE REQUIREMENTS

1. Neither Party may, in connection with the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, or sale or other disposition of an investment in its territory of an investor of a Party or of a non-Party, impose or enforce any requirement or enforce any commitment or undertaking:⁴

³ For greater certainty, Annex 11-G applies to this Article.

- (a) to export a given level or percentage of goods or services;
- (b) to achieve a given level or percentage of domestic content;
- (c) to purchase, use, or accord a preference to goods produced in its territory, or to purchase goods from persons in its territory;
- (d) to relate in any way the volume or value of imports to the volume or value of exports or to the amount of foreign exchange inflows associated with such investment;
- (e) to restrict sales of goods or services in its territory that such investment produces or supplies by relating such sales in any way to the volume or value of its exports or foreign exchange earnings;
- (f) to transfer a particular technology, a production process, or other proprietary knowledge to a person in its territory; or
- (g) to supply exclusively from the territory of the Party the goods that such investment produces or the services that it supplies to a specific regional market or to the world market.

2. Neither Party may condition the receipt or continued receipt of an advantage, in connection with the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, or sale or other disposition of an investment in its territory of an investor of a Party or of a non-Party, on compliance with any requirement:

- (a) to achieve a given level or percentage of domestic content;
- (b) to purchase, use, or accord a preference to goods produced in its territory, or to purchase goods from persons in its territory;
- (c) to relate in any way the volume or value of imports to the volume or value of exports or to the amount of foreign exchange inflows associated with such investment; or
- (d) to restrict sales of goods or services in its territory that such investment produces or supplies by relating such sales in any way to the volume or value of its exports or foreign exchange earnings.

3. (a) Nothing in paragraph 2 shall be construed to prevent a Party from conditioning the receipt or continued receipt of an advantage, in connection with an investment in its territory of an investor of a Party or of a non-Party, on compliance with a requirement to locate production, supply a service, train or employ workers, construct or expand particular facilities, or carry out research and development, in its territory.⁵

⁴ For greater certainty, a condition for the receipt or continued receipt of an advantage referred to in paragraph 2 does not constitute a “commitment or undertaking” for purposes of paragraph 1.

⁵ For greater certainty, nothing in paragraph 1 shall be construed to prevent a Party, in connection with the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, or sale or other disposition of an investment of an investor of a Party or of a non-Party in its territory, from imposing or enforcing a requirement or

- (b) Paragraph 1(f) does not apply:
 - (i) when a Party authorizes use of an intellectual property right in accordance with Article 31 of the TRIPS Agreement, or to measures requiring the disclosure of proprietary information that fall within the scope of, and are consistent with, Article 39 of the TRIPS Agreement; or
 - (ii) when the requirement is imposed or the commitment or undertaking is enforced by a court, administrative tribunal, or competition authority to remedy a practice determined after judicial or administrative process to be anticompetitive under the Party's competition laws.⁶
- (c) Provided that such measures are not applied in an arbitrary or unjustifiable manner, and provided that such measures do not constitute a disguised restriction on international trade or investment, paragraphs 1(b), (c), and (f), and 2(a) and (b), shall not be construed to prevent a Party from adopting or maintaining measures, including environmental measures:
 - (i) necessary to secure compliance with laws and regulations that are not inconsistent with this Agreement;
 - (ii) necessary to protect human, animal, or plant life or health; or
 - (iii) related to the conservation of living or non-living exhaustible natural resources.
- (d) Paragraphs 1(a), (b), and (c), and 2(a) and (b), do not apply to qualification requirements for goods or services with respect to export promotion and foreign aid programs.
- (e) Paragraphs 1(b), (c), (f), and (g), and 2(a) and (b), do not apply to government procurement.
- (f) Paragraphs 2(a) and (b) do not apply to requirements imposed by an importing Party relating to the content of goods necessary to qualify for preferential tariffs or preferential quotas.

4. For greater certainty, paragraphs 1 and 2 do not apply to any commitment, undertaking, or requirement other than those set out in those paragraphs.

5. This Article does not preclude enforcement of any commitment, undertaking, or requirement between private parties, where a Party did not impose or require the commitment, undertaking, or requirement. For purposes of this Article, private parties include designated monopolies or state enterprises, where such entities are not exercising delegated governmental authority.

ARTICLE 11.9: SENIOR MANAGEMENT AND BOARDS OF DIRECTORS

enforcing a commitment or undertaking to locate production, supply a service, train or employ workers, construct or expand particular facilities, or carry out research and development, in its territory, provided that such activity is consistent with paragraph 1(f).

⁶ The Parties recognize that a patent does not necessarily confer market power.

1. Neither Party may require that an enterprise of that Party that is a covered investment appoint to senior management positions natural persons of any particular nationality.
2. A Party may require that a majority of the board of directors, or any committee thereof, of an enterprise of that Party that is a covered investment, be of a particular nationality, or resident in the territory of the Party, provided that the requirement does not materially impair the ability of the investor to exercise control over its investment.

ARTICLE 11.10: INVESTMENT AND ENVIRONMENT

Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from adopting, maintaining, or enforcing any measure otherwise consistent with this Chapter that it considers appropriate to ensure that investment activity in its territory is undertaken in a manner sensitive to environmental concerns.

ARTICLE 11.11: DENIAL OF BENEFITS

1. A Party may deny the benefits of this Chapter to an investor of the other Party that is an enterprise of such other Party and to investments of that investor if persons of a non-Party own or control the enterprise and the denying Party:
 - (a) does not maintain normal economic relations with the non-Party; or
 - (b) adopts or maintains measures with respect to the non-Party or a person of the non-Party that prohibit transactions with the enterprise or that would be violated or circumvented if the benefits of this Chapter were accorded to the enterprise or to its investments.
2. A Party may deny the benefits of this Chapter to an investor of the other Party that is an enterprise of such other Party and to investments of that investor if the enterprise has no substantial business activities in the territory of the other Party and persons of a non-Party, or of the denying Party, own or control the enterprise. If, before denying the benefits of this Chapter, the denying Party knows that the enterprise has no substantial business activities in the territory of the other Party and that persons of a non-Party, or of the denying Party, own or control the enterprise, the denying Party shall, to the extent practicable, notify the other Party before denying the benefits. If the denying Party provides such notice, it shall consult with the other Party at the other Party's request.

ARTICLE 11.12: NON-CONFORMING MEASURES

1. Articles 11.3, 11.4, 11.8, and 11.9 do not apply to:
 - (a) any existing non-conforming measure that is maintained by a Party at
 - (i) the central level of government, as set out by that Party in its Schedule to Annex I,
 - (ii) a regional level of government, as set out by that Party in its Schedule to Annex I,⁷ or
 - (iii) a local level of government;⁸

⁷ For greater certainty, Annex 12-C (Consultations Regarding Non-Conforming Measures Maintained by a Regional Level of Government) is incorporated into and made part of this Chapter.

- (b) the continuation or prompt renewal of any non-conforming measure referred to in subparagraph (a); or
 - (c) an amendment to any non-conforming measure referred to in subparagraph (a) to the extent that the amendment does not decrease the conformity of the measure, as it existed immediately before the amendment, with Article 11.3, 11.4, 11.8, or 11.9.
- 2. Articles 11.3, 11.4, 11.8, and 11.9 do not apply to any measure that a Party adopts or maintains with respect to sectors, subsectors, or activities, as set out in its Schedule to Annex II.
- 3. Neither Party may, under any measure adopted after the date of entry into force of this Agreement and covered by its Schedule to Annex II, require an investor of the other Party, by reason of its nationality, to sell or otherwise dispose of an investment existing at the time the measure becomes effective.
- 4. Articles 11.3 and 11.4 do not apply to any measure that is an exception to, or derogation from, the obligations under Article 18.1.6 (General Provisions) as specifically provided in that Article.
- 5. Articles 11.3, 11.4, and 11.9 do not apply to:
 - (a) government procurement; or
 - (b) subsidies or grants provided by a Party, including government-supported loans, guarantees, and insurance.

ARTICLE 11.13: SPECIAL FORMALITIES AND INFORMATION REQUIREMENTS

- 1. Nothing in Article 11.3 shall be construed to prevent a Party from adopting or maintaining a measure that prescribes special formalities in connection with covered investments, such as a requirement that covered investments be legally constituted under its laws or regulations, provided that such formalities do not materially impair the protections afforded by the Party to investors of the other Party and covered investments pursuant to this Chapter.
- 2. Notwithstanding Articles 11.3 and 11.4, a Party may require an investor of the other Party or its covered investment to provide information concerning that investment solely for informational or statistical purposes. The Party shall protect any confidential business information from any disclosure that would prejudice the competitive position of the investor or the covered investment. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to prevent a Party from otherwise obtaining or disclosing information in connection with the equitable and good faith application of its law.

ARTICLE 11.14: SUBROGATION

- 1. If the Korea Export Insurance Corporation or the Overseas Private Investment Corporation makes a payment to an investor of the Party in which the respective Corporation is established under a guarantee or a contract of insurance it has entered into in respect of an investment, the Corporation shall be considered the subrogee of the investor and shall be entitled to the same rights that the investor would have possessed under this Chapter but for the subrogation, and the investor shall be precluded from pursuing such rights to the extent of the subrogation.

2. For greater certainty, nothing in this Article shall be construed to be incompatible with the rights and obligations of any Party under the Investment Incentive Agreement Between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the Republic of Korea (July 30, 1998).

Section B: Investor-State Dispute Settlement

In the event of an investment dispute, the claimant and the respondent should initially seek to resolve the dispute through consultation and negotiation, which may include the use of non-binding, third-party procedures.

ARTICLE 11.16: SUBMISSION OF A CLAIM TO ARBITRATION

1. In the event that a disputing party considers that an investment dispute cannot be settled by consultation and negotiation:

- (a) the claimant, on its own behalf, may submit to arbitration under this Section a claim
 - (i) that the respondent has breached
 - (A) an obligation under Section A,
 - (B) an investment authorization, or
 - (C) an investment agreement;
 - and
 - (ii) that the claimant has incurred loss or damage by reason of, or arising out of, that breach; and
- (b) the claimant, on behalf of an enterprise of the respondent that is a juridical person that the claimant owns or controls directly or indirectly, may submit to arbitration under this Section a claim

 - (C) an investment agreement;
 - and
 - (ii) that the enterprise has incurred loss or damage by reason of, or arising out of, that breach, provided that a claimant may submit pursuant to subparagraph (a)(i)(C) or (b)(i)(C) a claim for breach of an investment agreement only if the subject matter of the claim and the claimed damages directly relate to the covered investment that was established or acquired, or sought to be established or acquired, in reliance on the relevant investment agreement.

2. At least 90 days before submitting any claim to arbitration under this Section, a claimant shall deliver to the respondent a written notice of its intention to submit the claim to arbitration (notice of intent). The notice shall specify:
 - (a) the name and address of the claimant and, where a claim is submitted on behalf of an enterprise, the name, address, and place of incorporation of the enterprise;
 - (b) for each claim, the provision of this Agreement, investment authorization, or investment agreement alleged to have been breached and any other relevant provisions;
 - (c) the legal and factual basis for each claim; and
 - (d) the relief sought and the approximate amount of damages claimed.

3. Provided that six months have elapsed since the events giving rise to the claim, a claimant may submit a claim referred to in paragraph 1:
 - (a) under the ICSID Convention and the ICSID Rules of Procedure for Arbitration Proceedings, provided that both the respondent and the non-disputing Party are parties to the ICSID Convention;
 - (b) under the ICSID Additional Facility Rules, provided that either the respondent or the non-disputing Party is a party to the ICSID Convention;
 - (c) under the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules; or
 - (d) if the claimant and respondent agree, to any other arbitration institution or under any other arbitration rules.

4. A claim shall be deemed submitted to arbitration under this Section when the claimant's notice of, or request for, arbitration (notice of arbitration):
 - (a) referred to in paragraph 1 of Article 36 of the ICSID Convention is received by the Secretary-General;
 - (b) referred to in Article 2 of Schedule C of the ICSID Additional Facility Rules is received by the Secretary-General;

A claim asserted by the claimant for the first time after such notice of arbitration is submitted shall be deemed submitted to arbitration under this Section on the date of its receipt under the applicable arbitral rules.

5. The arbitration rules applicable under paragraph 3, and in effect on the date the claim or claims were submitted to arbitration under this Section, shall govern the arbitration except to the extent modified by this Agreement.

6. The claimant shall provide with the notice of arbitration:

- (a) the name of the arbitrator that the claimant appoints; or
- (b) the claimant's written consent for the Secretary-General to appoint that arbitrator.

ARTICLE 11.17: CONSENT OF EACH PARTY TO ARBITRATION

1. Each Party consents to the submission of a claim to arbitration under this Section in accordance with this Agreement.

2. The consent under paragraph 1 and the submission of a claim to arbitration under this Section shall satisfy the requirements of:

- (a) Chapter II (Jurisdiction of the Centre) of the ICSID Convention and the ICSID Additional Facility Rules for written consent of the parties to the dispute; and
- (b) Article II of the New York Convention for an "agreement in writing."

ARTICLE 11.18: CONDITIONS AND LIMITATIONS ON CONSENT OF EACH PARTY

1. No claim may be submitted to arbitration under this Section if more than three years have elapsed from the date the claimant first acquired, or should have first acquired, knowledge of the breach alleged under Article 11.16.1 and knowledge that the claimant (for claims brought under Article 11.16.1(a)) or the enterprise (for claims brought under Article 11.16.1(b)) has incurred loss or damage.

2. No claim may be submitted to arbitration under this Section unless:

- (a) the claimant consents in writing to arbitration in accordance with the procedures set out in this Agreement; and
- (b) the notice of arbitration is accompanied,
 - (i) for claims submitted to arbitration under Article 11.16.1(a), by the claimant's written waiver, and
 - (ii) for claims submitted to arbitration under Article 11.16.1(b), by the claimant's and the enterprise's written waivers of any right to initiate or continue before any administrative tribunal or court under the law of either Party, or other dispute settlement procedures, any proceeding with respect to any measure alleged to constitute a breach referred to in Article 11.16.

3. Notwithstanding paragraph 2(b), the claimant (for claims brought under Article 11.16.1(a)) and the claimant or the enterprise (for claims brought under Article 11.16.1(b)) may initiate or continue an action that seeks interim injunctive relief and does not involve the payment of monetary damages before a judicial or administrative tribunal of the respondent, provided that the action is brought for the sole purpose of preserving the claimant's or the enterprise's rights and interests during the pendency of the arbitration.

ARTICLE 11.19: SELECTION OF ARBITRATORS

1. Unless the disputing parties otherwise agree, the tribunal shall comprise three arbitrators, one arbitrator appointed by each of the disputing parties and the third, who shall be the presiding arbitrator, appointed by agreement of the disputing parties.
2. The Secretary-General shall serve as appointing authority for an arbitration under this Section.
3. If a tribunal has not been constituted within 75 days of the date a claim is submitted to arbitration under this Section, the Secretary-General, on the request of a disputing party, shall appoint, in his or her discretion, the arbitrator or arbitrators not yet appointed. The Secretary-General shall not appoint a national of either Party as the presiding arbitrator unless the disputing parties otherwise agree.
4. For purposes of Article 39 of the ICSID Convention and Article 7 of Schedule C to the ICSID Additional Facility Rules, and without prejudice to an objection to an arbitrator on a ground other than nationality:
 - (a) the respondent agrees to the appointment of each individual member of a tribunal established under the ICSID Convention or the ICSID Additional Facility Rules;
 - (b) a claimant referred to in Article 11.16.1(a) may submit a claim to arbitration under this Section, or continue a claim, under the ICSID Convention or the ICSID Additional Facility Rules, only on condition that the claimant agrees in writing to the appointment of each individual member of the tribunal; and
 - (c) a claimant referred to in Article 11.16.1(b) may submit a claim to arbitration under this Section, or continue a claim, under the ICSID Convention or the ICSID Additional Facility Rules, only on condition that the claimant and the enterprise agree in writing to the appointment of each individual member of the tribunal.

ARTICLE 11.20: CONDUCT OF THE ARBITRATION

1. The disputing parties may agree on the legal place of any arbitration under the arbitral rules applicable under Article 11.16.3. If the disputing parties fail to reach agreement, the tribunal shall determine the place in accordance with the applicable arbitral rules, provided that the place shall be in the territory of a State that is a party to the New York Convention.
2. At the request of a disputing party, and unless the disputing parties otherwise agree, the tribunal may determine the place of meetings, including consultations and hearings, taking into consideration appropriate factors, including the convenience of the parties and the arbitrators, the location of the subject matter, and the proximity of evidence. The preceding sentence is without prejudice to any appropriate factors a tribunal may consider under paragraph 1.
3. Unless the disputing parties otherwise agree, English and Korean shall be the official languages to be used in the entire arbitration proceedings, including all hearings, submissions, decisions, and awards.

4. The non-disputing Party may make oral and written submissions to the tribunal regarding the interpretation of this Agreement. On the request of a disputing party, the non-disputing Party should resubmit its oral submission in writing.

5. After consulting the disputing parties, the tribunal may allow a party or entity that is not a disputing party to file a written amicus curiae submission with the tribunal regarding a matter within the scope of the dispute. In determining whether to allow such a filing, the tribunal shall consider, among other things, the extent to which:

- (a) the amicus curiae submission would assist the tribunal in the determination of a factual or legal issue related to the proceeding by bringing a perspective, particular knowledge, or insight that is different from that of the disputing parties;
- (b) the amicus curiae submission would address a matter within the scope of the dispute; and
- (c) the amicus curiae has a significant interest in the proceeding.

The tribunal shall ensure that the amicus curiae submission does not disrupt the proceeding or unduly burden or unfairly prejudice either disputing party, and that the disputing parties are given an opportunity to present their observations on the amicus curiae submission.

6. Without prejudice to a tribunal's authority to address other objections as a preliminary question, a tribunal shall address and decide as a preliminary question any objection by the respondent that, as a matter of law, a claim submitted is not a claim for which an award in favor of the claimant may be made under Article 11.26.

- (a) Such objection shall be submitted to the tribunal as soon as possible after the tribunal is constituted, and in no event later than the date the tribunal fixes for the respondent to submit its counter-memorial or, in the case of an amendment to the notice of arbitration, the date the tribunal fixes for the respondent to submit its response to the amendment.
- (b) On receipt of an objection under this paragraph, the tribunal shall suspend any proceedings on the merits, establish a schedule for considering the objection consistent with any schedule it has established for considering any other preliminary question, and issue a decision or award on the objection, stating the grounds therefor.
- (c) In deciding an objection under this paragraph, the tribunal shall assume to be true claimant's factual allegations in support of any claim in the notice of arbitration (or any amendment thereof) and, in disputes brought under the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules, the statement of claim referred to in Article 18 of the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules. The tribunal may also consider any relevant facts not in dispute.
- (d) The respondent does not waive any objection as to competence or any argument on the merits merely because the respondent did or did not raise an objection under this paragraph or make use of the expedited procedure set out in paragraph 7.

7. In the event that the respondent so requests within 45 days of the date the tribunal is constituted, the tribunal shall decide on an expedited basis an objection under paragraph 6 and any objection that the dispute is not within the tribunal's competence. The tribunal shall suspend any proceedings on the merits and issue a decision or award on the objection(s), stating the grounds therefor, no later than 150 days after the date of the request. However, if a disputing party requests a hearing, the tribunal may take an additional 30 days to issue the decision or award. Regardless of whether a hearing is requested, a tribunal may, on a showing of extraordinary cause, delay issuing its decision or award by an additional brief period, which may not exceed 30 days.

8. When it decides a respondent's objection under paragraph 6 or 7, the tribunal may, if warranted, award to the prevailing disputing party reasonable costs and attorney's fees incurred in submitting or opposing the objection. In determining whether such an award is warranted, the tribunal shall consider whether either the claimant's claim or the respondent's objection was frivolous, and shall provide the disputing parties a reasonable opportunity to comment.

9. A respondent may not assert as a defense, counterclaim, or right of set-off, or for any other reason, that the claimant has received or will receive indemnification or other compensation for all or part of the alleged damages pursuant to an insurance or guarantee contract, except with respect to any subrogation as provided for in Article 11.14.

10. A tribunal may order an interim measure of protection to preserve the rights of a disputing party, or to ensure that the tribunal's jurisdiction is made fully effective, including an order to preserve evidence in the possession or control of a disputing party or to protect the tribunal's jurisdiction. A tribunal may not order attachment or enjoin the application of a measure alleged to constitute a breach referred to in Article 11.16. For purposes of this paragraph, an order includes a recommendation.

11. (a) In any arbitration conducted under this Section, at the request of a disputing party, a tribunal shall, before issuing a decision or award on liability, transmit its proposed decision or award to the disputing parties and to the non-disputing Party. Within 60 days after the date the tribunal transmits its proposed decision or award, the disputing parties may submit written comments to the tribunal concerning any aspect of its proposed decision or award. The tribunal shall consider any such comments and issue its decision or award not later than 45 days after the date the 60-day comment period expires.

(b) Subparagraph (a) shall not apply in any arbitration conducted pursuant to this Section for which an appeal has been made available pursuant to paragraph 12 or Annex 11-D.

12. If a separate, multilateral agreement enters into force between the Parties that establishes an appellate body for purposes of reviewing awards rendered by tribunals constituted pursuant to international trade or investment arrangements to hear investment disputes, the Parties shall strive to reach an agreement that would have such appellate body review awards rendered under Article 11.26 in arbitrations commenced after the multilateral agreement enters into force between the Parties.

ARTICLE 11.21: TRANSPARENCY OF ARBITRAL PROCEEDINGS

1. Subject to paragraphs 2, 3, and 4, the respondent shall, after receiving the following documents, promptly transmit them to the non-disputing Party and make them available to the public:

- (a) the notice of intent;
- (b) the notice of arbitration;

- (c) pleadings, memorials, and briefs submitted to the tribunal by a disputing party and any written submissions submitted pursuant to Article 11.20.4 and 11.20.5 and Article 11.25;
 - (d) minutes or transcripts of hearings of the tribunal, where available; and
 - (e) orders, awards, and decisions of the tribunal.
2. The tribunal shall conduct hearings open to the public and shall determine, in consultation with the disputing parties, the appropriate logistical arrangements. However, any disputing party that intends to use information designated as protected information in a hearing shall so advise the tribunal. The tribunal shall make appropriate arrangements to protect the information from disclosure.
3. Nothing in this Section requires a respondent to disclose protected information or to furnish or allow access to information that it may withhold in accordance with Article 23.2 (Essential Security) or Article 23.4 (Disclosure of Information).
4. Any protected information that is submitted to the tribunal shall be protected from disclosure in accordance with the following procedures:
- (a) Subject to subparagraph (d), neither the disputing parties nor the tribunal shall disclose to the non-disputing Party or to the public any protected information where the disputing party that provided the information clearly designates it in accordance with subparagraph (b);
 - (b) Any disputing party claiming that certain information constitutes protected information shall clearly designate the information at the time it is submitted to the tribunal;
 - (c) A disputing party shall, at the time it submits a document containing information claimed to be protected information, submit a redacted version of the document that does not contain the information. Only the redacted version shall be provided to the non-disputing Party and made public in accordance with paragraph 1;
 - (d) The tribunal shall decide any objection by a disputing party regarding the designation of information claimed to be protected information. If the tribunal determines that such information was not properly designated, the disputing party that submitted the information may (i) withdraw all or part of its submission containing such information, or (ii) agree to resubmit complete and redacted documents with corrected designations in accordance with the tribunal's determination and subparagraph (c). In either case, the other disputing party shall, whenever necessary, resubmit complete and redacted documents which either remove the information withdrawn under (i) by the disputing party that first submitted the information or redesignate the information consistent with the designation under (ii) of the disputing party that first submitted the information; and
 - (e) At the request of a disputing Party, the Joint Committee shall consider issuing a decision in writing regarding a determination by the tribunal that information claimed to be protected was not properly designated. If the Joint Committee issues a decision within 60 days of such a request, it shall be binding on the tribunal, and any decision or award issued by the tribunal must be consistent with that decision. If the Joint Committee does not issue a decision within 60 days, the tribunal's determination shall remain in effect only if the non-disputing Party submits a written statement to the Joint Committee within that period that it agrees with the tribunal's determination.

5. Nothing in this Section requires a respondent to withhold from the public information required to be disclosed by its laws.

ARTICLE 11.22: GOVERNING LAW

1. Subject to paragraph 3, when a claim is submitted under Article 11.16.1(a)(i)(A) or Article 11.16.1(b)(i)(A), the tribunal shall decide the issues in dispute in accordance with this Agreement and applicable rules of international law.

2. Subject to paragraph 3 and the other terms of this Section, when a claim is submitted under Article 11.16.1(a)(i)(B) or (C), or Article 11.16.1(b)(i)(B) or (C), the tribunal shall apply:

- (a) the rules of law specified in the pertinent investment authorization or investment agreement, or as the disputing parties may otherwise agree; or
- (b) if the rules of law have not been specified or otherwise agreed,
 - (i) the law of the respondent, including its rules on the conflict of laws;⁹ and
 - (ii) such rules of international law as may be applicable.

3. A decision of the Joint Committee declaring its interpretation of a provision of this Agreement under Article 22.2.3(d) (Joint Committee) shall be binding on a tribunal, and any decision or award issued by a tribunal must be consistent with that decision.

ARTICLE 11.23: INTERPRETATION OF ANNEXES

1. Where a respondent asserts as a defense that the measure alleged to be a breach is within the scope of an entry set out in Annex I or Annex II, the tribunal shall, on request of the respondent, request the interpretation of the Joint Committee on the issue. The Joint Committee shall submit in writing any decision declaring its interpretation under Article 22.2.3(d) (Joint Committee) to the tribunal within 60 days of delivery of the request.

2. A decision issued by the Joint Committee under paragraph 1 shall be binding on the tribunal, and any decision or award issued by the tribunal must be consistent with that decision. If the Joint Committee fails to issue such a decision within 60 days, the tribunal shall decide the issue.

ARTICLE 11.24: EXPERT REPORTS

Without prejudice to the appointment of other kinds of experts where authorized by the applicable arbitration rules, a tribunal, at the request of a disputing party or, unless the disputing parties disapprove, on its own initiative, may appoint one or more experts to report to it in writing on any factual issue concerning environmental, health, safety, or other scientific matters raised by a disputing party in a proceeding, subject to such terms and conditions as the disputing parties may agree.

ARTICLE 11.25: CONSOLIDATION

1. Where two or more claims have been submitted separately to arbitration under Article 11.16.1 and the claims have a question of law or fact in common and arise out of the same events or circumstances, any disputing party may seek a consolidation order in accordance with the agreement of all the disputing parties sought to be covered by the order or the terms of paragraphs 2 through 10.

2. A disputing party that seeks a consolidation order under this Article shall deliver, in writing, a request to the Secretary-General and to all the disputing parties sought to be covered by the order and shall specify in the request:

- (a) the names and addresses of all the disputing parties sought to be covered by the order;
- (b) the nature of the order sought; and
- (c) the grounds on which the order is sought.

3. Unless the Secretary-General finds within 30 days after receiving a request under paragraph 2 that the request is manifestly unfounded, a tribunal shall be established under this Article.

4. Unless all the disputing parties sought to be covered by the order otherwise agree, a tribunal established under this Article shall comprise three arbitrators:

- (a) one arbitrator appointed by agreement of the claimants;
- (b) one arbitrator appointed by the respondent; and
- (c) the presiding arbitrator appointed by the Secretary-General, provided, however, that the presiding arbitrator shall not be a national of either Party.

5. If, within 60 days after the Secretary-General receives a request made under paragraph 2, the respondent fails or the claimants fail to appoint an arbitrator in accordance with paragraph 4, the Secretary-General, on the request of any disputing party sought to be covered by the order, shall appoint the arbitrator or arbitrators not yet appointed. If the respondent fails to appoint an arbitrator, the Secretary-General shall appoint a national of the disputing Party, and if the claimants fail to appoint an arbitrator, the Secretary-General shall appoint a national of the non-disputing Party.

6. Where a tribunal established under this Article is satisfied that two or more claims that have been submitted to arbitration under Article 11.16.1 have a question of law or fact in common, and arise out of the same events or circumstances, the tribunal may, in the interest of fair and efficient resolution of the claims, and after hearing the disputing parties, by order:

- (a) assume jurisdiction over, and hear and determine together, all or part of the claims;
- (b) assume jurisdiction over, and hear and determine one or more of the claims, the determination of which it believes would assist in the resolution of the others;
or

- (c) instruct a tribunal previously established under Article 11.19 to assume jurisdiction over, and hear and determine together, all or part of the claims, provided that:
 - (i) that tribunal, at the request of any claimant not previously a disputing party before that tribunal, shall be reconstituted with its original members, except that the arbitrator for the claimants shall be appointed pursuant to paragraphs 4(a) and 5; and
 - (ii) that tribunal shall decide whether any prior hearing shall be repeated.

7. Where a tribunal has been established under this Article, a claimant that has submitted a claim to arbitration under Article 11.16.1 and that has not been named in a request made under paragraph 2 may make a written request to the tribunal that it be included in any order made under paragraph 6, and shall specify in the request:

- (a) the name and address of the claimant;
- (b) the nature of the order sought; and
- (c) the grounds on which the order is sought.

The claimant shall deliver a copy of its request to the Secretary-General.

8. A tribunal established under this Article shall conduct its proceedings in accordance with the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules, except as modified by this Section.

9. A tribunal established under Article 11.19 shall not have jurisdiction to decide a claim, or a part of a claim, over which a tribunal established or instructed under this Article has assumed jurisdiction.

10. On application of a disputing party, a tribunal established under this Article, pending its decision under paragraph 6, may order that the proceedings of a tribunal established under Article 11.19 be stayed, unless the latter tribunal has already adjourned its proceedings.

ARTICLE 11.26: AWARDS

1. Where a tribunal makes a final award against a respondent, the tribunal may award, separately or in combination, only:

- (a) monetary damages and any applicable interest; and
- (b) restitution of property, in which case the award shall provide that the respondent may pay monetary damages and any applicable interest in lieu of restitution.

2. A tribunal may also award costs and attorney's fees in accordance with this Section and the applicable arbitration rules.

3. Subject to paragraph 1, where a claim is submitted to arbitration under Article 11.16.1(b):

- (a) an award of restitution of property shall provide that restitution be made to the enterprise;

- (b) an award of monetary damages and any applicable interest shall provide that the sum be paid to the enterprise; and
 - (c) the award shall provide that it is made without prejudice to any right that any person may have in the relief under applicable domestic law.
- 4. A tribunal may not award punitive damages.
- 5. An award made by a tribunal shall have no binding force except between the disputing parties and in respect of the particular case.
- 6. Subject to paragraph 7 and the applicable review procedure for an interim award, a disputing party shall abide by and comply with an award without delay.
- 7. A disputing party may not seek enforcement of a final award until:
 - (a) in the case of a final award made under the ICSID Convention,
 - (i) 120 days have elapsed from the date the award was rendered and no disputing party has requested revision or annulment of the award; or
 - (ii) revision or annulment proceedings have been completed; and
 - (b) in the case of a final award under the ICSID Additional Facility Rules, the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules, or the rules selected pursuant to Article 11.16.3(d),
 - (i) 90 days have elapsed from the date the award was rendered and no disputing party has commenced a proceeding to revise, set aside, or annul the award; or
 - (ii) a court has dismissed or allowed an application to revise, set aside, or annul the award and there is no further appeal.
- 8. Each Party shall provide for the enforcement of an award in its territory.
- 9. If the respondent fails to abide by or comply with a final award, on delivery of a request by the non-disputing Party, a panel shall be established under Article 22.9 (Establishment of Panel). The requesting Party may seek in such proceedings:
 - (a) a determination that the failure to abide by or comply with the final award is inconsistent with the obligations of this Agreement; and
 - (b) in accordance with Article 22.11 (Panel Report), a recommendation that the respondent abide by or comply with the final award.
- 10. A disputing party may seek enforcement of an arbitration award under the ICSID Convention or the New York Convention regardless of whether proceedings have been taken under paragraph 9.
- 11. A claim that is submitted to arbitration under this Section shall be considered to arise out of a commercial relationship or transaction for purposes of Article I of the New York Convention.

ARTICLE 11.27: SERVICE OF DOCUMENTS

Delivery of notice and other documents on a Party shall be made to the place named for that Party in Annex 11-C.

Section C: Definitions

ARTICLE 11.28: DEFINITIONS

For purposes of this Chapter:

Centre means the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID) established by the ICSID Convention; claimant means an investor of a Party that is a party to an investment dispute with the other Party;

disputing parties means the claimant and the respondent;

disputing party means either the claimant or the respondent;

enterprise means an enterprise as defined in Article 1.4 (Definitions), and a branch of an enterprise;

enterprise of a Party means an enterprise constituted or organized under the law of a Party, and a branch located in the territory of a Party and carrying out business activities there;

ICSID Additional Facility Rules means the Rules Governing the Additional Facility for the Administration of Proceedings by the Secretariat of the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes;

ICSID Convention means the Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes between States and Nationals of Other States, done at Washington, March 18, 1965; investment means every asset that an investor owns or controls, directly or indirectly, that has the characteristics of an investment, including such characteristics as the commitment of capital or other resources, the expectation of gain or profit, or the assumption of risk. Forms that an investment may take include:

- (a) an enterprise;
- (b) shares, stock, and other forms of equity participation in an enterprise;
- (c) bonds, debentures, other debt instruments, and loans;¹⁰
- (d) futures, options, and other derivatives;
- (e) turnkey, construction, management, production, concession, revenue-sharing, and other similar contracts;
- (f) intellectual property rights;

¹⁰ Some forms of debt, such as bonds, debentures, and long-term notes, are more likely to have the characteristics of an investment, while other forms of debt are less likely to have such characteristics.

- (g) licenses, authorizations, permits, and similar rights conferred pursuant to domestic law;^{11 12} and
- (h) other tangible or intangible, movable or immovable property, and related property rights, such as leases, mortgages, liens, and pledges.¹³

For purposes of this Agreement, a claim to payment that arises solely from the commercial sale of goods and services is not an investment, unless it is a loan that has the characteristics of an investment.

investment agreement means a written agreement¹⁴ between a national authority¹⁵ of a Party and a covered investment or an investor of the other Party, on which the covered investment or the investor relies in establishing or acquiring a covered investment other than the written agreement itself, that grants rights to the covered investment or investor:

- (a) with respect to natural resources that a national authority controls, such as for their exploration, extraction, refining, transportation, distribution, or sale;
- (b) to supply services to the public on behalf of the Party, such as power generation or distribution, water treatment or distribution, or telecommunications; or
- (c) to undertake infrastructure projects, such as the construction of roads, bridges, canals, dams, or pipelines, that are not for the exclusive or predominant use and benefit of the government;

investment authorization means an authorization that the foreign investment authority of a Party grants to a covered investment or an investor of the other Party;^{16 17}

¹¹ Whether a particular type of license, authorization, permit, or similar instrument (including a concession, to the extent that it has the nature of such an instrument) has the characteristics of an investment depends on such factors as the nature and extent of the rights that the holder has under the law of the Party. Among the licenses, authorizations, permits, and similar instruments that do not have the characteristics of an investment are those that do not create any rights protected under domestic law. For greater certainty, the foregoing is without prejudice to whether any asset associated with the license, authorization, permit, or similar instrument has the characteristics of an investment.

¹⁴ “Written agreement” refers to an agreement in writing, executed by both parties, whether in a single instrument or in multiple instruments, that creates an exchange of rights and obligations, binding on both parties under the law applicable under Article 11.22.2. For greater certainty, (a) a unilateral act of an administrative or judicial authority, such as a permit, license, or authorization issued by a Party solely in its regulatory capacity, or a decree, order, or judgment, standing alone; and (b) an administrative or judicial consent decree or order, shall not be considered a written agreement.

¹⁵ For purposes of this definition, national authority means an authority at the central level of government.

investor of a non-Party means, with respect to a Party, an investor that attempts to make, is making, or has made an investment in the territory of that Party, that is not an investor of either Party;

investor of a Party means a Party or state enterprise thereof, or a national or an enterprise of a Party, that attempts to make, is making, or has made an investment in the territory of the other Party; provided, however, that a natural person who is a dual national shall be deemed to be exclusively a national of the State of his or her dominant and effective nationality;

New York Convention means the United Nations Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards, done at New York, June 10, 1958; non-disputing Party means the Party that is not a party to an investment dispute; protected information means confidential business information or information that is privileged or otherwise protected from disclosure under a Party's law;

respondent means the Party that is a party to an investment dispute;

Secretary-General means the Secretary-General of ICSID; and UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules means the arbitration rules of the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law.

ANNEX 11-A
CUSTOMARY INTERNATIONAL LAW

The Parties confirm their shared understanding that “customary international law” generally and as specifically referenced in Article 11.5 and Annex 11-B results from a general and consistent practice of States that they follow from a sense of legal obligation. With regard to Article 11.5, the customary international law minimum standard of treatment of aliens refers to all customary international law principles that protect the economic rights and interests of aliens.

ANNEX 11-B EXPROPRIATION

The Parties confirm their shared understanding that:

1. An action or a series of actions by a Party cannot constitute an expropriation unless it interferes with a tangible or intangible property right in an investment.
2. Article 11.6.1 addresses two situations. The first is direct expropriation, where an investment is nationalized or otherwise directly expropriated through formal transfer of title or outright seizure.
3. The second situation addressed by Article 11.6.1 is indirect expropriation, where an action or a series of actions by a Party has an effect equivalent to direct expropriation without formal transfer of title or outright seizure.
 - (a) The determination of whether an action or a series of actions by a Party, in a specific fact situation, constitutes an indirect expropriation, requires a case-by-case, fact-based inquiry that considers all relevant factors relating to the investment, including:
 - (i) the economic impact of the government action, although the fact that an action or a series of actions by a Party has an adverse effect on the economic value of an investment, standing alone, does not establish that an indirect expropriation has occurred;
 - (ii) the extent to which the government action interferes with distinct, reasonable investment-backed expectations;¹⁸ and
 - (iii) the character of the government action, including its objectives and context. Relevant considerations could include whether the government action imposes a special sacrifice on the particular investor or investment that exceeds what the investor or investment should be expected to endure for the public interest.
 - (b) Except in rare circumstances, such as, for example, when an action or a series of actions is extremely severe or disproportionate in light of its purpose or effect, non-discriminatory regulatory actions by a Party that are designed and applied to protect legitimate public welfare objectives, such as public health, safety, the environment, and real estate price stabilization (through, for example, measures to improve the housing conditions for low-income households), do not constitute indirect expropriations.¹⁹

¹⁸ For greater certainty, whether an investor's investment-backed expectations are reasonable depends in part on the nature and extent of governmental regulation in the relevant sector. For example, an investor's expectations that regulations will not change are less likely to be reasonable in a heavily regulated sector than in a less heavily regulated sector.

¹⁹ For greater certainty, the list of "legitimate public welfare objectives" in subparagraph (b) is not exhaustive.

Ministry of Justice of the Republic of Korea Government Complex, Gwacheon
Korea

United States

Notices and other documents in disputes under Section B shall be served on the United States by delivery to:

Executive Director (L/EX)
Office of the Legal Adviser

ANNEX 11-D
POSSIBILITY OF A BILATERAL APPELLATE MECHANISM

Within three years after the date this Agreement enters into force, the Parties shall consider whether to establish a bilateral appellate body or similar mechanism to review awards rendered under Article 11.26 in arbitrations commenced after they establish the appellate body or similar mechanism.

ANNEX 11-E
SUBMISSION OF A CLAIM TO ARBITRATION

Korea

1. Notwithstanding Article 11.18.2, an investor of the United States may not submit to arbitration under Section B a claim that Korea has breached an obligation under Section A either:

- (a) on its own behalf under Article 11.16.1(a); or
- (b) on behalf of an enterprise of Korea that is a juridical person that the investor owns or controls directly or indirectly under Article 11.16.1(b), if the investor or the enterprise, respectively, has alleged that breach of an obligation under Section A in any proceedings before a court or administrative tribunal of Korea.

2. For greater certainty, where an investor of the United States or an enterprise of Korea that is a juridical person that the investor owns or controls directly or indirectly makes an allegation that Korea has breached an obligation under Section A before a court or administrative tribunal of Korea, that election shall be final, and the investor may not thereafter allege that breach, on its own behalf or on behalf of the enterprise, in an arbitration under Section B.

ANNEX 11-F
TAXATION AND EXPROPRIATION

The determination of whether a taxation measure, in a specific fact situation, constitutes an expropriation requires a case-by-case, fact-based inquiry that considers all relevant factors relating to the investment, including the factors listed in Annex 11-B and the following considerations:

- (a) The imposition of taxes does not generally constitute an expropriation. The mere introduction of a new taxation measure or the imposition of a taxation measure in more than one jurisdiction in respect of an investment generally does not in and of itself constitute an expropriation;
- (b) A taxation measure that is consistent with internationally recognized tax policies, principles, and practices should not constitute an expropriation. In particular, a taxation measure aimed at preventing the avoidance or evasion of taxation measures generally does not constitute an expropriation;
- (c) A taxation measure that is applied on a non-discriminatory basis, as opposed to a taxation measure that is targeted at investors of a particular nationality or at specific taxpayers, is less likely to constitute an expropriation; and
- (d) A taxation measure generally does not constitute an expropriation if it was already in force when the investment was made and information about the measure was publicly available.

ANNEX 11-G
TRANSFERS

1. Nothing in this Chapter, Chapter Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services), or Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services) shall be construed to prevent Korea from applying measures pursuant to Article 6 of the Foreign Exchange Transactions Act, provided that such measures:²⁰

- (a) are in effect for a period not to exceed one year; however, if extremely exceptional circumstances arise such that Korea seeks to extend such measures, Korea will coordinate in advance with the United States concerning the implementation of any proposed extension;
- (b) are not confiscatory;
- (c) do not constitute a dual or multiple exchange rate practice;
- (d) do not otherwise interfere with investors' ability to earn a market rate of return in the territory of Korea on any restricted assets;²¹
- (e) avoid unnecessary damage to the commercial, economic, or financial interests of the United States;
- (f) are temporary and phased out progressively as the situation calling for imposition of such measures improves;
- (g) are applied in a manner consistent with Articles 11.3, 12.2, and 13.2 (National Treatment) and Articles 11.4, 12.3, and 13.3 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment) subject to the Schedules of Korea to Annex I, Annex II, and Annex III; and
- (h) are promptly published by the Ministry of Finance and Economy or the Bank of Korea.

2. Paragraph 1 does not apply to measures that restrict:

- (a) payments or transfers for current transactions, unless:
 - (i) the imposition of such measures complies with the procedures stipulated in the Articles of Agreement of the International Monetary Fund;²² and
 - (ii) Korea coordinates any such measures in advance with the United States; or
- (b) payments or transfers associated with foreign direct investment.

²⁰ Korea shall endeavor to provide that such measures will be price-based.

²² Current transactions shall have the meaning set forth in Article 30(d) of the Articles of Agreement of the International Monetary Fund and, for greater certainty, shall include interest pursuant to a loan or bond on any restricted amortization payments coming due during the period that controls on capital transactions are applied.

CHAPTER TWELVE
CROSS-BORDER TRADE IN SERVICES

ARTICLE 12.1: SCOPE AND COVERAGE

1. This Chapter applies to measures adopted or maintained by a Party affecting cross-border trade in services by service suppliers of the other Party. Such measures include measures affecting:

- (a) the production, distribution, marketing, sale, and delivery of a service;
- (b) the purchase or use of, or payment for, a service;
- (c) the access to and use of distribution, transport, or telecommunications networks and services in connection with the supply of a service;
- (d) the presence in its territory of a service supplier of the other Party; and
- (e) the provision of a bond or other form of financial security as a condition for the supply of a service.

2. For purposes of this Chapter, measures adopted or maintained by a Party means measures adopted or maintained by:

- (a) central, regional, or local governments and authorities; and
- (b) non-governmental bodies in the exercise of powers delegated by central, regional, or local governments or authorities.

3. Notwithstanding paragraph 1:

- (a) Articles 12.4, 12.7, and 12.8 shall also apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party affecting the supply of a service in its territory by a covered investment;¹ and
- (b) Annex 12-B shall apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party affecting the supply of express delivery services, including by a covered investment.²

4. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, this Chapter does not apply to:

- (a) financial services as defined in Article 13.20 (Definitions), except that paragraph 3 shall apply where the financial service is supplied by a covered investment that is not a covered investment in a financial institution (as defined in Article 13.20) in the Party's territory;
- (b) government procurement;

¹ For greater certainty, the scope and coverage of application of Articles 12.4, 12.7, and 12.8 to measures adopted or maintained by a Party affecting the supply of a service in its territory by a covered investment is limited to the scope and coverage specified in Article 12.1 of this Chapter, subject to any applicable non-conforming measures and exceptions.

² For greater certainty, nothing in this Chapter, including paragraph 3 and Annex 12-B, is subject to investor-state dispute settlement under Section B (Investor-State Dispute Settlement) of Chapter Eleven (Investment).

- (c) air services, including domestic and international air transportation services, whether scheduled or non-scheduled, and related services in support of air services, other than:
 - (i) aircraft repair and maintenance services during which an aircraft is withdrawn from service; and
 - (ii) specialty air services; or
- (d) subsidies or grants provided by a Party, including government-supported loans, guarantees, and insurance.

5. This Chapter does not impose any obligation on a Party with respect to a national of the other Party seeking access to its employment market, or employed on a permanent basis in its territory, and does not confer any right on that national with respect to that access or employment.

6. This Chapter does not apply to services supplied in the exercise of governmental authority in a Party's territory. A service supplied in the exercise of governmental authority means any service which is supplied neither on a commercial basis, nor in competition with one or more service suppliers.

7. Nothing in this Chapter or any other provision of this Agreement shall be construed to impose any obligation on a Party regarding its immigration measures, including admission or conditions of admission for temporary entry.³

1. Each Party shall accord to service suppliers of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that it accords, in like circumstances, to its own service suppliers.

2. The treatment to be accorded by a Party under paragraph 1 means, with respect to a regional level of government, treatment no less favorable than the most favorable treatment accorded, in like circumstances, by that regional level of government to service suppliers of the Party of which it forms a part.

ARTICLE 12.3: MOST-FAVORED-NATION TREATMENT⁴

Each Party shall accord to service suppliers of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that it accords, in like circumstances, to service suppliers of a non-Party.

ARTICLE 12.4: MARKET ACCESS

Neither Party may adopt or maintain, either on the basis of a regional subdivision or on the basis of its entire territory, measures that:

³ For greater certainty, paragraph 7 does not limit the application of this Agreement to measures other than immigration measures that affect the supply of a service by a national of a Party in the territory of the other Party. The Parties shall consult regarding paragraph 7 within two years of the date this Agreement enters into force, and at two-year intervals afterward, unless the Parties otherwise agree.

⁴ For greater certainty, nothing in Article 12.3 shall be interpreted as extending the scope and coverage of this Chapter.

- (a) impose limitations on:
 - (i) the number of service suppliers, whether in the form of numerical quotas, monopolies, exclusive service suppliers, or the requirement of an economic needs test;
 - (ii) the total value of service transactions or assets in the form of numerical quotas or the requirement of an economic needs test;
 - (iii) the total number of service operations or the total quantity of services output expressed in terms of designated numerical units in the form of quotas or the requirement of an economic needs test;⁵ or
 - (iv) the total number of natural persons that may be employed in a particular service sector or that a service supplier may employ and who are necessary for, and directly related to, the supply of a specific service in the form of numerical quotas or the requirement of an economic needs test; or
- (b) restrict or require specific types of legal entity or joint venture through which a service supplier may supply a service.

ARTICLE 12.5: LOCAL PRESENCE

Neither Party may require a service supplier of the other Party to establish or maintain a representative office or any form of enterprise, or to be resident, in its territory as a condition for the cross-border supply of a service.

ARTICLE 12.6: NON-CONFORMING MEASURES

1. Articles 12.2 through 12.5 do not apply to:
 - (a) any existing non-conforming measure that is maintained by a Party at:
 - (i) the central level of government, as set out by that Party in its Schedule to Annex I;
 - (ii) a regional level of government, as set out by that Party in its Schedule to Annex I; or
 - (iii) a local level of government;⁶
 - (b) the continuation or prompt renewal of any non-conforming measure referred to in subparagraph (a); or
 - (c) an amendment to any non-conforming measure referred to in subparagraph (a) to the extent that the amendment does not decrease the conformity of the measure, as it existed immediately before the amendment, with Article 12.2, 12.3, 12.4, or 12.5.

⁵ Clause (iii) does not cover measures of a Party that limit inputs for the supply of services.

⁶ For Korea, local level of government means a local government as defined in the Local Autonomy Act.

2. Articles 12.2 through 12.5 do not apply to any measure that a Party adopts or maintains with respect to sectors, sub-sectors, or activities as set out in its Schedule to Annex II.

ARTICLE 12.7: DOMESTIC REGULATION

1. Where a Party requires authorization for the supply of a service, the Party's competent authorities shall, within a reasonable time after the submission of an application considered complete under its laws and regulations, inform the applicant of the decision concerning the application. At the request of the applicant, the Party's competent authorities shall provide, without undue delay, information concerning the status of the application. This obligation shall not apply to authorization requirements that a Party adopts or maintains with respect to sectors, sub-sectors, or activities as set out in its Schedule to Annex II.

2. With a view to ensuring that measures relating to qualification requirements and procedures, technical standards, and licensing requirements do not constitute unnecessary barriers to trade in services, while recognizing the right to regulate and to introduce new regulations on the supply of services in order to meet national policy objectives, each Party shall endeavor to ensure, as appropriate for individual sectors, that such measures are:

- (a) based on objective and transparent criteria, such as competence and the ability to supply the service; and
- (b) in the case of licensing procedures, not in themselves a restriction on the supply of the service.

3. If the results of the negotiations related to Article VI:4 of the GATS (or the results of any similar negotiations undertaken in other multilateral fora in which both Parties participate) enter into effect, this Article shall be amended, as appropriate, after consultations between the Parties, to bring those results into effect under this Agreement.⁷

ARTICLE 12.8: TRANSPARENCY IN DEVELOPING AND APPLYING REGULATIONS⁸

Further to Chapter Twenty-One (Transparency):

- (a) Each Party shall establish or maintain appropriate mechanisms for responding to inquiries from interested persons regarding its regulations relating to the subject matter of this Chapter.
- (b) If, consistent with paragraphs 2 and 3 of Article 21.1 (Publication), a Party does not provide advance notice of and opportunity for comment on regulations it proposes to adopt relating to the subject matter of this Chapter, it shall, to the extent possible, address in writing the reasons for not doing so.
- (c) To the extent possible, each Party shall allow reasonable time between publication of final regulations relating to the subject matter of this Chapter and their effective date.

⁷ For greater certainty, nothing in Article 12.7 prejudices either Party's position in any other forum with regard to matters covered by Article 12.7.

⁸ For greater certainty, "regulations" includes regulations establishing or applying to licensing authorization or criteria at the central, regional, and local levels of government.

ARTICLE 12.9: RECOGNITION

1. For purposes of the fulfilment, in whole or in part, of its standards or criteria for the authorization, licensing, or certification of services suppliers, and subject to the requirements of paragraph 5, a Party may recognize the education or experience obtained, requirements met, or licenses or certifications granted in a particular country. Such recognition, which may be achieved through harmonization or otherwise, may be based upon an agreement or arrangement with the country concerned or may be accorded autonomously.
2. Where a Party recognizes, autonomously or by agreement or arrangement, the education or experience obtained, requirements met, or licenses or certifications granted in the territory of a non-Party, nothing in Article 12.3 shall be construed to require the Party to accord such recognition to the education or experience obtained, requirements met, or licenses or certifications granted in the territory of the other Party.
3. On request of the other Party, a Party shall promptly provide information, including appropriate descriptions, concerning any recognition agreement or arrangement that the Party or relevant bodies in its territory has concluded.
4. A Party that is a party to an agreement or arrangement of the type referred to in paragraph 1, whether existing or future, shall afford adequate opportunity for the other Party, if the other Party is interested, to negotiate its accession to such an agreement or arrangement or to negotiate a comparable one with it. Where a Party accords recognition autonomously, it shall afford adequate opportunity for the other Party to demonstrate that education, experience, licenses, or certifications obtained or requirements met in the other Party's territory should be recognized.
5. Neither Party may accord recognition in a manner that would constitute a means of discrimination between countries in the application of its standards or criteria for the authorization, licensing, or certification of services suppliers, or a disguised restriction on trade in services.
6. Annex 12-A applies to measures adopted or maintained by a Party relating to the licensing or certification of professional service suppliers as set out in that Annex.

ARTICLE 12.10: PAYMENTS AND TRANSFERS⁹

1. Each Party shall permit all transfers and payments relating to the cross-border supply of services to be made freely and without delay into and out of its territory.
2. Each Party shall permit such transfers and payments relating to the cross-border supply of services to be made in a freely usable currency at the market rate of exchange prevailing at the time of transfer.
3. Notwithstanding paragraphs 1 and 2, a Party may prevent or delay a transfer or payment through the equitable, non-discriminatory, and good faith application of its laws relating to:
 - (a) bankruptcy, insolvency, or the protection of the rights of creditors;
 - (b) issuing, trading, or dealing in securities, futures, options, or derivatives;

⁹ For greater certainty, Annex 11-G (Transfers) applies to Article 12.10.

- (c) financial reporting or record keeping of transfers when necessary to assist law enforcement or financial regulatory authorities;
- (d) criminal or penal offences; or
- (e) ensuring compliance with orders or judgments in judicial or administrative proceedings.

ARTICLE 12.11: DENIAL OF BENEFITS

1. A Party may deny the benefits of this Chapter to a service supplier of the other Party if the service supplier is an enterprise owned or controlled by persons of a non-Party, and the denying Party:

- (a) does not maintain normal economic relations with the non-Party; or
- (b) adopts or maintains measures with respect to the non-Party or a person of the non-Party that prohibit transactions with the enterprise or that would be violated or circumvented if the benefits of this Chapter were accorded to the enterprise.

2. A Party may deny the benefits of this Chapter to a service supplier of the other Party if the service supplier is an enterprise owned or controlled by persons of a non-Party or of the denying Party that has no substantial business activities in the territory of the other Party. If, before denying the benefits of this Chapter, the denying Party knows that the enterprise has no substantial business activities in the territory of the other Party and that persons of a non-Party, or of the denying Party, own or control the enterprise, the denying Party shall, to the extent practicable, notify the other Party before denying the benefits. If the denying Party provides such notice, it shall consult with the other Party at the other Party's request.

ARTICLE 12.12: SPECIFIC COMMITMENTS

1. Annex 12-B sets out specific commitments with regard to the supply of express delivery services.

2. Annex 12-C sets out specific commitments with regard to consultations regarding non-conforming measures adopted or maintained by a regional level of government.

ARTICLE 12.13: DEFINITIONS

For purposes of this Chapter:

cross-border trade in services or cross-border supply of services means the supply of a service:

- (a) from the territory of one Party into the territory of the other Party;
- (b) in the territory of one Party by a person of that Party to a person of the other Party; or
- (c) by a national of a Party in the territory of the other Party;

but does not include the supply of a service in the territory of a Party by a covered investment;

enterprise means an “enterprise” as defined in Article 1.4 (Definitions), and a branch of an enterprise;

enterprise of a Party means an enterprise organized or constituted under the laws of a Party, and a branch located in the territory of a Party and carrying out business activities there; professional services means services, the supply of which requires specialized post-secondary education, or equivalent training or experience or examination, and for which the right to practice is granted or restricted by a Party, but does not include services supplied by trades-persons or vessel and aircraft crew members; service supplier of a Party means a person of that Party that seeks to supply or supplies a service;¹⁰ and specialty air services means any non-transportation air services, such as aerial fire-fighting, sightseeing, spraying, surveying, mapping, photography, parachute jumping, glider towing, and helicopter-lift for logging and construction, and other airborne agricultural, industrial, and inspection services.

¹⁰ For purposes of Articles 12.2 and 12.3, “service suppliers” has the same meaning as “services and service suppliers” as used in Articles II and XVII of GATS.

ANNEX 12-A PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

1. On request of the other Party, a Party shall provide information concerning standards and criteria for the licensing and certification of professional services suppliers, including information concerning the appropriate regulatory or other body to consult regarding these standards and criteria. These standards and criteria include requirements regarding education, examinations, experience, conduct and ethics, professional development and re-certification, scope of practice, local knowledge, and consumer protection.
2. Where the Parties agree, each Party shall encourage the relevant bodies in its territory to develop mutually acceptable standards and criteria for licensing and certification, to provide recommendations to the Joint Committee on mutual recognition, and to develop procedures for the temporary licensing arrangements of professional service suppliers of the other Party with respect to professional services sectors or subsectors mutually agreed by the Parties. These sectors or subsectors may include those listed in Appendix 12-A-1.
3. The Parties hereby establish a Professional Services Working Group, comprising representatives of each Party, to facilitate the activities set out in paragraphs 1 and 2. The Working Group shall meet within one year after the date this Agreement enters into force unless the Parties otherwise agree.
4. The Working Group should consider, for professional services generally and, as appropriate, for individual professional services, the following matters:
 - (a) procedures for fostering the development of mutual recognition arrangements between relevant professional bodies of the Parties;
 - (b) the feasibility of developing model procedures for the licensing and certification of professional services suppliers;
 - (c) measures inconsistent with Article 12.2 or 12.4 maintained at the regional level of government that would prevent the development of a mutual recognition arrangement or prevent a service supplier of a Party from receiving the benefits of such an arrangement; and
 - (d) other issues of mutual interest relating to the supply of professional services.
5. The Working Group shall consider, as appropriate, relevant bilateral, plurilateral, and multilateral agreements relating to professional services.
6. The Working Group shall report to the Joint Committee on its progress, including with respect to any recommendation for initiatives to promote mutual recognition of standards and criteria and temporary licensing, and on the further direction of its work, no later than two years after the date this Agreement enters into force.
7. On receipt of a recommendation referred to in paragraphs 2 and 6, the Joint Committee shall review the recommendation within a reasonable time to determine whether it is consistent with this Agreement. Based on the results of that review and as otherwise appropriate, each Party shall work with and encourage its respective relevant bodies to implement the recommendation within a mutually agreed time.

8. The Joint Committee shall review the implementation of this Annex at least once every three years.

APPENDIX 12-A-1
SECTORS FOR MUTUAL RECOGNITION AND TEMPORARY LICENSING

1. Engineering Services
2. Architectural Services
3. Veterinary Services

ANNEX 12-B
EXPRESS DELIVERY SERVICES

1. For purposes of this Agreement, express delivery services means the collection, transport, and delivery, of documents, printed matter, parcels, goods, or other items on an expedited basis while tracking and maintaining control of these items throughout the supply of the service.¹¹
2. The Parties confirm their desire to maintain at least the level of market openness for express delivery services that is in existence on the date this Agreement is signed. If a Party considers that the other Party is not maintaining such level of access, it may request consultations. The other Party shall afford adequate opportunity for consultations and, to the extent possible, shall provide information in response to inquiries regarding the level of access and any related matter.
3. Each Party shall ensure that, where a Party's monopoly supplier of postal services competes, either directly or through an affiliated company, in the supply of express delivery services outside the scope of its monopoly rights, that supplier does not abuse its monopoly position to act in the territory of the Party in a manner inconsistent with the Party's obligations under Article 11.3 (National Treatment), Article 11.4 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment), Article 12.2, 12.3, or 12.4, or Article 16.2 (Designated Monopolies). Further to Article 1.2 (Relation to Other Agreements), the Parties also reaffirm their rights and obligations under Article VIII of GATS with respect to express delivery services.¹²
4. Each Party confirms its intention to prevent revenues derived from monopoly postal services from being directed to confer an advantage to its own or any other competitive supplier's express delivery services.¹³
5. For greater certainty, this Annex does not limit a Party's right to adopt or maintain a measure outside the scope of this Chapter or a measure regarding transportation services as set out in a Party's Schedule to Annex I or II.

¹¹ For greater certainty, "express delivery services" does not include:

- (a) for the United States, delivery of letters subject to the Private Express Statutes (18 U.S.C. 1693 et seq., 39 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), but does include delivery of letters subject to the exceptions to, or suspensions promulgated under, those statutes, which permit private delivery of extremely urgent letters; and
- (b) for Korea, collecting, processing, and delivering letters for which exclusive rights are reserved for the Korean Postal Authority (KPA) under the Postal Service Act, but does include collecting, processing, and delivering commercial documents subject to Article 3 of the Enforcement Decree of the Postal Services Act.

¹² Neither paragraph 3 nor Article 16.2.1(d) (Designated Monopolies) shall be construed to require a Party to afford a private express delivery service supplier rights of access to the postal network of its monopoly supplier of postal services.

¹³ For greater certainty, paragraph 4 shall not be construed to require a Party to amend relevant existing laws and regulations or to prevent KPA or the U.S. Postal Service from supplying any services.

ANNEX 12-C
CONSULTATIONS REGARDING NON-CONFORMING MEASURES
MAINTAINED BY A REGIONAL LEVEL OF GOVERNMENT

If a Party considers that an Annex I non-conforming measure applied by a regional level of government of the other Party creates a material impediment to a service supplier of the Party, an investor of the Party, or a covered investment, it may request consultations with regard to that measure. The Parties shall enter into consultations with a view to exchanging information on the operation of the measure and to considering whether further steps are necessary and appropriate.

The Honorable Susan C. Schwab
United States Trade Representative
Washington, D.C.

Dear Ambassador Schwab:

I have the honor to confirm the following understandings reached between the delegations of the Republic of Korea and the United States of America during the course of negotiations regarding Chapters Eleven (Investment) and Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

- (1) During the negotiations, the Parties discussed certain measures related to resource recycling and to policies to encourage low-emission motor vehicle distribution. The Parties shared the understanding that these measures relating to: (i) the obligation to recycle products and packaging materials; (ii) the submission of recycling performance plans and results; (iii) payment of applicable recycling levies; (iv) the obligation to distribute a certain percentage of low-emission motor vehicles; and (v) the submission and approval of plans to distribute low-emission motor vehicles are not inconsistent with Article 11.8 (Performance Requirements).
- (2) During the negotiations, the Parties discussed regulations that prohibit an enterprise from concurrently holding two or more business licenses to supply different services. The Parties shared the understanding that, for the purpose of the Agreement, such restrictions are not inconsistent with Article 12.4 (Market Access).
- (3) During the negotiations, the Parties discussed existing regulations applicable to the establishment, extension, or transfer of educational institutions within certain geographical areas under the Seoul Metropolitan Area Readjustment Planning Act (Law No. 7308, December 31, 2004). The Parties shared the understanding that such restrictions are not inconsistent with Article 12.4 (Market Access).
- (4) During the negotiations, the Parties discussed a measure that allows local higher education institutions to jointly operate curricula only with higher education institutions organized under Korean law, or with foreign higher education institutions that have obtained accreditation from a foreign government or authorized foreign accreditation bodies. The Parties shared the understanding that such a measure is not inconsistent with Article 11.3 (National Treatment) and Article 12.2 (National Treatment).

- (5) During the negotiations, the Parties discussed a measure that may establish requirements regarding the types and quantities of raw materials for producing liquor under the Liquors Act (Law No. 7841, Dec. 31, 2005) and its subordinate regulations. The Parties shared the understanding that such measure is not inconsistent with Article 11.8 (Performance Requirement), provided that it is applied in a manner consistent with the WTO Agreement on Trade-Related Investment Measures.
- (6) During the negotiations, the Parties discussed regulations that control a rail transportation company's ability to stop supplying its service, including closure or liquidation of the company. The Parties shared the understanding that such restrictions are not inconsistent with Article 12.4 (Market Access).
- (7) During the negotiations, the Parties discussed regulations on zoning and land use. The Parties shared the understanding that measures concerning zoning and land use are not inconsistent with Article 12.4 (Market Access).

I have the honor to propose that this letter and your letter in reply confirming that your Government shares these understandings shall constitute an integral part of the Free Trade Agreement.

Sincerely,

Dear Ambassador Schwab:

In the course of negotiations regarding Chapter Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day, the delegations of the Republic of Korea and the United States of America discussed the regulatory reform processes that their respective governments are contemplating or currently undertaking with regard to postal services and how those processes might affect competitive express delivery services.

In the context of those discussions, Korea indicated the following aspects, among others, of its postal reform plan:

Korea intends to expand gradually the exceptions to the Korean Postal Authority's monopoly to increase the scope of private delivery services that are permitted and to establish a scheme ensuring the independence of Korea's postal regulatory system. This will be done through amendments to the Postal Service Act, related laws, or their subordinate regulations.

- (a) After these amendments are enacted, the items that private delivery service suppliers may handle will be classified based on objective standards such as weight, price, or a combination thereof. In determining the nature and extent of such amendments, Korea will consider various factors, including domestic market conditions, experiences of other countries with postal liberalization, and the need to ensure universal service. Korea plans to implement these amendments within the next five years.
- (b) Over time, Korea also will address the issue of independence of its regulatory system for postal and express delivery services. The regulator of express delivery services will be separate from, and not accountable to, any supplier of postal or other delivery services after such reform. The decisions of, and the procedures used by, regulators should be impartial and transparent with respect to all market participants.

In applying these reformed criteria and regulatory system, Korea will provide non-discriminatory opportunities to all postal and express delivery service suppliers in Korea.

Sincerely,

슈와브 대사 귀하,

금일 양국 정부간에 서명된 자유무역협정의 제12장(국경간 서비스무역)에 관한 협상과정에서, 대한민국 대표단과 미합중국의 대표단은 각자의 정부가 우편 서비스에 관하여 계획하고 있거나 현재 수행하고 있는 규제개혁절차와 그 절차가 경쟁적인 특급배달서비스에 어떻게 영향을 미칠 수 있을지를 논의하였습니다.

이러한 논의의 맥락에서, 대한민국은 자국의 우편개혁계획의 여러 측면 중에서 다음 측면을 제시하였습니다.

대한민국은 허용되는 민간 배달 서비스의 범위를 증대하기 위하여 대한민국 우정당국의 독점에 대한 예외를 점진적으로 확대하고 대한민국의 우편 규제 체계의 독립성을 보장하는 계획을 수립하고자 한다. 이는 우편법, 관련 법률 또는 그 하위 규정에 대한 개정을 통하여 이루어질 것이다.

가. 그러한 개정이 입법화된 후, 민간 배달서비스 공급자가 취급할 수 있는 품목은 중량·가격 또는 그 조합과 같은 객관적인 기준에 기초하여 분류될 것이다. 그러한 개정의 성격과 범위를 결정함에 있어, 대한민국은 국내시장 조건, 우편 자유화를 이룬 다른 국가의 경험과 보편적 서비스를 보장할 필요성을 포함하여 다양한 요소를 검토할 것이다. 대한민국은 향후 5년 이내에 이러한 개정을 이행할 계획이다.

나. 대한민국은 또한 시간을 갖고 우편 및 특급배달 서비스를 위한 자국의 규제체계의 독립성 문제를 검토할 것이다. 그러한 개혁 후 특급배달 서비스의 규제기관은 모든 우편 또는 다른 배달 서비스의 공급자로부터 분리되고 그들에게 책임을 지지 아니할 것이다. 규제기관의 결정과 그 기관에 의하여 이용되는 절차는 모든 시장 참여자에 대하여 공평하고 투명하여야 할 것이다.

이러한 개편된 기준 및 규제체계를 적용함에 있어, 대한민국은 대한민국 내 모든 우편 및 특급배달 서비스 공급자에게 비차별적 기회를 제공할 것이다.

 - (b) Section B (Investor-State Dispute Settlement) of Chapter Eleven (Investment) is hereby incorporated into and made part of this Chapter solely for claims that a Party has breached Article 11.6, 11.7, 11.11, or 11.13 as incorporated into this Chapter.
 - (c) Article 12.10 (Payments and Transfers) is incorporated into and made part of this Chapter to the extent that cross-border trade in financial services is subject to obligations under Article 13.5.

3. This Chapter does not apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party relating to:
 - (a) activities or services forming part of a public retirement plan or statutory system of social security; or
 - (b) activities or services conducted for the account or with the guarantee or using the financial resources of the Party, including its public entities, except that this Chapter shall apply to the extent that a Party allows any of the activities or services referred to in subparagraph (a) or (b) to be conducted by its financial institutions in competition with a public entity or a financial institution.

4. This Chapter does not apply to laws, regulations, or requirements governing the procurement by government agencies of financial services purchased for governmental purposes and not with a view to commercial resale or use in the supply of services for commercial sale.

ARTICLE 13.2: NATIONAL TREATMENT

1. Each Party shall accord to investors of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that it accords to its own investors, in like circumstances, with respect to the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, and sale or other disposition of financial institutions and investments in financial institutions in its territory.

2. Each Party shall accord to financial institutions of the other Party and to investments of investors of the other Party in financial institutions treatment no less favorable than that it accords to its own financial institutions, and to investments of its own investors in financial institutions, in like circumstances, with respect to the establishment, acquisition, expansion, management, conduct, operation, and sale or other disposition of financial institutions and investments.

3. For purposes of the national treatment obligations in Article 13.5.1, a Party shall accord to cross-border financial service suppliers of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that it accords to its own financial service suppliers, in like circumstances, with respect to the supply of the relevant service.

ARTICLE 13.3: MOST-FAVORED-NATION TREATMENT

Each Party shall accord to investors of the other Party, financial institutions of the other Party, investments of investors in financial institutions, and cross-border financial service suppliers of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that it accords to the investors, financial institutions, investments of investors in financial institutions, and cross-border financial service suppliers of a non-Party, in like circumstances.

ARTICLE 13.4: MARKET ACCESS FOR FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

A Party shall not adopt or maintain, with respect to financial institutions of the other Party or investors of the other Party seeking to establish such institutions, either on the basis of a regional subdivision or on the basis of its entire territory, measures that:

- (a) impose limitations on:
 - (i) the number of financial institutions whether in the form of numerical quotas, monopolies, exclusive service suppliers, or the requirements of an economic needs test;
 - (ii) the total value of financial service transactions or assets in the form of numerical quotas or the requirement of an economic needs test;
 - (iii) the total number of financial service operations or on the total quantity of financial services output expressed in terms of designated numerical units in the form of quotas or the requirement of an economic needs test;¹ or
 - (iv) the total number of natural persons that may be employed in a particular financial service sector or that a financial institution may employ and who are necessary for, and directly related to, the supply of a specific financial service in the form of numerical quotas or the requirement of an economic needs test; or
- (b) restrict or require specific types of legal entity or joint venture through which a financial institution may supply a service.

ARTICLE 13.5: CROSS-BORDER TRADE

¹ Clause (iii) does not cover measures of a Party which limit inputs for the supply of financial services.

1. Each Party shall permit, under terms and conditions that accord national treatment, cross-border financial service suppliers of the other Party to supply the services specified in Annex 13-A.

2. Each Party shall permit persons located in its territory, and its nationals wherever located, to purchase financial services from cross-border financial service suppliers of the other Party located in the territory of the other Party. This obligation does not require a Party to permit such suppliers to do business or solicit in its territory. Each Party may define “doing business” and “solicitation” for purposes of this obligation, provided that those definitions are not inconsistent with paragraph 1.

3. Without prejudice to other means of prudential regulation of cross-border trade in financial services, a Party may require the registration of cross-border financial service suppliers of the other Party and of financial instruments.

ARTICLE 13.6: NEW FINANCIAL SERVICES²

Each Party shall permit a financial institution of the other Party to supply any new financial service that the Party would permit its own financial institutions, in like circumstances, to supply without additional legislative action by the Party. Notwithstanding Article 13.4(b), a Party may determine the institutional and juridical form through which the new financial service may be supplied and may require authorization for the supply of the service. Where a Party requires a financial institution to obtain authorization to supply a new financial service, the Party shall decide within a reasonable time whether to issue the authorization and the authorization may be refused only for prudential reasons.

ARTICLE 13.7: TREATMENT OF CERTAIN INFORMATION

Nothing in this Chapter requires a Party to furnish or allow access to:

- (a) information related to the financial affairs and accounts of individual customers of financial institutions or cross-border financial service suppliers; or
- (b) any confidential information the disclosure of which would impede law enforcement or otherwise be contrary to the public interest or prejudice legitimate commercial interests of particular enterprises.

ARTICLE 13.8: SENIOR MANAGEMENT AND BOARDS OF DIRECTORS

1. A Party may not require financial institutions of the other Party to engage individuals of any particular nationality as senior managerial or other essential personnel.

2. A Party may not require that more than a minority of the board of directors of a financial institution of the other Party be composed of nationals of the Party, persons residing in the territory of the Party, or a combination thereof.

ARTICLE 13.9: NON-CONFORMING MEASURES

² The Parties understand that nothing in Article 13.6 prevents a financial institution of a Party from applying to the other Party to request that it authorize the supply of a financial service that is supplied in neither Party's territory. Such application shall be subject to the law of the Party to which the application is made and, for greater certainty, shall not be subject to the obligations of Article 13.6.

1. Articles 13.2 through 13.5 and Article 13.8 do not apply to:
 - (a) any existing non-conforming measure that is maintained by a Party at
 - (i) the central level of government, as set out by that Party in Section A of its Schedule to Annex III,
 - (ii) a regional level of government, as set out by that Party in Section A of its Schedule to Annex III, or
 - (iii) a local level of government;³
 - (b) the continuation or prompt renewal of any non-conforming measure referred to in subparagraph (a); or
 - (c) an amendment to any non-conforming measure referred to in subparagraph (a) to the extent that the amendment does not decrease the conformity of the measure, as it existed immediately before the amendment, with Article 13.2, 13.3, 13.4, or 13.8.⁴

2. Articles 13.2 through 13.5 and Article 13.8 do not apply to any measure that a Party adopts or maintains with respect to sectors, subsectors, or activities, as set out by that Party in Section B of its Schedule to Annex III.

3. A non-conforming measure set out in an entry in a Party's Schedule to Annex I or II as not subject to Article 11.3 (National Treatment), 11.4 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment), 12.2 (National Treatment), or 12.3 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment), shall be treated as a non-conforming measure not subject to Article 13.2 or 13.3, as the case may be, to the extent that the measure, sector, subsector, or activity set out in the entry is covered by this Chapter.

ARTICLE 13.10: EXCEPTIONS

1. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Chapter or Chapter Eleven (Investment), Fourteen (Telecommunications), including specifically Article 14.23 (Relation to Other Chapters), or Fifteen (Electronic Commerce), and, in addition, Article 12.1.3 (Scope and Coverage) with respect to the supply of financial services in the territory of a Party by a covered investment, a Party shall not be prevented from adopting or maintaining measures for prudential reasons,⁵ including for the protection of investors, depositors, policy holders, or persons to whom a fiduciary duty is owed by a financial institution or cross-border financial service supplier, or to ensure the integrity and stability of the financial system. Where such measures do not conform with the provisions of this Agreement referred to in this paragraph, they shall not be used as a means of avoiding the Party's commitments or obligations under such provisions.

2. Nothing in this Chapter or Chapter Eleven (Investment), Fourteen (Telecommunications), including specifically Article 14.23 (Relation to Other Chapters), or ³ For Korea, local level of government means a local government as defined in the Local Autonomy Act.

⁴ For greater certainty, Article 13.5 applies to an amendment to any non-conforming measure referred to in subparagraph (a) only to the extent that the amendment decreases the conformity of the measure, as it existed on the date of entry into force of the Agreement, with Article 13.5.

⁵ It is understood that the term "prudential reasons" includes the maintenance of the safety, soundness, integrity, or financial responsibility of individual financial institutions or cross-border financial service suppliers.

Fifteen (Electronic Commerce), and, in addition, Article 12.1.3 (Scope and Coverage) with respect to the supply of financial services in the territory of a Party by a covered investment, applies to non-discriminatory measures of general application taken by any public entity in pursuit of monetary and related credit policies or exchange rate policies. This paragraph shall not affect a Party's obligations under Article 11.8 (Performance Requirements) with respect to measures covered by Chapter Eleven or under Article 11.7 (Transfers) or 12.10 (Payments and Transfers).

3. Notwithstanding Articles 11.7 (Transfers) and 12.10 (Payments and Transfers), as incorporated into this Chapter, a Party may prevent or limit transfers by a financial institution or cross-border financial service supplier to, or for the benefit of, an affiliate of or person related to such institution or supplier, through the equitable, non-discriminatory, and good faith application of measures relating to maintenance of the safety, soundness, integrity, or financial responsibility of financial institutions or cross-border financial service suppliers. This paragraph does not prejudice any other provision of this Agreement that permits a Party to restrict transfers.

4. For greater certainty, nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from adopting or enforcing measures necessary to secure compliance with laws or regulations that are not inconsistent with this Chapter, including those relating to the prevention of deceptive and fraudulent practices or to deal with the effects of a default on financial services contracts, subject to the requirement that such measures are not applied in a manner which would constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination between countries where like conditions prevail, or a disguised restriction on investment in financial institutions or cross-border trade in financial services.

ARTICLE 13.11: TRANSPARENCY

1. The Parties recognize that transparent regulations and policies governing the activities of financial institutions and cross-border financial service suppliers are important in facilitating access of foreign financial institutions and foreign cross-border financial service suppliers to, and their operations in, each other's markets. Each Party commits to promote regulatory transparency in financial services.

2. Each Party shall ensure that all measures of general application to which this Chapter applies are administered in a reasonable, objective, and impartial manner.

3. In lieu of paragraphs 2 through 4 of Article 21.1 (Publication), each Party, to the extent practicable:

- (a) shall publish in advance any regulations of general application relating to the subject matter of this Chapter that it proposes to adopt and the purpose of the regulation;
- (b) shall provide interested persons and the other Party a reasonable opportunity to comment⁶ on such proposed regulations;⁷ and

⁷ Further to subparagraph (b), the FSS shall continue its current practice of providing a period for interested persons and the other Party to comment on its proposed measures of general application, including the Detailed Enforcement Rules, that is at least as long as the period for commenting on proposed regulations under Korea's Administrative Procedures Act and related regulations.

(c) should at the time it adopts final regulations, address in writing substantive comments received from interested persons with respect to the proposed regulations.

4. To the extent practicable, each Party should allow reasonable time between publication of final regulations of general application and their effective date.

5. Each Party shall ensure that the rules of general application adopted or maintained by self-regulatory organizations of the Party are promptly published or otherwise made available in such a manner as to enable interested persons to become acquainted with them.

6. Each Party shall maintain or establish appropriate mechanisms for responding to inquiries from interested persons regarding measures of general application covered by this Chapter.

7. Each Party's regulatory authorities shall make publicly available the requirements, including any documentation required, for completing applications relating to the supply of financial services.

8. On the request of an applicant, a Party's regulatory authority shall inform the applicant of the status of its application. If the authority requires additional information from the applicant, it shall notify the applicant without undue delay.

9. A Party's regulatory authority shall make an administrative decision on a completed application of an investor in a financial institution, a financial institution, or a cross-border financial service supplier of the other Party relating to the supply of a financial service within 120 days, and shall promptly notify the applicant of the decision. An application shall not be considered complete until all relevant hearings are held and all necessary information is received. Where it is not practicable for a decision to be made within 120 days, the regulatory authority shall notify the applicant without undue delay and shall endeavor to make the decision within a reasonable time thereafter.

10. On the request of an unsuccessful applicant, a regulatory authority that has denied an application shall, to the extent practicable, inform the applicant of the reasons for denial of the application.

ARTICLE 13.12: SELF-REGULATORY ORGANIZATIONS⁸

Where a Party requires a financial institution or a cross-border financial service supplier of the other Party to be a member of, participate in, or have access to, a self-regulatory organization to provide a financial service in or into the territory of that Party, the Party shall ensure that the self-regulatory organization observes the obligations of Articles 13.2 and 13.3.

ARTICLE 13.13: PAYMENT AND CLEARING SYSTEMS

Under terms and conditions that accord national treatment, each Party shall grant financial institutions of the other Party established in its territory access to payment and clearing systems operated by public entities, and to official funding and refinancing facilities available in the normal course of ordinary business. This Article is not intended to confer access to the Party's lender of last resort facilities.

⁸ For greater certainty, an organization is subject to Article 13.12 to the extent that membership or participation in or access to the organization is required to supply a financial service.

ARTICLE 13.14: RECOGNITION

1. A Party may recognize prudential measures of a non-Party in the application of measures covered by this Chapter. Such recognition may be:

- (a) accorded autonomously;
- (b) achieved through harmonization or other means; or
- (c) based on an agreement or arrangement with the non-Party.

2. A Party according recognition of prudential measures under paragraph 1 shall provide adequate opportunity to the other Party to demonstrate that circumstances exist in which there are or would be equivalent regulation, oversight, implementation of regulation, and, if appropriate, procedures concerning the sharing of information between the Parties.

3. Where a Party accords recognition of prudential measures under paragraph 1(c) and the circumstances described in paragraph 2 exist, the Party shall provide adequate opportunity to the other Party to negotiate accession to the agreement or arrangement, or to negotiate a comparable agreement or arrangement.

ARTICLE 13.15: SPECIFIC COMMITMENTS

Annex 13-B sets out certain specific commitments by each Party.

ARTICLE 13.16: FINANCIAL SERVICES COMMITTEE

1. The Parties hereby establish a Financial Services Committee. The principal representative of each Party shall be an official of the Party's authority responsible for financial services set out in Annex 13-C.

2. The Committee shall:

- (a) supervise the implementation of this Chapter and its further elaboration;
- (b) consider issues regarding financial services that are referred to it by a Party; and
- (c) participate in the dispute settlement procedures in accordance with Article 13.19.

3. The Committee shall meet annually, or as otherwise agreed, to assess the functioning of this Agreement as it applies to financial services. The Committee shall inform the Joint Committee of the results of each of its meetings.

ARTICLE 13.17: CONSULTATIONS

1. A Party may request consultations with the other Party regarding any matter arising under this Agreement that affects financial services. The other Party shall give sympathetic consideration to the request. The Parties shall report the results of their consultations to the Committee.

2. Consultations under this Article shall include officials of the authorities specified in Annex 13-C.

ARTICLE 13.18: DISPUTE SETTLEMENT

1. Section B (Dispute Settlement Proceedings) of Chapter Twenty-Two (Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement) applies as modified by this Article to the settlement of disputes arising under this Chapter.

2. When a Party claims that a dispute arises under this Chapter, Article 22.9 (Establishment of Panel) shall apply, except that:

- (a) where the Parties so agree, the panel shall be composed entirely of panelists meeting the qualifications in paragraph 3; and
- (b) in any other case,
 - (i) each Party may select panelists meeting the qualifications set out in paragraph 3 or in Article 22.9.4, and
 - (ii) if the Party complained against invokes Article 13.10, the chair of the panel shall meet the qualifications set out in paragraph 3, unless the Parties otherwise agree.

3. Financial services panelists shall:

- (a) have expertise or experience in financial services law or practice, which may include the regulation of financial institutions;

- (c) be independent of, and not be affiliated with or take instructions from, a disputing Party; and
- (d) comply with the code of conduct to be established by the Joint Committee.

4. Notwithstanding Article 22.13 (Non-Implementation), where a panel finds a measure to be inconsistent with this Agreement and the measure under dispute affects:

- (a) only the financial services sector, the complaining Party may suspend benefits only in the financial services sector;
- (b) the financial services sector and any other sector, the complaining Party may suspend benefits in the financial services sector that have an effect equivalent to the effect of the measure in the Party's financial services sector; or
- (c) only a sector other than the financial services sector, the complaining Party may not suspend benefits in the financial services sector.

ARTICLE 13.19: INVESTMENT DISPUTES IN FINANCIAL SERVICES

1. Where an investor of a Party submits a claim to arbitration under Section B (Investor-State Dispute Settlement) of Chapter Eleven (Investment), and the respondent invokes Article 13.10 as a defense, the following provisions shall apply:

- (a) The respondent shall, within 120 days of the date the claim is submitted to arbitration under Section B of Chapter Eleven, submit in writing to the Financial Services Committee a request for a joint determination on the issue of whether and to what extent Article 13.10 is a valid defense to the claim. The respondent shall promptly provide the tribunal, if constituted, a copy of such request. The arbitration may proceed with respect to the claim only as provided in subparagraph (d).
- (b) The Committee shall attempt in good faith to make a determination as described in subparagraph (a). Any such determination shall be transmitted promptly to the disputing parties and, if constituted, to the tribunal. The determination shall be binding on the tribunal.
- (c) If the Committee, within 60 days of the date by which it has received the respondent's written request for a determination under subparagraph (a), has not made a determination as described in that subparagraph, the tribunal shall decide the issue left unresolved by the Committee. The provisions of Section B of Chapter Eleven shall apply, except as modified by this subparagraph.
 - (i) In the appointment of all arbitrators not yet appointed to the tribunal, each disputing party shall take appropriate steps to ensure that the tribunal has expertise or experience as described in Article 13.18.3(a). The expertise or experience of particular candidates with respect to financial services shall be taken into account to the greatest extent possible in the appointment of the presiding arbitrator.
 - (ii) If, prior to the submission of the request for a determination in conformance with subparagraph (a), the presiding arbitrator has been appointed pursuant to Article 11.19.3 (Selection of Arbitrators), such arbitrator shall be replaced upon the request of either disputing party and the tribunal shall be reconstituted consistent with clause (i). If, within 30 days of the date the arbitration proceedings are resumed under subparagraph (d), the disputing parties have not agreed on the appointment of a new presiding arbitrator, the Secretary-General, on the request of a disputing party, shall appoint the presiding arbitrator consistent with clause (i).
 - (iii) The Party of the claimant may make oral and written submissions to the tribunal regarding the issue of whether and to what extent Article 13.10 is a valid defense to the claim. Unless it makes such a submission, the Party of the claimant shall be presumed, for purposes of the arbitration, to take a position on Article 13.10 not inconsistent with that of the respondent.
- (d) The arbitration referred to in subparagraph (a) may proceed with respect to the claim:
 - (i) ten days after the date the determination of the Committee has been received by the disputing parties and, if constituted, the tribunal; or
 - (ii) ten days after the expiration of the 60-day period extended to the Committee in subparagraph (c).

This paragraph applies to the supply of investment advice or portfolio management services with regard to won-denominated assets only to the extent that Korea allows the supply of these services with respect to such assets. Once Korea allows the supply of certain of these services with regard to Korean won-denominated assets, it may not subsequently prohibit or limit the supply of such services. Korea will consult with the United States with respect to the liberalization of these services no later than two years after the date this Agreement enters into force.

5. For greater certainty, paragraph 4 is subject to Articles 13.1 and 13.5.3.

6. For purposes of paragraph 4, collective investment scheme means:

¹⁵ Custodial services are included in paragraph 1 only with respect to investments for which the primary market is outside the territory of the United States.

- (a) an investment trust reported to the Financial Supervisory Commission (FSC) pursuant to the Indirect Investment Asset Management Business Act (IIAMB Act); and
- (b) an investment company registered with the FSC pursuant to the IIAMB Act.

SECTION B: TRANSFER OF INFORMATION

Each Party shall allow a financial institution of the other Party to transfer information in electronic or other form, into and out of its territory, for data processing where such processing is required in the institution's ordinary course of business. Korea shall give effect to this commitment no later than two years after the date this Agreement enters into force.

SECTION C: PERFORMANCE OF FUNCTIONS

1. The Parties recognize the benefits of allowing a financial institution in a Party's territory to perform certain functions at its head office or affiliates located inside or outside the Party's territory. To the extent practicable, each Party should allow such an office or affiliate to perform these functions.

These functions generally include, but are not limited to:

- (a) trade and transaction processing functions, including confirmation and statement production;
- (b) technology-related functions, such as data processing,¹⁶ programming, and system development;
- (c) administrative services, including procurement, travel arrangements, mailing services, physical security, office space management, and secretarial services;

2. Nothing in paragraph 1 prevents a Party from requiring a financial institution located in its territory to retain certain functions.

3. For greater certainty, a financial institution located in the territory of a Party retains ultimate responsibility for compliance with requirements applicable to those functions performed by its head office or affiliate.

SECTION D: TRANSPARENCY

The United States welcomes Korea's ongoing initiative to expand and enhance transparency, noting in particular the adoption by the FSS of the Operational Rule on Administrative Guidance and the introduction of the no-action letter mechanism. Korea shall, to the extent practicable, continue its existing practice of issuing in writing any administrative guidance to a financial institution or cross-border financial services supplier. At the request of an affected party, Korea shall put any oral administrative guidance provided into writing and post it on a public Internet site. During any review of previously issued administrative guidance, Korea shall provide interested parties an opportunity to comment on that guidance.

SECTION E: INSURANCE COMPLAINT METHODS AND PROCEDURES

Each Party should ensure that its system for public disclosure of data on complaints filed with regard to insurance suppliers fairly takes into account the relative size of such suppliers. Each Party shall ensure that aggregate complaint information is provided in a transparent manner, such as in a complaint index ratio format, grade format, or other reasonable format and include well documented definitions and explanations of calculation methodology. Any public disclosure of the number of complaints filed with respect to an insurance supplier should also disclose the number of such complaints that the authorities found to be valid.

SECTION F: SECTORAL COOPERATIVES SELLING INSURANCE

1. The regulation of insurance services supplied by a sectoral cooperative should not provide the cooperative a competitive advantage over private suppliers of like insurance services. To the extent practicable, a Party should apply the same rules to services supplied by such cooperatives that it applies to like services supplied by private insurers.
2. To this end, the FSC should exercise regulatory oversight over services supplied by sectoral cooperatives. At a minimum, Korea shall provide that no later than three years after the date this Agreement enters into force, solvency matters related to the sale of insurance by the National Agricultural Cooperative Federation, the National Federation of Fisheries Cooperatives, the Korea Federation of Community Credit Cooperatives, and the National Credit Union Federation of Korea shall be subject to regulation by the FSC.
3. The Insurance Working Group established in Annex 13-C shall address the need for additional steps to achieve the objectives set out in paragraphs 1 and 2.

SECTION G: SUPERVISORY COOPERATION

The Parties support the efforts of their respective financial regulators to provide assistance to the regulators of the other Party to enhance consumer protection and those regulators' ability to prevent, detect, and prosecute unfair and deceptive practices. Each Party confirms that its financial regulators have the legal authority to exchange information in support of those efforts. The Parties encourage financial regulators to continue their ongoing efforts to strengthen this cooperation through bilateral consultations or bilateral or multilateral international cooperative mechanisms, such as memoranda of understanding or ad hoc undertakings.

SECTION H: GOVERNMENT PROCUREMENT

1. Notwithstanding Article 13.1.4, each Party shall apply Articles 13.2. and 13.3 with respect to the acquisition or procurement of the following services to the extent this Chapter applies to measures adopted or maintained by the Party relating to activities or services set out in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of Article 13.1.3:
 - (a) services relating to the sale, redemption, and distribution of central government debt;
 - (b) services relating to the holding of central government fiscal and depository accounts; and

 - (i) in the case of the United States, assets of federal government employees held by the Federal Retirement Thrift Investment Board as a fiduciary; and
 - (ii) in the case of Korea, assets of the Korea Investment Corporation.

2. Korea shall apply Article 13.5.1 with respect to the services described in subparagraph 1(c) (ii) to the extent that the Korea Investment Corporation chooses to acquire or procure those services on a cross-border basis.

SECTION I: EXPEDITED AVAILABILITY OF INSURANCE

The Parties recognize the importance of maintaining and developing regulatory procedures to expedite the offering of insurance services by licensed suppliers.

Korea

1. The United States welcomes Korea's plan to adopt policies and procedures based on a negative list approach¹⁷ to the product filing process no later than one year after the date this Agreement enters into force. Korea requires prior product filing before the introduction of a new insurance product except in cases where the product satisfies criteria¹⁸ set forth by the FSC in the Regulation on Supervision of Insurance Business. Section 8 of this regulation establishes the review period for products filed with the FSS. Korea requires product filing for all Bancassurance products.

United States

2. Recognizing the principles of federalism under the U.S. Constitution, the history of state regulation of insurance in the United States, and the McCarran-Ferguson Act, the United States welcomes the efforts of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) relating to the availability of insurance services as expressed in the NAIC's "Statement of Intent: The Future of Insurance Regulation," including the initiatives on speed-to-market intentions and regulatory re-engineering provided under Part II of the Statement of Intent.

¹⁸ The criteria referred to in paragraph 1 include, among others: whether risk rates already reported are used or only minimal adjustments are made from assumed interest rate or cost; whether the premium rate has changed; whether reinsurers' premium rates are used due to a shortage in domestic statistics; whether insurance employs assumed interest rates and its reported risk rates are used without change or with only minimal change; and whether policy certificates or the policy application form is being amended with minimal change.

ANNEX 13-C
FINANCIAL SERVICES COMMITTEE

Authorities Responsible for Financial Services

1. The authorities responsible for financial services are:
 - (a) for Korea, the Ministry of Finance and Economy; and Insurance Working Group

3. The Parties recognize the importance of discussions between their respective insurance regulatory authorities to further cooperation, coordination, and mutual understanding of issues relating to the supply of insurance in their territories. The Working Group shall address transparency; actions necessary to ensure competitive equality between Korea Post, sectoral cooperatives selling insurance, and private insurers; financial supervision, including regulations at the central and regional levels of government, the development, adoption, and review of changes in policy; the different regulatory structures of the Parties; and other issues of mutual interest. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, the Working Group shall meet once each year after the date this Agreement enters into force, and each Party shall select, the meeting location every other year. The Working Group shall inform the Joint Committee of the results of each meeting in accordance with Article 13.16, unless the Parties otherwise agree.

ANNEX 13-D
SUPPLY OF INSURANCE BY THE POSTAL SERVICES TO THE PUBLIC

1. The regulation of insurance services supplied by Korea Post to the public should not accord Korea Post a competitive advantage over private service suppliers of like insurance services in the territory of Korea.
2. To this end, Korea should, to the extent practicable, provide that the FSC exercise regulatory oversight over the insurance services supplied by Korea Post to the public and that those services be subject to the same rules applicable to private suppliers supplying like insurance services in its territory.
3. The letter exchange regarding these services sets out commitments with regard to insurance services supplied by Korea Post to the public.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
THE UNITED STATES TRADE REPRESENTATIVE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20508

June 30, 2007

The Honorable Hyun Chong Kim
Minister for Trade
Seoul, Republic of Korea

Sung Jin Kim
Deputy Minister
Ministry of Finance and Economy
Gwacheon, Republic of Korea

Dear Minister Kim and Deputy Minister Kim:

We have the honor to confirm the following understanding reached between the delegations of the United States of America and the Republic of Korea during the course of negotiations regarding Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

Cross-Border Trade

The Parties confirm that, with respect to cross-border trade in financial services, and without prejudice to other means of prudential regulation, a Party may require the registration or authorization of cross-border financial services suppliers of the other Party and of financial instruments.

The Parties further confirm that a Party may require a cross-border financial service supplier of the other Party to provide information, solely for informational or statistical purposes, on the financial services it has supplied within the territory of the Party. The Party shall protect such business information that is confidential from any disclosure that would prejudice the competitive position of the supplier.

New Financial Services

The Parties recognize the importance of accommodating new financial services in their markets consistent with prudential requirements. The Parties confirm that Article 13.6 (New Financial Services) does not apply to (1) cross-border trade in financial services or (2) any new financial service that the Party would not permit its own financial institutions, in like circumstances, to supply.

The Parties further confirm that a Party may apply prudential regulations to new financial services.

Transparency

The Parties discussed the application and licensing requirements set forth in Article 13.11.9 (Transparency) and agree that each Party's current practices are consistent with that Article. Korea has confirmed that the 120-day period in Article 13.11.9 does not include periods during which the applicants are engaged in efforts to meet regulatory requirements for the relevant license. In the case of insurance, Korea's current practice is to make a preliminary decision on an application within 90 days and to make a final decision no later than 60 days after it receives the completed application. Korea expressed its intention not to extend the existing 90-day limitation for making a preliminary decision on an application to supply insurance services.

Self-Regulatory Organizations

The Parties confirm that the Korea Insurance Development Institute is a self-regulatory organization as defined in Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services) and is subject to the disciplines of Article 13.12 (Self Regulatory Organizations). This confirmation is without prejudice to the status of any other organization in this or any other financial services subsector.

For greater certainty, if the FSC or the Financial Supervisory Service (FSS) delegates a function related to insurance to a self-regulatory organization or other non-governmental body, the FSC or FSS shall take reasonable steps to ensure compliance with Article 13.11.3 (Transparency) and Article 21.4 (Review and Appeal) with regard to any actions taken by the organization or other non-governmental body pursuant to the delegated function.

Certain Government Entities

The Parties confirm that the following entities, as currently structured, are covered by Chapter Thirteen, but shall not be considered financial institutions for purposes of that Chapter: Korea Deposit Insurance Corporation (KDIC), Resolution and Finance Corporation, Export-Import Bank of Korea, Korea Export Insurance Corporation, Korea Technology Credit Guarantee Fund, Credit Guarantee Fund, Korea Asset Management Corporation (KAMCO), and Korea Investment Corporation (KIC).

Chief Executive Officer

For greater certainty, nothing in Article 13.8 (Senior Management and Board of Directors) limits a Party's ability to require the chief executive officer of a financial institution established under its laws to reside within its territory.

Transfer of Information

The Parties recognize the importance of the cross-border transfer of information by financial institutions, and the United States welcomes Korea's commitment in paragraph 6(b) of Annex

13-A and Section B of Annex 13-B to undertake modifications to its regulatory regime that will permit those institutions to transfer such information. Korea has expressed its intent that these modifications will result in its adoption of approaches that are similar to those of the United States with respect to such areas as the protection of sensitive information of consumers, prohibitions on unauthorized reuse of the sensitive information, the ability of financial regulators to have access to records of financial institutions relating to the handling of such information, and requirements for the location of technology facilities.

Financial Services Initiatives

Recognizing the positive steps Korea is taking as a part of its strategy to establish itself as a regional financial hub in East Asia, the United States welcomes three key regulatory initiatives of Korea currently underway:

- (a) the movement to a negative regulatory approach in the financial services sector;
- (b) implementation of Phase II of the Bancassurance regulations; and
- (c) further liberalization of foreign currency reserve requirements in the supply of insurance services.

Recognizing the positive steps the United States has made in the product approval system, Korea welcomes efficiencies introduced in the area of electronic product approval filing procedures for insurance; in particular:

- (a) all regional governments of the United States use the National Association of Insurance Commissioners' System for Electronic Rate & Form Filing, which by the end of 2005 had logged approximately 185,000 electronic filings; and
- (b) twenty-nine states have adopted the Interstate Insurance Compact, which permits the Product Regulation Commission to be the sole authority for approval of products in the following areas: life, annuities, long-term care, and disability income.

Korea welcomes progress by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners on its review of collateral requirements for suppliers of reinsurance. The NAIC will consider adopting changes to its Model Law in 2007. The United States will provide updates to Korea on this process in the FSC.

Supply of Insurance by the Postal Services to the Public

1. The United States and Korea recognize that Korea Post is currently a government agency that is not regulated as a financial institution.

2. The FSC shall:
 - (a) nominate at least half of the members of the Postal Finance Risk Management Committee and the Reserve Operation Deliberation Committee responsible for oversight of Korea Post's supply of insurance services;
 - (b) review any financial statements, settlement documents, or other information submitted to it by Korea Post with regard to insurance services supplied by Korea Post and, to the extent this review reveals any deficiencies, issue an opinion to that effect to Korea Post; and
 - (c) review the basic documents submitted to it by Korea Post related to insurance products supplied by Korea Post, including business operation manuals, terms and conditions of insurance, insurance premium and policy reserves calculation guidelines, and, if it identifies any deficiencies, issue recommendations with regard to necessary improvements.
3. Korea Post shall:
 - (a) submit to the FSC any financial statements, settlement documents and basic documents regarding insurance services supplied by Korea Post;
 - (b) conform its supply of insurance services with any opinion issued by the FSC in accordance with paragraph 2(b);
 - (c) take action on any recommendations regarding basic documents issued by the FSC in accordance with paragraph 2(c);
 - (d) with respect to matters covered by Articles 61(4) and 67(1) of the Standards, obtain confirmation from KIDI or an actuarial firm registered with the FSC in accordance with Article 183 of the Insurance Business Act;
 - (e) in the event that the FSC issues an opinion or recommendation under paragraph 2(b) or 2(c), include the nature of the deficiency in a public notice as provided for in Article 64 of the Standards; and
 - (f) appoint the persons nominated by the FSC in accordance with paragraph 2(a) to be members of the committees for which the FSC nominates them.
4. In the event that Korea Post issues product-specific advertisements related to its insurance services, such advertisements shall be subject to the same approval requirements applicable to private suppliers of insurance services.

5. Korea Post shall not issue new products, including variable life insurance, non-life insurance, and retirement insurance. Korea Post may modify¹ existing products. In the event that it does so, the FSC shall issue its recommendation under paragraph 2(c) within the period provided under Section 8 of the Regulation on Supervision of Insurance Business. Before increasing the value limitation on the sale of an insurance product, Korea Post shall consult with the FSC, which shall provide public notice of the proposed increase and an opportunity for public comment. The FSC shall issue an opinion with regard to the proposed increase, which shall be favorable only if the increase is no more than the amount necessary to reflect inflation, and otherwise necessary and appropriate. Korea Post shall conform its actions to that opinion.
6. At the request of either Party, the Insurance Working Group established in Annex 13-C (Financial Services Committee) shall discuss issues related to insurance services supplied by Korea Post, including additional steps that may be necessary to achieve the objectives of Annex 13-D (Supply of Insurance by the Postal Services to the Public) and this letter.
7. For purposes of this letter:
 - (a) FSC means the Financial Supervisory Commission or any successor agency;
 - (b) KIDI means the Korea Insurance Development Institute or any successor institution; and
 - (c) Standards means Korea Post's Notification No. 2006-18, entitled "Standards for Sound Management of Postal Savings and Insurance."
8. Paragraphs 2, 3, and 4 shall become effective two years after the date this Agreement enters into force. If Korea Post ceases to supply insurance services to the public as a government agency, the Parties shall consult as to how to modify paragraphs 1 through 7.

We have the honor to propose that this letter and your letter in reply confirming that your Government shares this understanding shall constitute an integral part of the Free Trade Agreement.

Sincerely,

Susan C. Schwab
United States Trade Representative

Clay Lowery
Acting Under Secretary for International Affairs
U.S. Department of Treasury

¹ For purposes of paragraph 5, modify includes to change terms and conditions as necessary to conform to insurance industry best practices or to conform to opinions or recommendations of the FSC. Modify does not include adding supplemental coverage in a manner equivalent to the creation of a new product line. New product line means insurance products covering risks other than those currently covered. Modify also does not include changing terms and conditions in a manner equivalent to the creation of a new product.

Dear Ambassador Schwab and Mr. Lowery:

We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, which reads as follows:

We have the honor to confirm the following understanding reached between the delegations of the United States of America and the Republic of Korea during the course of negotiations regarding Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

Cross-Border Trade

The Parties confirm that, with respect to cross-border trade in financial services, and without prejudice to other means of prudential regulation, a Party may require the registration or authorization of cross-border financial services suppliers of the other Party and of financial instruments.

The Parties further confirm that a Party may require a cross-border financial service supplier of the other Party to provide information, solely for informational or statistical purposes, on the financial services it has supplied within the territory of the Party. The Party shall protect such business information that is confidential from any disclosure that would prejudice the competitive position of the supplier.

New Financial Services

The Parties recognize the importance of accommodating new financial services in their markets consistent with prudential requirements. The Parties confirm that Article 13.6 (New Financial Services) does not apply to (1) cross-border trade in financial services or (2) any new financial service that the Party would not permit its own financial institutions, in like circumstances, to supply.

The Parties further confirm that a Party may apply prudential regulations to new financial services.

Transparency

The Parties discussed the application and licensing requirements set forth in Article 13.11.9 (Transparency) and agree that each Party's current practices are consistent with that Article. Korea has confirmed that the 120-day period in Article 13.11.9 does not include periods during which the applicants are engaged in efforts to meet regulatory requirements for the relevant license. In the case of insurance, Korea's current practice is to make a preliminary decision on an application within 90 days and to make a final decision no later than 60 days after it receives the completed application. Korea expressed its intention not to extend the existing 90-day limitation for making a preliminary decision on an application to supply insurance services.

Self-Regulatory Organizations

The Parties confirm that the Korea Insurance Development Institute is a self-regulatory organization as defined in Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services) and is subject to the disciplines of Article 13.12 (Self Regulatory Organizations). This confirmation is without prejudice to the status of any other organization in this or any other financial services subsector.

For greater certainty, if the FSC or the Financial Supervisory Service (FSS) delegates a function related to insurance to a self-regulatory organization or other non-governmental body, the FSC or FSS shall take reasonable steps to ensure compliance with Article 13.11.3 (Transparency) and Article 21.4 (Review and Appeal) with regard to any actions taken by the organization or other non-governmental body pursuant to the delegated function.

Certain Government Entities

Chief Executive Officer

For greater certainty, nothing in Article 13.8 (Senior Management and Board of Directors) limits a Party's ability to require the chief executive officer of a financial institution established under its laws to reside within its territory.

Transfer of Information

The Parties recognize the importance of the cross-border transfer of information by financial institutions, and the United States welcomes Korea's commitment in paragraph 6(b) of Annex 13-A and Section B of Annex 13-B to undertake modifications to its regulatory regime that will permit those institutions to transfer such information. Korea has expressed its intent that these modifications will result in its adoption of approaches that are similar to those of the United States with respect to such areas as the protection of sensitive information of consumers, prohibitions on unauthorized reuse of the sensitive information, the ability of financial regulators to have access to records of financial institutions relating to the handling of such information, and requirements for the location of technology facilities.

양 당사국은 금융기관에 의한 국경간 정보이전의 중요성을 인정하며, 미합중국은 부속서 13-가 제6항나호 및 부속서 13-나 제2절에서 그러한 기관이 그러한 정보를 이전하도록 허용할 자국 규제제도의 개정을 시행하겠다는 대한민국의 약속을 환영한다. 대한민국은 소비자의 민감 정보의 보호, 그 민감 정보의 무단 재사용의 금지, 그러한 정보의 취급에 관한 금융기관의 기록에 접근할 수 있는 금융감독기관의 권한, 기술설비의 위치에 대한 요건과 같은 분야에 대하여, 그러한 개정이 미합중국의 접근방법과 유사한 접근방법을 채택하는 결과가 될 것이라는 의사를 표현하였다.

3. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to:
 - (a) require a Party, or require a Party to compel any enterprise, to establish, construct, acquire, lease, operate, or provide telecommunications networks or services not offered to the public generally; or
 - (b) require a Party to compel any enterprise exclusively engaged in the broadcast or cable distribution of radio or television programming to make available its broadcast or cable facilities as a public telecommunications network.

Section A: Access to and Use of Public Telecommunications Networks and Services

ARTICLE 14.2: ACCESS AND USE

1. Each Party shall ensure that service suppliers of the other Party have access to and use of any public telecommunications network or service, including leased circuits, offered in its territory or across its borders, on reasonable and non-discriminatory terms and conditions, including as set out in paragraphs 2 through 6.
2. Each Party shall ensure that service suppliers of the other Party are permitted to:
 - (a) purchase or lease and attach terminal or other equipment that interfaces with a public telecommunications network;
 - (b) provide services to individual or multiple end-users over leased circuits;¹

¹ For greater certainty, subparagraph (b) shall not be construed to prohibit a Party from requiring a service supplier to obtain a license to supply specific services.

- (c) connect owned or leased circuits with public telecommunications networks and services or with circuits leased or owned by another enterprise;
 - (d) perform switching, signaling, processing, and conversion functions; and
 - (e) use operating protocols of their choice in the supply of any service.
3. Each Party shall ensure that service suppliers of the other Party may use public telecommunications services for the movement of information in its territory or across its borders, including for intra-corporate communications, and for access to information contained in databases or otherwise stored in machine-readable form in the territory of either Party.
4. Notwithstanding paragraph 3, a Party may take such measures as are necessary to ensure the security and confidentiality of messages, provided that such measures are not applied in a manner that would constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination or disguised restriction on trade in services.
5. Each Party shall ensure that no condition is imposed on access to and use of public telecommunications networks and services, other than as necessary to:
- (a) safeguard the public service responsibilities of suppliers of public telecommunications networks and services, in particular their ability to make their networks or services available to the public generally; or
 - (b) protect the technical integrity of public telecommunications networks or services.
6. Provided that conditions for access to and use of public telecommunications networks and services satisfy the criteria set out in paragraph 5, such conditions may include:
- (a) a requirement to use specified technical interfaces, including interface protocols, for interconnection with such networks or services;
 - (b) requirements, where necessary, for the inter-operability of such networks and services; and
 - (c) type approval of terminal or other equipment that interfaces with the network and technical requirements relating to the attachment of that equipment to such networks.

Section B: Suppliers of Public Telecommunications Services

ARTICLE 14.3: OBLIGATIONS RELATING TO SUPPLIERS OF PUBLIC TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES²

Interconnection

1. (a) Each Party shall ensure that suppliers of public telecommunications services in its territory provide, directly, or indirectly within the same territory, interconnection with suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party at reasonable rates.

² Article 14.3 is subject to Annex 14-A.

- (b) In carrying out subparagraph (a), each Party shall ensure that suppliers of public telecommunications services in its territory take reasonable steps to protect the confidentiality of commercially sensitive information of, or relating to, suppliers and end-users of public telecommunications services obtained as a result of interconnection arrangements and only use such information for the purpose of providing these services.

Number Portability

2. Each Party shall ensure that suppliers of public telecommunications services in its territory provide number portability to the extent technically feasible, and on reasonable terms and conditions.³

 - (b) suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party in the Party's territory are afforded non-discriminatory access to telephone numbers.

Section C: Additional Obligations Relating to Major Suppliers⁴

ARTICLE 14.4: TREATMENT BY MAJOR SUPPLIERS

- (a) the availability, provisioning, rates, or quality of like public telecommunications services; and
- (b) the availability of technical interfaces necessary for interconnection.

ARTICLE 14.5: COMPETITIVE SAFEGUARDS

1. Each Party shall maintain appropriate measures for the purpose of preventing suppliers of public telecommunications services that, alone or together, are a major supplier in its territory from engaging in or continuing anticompetitive practices.
2. The anticompetitive practices referred to in paragraph 1 include in particular:
 - (a) engaging in anticompetitive cross-subsidization;

³ Paragraph 2 does not apply with respect to suppliers of voice over internet protocol services.

⁴ Section C is subject to Annex 14-B.

- (b) using information obtained from competitors with anticompetitive results; and
- (c) not making available, on a timely basis, to suppliers of public telecommunications services, technical information about essential facilities and commercially relevant information that are necessary for them to provide services.

ARTICLE 14.6: RESALE

Each Party shall ensure that a major supplier in its territory does not impose unreasonable or discriminatory conditions or limitations on the resale of its public telecommunications services.

ARTICLE 14.7: UNBUNDLING OF NETWORK ELEMENTS

Each Party shall provide its telecommunications regulatory body the authority to require a major supplier in its territory to offer access to network elements on an unbundled basis on terms and conditions, and at cost-oriented rates, that are reasonable, non-discriminatory, and transparent for the supply of public telecommunications services.

ARTICLE 14.8: INTERCONNECTION

General Terms and Conditions

1. Each Party shall ensure that a major supplier in its territory provides interconnection for the facilities and equipment of suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party:
 - (a) at any technically feasible point in the major supplier's network;
 - (b) under non-discriminatory terms, conditions (including technical standards and specifications), and rates;
 - (c) of a quality no less favorable than that provided by the major supplier for its own like services, for like services of non-affiliated service suppliers, or for its subsidiaries or other affiliates;
 - (d) in a timely fashion, and on terms and conditions (including technical standards and specifications), and at cost-oriented rates, that are transparent, reasonable, having regard to economic feasibility, and sufficiently unbundled so that the suppliers need not pay for network components or facilities that they do not require for the service to be provided; and
 - (e) on request, at points in addition to the network termination points offered to the majority of users, subject to charges that reflect the cost of construction of necessary additional facilities.

Options for Interconnecting with Major Suppliers

2. Each Party shall ensure that a major supplier in its territory provides suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party the opportunity to interconnect their facilities and equipment with those of the major supplier through:

- (a) negotiation of a new interconnection agreement; and
- (b) one of the following options:
 - (i) a reference interconnection offer containing the rates, terms, and conditions that the major supplier offers generally to suppliers of public telecommunications services; or
 - (ii) the terms and conditions of an interconnection agreement in effect.

Public Availability of Interconnection Offers and Agreements

3. If a major supplier in the territory of a Party has a reference interconnection offer, the Party shall require the offer to be made publicly available.
4. Each Party shall make publicly available the applicable procedures for interconnection negotiations with a major supplier in its territory.
5. Each Party shall require a major supplier in its territory to file all interconnection agreements to which it is party with its telecommunications regulatory body.⁵
6. Each Party shall make publicly available interconnection agreements in effect between a major supplier in its territory and other suppliers of public telecommunications services in its territory.

ARTICLE 14.9: PROVISIONING AND PRICING OF LEASED CIRCUITS SERVICES⁶

1. Each Party shall ensure that a major supplier in its territory provides service suppliers of the other Party leased circuits services that are public telecommunications services on terms and conditions, and at rates, that are reasonable and non-discriminatory.
2. In carrying out paragraph 1, each Party shall provide its telecommunications regulatory body the authority to require a major supplier in its territory to offer leased circuits services that are public telecommunications services to service suppliers of the other Party at capacity-based, cost-oriented prices.

ARTICLE 14.10: CO-LOCATION

1. Subject to paragraphs 2 and 3, each Party shall ensure that a major supplier in its territory provides to suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party in the Party's territory physical co-location of equipment necessary for interconnection or access to unbundled network elements on terms and conditions, and at cost-oriented rates, that are reasonable, non-discriminatory, and transparent.
2. Where physical co-location is not practical for technical reasons or because of space limitations, each Party shall ensure that a major supplier in its territory provides an alternative solution⁷ on terms and conditions, and at cost-oriented rates, that are reasonable,

⁵ The United States may comply with paragraph 5 by requiring filing with a state regulatory authority.

⁶ Article 14.9 shall not be construed to require a Party to ensure that the major supplier provides leased circuits as an unbundled network element.

⁷ The United States may comply with the obligation in Article 14.10.2 to ensure that a major supplier in its non-discriminatory, and transparent.

3. Each Party may limit which premises are subject to paragraphs 1 and 2, provided the Party specifies any such limitation in its law or regulations.

ARTICLE 14.11: ACCESS TO POLES, DUCTS, CONDUITS, AND RIGHTS-OF-WAY

Each Party shall ensure that a major supplier in its territory affords access to poles, ducts, conduits, and rights-of-way owned or controlled by the major supplier to suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party in the Party's territory on terms and conditions, and at rates, that are reasonable, non-discriminatory, and transparent.

Section D: Other Measures

ARTICLE 14.12: SUBMARINE CABLE SYSTEMS

1. Where a supplier of telecommunications services in the territory of a Party operates a submarine cable system to provide public telecommunications services, that Party shall ensure that the supplier accords suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party reasonable and non-discriminatory treatment with respect to access⁸ to that submarine cable system, including landing facilities.

2. Where a major supplier of international public telecommunications services in the territory of a Party controls cable landing facilities and services for which there are no economically or technically feasible alternatives, the Party shall ensure that the major supplier:⁹

- (a) permits suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party to:
 - (i) use the major supplier's cross-connect links in the submarine cable landing station to connect their equipment to backhaul links and submarine cable capacity of any supplier of telecommunications; and
 - (ii) co-locate their transmission and routing equipment used for accessing submarine cable capacity and backhaul links of any supplier of telecommunications in the submarine cable landing station on terms and conditions, and at cost-oriented rates, that are reasonable, transparent, and non-discriminatory; and
- (b) provides suppliers of telecommunications of the other Party international leased circuits, backhaul links, and cross-connect links in the submarine cable landing station on terms and conditions, and at rates, that are reasonable, transparent, and non-discriminatory.¹⁰ territory provides an alternative solution by ensuring that the supplier provides virtual co-location.

⁸ With respect to a supplier of the other Party that does not own facilities in the territory of the Party in which the cable landing system is located, that Party may comply with paragraph 1 by ensuring access to the submarine cable system through facilities that the supplier of the other Party leases from a licensed supplier of public telecommunications services in the territory of the Party.

⁹ Paragraph 2 is subject to Annex 14-B.

¹⁰ Notwithstanding paragraph 2, a Party may permit a major supplier in its territory to limit access to or use of its submarine cable landing station if capacity at the station is unavailable.

ARTICLE 14.13: CONDITIONS FOR THE SUPPLY OF VALUE-ADDED SERVICES

1. Neither Party may require an enterprise in its territory that it classifies as a supplier of value-added services and that supplies those services over facilities that the enterprise does not own to:

- (a) supply those services to the public generally;
- (b) cost-justify its rates for those services;
- (c) file a tariff for those services;
- (d) connect its networks with any particular customer for the supply of those services; or
- (e) conform with any particular standard or technical regulation of the telecommunications regulatory body for connecting to any other network, other than a public telecommunications network.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, a Party may take the actions described in paragraph 1 to remedy a practice of a supplier of value-added services that the Party has found in a particular case to be anticompetitive under its law or regulations, or to otherwise promote competition or safeguard the interests of consumers.

ARTICLE 14.14: INDEPENDENT REGULATORY BODIES

Each Party shall ensure that its telecommunications regulatory body is separate from, and not accountable to, any supplier of public telecommunications services. With a view to ensuring the independence and impartiality of telecommunications regulatory bodies, each Party shall ensure that its telecommunications regulatory body does not own equity¹¹ or maintain an operating or management role in any such supplier. Each Party shall ensure that its regulatory decisions and procedures, including decisions and procedures relating to licensing, interconnection with public telecommunications networks and services, tariffs, and assignment or allocation of spectrum for non-government public telecommunications services, are impartial with respect to all market participants.

ARTICLE 14.15: UNIVERSAL SERVICE

Each Party shall administer any universal service obligation that it maintains in a transparent, non-discriminatory, and competitively neutral manner and shall ensure that its universal service obligation is not more burdensome than necessary for the kind of universal service that it has defined.

Article 14.16: LICENSING PROCESS

1. When a Party requires a supplier of public telecommunications services to have a license, the Party shall make publicly available:

¹¹ For greater certainty, Article 14.14 shall not be construed to prohibit a government entity of a Party other than the telecommunications regulatory body from owning equity in a supplier of public telecommunications services.

- (a) all the licensing criteria and procedures it applies;
 - (b) the period it normally requires to reach a decision concerning an application for a license; and
 - (c) the terms and conditions of all licenses in effect.
2. Each Party shall ensure that, on request, an applicant receives the reasons for the denial of a license.

ARTICLE 14.17: ALLOCATION AND USE OF SCARCE RESOURCES

1. Each Party shall administer its procedures for the allocation and use of scarce telecommunications resources, including frequencies, numbers, and rights-of-way, in an objective, timely, transparent, and non-discriminatory manner.
2. Each Party shall make publicly available the current state of allocated frequency bands, but retains the right not to provide detailed identification of frequencies allocated or assigned for specific government uses.
3. A Party's measures allocating and assigning spectrum and managing frequency are not measures that are per se inconsistent with Article 12.4 (Market Access) either as it applies to cross-border trade in services or through the operation of Article 12.1.3 (Scope and Coverage) to an investor or covered investment of the other Party. Accordingly, each Party retains the right to establish and apply spectrum and frequency management measures that may have the effect of limiting the number of suppliers of public telecommunications services, provided that it does so in a manner consistent with this Agreement. This includes the ability to allocate frequency bands, taking into account current and future needs and spectrum availability.
4. Each Party shall endeavor to allocate and assign spectrum for non-government telecommunications services in a manner that encourages economically efficient use of the spectrum and competition among suppliers of telecommunications services, recognizing that a Party may encourage this behavior through a variety of means, including through administrative incentive pricing, auctions, or unlicensed use.

ARTICLE 14.18: ENFORCEMENT

Each Party shall provide its competent authority the authority to enforce the Party's measures relating to the obligations set out in Articles 14.2 through 14.12. That authority shall include the ability to impose effective sanctions, which may include financial penalties, injunctive relief (on an interim or final basis), corrective orders, or the modification, suspension, or revocation of licenses.

ARTICLE 14.19: RESOLUTION OF TELECOMMUNICATIONS DISPUTES¹²

Further to Articles 21.3 (Administrative Proceedings) and 21.4 (Review and Appeal), each Party shall ensure that:

Recourse

¹² For Korea, for purposes of Article 14.19, enterprise means a natural person or a juridical person organized under the laws of Korea.

- (a) (i) enterprises may have recourse to a telecommunications regulatory body or other relevant body of the Party to resolve disputes regarding the Party's measures relating to matters set out in Articles 14.2 through 14.12; and
- (ii) suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party that have requested interconnection with a major supplier in the Party's territory may seek review, within a reasonable and publicly specified period after the supplier requests interconnection, by its telecommunications regulatory body¹³ to resolve disputes regarding the terms, conditions, and rates for interconnection with that major supplier;

Reconsideration

- (b) any enterprise whose legally protected interests are adversely affected by a determination or decision of the Party's telecommunications regulatory body may petition the body to reconsider that determination or decision. Neither Party may permit such a petition to constitute grounds for non-compliance with the determination or decision of the telecommunications regulatory body unless an appropriate authority stays the determination or decision;¹⁴ and

Judicial Review

- (c) any enterprise whose legally protected interests are adversely affected by a determination or decision of the Party's telecommunications regulatory body may obtain review of the determination or decision by an impartial and independent judicial authority of the Party. Neither Party may permit an application for judicial review to constitute grounds for non-compliance with the determination or decision of the telecommunications regulatory body unless the relevant judicial body stays the determination or decision.

ARTICLE 14.20: TRANSPARENCY

Further to Article 21.1 (Publication), each Party shall ensure that:

- (a) rulemakings, including the basis for such rulemakings, of its telecommunications regulatory body and tariffs filed with its telecommunications regulatory body are promptly published or otherwise made publicly available;
- (b) interested persons are provided with adequate advance public notice of, and reasonable opportunity to comment on, any rulemaking that its telecommunications regulatory body proposes;
- (c) to the extent practicable, all comments filed with the telecommunications regulatory body in the rulemaking are made publicly available;

¹³ The United States may comply with subparagraph (a)(ii) by providing for review by a state regulatory authority.

¹⁴ For Korea, subparagraph (b) does not apply to a determination or decision of the telecommunications regulatory body with respect to disputes between service suppliers or between service suppliers and users.

- (d) its telecommunications regulatory body responds in its rulemaking to all significant and relevant issues raised in comments filed with the telecommunications regulatory body; and
- (e) its measures relating to public telecommunications services are made publicly available, including:
 - (i) measures relating to
 - (A) tariffs and other terms and conditions of service;
 - (B) specifications of technical interfaces;
 - (C) conditions for attaching terminal or other equipment to the public telecommunications network; and
 - (D) notification, permit, registration, or licensing requirements, if any; and
 - (ii) procedures relating to judicial and other adjudicatory proceedings.

ARTICLE 14.21: MEASURES CONCERNING TECHNOLOGIES AND STANDARDS¹⁵

1. The Parties recognize that measures concerning technologies and standards may contribute to legitimate public policy objectives, and that a regulatory approach that affords suppliers of public telecommunications and value-added services the flexibility to choose the technologies that they use to supply their services may contribute to innovation in and development of information and communications technologies.

2. A Party may apply a measure that limits the technologies or standards that a supplier of public telecommunications or value-added services may use to supply its services, provided that the measure is designed to achieve a legitimate public policy objective and is not prepared, adopted, or applied in a manner that creates unnecessary obstacles to trade. Except with respect to technical requirements referred to in paragraph 3, each Party retains the right to define its own legitimate public policy objectives, recognizing that affording protection to domestic suppliers of telecommunications or value-added services or equipment is not a legitimate public policy objective.

3. A Party may apply a technical requirement¹⁶ that limits the technologies or standards that a supplier of public telecommunications or value-added services may use to supply its services in a particular spectrum frequency band, provided that the requirement is designed to ensure effective or efficient use of the spectrum (including with respect to preventing harmful interference), safeguard consumers' continued access to domestic or international networks or services,¹⁷ facilitate law enforcement, or protect human health or safety.

¹⁵ Except for paragraphs 1 and 5(b), Article 14.21 does not apply to measures adopted before the date this Agreement enters into force.

¹⁶ The Parties recognize that it may be appropriate to base technical requirements regarding the supply of public telecommunications or value-added services on international standards.

¹⁷ For greater certainty, "safeguard consumers' continued access to domestic or international networks or services" includes facilitating consumers' ability to access mobile networks globally.

4. To the extent possible, each Party shall endeavor to base its technical requirements relating to the supply of telecommunications or value-added services on performance rather than design or descriptive characteristics.

5. If a Party adopts a measure that mandates the use of a specific technology or standard, or otherwise limits a supplier's ability to choose the technology it uses, to supply a telecommunications or value-added service, it shall:

- (a) do so on the basis of a rulemaking
 - (i) in which the Party determines that market forces have not achieved, or could not reasonably be expected to achieve, its legitimate public policy objective; and
 - (ii) that affords suppliers of telecommunications or value-added services or equipment the opportunity to demonstrate that an alternative technology or standard could achieve the Party's legitimate public policy objective; and
- (b) after adopting the measure, provide suppliers of telecommunications or value-added services or equipment opportunities to request the Party to initiate a rulemaking to permit, in addition, the use of an alternative technology or standard that could effectively and reasonably achieve the Party's legitimate public policy objective. The Party shall respond to any such request in writing, stating the reasons for accepting or rejecting the request, including how amending or not applying the measure may affect consumers, and make the response and, to the extent practicable, the request publicly available.

ARTICLE 14.22: FORBEARANCE

1. The Parties recognize the importance of relying on competitive market forces to provide wide choice in the supply of telecommunications services. To this end, each Party may forbear, to the extent provided for in its law, from applying a regulation to a service that the Party classifies as a public telecommunications service, if its telecommunications regulatory body determines that:

- (a) enforcement of the regulation is not necessary to prevent unreasonable or discriminatory practices;
- (b) enforcement of the regulation is not necessary for the protection of consumers; and
- (c) forbearance is consistent with the public interest, including promoting and enhancing competition between suppliers of public telecommunications services.

2. For greater certainty, each Party shall subject its regulatory body's decision to forbear to judicial review in accordance with Article 14.19(c).

 - (b) prevent parties from having the opportunity to establish before judicial or administrative authorities that their electronic transaction complies with any legal requirements with respect to authentication; or
 - (c) deny a signature legal validity solely on the basis that the signature is in electronic form.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES TRADE REPRESENTATIVE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20508

June 30, 2007

Mr. Jong Hoon Kim
Chief Negotiator for the KORUS FTA
Seoul, Republic of Korea

Dear Ambassador Kim:

During the course of negotiations regarding Chapter Fifteen (Electronic Commerce) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed on this day, the delegations of the Republic of Korea and the United States of America discussed a range of issues relating to electronic commerce and the importance of open access to the Internet for electronic commerce-related activities.

Both delegations recognized that the principles on access to and use of the Internet contained in Article 15.7 (Principles on Access to and Use of the Internet for Electronic Commerce) support the Parties' shared goal of maintaining an open and competitive environment for electronic commerce-related activities. The delegations also recognized that lawful contractual arrangements between network providers, application and service providers, content providers, and Internet users may be consistent with these principles, provided that the Party's relevant authorities do not determine that the arrangements are exclusionary.

The delegations further recognized the ongoing debate in the United States and Korea concerning reasonable and appropriate cost distribution between network providers, application and service providers, content providers, and Internet users, and that this debate's outcome may affect both access to and use of the Internet and the incentives for network investment. The Parties recognized that, consistent with a report of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) in 2005,¹ commercial arrangements between competitive suppliers have effectively addressed the international aspect of the cost distribution issue.

Finally, the delegation of Korea noted that, services suppliers identified in Korea as "Internet Access Providers" are "network providers" within the meaning of Article 15.7(d).

I would be grateful if you could confirm that your Government shares these views regarding the discussions relating to electronic commerce and principles on access to and use of networks.

Sincerely,

Wendy Cutler
Chief Negotiator for the KORUS FTA

CHAPTER SIXTEEN COMPETITION-RELATED MATTERS

ARTICLE 16.1: COMPETITION LAW AND ANTICOMPETITIVE BUSINESS CONDUCT

1. Each Party shall maintain or adopt competition laws that promote and protect the competitive process in its market by proscribing anticompetitive business conduct. Each Party shall take appropriate action with respect to anticompetitive business conduct with the objective of promoting economic efficiency and consumer welfare.
2. Each Party shall maintain an authority or authorities responsible for the enforcement of its national competition laws. The enforcement policy of each Party's authorities responsible for the enforcement of such laws is to treat persons who are not persons of the Party no less favorably than persons of the Party in like circumstances, and each Party's authorities intend to maintain this policy.
3. Each Party shall ensure that a respondent in an administrative hearing convened to determine whether conduct violates its competition laws or what administrative sanctions or remedies should be ordered for violation of such laws is afforded the opportunity to present evidence in its defense and to be heard in the hearing. In particular, each Party shall ensure that the respondent has a reasonable opportunity to cross-examine any witnesses or other persons who testify in the hearing and to review and rebut the evidence and any other collected information on which the determination may be based.
4. Each Party shall provide persons subject to the imposition of a sanction or remedy for violation of its competition laws with the opportunity to seek review of the sanction or remedy in a court of that Party.
5. Each Party shall provide its authorities responsible for the enforcement of its national competition laws with the authority to resolve their administrative or civil enforcement actions by mutual agreement with the subject of the enforcement action. A Party may provide for such agreements to be subject to judicial approval.
6. Each Party shall publish rules of procedure for administrative hearings convened to determine whether conduct violates its competition laws or what administrative sanctions or remedies should be ordered for violation of such laws. These rules shall include procedures for introducing evidence in such proceedings, which shall apply equally to all parties to the proceeding.
7. The Parties recognize the importance of cooperation and coordination between their respective authorities to promote effective competition law enforcement. Accordingly, the Parties shall cooperate in relation to their enforcement policies and in the enforcement of their respective competition laws, including through mutual assistance, notification, consultation, and exchange of information.

ARTICLE 16.2: DESIGNATED MONOPOLIES

1. Each Party shall ensure that any privately-owned monopoly that it designates after the date this Agreement enters into force and any government monopoly that it designates or has designated:
 - (a) acts in a manner that is not inconsistent with the Party's obligations under this Agreement wherever such a monopoly exercises any regulatory, administrative, or other governmental authority that the Party has delegated to it in connection with the monopoly good or service, such as the power to grant import or export licenses, approve commercial transactions, or impose quotas, fees, or other charges;

- (b) acts solely in accordance with commercial considerations in its purchase or sale of the monopoly good or service in the relevant market,¹ including with regard to price, quality, availability, marketability, transportation, and other terms and conditions of purchase or sale, except to comply with any terms of its designation² that are not inconsistent with subparagraph (c) or (d);³
- (c) provides non-discriminatory treatment to covered investments, to goods of the other Party, and to service suppliers of the other Party in its purchase or sale of the monopoly good or service in the relevant market; and
- (d) does not use its monopoly position to engage, either directly or indirectly, including through its dealings with its parent, subsidiaries, or other enterprises with common ownership, in anticompetitive practices in a non-monopolized market in its territory that adversely affect covered investments.

2. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from designating a monopoly or maintaining a designated monopoly.

3. This Article does not apply to government procurement.

ARTICLE 16.3: STATE ENTERPRISES

1. Each Party shall ensure that any state enterprise that it establishes or maintains:

- (a) acts in a manner that is not inconsistent with the Party's obligations under this Agreement wherever such enterprise exercises any regulatory, administrative, or other governmental authority that the Party has delegated to it, such as the power to expropriate, grant licenses, approve commercial transactions, or impose quotas, fees, or other charges; and
- (b) accords non-discriminatory treatment in the sale of its goods or services to covered investments.

2. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from establishing or maintaining a state enterprise.

ARTICLE 16.4: DIFFERENCES IN PRICING

² For greater certainty, nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from amending the terms of a monopoly's designation.

³ Subparagraph (b) shall not be construed to prevent a designated monopoly from supplying the monopoly good or service in accordance with specific rates approved, or other terms or conditions established, by a regulatory authority of a Party, provided that those rates or other terms or conditions are not inconsistent with subparagraph (c) or (d).

Articles 16.2 and 16.3 shall not be construed to prevent a monopoly or state enterprise from charging different prices in different markets, or within the same market, where such differences are based on normal commercial considerations, such as taking account of supply and demand conditions.

ARTICLE 16.5: TRANSPARENCY

1. The Parties recognize the value of transparency in their competition enforcement policies.
2. On request of a Party, each Party shall make available to the other Party public information concerning its:
 - (a) competition law enforcement activities;
 - (b) state enterprises and designated monopolies, public or private, at any level of government, provided that the request indicates the entities involved, specifies the particular goods or services and markets concerned, and includes some indicia that these entities may be engaging in practices that may hinder trade or investment between the Parties; and
 - (c) exemptions and immunities to its competition laws, provided that the request specifies the particular goods or services and markets of concern, and includes indicia that the exemption or immunity may hinder trade or investment between the Parties.
3. Each Party shall ensure that all final administrative decisions finding a violation of its competition laws are in writing and set out any relevant findings of fact and the reasoning and legal analysis on which the decision is based. Each Party shall further ensure that the decisions and any orders implementing them are published or, where publication is not practicable, otherwise made available to the public in such a manner as to enable interested persons and the other Party to become acquainted with them. The version of the decisions or orders that the Party makes available to the public may omit business confidential information or other information that is protected by its law from public disclosure.

ARTICLE 16.6: CROSS-BORDER CONSUMER PROTECTION

1. The Parties recognize the importance of cooperation on matters related to their consumer protection laws in order to enhance the welfare of their consumers. Accordingly, the Parties shall cooperate, in appropriate cases of mutual concern, in the enforcement of their consumer protection laws.
2. The Parties shall endeavor to strengthen cooperation between the United States Federal Trade Commission, on the one hand, and the Ministry of Finance and Economy of Korea and the Korea Fair Trade Commission, on the other, in areas of mutual concern relating to their respective consumer protection laws, including by:
 - (a) consulting on consumer protection policies and exchanging information related to the enactment and administration of their consumer protection laws;
 - (b) strengthening cooperation in detecting and preventing fraudulent and deceptive commercial practices against consumers;
 - (c) consulting on ways to reduce consumer protection law violations that have significant cross-border dimensions; and

- (d) supporting implementation of the OECD Guidelines for Protecting Consumers from Fraudulent and Deceptive Commercial Practices Across Borders (2003).

3. Nothing in this Article shall limit the discretion of an agency referred to in paragraph 2 to decide whether to take action in response to a request by a counterpart agency of the other Party, nor shall it preclude any of those agencies from taking action with respect to any particular matter.

4. Each Party shall endeavor to identify, in areas of mutual concern and consistent with its own important interests, obstacles to effective cooperation with the other Party in the enforcement of its consumer protection laws, and shall consider modifying its domestic legal framework to reduce such obstacles.

ARTICLE 16.7: CONSULTATIONS

1. To foster understanding between the Parties, or to address specific matters that arise under this Chapter, each Party shall, on request of the other Party, enter into consultations regarding representations made by the other Party. In its request, the Party shall indicate, if relevant, how the matter affects trade or investment between the Parties.

2. The Party to which a request for consultations has been addressed shall accord full and sympathetic consideration to the concerns raised by the other Party.

3. To facilitate discussion of the matter that is the subject of the consultations, each Party shall endeavor to provide relevant non-confidential information to the other Party.

Use of Electronic Means

1. When conducting covered procurement by electronic means, a procuring entity shall:
 - (a) ensure that the procurement is conducted using information technology systems and software, including those related to authentication and encryption of information, that are generally available and interoperable with other generally available information technology systems and software; and
 - (b) maintain mechanisms that ensure the integrity of requests for participation and tenders, including establishment of the time of receipt and the prevention of inappropriate access.

Valuation

2. For greater certainty with regard to Article II of the GPA, in estimating the value of a procurement for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is a covered procurement, a procuring entity shall include the estimated maximum total value of the procurement over its entire duration, whether awarded to one or more suppliers, taking into account all forms of remuneration, including premiums, fees, commissions, interest, and other revenue streams that may be provided for in the procurement.

ARTICLE 17.5: CONDITIONS FOR PARTICIPATION

1. A procuring entity shall limit any conditions for participation in a procurement to those that are essential to ensure that a supplier has the legal and financial capacities and the commercial and technical abilities to undertake the relevant procurement.
2. In assessing whether a supplier satisfies the conditions for participation, a procuring entity:
 - (a) shall evaluate the supplier's financial capacity and commercial and technical abilities on the basis of that supplier's business activities outside the territory of the Party of the procuring entity, as well as its business activities, if any, inside the territory of the Party of the procuring entity;
 - (b) shall not impose the condition that, in order for a supplier to participate in a procurement or be awarded a contract, the supplier has previously been awarded one or more contracts by a procuring entity of that Party or that the supplier has prior work experience in the territory of that Party; and
 - (c) shall base its determination of whether a supplier has satisfied the conditions for participation solely on the conditions that the procuring entity has specified in advance in notices or tender documentation.
3. A procuring entity may exclude a supplier on grounds such as:
 - (a) bankruptcy;
 - (b) false declarations;
 - (c) significant or persistent deficiencies in performance of any substantive requirement or obligation under a prior contract or contracts;
 - (d) final judgments in respect of serious crimes or other serious offenses; and
 - (e) failure to pay taxes.

ARTICLE 17.6: PUBLICATION OF NOTICES

Notice of Intended Procurement

1. For each covered procurement, a procuring entity shall publish a notice of intended procurement in accordance with Article IX of the GPA, in the appropriate electronic medium, except in the circumstances described in Article XV of the GPA.

Notice of Planned Procurement

2. Each Party shall encourage its procuring entities to publish, as early as possible in each fiscal year, a notice regarding their future procurement plans. The notice should include the subject matter of the procurement and the planned date of the publication of the notice of intended procurement and, to the extent possible, be published in an electronic medium listed in each Party's Appendix II to the GPA.

ARTICLE 17.7: TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS

For greater certainty, a Party, including its procuring entities, may, in accordance with Article VI of the GPA, prepare, adopt, or apply technical specifications:

- (a) to promote the conservation of natural resources or protect the environment;
or
 - (b) to require a supplier to comply with generally applicable laws regarding
 - (i) fundamental principles and rights at work; and
 - (ii) acceptable conditions of work with respect to minimum wages, hours of work, and occupational safety and health,
- in the territory in which the good is produced or the service is performed.

ARTICLE 17.8: TIME-PERIODS

General

1. A procuring entity shall, consistent with its own reasonable needs, provide sufficient time for suppliers to prepare and submit requests for participation and responsive tenders, taking into account such factors as:

- (a) the nature and complexity of the procurement;
- (b) the extent of subcontracting anticipated; and
- (c) the time for transmitting tenders from foreign as well as domestic points where electronic means are not used.

Such time-periods, including any extension of the time-periods, shall be common for all interested or participating suppliers.

Deadlines

2. A procuring entity that uses selective tendering shall establish that the final date for the submission of requests for participation shall not, in principle, be less than 25 days from the date of publication of the notice of intended procurement. Where a state of urgency duly substantiated by the procuring entity renders this time-period impracticable, the time-period may be reduced to not less than 10 days.

3. Except as provided for in paragraphs 4 and 5, a procuring entity shall establish that the final date for the submission of tenders shall not be less than 40 days from the date on which:

- (a) in the case of open tendering, the notice of intended procurement is published;
or
- (b) in the case of selective tendering, the entity notifies suppliers that they will be invited to submit tenders, whether or not it uses a multi-use list.

4. A procuring entity may reduce the time-period for tendering set out in paragraph 3 to not less than 10 days where:

- (a) the procuring entity published a notice of planned procurement under Article IX:7 of the GPA at least 40 days and not more than 12 months in advance of the publication of the notice of intended procurement, and the notice of planned procurement contains:
 - (i) a description of the procurement;
 - (ii) the approximate final dates for the submission of tenders or requests for participation;
 - (iii) a statement that interested suppliers should express their interest in the procurement to the procuring entity;
 - (iv) the address from which documents relating to the procurement may be obtained; and
 - (v) as much of the information that is required under Article IX:6 of the GPA for the notice of intended procurement, as is available;
- (b) the procuring entity, for procurements of a recurring nature, indicates in an initial notice of intended procurement that subsequent notices will provide time-periods for tendering based on this paragraph; or
- (c) a state of urgency duly substantiated by the procuring entity renders such time-period impracticable.

5. A procuring entity may reduce the time-period for tendering set out in paragraph 3 by five days for each one of the following circumstances:

- (a) the notice of intended procurement is published by electronic means;
- (b) all the tender documentation is made available by electronic means from the date of the publication of the notice of intended procurement; and
- (c) the tenders can be received by electronic means by the procuring entity.

6. The use of paragraph 5, in conjunction with paragraph 4, shall in no case result in the reduction of the time-period for tendering set out in paragraph 3 to less than ten days from the date on which the notice of intended procurement is published.

7. Notwithstanding any other time-period in this Article, where a procuring entity purchases commercial goods or services, it may reduce the time-period for tendering set out in paragraph 3 to not less than 13 days, provided that it publishes by electronic means, at the same time, both the notice of intended procurement and the tender documentation. Where the entity also accepts tenders for commercial goods and services by electronic means, it may reduce the time period set out in paragraph 3 to not less than ten days.

ARTICLE 17.9: MODIFICATIONS AND RECTIFICATIONS TO COVERAGE

1. A Party shall notify the other Party of any proposed rectification of Annex 17-A, withdrawal of an entity from Annex 17-A, or other modification of Annex 17-A (referred to generally in this Article as “modification”). The Party proposing the modification (modifying Party) shall include in the notification:

- (a) for any proposed withdrawal of an entity from Annex 17-A in the exercise of its rights on the grounds that government control or influence over the entity’s covered procurement has been effectively eliminated, evidence that such government control or influence has been effectively eliminated; or
- (b) for any other proposed modification, information as to the likely consequences of the change for the mutually agreed coverage provided under this Chapter.

2. Where the other Party objects to the proposed modification, it shall notify the modifying Party of its objection within 30 days of the notification of the proposed modification and include the reasons for its objection.

3. The Parties shall seek to resolve any objection through consultations. In such consultations, the Parties shall consider the proposed modification and, in the case of a notification under paragraph 1(b), any claim for compensatory adjustments, with a view to maintaining a balance of rights and obligations and a comparable level of mutually agreed coverage provided in this Chapter prior to such notification.

4. If a Party proposes a modification pursuant to paragraph 1(b), the modifying Party shall offer to the other Party appropriate compensatory adjustments, where such adjustments are necessary to maintain a level of coverage comparable to that which was existing prior to the modification. Such modification shall become effective if the other Party does not notify the modifying Party of any objection to the proposed modification within 30 days of the notification. A Party need not provide compensatory adjustments where the Parties agree that the proposed modification covers a procuring entity over which a Party has effectively eliminated its control or influence over the entity’s covered procurement.

5. The Joint Committee shall adopt any proposed modification only where the other Party:

- (a) does not object in writing to the proposed modification within 30 days of the notification provided under paragraph 1; or
- (b) submits to the modifying Party a written notice withdrawing the objection.

ARTICLE 17.10: GOVERNMENT PROCUREMENT WORKING GROUP

1. The Parties shall establish a Working Group on Government Procurement comprising representatives of each Party.

2. The Working Group shall meet, as mutually agreed or upon request of a Party, to:

- (a) consider issues regarding government procurement that a Party refers to it, including issues related to information technology; and
- (b) exchange information relating to the government procurement opportunities in each Party.

1. Each Party shall, at a minimum, give effect to this Chapter.

International Agreements

2. Further to Article 1.2 (Relation to Other Agreements), the Parties affirm their existing rights and obligations with respect to each other under the TRIPS Agreement.

3. Each Party shall ratify or accede to the following agreements by the date this Agreement enters into force:

- (a) the Patent Cooperation Treaty (1970), as amended in 1979;
- (b) the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property (1967) (the Paris Convention);
- (c) the Berne Convention for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works (1971) (the Berne Convention);

4. Each Party shall make all reasonable efforts to ratify or accede to the following agreements:

- (a) the Patent Law Treaty (2000);

¹ A Party may satisfy the obligation in Article 18.1.3(h) by ratifying or acceding to the Singapore Treaty on the Law of Trademarks (2006), provided that treaty has entered into force.

- (b) the Hague Agreement Concerning the International Registration of Industrial Designs (1999); and
- (c) the Singapore Treaty on the Law of Trademarks (2006).

More Extensive Protection and Enforcement

5. A Party may provide more extensive protection for, and enforcement of, intellectual property rights under its law than this Chapter requires, provided that the more extensive protection does not contravene this Chapter.

National Treatment

6. In respect of all categories of intellectual property covered in this Chapter, each Party shall accord to nationals² of the other Party treatment no less favorable than it accords to its own nationals with regard to the protection³ and enjoyment of such intellectual property rights and any benefits derived from such rights. With respect to secondary uses of phonograms by means of analog communications, analog free over-the-air radio broadcasting, and analog free over-the-air television broadcasting, however, a Party may limit the rights of performers and producers of phonograms of the other Party to the rights its persons are accorded in the territory of the other Party.

7. A Party may derogate from paragraph 6 in relation to its judicial and administrative procedures, including requiring a national of the other Party to designate an address for service of process in its territory, or to appoint an agent in its territory, provided that such derogation is:

- (a) necessary to secure compliance with laws and regulations that are not inconsistent with this Chapter; and
- (b) not applied in a manner that would constitute a disguised restriction on trade.

8. Paragraph 6 does not apply to procedures provided in multilateral agreements to which either Party is a party concluded under the auspices of the WIPO in relation to the acquisition or maintenance of intellectual property rights.

Application of Agreement to Existing Subject Matter and Prior Acts

9. Except as it provides otherwise, including in Article 18.4.5, this Chapter gives rise to obligations in respect of all subject matter existing at the date this Agreement enters into force that is protected on that date in the territory of the Party where protection is claimed, or that meets or comes subsequently to meet the criteria for protection under this Chapter.

² For purposes of paragraphs 6 and 7 and Articles 18.2.14(a), and 18.6.1, a “national” of a Party shall include, in respect of the relevant right, any person (as defined in Article 1.4 (Definitions)), of that Party that would meet the criteria for eligibility for protection of that right provided for in the agreements listed in paragraph 3 and the TRIPS Agreement.

³ For purposes of paragraph 6, “protection” includes: (1) matters affecting the availability, acquisition, scope, maintenance, and enforcement of intellectual property rights as well as matters affecting the use of intellectual property rights specifically covered by this Chapter; and (2) the prohibition on circumvention of effective technological measures set out in Article 18.4.7 and the rights and obligations concerning rights management information set out in Article 18.4.8.

10. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, including in Article 18.4.5, a Party shall not be required to restore protection to subject matter that on the date this Agreement enters into force has fallen into the public domain in the territory of the Party where the protection is claimed.

11. This Chapter does not give rise to obligations in respect of acts that occurred before the date this Agreement enters into force.

Transparency

12. Further to Article 21.1 (Publication), and with the object of making the protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights transparent, each Party shall ensure that all laws, regulations, and procedures concerning the protection or enforcement of intellectual property rights are in writing and are published,⁴ or where publication is not practicable made publicly available, in its national language in such a manner as to enable governments and right holders to become acquainted with them.

ARTICLE 18.2: TRADEMARKS INCLUDING GEOGRAPHICAL INDICATIONS

1. Neither Party may require, as a condition of registration, that signs be visually perceptible, nor may either Party deny registration of a trademark solely on the grounds that the sign of which it is composed is a sound or scent.

2. Each Party shall provide that trademarks shall include certification marks. Each Party shall also provide that geographical indications are eligible for protection as trademarks.⁵

3. Each Party shall ensure that its measures mandating the use of the term customary in common language as the common name for a good or service (common name), including, inter alia, requirements concerning the relative size, placement or style of use of the trademark in relation to the common name, do not impair the use or effectiveness of trademarks used in relation to such good or service.

4. Each Party shall provide that the owner of a registered trademark shall have the exclusive right to prevent all third parties not having the owner's consent from using in the course of trade identical or similar signs, including geographical indications, at least for goods or services that are identical or similar to those goods or services in respect of which the owner's trademark is registered, where such use would result in a likelihood of confusion. In the case of the use of an identical sign, including a geographical indication, for identical goods or services, a likelihood of confusion shall be presumed.

5. Each Party may provide limited exceptions to the rights conferred by a trademark, such as fair use of descriptive terms, provided that such exceptions take account of the legitimate interests of the owner of the trademark and of third parties.

⁴ For greater certainty, a Party may satisfy the requirement in paragraph 12 to publish a law, regulation, or procedure by making it available to the public on the Internet.

⁵ For purposes of this Chapter, geographical indications means indications that identify a good as originating in the territory of a Party, or a region or locality in that territory, where a given quality, reputation, or other characteristic of the good is essentially attributable to its geographical origin. Any sign (such as words, including geographical and personal names, as well as letters, numerals, figurative elements, and colors, including single colors) or combination of signs, in any form whatsoever, shall be eligible to be a geographical indication. "Originating" in this Chapter does not have the meaning ascribed to that term in Article 1.4 (Definitions).

6. Neither Party may require, as a condition for determining that a mark is a well-known mark, that the mark has been registered in the territory of that Party or in another jurisdiction. Additionally, neither Party may deny remedies or relief with respect to well-known marks solely because of the lack of:

- (a) a registration;
- (b) inclusion on a list of well-known marks; or
- (c) prior recognition of the mark as well-known.

7. Article 6*bis* of the Paris Convention shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to goods or services that are not identical or similar to those identified by a well-known trademark,⁶ whether registered or not, provided that use of that trademark in relation to those goods or services would indicate a connection between those goods or services and the owner of the trademark, and provided that the interests of the owner of the trademark are likely to be damaged by such use.

8. Each Party shall provide for appropriate measures to refuse or cancel the registration and prohibit the use of a trademark or geographical indication that is identical or similar to a well-known trademark, for related goods or services, if the use of that trademark or geographical indication is likely to cause confusion, or to cause mistake, or to deceive or risk associating the trademark or geographical indication with the owner of the well-known trademark, or constitutes unfair exploitation of the reputation of the well-known trademark.

9. Each Party shall provide a system for the registration of trademarks, which shall include:

- (a) a requirement to provide to the applicant a communication in writing, which may be provided electronically, of the reasons for a refusal to register a trademark;
- (b) an opportunity for the applicant to respond to communications from the trademark authorities, to contest an initial refusal, and to appeal judicially a final refusal to register;
- (c) an opportunity for interested parties to oppose a trademark application and to seek cancellation of a trademark after it has been registered; and
- (d) a requirement that decisions in opposition and cancellation proceedings be reasoned and in writing. Written decisions may be provided electronically.

10. Each Party shall provide a:

- (a) system for the electronic application for, and electronic processing, registering, and maintenance of, trademarks; and
- (b) publicly available electronic database, including an online database, of trademark applications and registrations.

⁶ For purposes of determining whether a mark is well-known, neither Party may require that the reputation of the trademark extend beyond the sector of the public that normally deals with the relevant goods or services.

11. Each Party shall provide that:
 - (a) each registration and publication that concerns a trademark application or registration and that indicates goods or services shall indicate the goods or services by their names, grouped according to the classes of the classification established by the Nice Agreement Concerning the International Classification of Goods and Services for the Purposes of the Registration of Marks (1979), as revised and amended (Nice Classification); and
 - (b) goods or services may not be considered as being similar to each other solely on the ground that, in any registration or publication, they appear in the same class of the Nice Classification. Conversely, each Party shall provide that goods or services may not be considered as being dissimilar from each other solely on the ground that, in any registration or publication, they appear in different classes of the Nice Classification.
12. Each Party shall provide that initial registration and each renewal of registration of a trademark shall be for a term of no less than ten years.
13. Neither Party may require recordation of trademark licenses to establish the validity of the license, to assert any rights in a trademark, or for other purposes.
14. If a Party provides the means to apply for protection or petition for recognition of geographical indications, through a system of protection of trademarks or otherwise, it shall, with respect to such applications and petitions (as relevant to the means chosen by the Party):
 - (a) accept those applications and petitions without requiring intercession by a Party on behalf of its nationals;
 - (b) process those applications and petitions with a minimum of formalities;
 - (c) ensure that its regulations governing filing of those applications and petitions are readily available to the public and set out clearly the procedures for these actions;
 - (d) make available contact information sufficient to allow the general public to obtain guidance concerning the procedures for filing applications and petitions and the processing of those applications and petitions in general; and to allow applicants, petitioners, or their representatives to ascertain the status of, and to obtain procedural guidance concerning, specific applications and petitions; and
 - (e) ensure that applications and petitions for geographical indications are published for opposition, and provide procedures for opposing geographical indications that are the subject of applications or petitions. Each Party shall also provide procedures to cancel a registration resulting from an application or a petition.
15. (a) Each Party shall provide that each of the following shall be grounds for refusing protection or recognition of, and for opposition and cancellation of, a geographical indication:

- (i) the geographical indication is likely to cause confusion with a trademark that is the subject of a good faith pending application or registration in the Party's territory and that has a priority date that predates the protection or recognition of the geographical indication in that territory;
 - (ii) the geographical indication is likely to cause confusion with a trademark, the rights to which have been acquired in the Party's territory through use in good faith, that has a priority date that predates the protection or recognition of the geographical indication in that territory; and
 - (iii) the geographical indication is likely to cause confusion with a trademark that has become well known in the Party's territory and that has a priority date that predates the protection or recognition of the geographical indication in that territory.
- (b) For purposes of subparagraph (a), the date of protection of the geographical indication in a Party's territory shall be:
- (i) in the case of protection or recognition provided as a result of an application or petition, the date of the application or petition; and
 - (ii) in the case of protection or recognition provided through other means, the date of protection or recognition under the Party's laws.

ARTICLE 18.3: DOMAIN NAMES ON THE INTERNET

1. In order to address the problem of trademark cyber-piracy, each Party shall require that the management of its country-code top-level domain (ccTLD) provide an appropriate procedure for the settlement of disputes, based on the principles established in the Uniform Domain-Name Dispute-Resolution Policy.

2. Each Party shall require that the management of its ccTLD provide online public access to a reliable and accurate database of contact information concerning domain-name registrants.

ARTICLE 18.4: COPYRIGHT AND RELATED RIGHTS

1. Each Party shall provide⁷ that authors, performers, and producers of phonograms⁸ have the right to authorize or prohibit⁹ all reproductions of their works, performances,¹⁰ and

⁷ The Parties reaffirm that it is a matter for each Party's law to prescribe that works and phonograms shall not be protected by copyright unless they have been fixed in some material form.

⁸ "Authors," "performers," and "producers of phonograms" in this Chapter refer also to any successors in title.

⁹ With respect to copyrights and related rights, the "right to authorize or prohibit" for purposes of this Chapter refers to exclusive rights.

phonograms, in any manner or form, permanent or temporary (including temporary storage in electronic form).¹¹

2. Each Party shall provide to authors, performers, and producers of phonograms the right to authorize or prohibit the making available to the public of the original and copies¹² of their works, performances, and phonograms through sale or other transfer of ownership.

3. In order to ensure that no hierarchy is established between rights of authors, on the one hand, and rights of performers and producers of phonograms, on the other hand, each Party shall provide that in cases where authorization is needed from both the author of a work embodied in a phonogram and a performer or producer owning rights in the phonogram, the need for the authorization of the author does not cease to exist because the authorization of the performer or producer is also required. Likewise, each Party shall provide that in cases where authorization is needed from both the author of a work embodied in a phonogram and a performer or producer owning rights in the phonogram, the need for the authorization of the performer or producer does not cease to exist because the authorization of the author is also required.

4. Each Party shall provide that, where the term of protection of a work (including a photographic work), performance, or phonogram is to be calculated:

- (a) on the basis of the life of a natural person, the term shall be not less than the life of the author and 70 years after the author's death; and
- (b) on a basis other than the life of a natural person, the term shall be:
 - (i) not less than 70 years from the end of the calendar year of the first authorized publication of the work, performance, or phonogram; or
 - (ii) failing such authorized publication within 25 years from the creation of the work, performance, or phonogram, not less than 70 years from the end of the calendar year of the creation of the work, performance, or phonogram.

5. Each Party shall apply Article 18 of the Berne Convention and Article 14.6 of the TRIPS Agreement, mutatis mutandis, to the subject matter, rights, and obligations in this Article and Articles 18.5 and 18.6.

6. Each Party shall provide that for copyright and related rights, any person acquiring or holding any economic right in a work, performance, or phonogram:

- (a) may freely and separately transfer that right by contract; and
- (b) by virtue of a contract, including contracts of employment underlying the creation of works, performances, and phonograms, shall be able to exercise that right in that person's own name and enjoy fully the benefits derived from that right.

¹¹ Each Party shall confine limitations or exceptions to the rights described in paragraph 1 to certain special cases that do not conflict with a normal exploitation of the work, performance, or phonogram, and do not unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the right holder. For greater certainty, each Party may adopt or maintain limitations or exceptions to the rights described in paragraph 1 for fair use, as long as any such limitation or exception is confined as stated in the previous sentence.

¹² As used in paragraph 2, "copies" and "original and copies", being subject to the right of distribution in this paragraph, refer exclusively to fixed copies that can be put into circulation as tangible objects.

7. (a) In order to provide adequate legal protection and effective legal remedies against the circumvention of effective technological measures that authors, performers, and producers of phonograms use in connection with the exercise of their rights and that restrict unauthorized acts in respect of their works, performances, and phonograms, each Party shall provide that any person who:
- (i) knowingly, or having reasonable grounds to know, circumvents without authority any effective technological measure that controls access to a protected work, performance, phonogram, or other subject matter; or
 - (ii) manufactures, imports, distributes, offers to the public, provides, or otherwise traffics in devices, products, or components, or offers to the public or provides services, that:
 - (A) are promoted, advertised, or marketed by that person, or by another person acting in concert with, and with the knowledge of, that person, for the purpose of circumvention of any effective technological measure;
 - (B) have only a limited commercially significant purpose or use other than to circumvent any effective technological measure; or
 - (C) are primarily designed, produced, or performed for the purpose of enabling or facilitating the circumvention of any effective technological measure, shall be liable and subject to the remedies set out in Article 18.10.13.¹³ Each Party shall provide for criminal procedures and penalties to be applied when any person, other than a nonprofit library, archive, educational institution, or public noncommercial broadcasting entity, is found to have engaged willfully and for purposes of commercial advantage or private financial gain in any of the foregoing activities. Such criminal procedures and penalties shall include the application to such activities of the remedies and authorities listed in subparagraphs (a), (b), and (e) of Article 18.10.27 as applicable to infringements, mutatis mutandis.

- (b) In implementing subparagraph (a), neither Party shall be obligated to require that the design of, or the design and selection of parts and components for, a consumer electronics, telecommunications, or computing product provide for a response to any particular technological measure, so long as the product does not otherwise violate any measures implementing subparagraph (a).

¹³ In addition, each Party shall provide that any person who, unknowingly and without reasonable grounds to know, circumvents without authority any effective technological measure that controls access to a protected work, performance, phonogram, or other subject matter shall be liable and subject at least to the remedies set out in subparagraphs (a), (c), and (d) of Article 18.10.13.

- (c) Each Party shall provide that a violation of a measure implementing this paragraph is a separate cause of action, independent of any infringement that might occur under the Party's law on copyright and related rights.
- (d) Each Party shall confine exceptions and limitations to measures implementing subparagraph (a) to the following activities, which shall be applied to relevant measures in accordance with subparagraph (e):¹⁴
 - (i) noninfringing reverse engineering activities with regard to a lawfully obtained copy of a computer program, carried out in good faith with respect to particular elements of that computer program that have not been readily available to the person engaged in those activities, for the sole purpose of achieving interoperability of an independently created computer program with other programs;
 - (ii) noninfringing good faith activities, carried out by an appropriately qualified researcher who has lawfully obtained a copy, unfixed performance, or display of a work, performance, or phonogram and who has made a good faith effort to obtain authorization for such activities, to the extent necessary for the sole purpose of research consisting of identifying and analyzing flaws and vulnerabilities of technologies for scrambling and descrambling of information;
 - (iii) the inclusion of a component or part for the sole purpose of preventing the access of minors to inappropriate online content in a technology, product, service, or device that itself is not prohibited under the measures implementing subparagraph (a)(ii);
 - (iv) noninfringing good faith activities that are authorized by the owner of a computer, computer system, or computer network for the sole purpose of testing, investigating, or correcting the security of that computer, computer system, or computer network;
 - (v) noninfringing activities for the sole purpose of identifying and disabling a capability to carry out undisclosed collection or dissemination of personally identifying information reflecting the online activities of a natural person in a way that has no other effect on the ability of any person to gain access to any work;
 - (vi) lawfully authorized activities carried out by government employees, agents, or contractors for the purpose of law enforcement, intelligence, essential security, or similar governmental purposes;
 - (vii) access by a nonprofit library, archive, or educational institution to a work, performance, or phonogram not otherwise available to it, for the sole purpose of making acquisition decisions; and ¹⁴ Either Party may request consultations with the other Party to consider how to address, under subparagraph (d), activities of a similar nature that a Party identifies after the date this Agreement enters into force.

- (viii) noninfringing uses of a work, performance, or phonogram in a particular class of works, performances, or phonograms when an actual or likely adverse impact on those noninfringing uses is demonstrated in a legislative or administrative proceeding by substantial evidence, provided that any limitation or exception adopted in reliance on this clause shall have effect for a renewable period of not more than three years from the date the proceeding concludes.
- (e) The exceptions and limitations to measures implementing subparagraph (a) for the activities set forth in subparagraph (d) may only be applied as follows, and only to the extent that they do not impair the adequacy of legal protection or the effectiveness of legal remedies against the circumvention of effective technological measures:
 - (i) Measures implementing subparagraph (a)(i) may be subject to exceptions and limitations with respect to each activity set forth in subparagraph (d).
 - (ii) Measures implementing subparagraph (a)(ii), as they apply to effective technological measures that control access to a work, performance, or phonogram, may be subject to exceptions and limitations with respect to activities set forth in subparagraph (d)(i), (ii), (iii), (iv), and (vi).
 - (iii) Measures implementing subparagraph (a)(ii), as they apply to effective technological measures that protect any copyright or any rights related to copyright, may be subject to exceptions and limitations with respect to activities set forth in subparagraph (d)(i) and (vi).
- (f) Effective technological measure means any technology, device, or component that, in the normal course of its operation, controls access to a protected work, performance, phonogram, or other protected subject matter, or protects any copyright or any rights related to copyright.

8. In order to provide adequate and effective legal remedies to protect rights management information:

- (a) Each Party shall provide that any person who without authority, and knowing, or, with respect to civil remedies, having reasonable grounds to know, that it would induce, enable, facilitate, or conceal an infringement of any copyright or related right,
 - (i) knowingly removes or alters any rights management information;
 - (ii) distributes or imports for distribution rights management information knowing that the rights management information has been removed or altered without authority; or
 - (iii) distributes, imports for distribution, broadcasts, communicates or makes available to the public copies of works, performances, or phonograms, knowing that rights management information has been removed or altered without authority, shall be liable and subject to the remedies set out in Article 18.10.13. Each Party shall provide for criminal procedures and penalties to be applied when any person, other than a nonprofit library, archive, educational institution, or public noncommercial broadcasting entity, is found to have engaged willfully and for purposes of commercial advantage or private financial gain in any of the foregoing activities. These criminal procedures and penalties shall include the application to such activities of the remedies and authorities listed in subparagraphs (a), (b), and (e) of Article 18.10.27 as applicable to infringements, mutatis mutandis.

(b) Each Party shall confine exceptions and limitations to measures implementing subparagraph (a) to lawfully authorized activities carried out by government employees, agents, or contractors for the purpose of law enforcement, intelligence, essential security, or similar governmental purposes.

(c) Rights management information means:

(i) information that identifies a work, performance, or phonogram; the author of the work, the performer of the performance, or the producer of the phonogram; or the owner of any right in the work, performance, or phonogram;

(ii) information about the terms and conditions of the use of the work, performance, or phonogram; or

(iii) any numbers or codes that represent such information, when any of these items is attached to a copy of the work, performance, or phonogram or appears in connection with the communication or making available of a work, performance, or phonogram to the public.

(d) For greater certainty, nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to obligate a Party to require the owner of any right in the work, performance, or phonogram to attach rights management information to copies of the work, performance, or phonogram, or to cause rights management information to appear in connection with a communication of the work, performance, or phonogram to the public.

9. Each Party shall provide appropriate laws, orders, regulations, government-issued guidelines, or administrative or executive decrees providing that its central government agencies not use infringing computer software and other materials protected by copyright or related rights and only use computer software and other materials protected by copyright or related rights as authorized by the relevant license. These measures shall provide for the regulation of the acquisition and management of software and other materials for government use that are protected by copyright or related rights.

10. (a) With respect to this Article and Articles 18.5 and 18.6, each Party shall confine limitations or exceptions to exclusive rights to certain special cases that do not conflict with a normal exploitation of the work, performance, or phonogram, and do not unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the right holder.

- (b) Notwithstanding subparagraph (a) and Article 18.6.3(b), neither Party may permit the retransmission of television signals (whether terrestrial, cable, or satellite) on the Internet without the authorization of the right holder or right holders of the content of the signal and, if any, of the signal.¹⁵

ARTICLE 18.5: COPYRIGHT

Without prejudice to Articles 11(1)(ii), 11*bis*(1)(i) and (ii), 11*ter*(1)(ii), 14(1)(ii), and 14*bis* of the Berne Convention, each Party shall provide to authors the exclusive right to authorize or prohibit the communication to the public of their works, by wire or wireless means, including the making available to the public of their works in such a way that members of the public may access these works from a place and at a time individually chosen by them.

ARTICLE 18.6: RELATED RIGHTS

1. With respect to the rights accorded under this Chapter to performers and producers of phonograms, each Party shall:
 - (a) accord those rights to the performers and producers of phonograms who are nationals of the other Party; and
 - (b) accord those rights with respect to performances and phonograms that are first published or first fixed¹⁶ in the territory of the other Party.¹⁷
2. Each Party shall provide to performers the right to authorize or prohibit:
 - (a) the broadcasting and communication to the public of their unfixed performances, except where the performance is already a broadcast performance; and
 - (b) the fixation of their unfixed performances.
3. (a) Each Party shall provide to performers and producers of phonograms the right to authorize or prohibit the broadcasting and any communication to the public of their performances or phonograms, by wire or wireless means, including the making available to the public of those performances and phonograms in such a way that members of the public may access them from a place and at a time individually chosen by them.
 - (b) Notwithstanding subparagraph (a) and Article 18.4.10, the application of this right to analog transmissions and free over-the-air broadcasts, and exceptions or limitations to this right for such activity, shall be a matter of each Party's law.

¹⁵ For purposes of subparagraph (b) and for greater certainty, retransmission within a Party's territory over a closed, defined, subscriber network that is not accessible from outside the Party's territory does not constitute retransmission on the Internet.

¹⁶ For purposes of Article 18.6, "fixation" includes the finalization of the master tape or its equivalent.

¹⁷ With respect to the protection of phonograms, a Party may apply the criterion of fixation instead of the criterion of publication.

- (c) Each Party may adopt limitations to this right in respect of other noninteractive transmissions in accordance with Article 18.4.10, provided that the limitations do not prejudice the right of the performer or producer of phonograms to obtain equitable remuneration.
4. Neither Party may subject the enjoyment and exercise of the rights of performers and producers of phonograms provided for in this Chapter to any formality.
5. For purposes of this Article and Article 18.4, the following definitions apply with respect to performers and producers of phonograms:
- (a) broadcasting means the transmission to the public by wireless means or satellite of sounds or sounds and images, or representations thereof, including wireless transmission of encrypted signals where the means for decrypting are provided to the public by the broadcasting organization or with its consent; “broadcasting” does not include transmissions over computer networks or any transmissions where the time and place of reception may be individually chosen by members of the public;
 - (b) communication to the public of a performance or a phonogram means the transmission to the public by any medium, other than by broadcasting, of sounds of a performance or the sounds or the representations of sounds fixed in a phonogram;
 - (c) fixation means the embodiment of sounds, or of the representations thereof, from which they can be perceived, reproduced, or communicated through a device;
 - (d) performers means actors, singers, musicians, dancers, and other persons who act, sing, deliver, declaim, play in, interpret, or otherwise perform literary or artistic works or expressions of folklore;
 - (e) phonogram means the fixation of the sounds of a performance or of other sounds, or of a representation of sounds, other than in the form of a fixation incorporated in a cinematographic or other audiovisual work;
 - (f) producer of a phonogram means the person who, or the legal entity which, takes the initiative and has the responsibility for the first fixation of the sounds of a performance or other sounds, or the representations of sounds; and
 - (g) publication of a performance or a phonogram means the offering of copies of the performance or the phonogram to the public, with the consent of the right holder, and provided that copies are offered to the public in reasonable quantity.

ARTICLE 18.7: PROTECTION OF ENCRYPTED PROGRAM-CARRYING SATELLITE AND CABLE SIGNALS

1. Each Party shall make it a criminal offense:
- (a) to manufacture, assemble, modify, import, export, sell, lease, or otherwise distribute a tangible or intangible device or system, knowing or having reason to know that the device or system is primarily of assistance in decoding an encrypted program-carrying satellite or cable signal without the authorization of the lawful distributor of such signal; and

- (b) willfully to receive and make use of,¹⁸ or further distribute, a program-carrying signal that originated as an encrypted satellite or cable signal knowing that it has been decoded without the authorization of the lawful distributor of the signal, or if the signal has been decoded with the authorization of the lawful distributor of the signal, willfully to further distribute the signal for purposes of commercial advantage knowing that the signal originated as an encrypted program-carrying signal and that such further distribution is without the authorization of the lawful signal distributor.

2. Each Party shall provide for civil remedies, including compensatory damages, for any person injured by any activity described in paragraph 1, including any person that holds an interest in the encrypted programming signal or its content.

ARTICLE 18.8: PATENTS

1. Each Party shall make patents available for any invention, whether a product or process, in all fields of technology, provided that the invention is new, involves an inventive step, and is capable of industrial application. In addition, each Party confirms that patents shall be available for any new uses or methods of using a known product.¹⁹

2. Each Party may only exclude from patentability:

- (a) inventions, the prevention within its territory of the commercial exploitation of which is necessary to protect ordre public or morality, including to protect human, animal, or plant life or health or to avoid serious prejudice to the environment, provided that such exclusion is not made merely because the exploitation is prohibited by its law; and
- (b) diagnostic, therapeutic, and surgical procedures for the treatment of humans or animals.

3. Each Party may provide limited exceptions to the exclusive rights conferred by a patent, provided that such exceptions do not unreasonably conflict with a normal exploitation of the patent and do not unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the patent owner, taking account of the legitimate interests of third parties.

4. Each Party shall provide that a patent may be revoked only on grounds that would have justified a refusal to grant the patent. A Party may also provide that fraud, misrepresentation, or inequitable conduct may be the basis for revoking a patent or holding a patent unenforceable. Where a Party provides proceedings that permit a third party to oppose the grant of a patent, the Party shall not make such proceedings available before the grant of the patent.

5. Consistent with paragraph 3, if a Party permits a third person to use the subject matter of a subsisting patent to generate information necessary to support an application for marketing approval of a pharmaceutical product, that Party shall provide that any product produced under such authority shall not be made, used, or sold in its territory other than for purposes related to generating such information to support an application for meeting marketing approval requirements of that Party, and if the Party permits exportation of such product, the Party shall provide that the product shall only be exported outside its territory for purposes of generating information to support an application for meeting marketing approval requirements of that Party.

¹⁸ For greater certainty, “make use of” includes viewing of the signal, whether private or commercial.

¹⁹ For purposes of Article 18.8, a Party may treat the terms “inventive step” and “capable of industrial application” as synonymous with the terms “non-obvious” and “useful” respectively.

6. (a) Each Party, at the request of the patent owner, shall adjust the term of a patent to compensate for unreasonable delays that occur in granting the patent. For purposes of this subparagraph, an unreasonable delay shall at least include a delay in the issuance of the patent of more than four years from the date of filing of the application in the territory of the Party, or three years after a request for examination of the application, whichever is later. Periods attributable to actions of the patent applicant need not be included in the determination of such delays.²⁰
 - (b) With respect to patents covering a new pharmaceutical product²¹ that is approved for marketing in the territory of the Party and methods of making or using a new pharmaceutical product that is approved for marketing in the territory of the Party, each Party, at the request of the patent owner, shall make available an adjustment of the patent term or the term of the patent rights of a patent covering a new pharmaceutical product, its approved method of use, or a method of making the product to compensate the patent owner for unreasonable curtailment of the effective patent term as a result of the marketing approval process related to the first commercial use of that pharmaceutical product in the territory of that Party. Any adjustment under this subparagraph shall confer all of the exclusive rights, subject to the same limitations and exceptions, of the patent claims of the product, its method of use, or its method of manufacture in the originally issued patent as applicable to the product and the approved method of use of the product.²²
7. Each Party shall disregard information contained in public disclosures used to determine if an invention is novel or has an inventive step if the public disclosure:
 - (a) was made or authorized by, or derived from, the patent applicant, and
 - (b) occurred within 12 months prior to the date of filing of the application in the territory of the Party.²³

²⁰ Notwithstanding Article 18.1.9, subparagraph (a) shall apply to all patent applications filed on or after January 1, 2008.

²² For purposes of subparagraph (b), effective patent term means the period from the date of approval of the product until the original expiration date of the patent.

²³ Notwithstanding Article 18.1.9, paragraph 7 shall apply to all patent applications filed on or after January 1, 2008.

8. Each Party shall provide patent applicants with at least one opportunity to make amendments, corrections, and observations in connection with their applications.
9. Each Party shall provide that a disclosure of a claimed invention shall be considered to be sufficiently clear and complete if it provides information that allows the invention to be made and used by a person skilled in the art, without undue experimentation, as of the filing date.
10. Each Party shall provide that a claimed invention:
 - (a) is sufficiently supported by its disclosure if the disclosure allows a person skilled in the art to extend the teaching therein to the entire scope of the claim, thereby showing that the applicant does not claim subject matter which the applicant had not recognized and described or possessed on the filing date; and
 - (b) is industrially applicable if it has a specific, substantial, and credible utility.
11. The Parties shall endeavor to establish a framework for cooperation between their respective patent offices as a basis for progress towards the mutual exploitation of search and examination work.

ARTICLE 18.9: MEASURES RELATED TO CERTAIN REGULATED PRODUCTS

1. (a) If a Party requires or permits, as a condition of granting marketing approval for a new pharmaceutical or new agricultural chemical product, the submission of information concerning safety or efficacy of the product, the origination of which involves a considerable effort, the Party shall not, without the consent of a person that previously submitted such safety or efficacy information to obtain marketing approval in the territory of the Party, authorize another to market a same or a similar product based on:
 - (i) the safety or efficacy information submitted in support of the marketing approval; or
 - (ii) evidence of the marketing approval,for at least five years for pharmaceutical products and ten years for agricultural chemical products from the date of marketing approval in the territory of the Party.
- (b) If a Party requires or permits, in connection with granting marketing approval for a new pharmaceutical or new agricultural chemical product, the submission of evidence concerning the safety or efficacy of a product that was previously approved in another territory, such as evidence of prior marketing approval in the other territory, the Party shall not, without the consent of a person that previously submitted the safety or efficacy information to obtain marketing approval in the other territory, authorize another to market a same or a similar product based on:
 - (i) the safety or efficacy information submitted in support of the prior marketing approval in the other territory; or

(ii) evidence of prior marketing approval in the other territory, for at least five years for pharmaceutical products and ten years for agricultural chemical products from the date of marketing approval of the new product in the territory of the Party.²⁴

(c) For purposes of this Article, a new pharmaceutical product is one that does not contain a chemical entity that has been previously approved in the territory of the Party for use in a pharmaceutical product, and a new agricultural chemical product is one that contains a chemical entity that has not been previously approved in the territory of the Party for use in an agricultural chemical product.

2. (a) If a Party requires or permits, as a condition of granting marketing approval for a pharmaceutical product that includes a chemical entity that has been previously approved for marketing in another pharmaceutical product, the submission of new clinical information that is essential to the approval of the pharmaceutical product containing the previously approved chemical entity, other than information related to bioequivalency, the Party shall not, without the consent of a person that previously submitted such new clinical information to obtain marketing approval in the territory of the Party, authorize another to market a same or a similar product based on:

(i) the new clinical information submitted in support of the marketing approval; or

(ii) evidence of the marketing approval based on the new clinical information, for at least three years from the date of marketing approval in the territory of the Party.

(b) If a Party requires or permits, in connection with granting marketing approval for a pharmaceutical product of the type specified in subparagraph (a), the submission of evidence concerning new clinical information for a product that was previously approved based on that new clinical information in another territory, other than evidence of information related to bioequivalency, such as evidence of prior marketing approval based on the new clinical information, the Party shall not, without the consent of the person that previously submitted such new clinical information to obtain marketing approval in the other territory, authorize another to market a same or a similar product based on:

(i) the new clinical information submitted in support of the prior marketing approval in the other territory; or ²⁴ The Parties acknowledge that, as of the date of signature of this Agreement, neither Party permits a person, not having the consent of the person that previously submitted safety or efficacy information to obtain marketing approval in another territory, to market a same or similar product in the territory of the Party on the basis of such information or evidence of prior marketing approval in such other territory.

- (ii) evidence of prior marketing approval based on the new clinical information in the other territory, for at least three years from the date of marketing approval based on the new clinical information in the territory of the Party.

- (c) If a Party requires or permits, as a condition of granting marketing approval for a new use, for an agricultural chemical product that has been previously approved in the territory of the Party, the submission of safety or efficacy information, the origination of which involves a considerable effort, the Party shall not, without the consent of a person that previously submitted such safety or efficacy information to obtain marketing approval in the territory of the Party, authorize another to market a same or similar product for that use based on:

- (i) the submitted safety or efficacy information; or

- (ii) evidence of the marketing approval for that use, for at least ten years from the date of the original marketing approval of the agricultural chemical product in the territory of the Party.

- (d) If a Party requires or permits, in connection with granting marketing approval for a new use, for an agricultural chemical product that has been previously approved in the territory of the Party, the submission of evidence concerning the safety or efficacy of a product that was previously approved in another territory for that new use, such as evidence of prior marketing approval for that new use, the Party shall not, without the consent of the person that previously submitted the safety or efficacy information to obtain marketing approval in the other territory, authorize another to market a same or a similar product based on:

- (i) the safety or efficacy information submitted in support of the prior marketing approval for that use in the other territory; or

- (ii) evidence of prior marketing approval in another territory for that new use, for at least ten years from the date of the original marketing approval granted in the territory of the Party.

3. With respect to pharmaceutical products, notwithstanding paragraphs 1 and 2, a Party may take measures to protect public health in accordance with:

- (a) the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health (WT/MIN(01)/DEC/2) (the Declaration);

- (b) any waiver of any provision of the TRIPS Agreement granted by WTO Members in accordance with the WTO Agreement to implement the Declaration and in force between the Parties; and

- (c) any amendment of the TRIPS Agreement to implement the Declaration that enters into force with respect to the Parties.

4. Subject to paragraph 3, when a product is subject to a system of marketing approval in the territory of a Party in accordance with paragraph 1 or 2 and is also covered by a patent in that territory, the Party may not alter the term of protection that it provides in accordance with those paragraphs in the event that the patent protection terminates on a date earlier than the end of the term of protection specified in those paragraphs.

5. Where a Party permits, as a condition of approving the marketing of a pharmaceutical product, persons, other than the person originally submitting safety or efficacy information, to rely on that information or on evidence of safety or efficacy information of a product that was previously approved, such as evidence of prior marketing approval in the territory of the Party or in another territory, that Party shall:

- (a) provide that the patent owner shall be notified of the identity of any such other person that requests marketing approval to enter the market during the term of a patent notified to the approving authority as covering that product or its approved method of use; and
- (b) implement measures in its marketing approval process to prevent such other persons from marketing a product without the consent or acquiescence of the patent owner during the term of a patent notified to the approving authority as covering that product or its approved method of use.

ARTICLE 18.10: ENFORCEMENT OF INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

General Obligations

1. Each Party shall provide that final judicial decisions and administrative rulings of general application pertaining to the enforcement of intellectual property rights be in writing and state any relevant findings of fact and the reasoning or the legal basis on which the decisions and rulings are based. Each Party shall also provide that those decisions and rulings be published²⁵ or, where publication is not practicable, otherwise made available to the public, in its national language in such a manner as to enable governments and right holders to become acquainted with them.

2. Each Party shall publicize information on its efforts to provide effective enforcement of intellectual property rights in its civil, administrative, and criminal systems, including any statistical information that the Party may collect for such purposes.²⁶

3. In civil, administrative, and criminal proceedings involving copyright or related rights, each Party shall provide for a presumption that, in the absence of proof to the contrary, the person whose name is indicated as the author, producer, performer, or publisher of the work, performance, or phonogram in the usual manner is the designated right holder in such work, performance, or phonogram. Each Party shall also provide for a presumption that, in the absence of proof to the contrary, the copyright or related right subsists in such subject matter. In civil, administrative, and criminal proceedings involving trademarks, each Party shall provide for a rebuttable presumption that a registered trademark is valid. In civil and administrative proceedings involving patents, each Party shall provide for a rebuttable presumption that a patent is valid, and shall provide that each claim of a patent is presumed valid independently of the validity of the other claims.

²⁵ A Party may satisfy the publication requirement in paragraph 1 by making the decision or ruling available to the public on the Internet.

²⁶ For greater certainty, nothing in paragraph 2 is intended to prescribe the type, format, and method of publication of the information a Party must publicize.

Civil and Administrative Procedures and Remedies

4. Each Party shall make available to right holders²⁷ civil judicial procedures concerning the enforcement of any intellectual property right.
5. Each Party shall provide that:
 - (a) in civil judicial proceedings, its judicial authorities shall have the authority to order the infringer to pay the right holder:
 - (i) damages adequate to compensate for the injury the right holder has suffered as a result of the infringement;²⁸ or
 - (ii) at least in the case of copyright or related rights infringement and trademark counterfeiting, the profits of the infringer that are attributable to the infringement, which may be presumed to be the amount of damages referred to in clause (i); and
 - (b) in determining damages for infringement of intellectual property rights, its judicial authorities shall consider, inter alia, the value of the infringed good or service, measured by the market price, the suggested retail price, or other legitimate measure of value submitted by the right holder.
6. In civil judicial proceedings, each Party shall, at least with respect to works, phonograms, and performances protected by copyright or related rights, and in cases of trademark counterfeiting, establish or maintain pre-established damages, which shall be available on the election of the right holder. Pre-established damages shall be in an amount sufficient to constitute a deterrent to future infringements and to compensate fully the right holder for the harm caused by the infringement.²⁹
7. Each Party shall provide that its judicial authorities, except in exceptional circumstances, shall have the authority to order, at the conclusion of civil judicial proceedings concerning copyright or related rights infringement, patent infringement, or trademark infringement, that the prevailing party shall be awarded payment by the losing party of court costs or fees and, at least in proceedings concerning copyright or related rights infringement or willful trademark counterfeiting, reasonable attorney's fees. Further, each Party shall provide that its judicial authorities, at least in exceptional circumstances, shall have the authority to order, at the conclusion of civil judicial proceedings concerning patent

²⁷ For purposes of Article 18.10, "right holder" includes a federation or an association having the legal standing and authority to assert such rights, and also includes a person that exclusively has any one or more of the intellectual property rights encompassed in a given intellectual property.

²⁸ In the case of patent infringement, damages adequate to compensate for the infringement shall not be less than a reasonable royalty.

infringement, that the prevailing party shall be awarded payment by the losing party of reasonable attorneys' fees.

8. In civil judicial proceedings concerning copyright or related rights infringement and trademark counterfeiting, each Party shall provide that its judicial authorities shall have the authority to order the seizure of allegedly infringing goods, materials, and implements relevant to the act of infringement, and, at least for trademark counterfeiting, documentary evidence relevant to the infringement.

9. Each Party shall provide that:

- (a) in civil judicial proceedings, at the right holder's request, goods that have been found to be pirated or counterfeit shall be destroyed, except in exceptional circumstances;
- (b) its judicial authorities shall have the authority to order that materials and implements that have been used in the manufacture or creation of such pirated or counterfeit goods be, without compensation of any sort, promptly destroyed or, in exceptional circumstances, without compensation of any sort, disposed of outside the channels of commerce in such a manner as to minimize the risks of further infringements; and
- (c) in regard to counterfeit trademarked goods, the simple removal of the trademark unlawfully affixed shall not be sufficient to permit the release of goods into the channels of commerce.

10. Each Party shall provide that in civil judicial proceedings concerning the enforcement of intellectual property rights, its judicial authorities shall have the authority to order the infringer to provide, for the purpose of collecting evidence, any information that the infringer possesses or controls regarding any person or persons involved in any aspect of the infringement and regarding the means of production or distribution channel of such goods or services, including the identification of third persons involved in the production and distribution of the infringing goods or services or in their channels of distribution, and to provide this information to the right holder or the judicial authorities.

11. Each Party shall provide that its judicial authorities have the authority to:

- (a) fine, detain, or imprison, in appropriate cases, a party to a civil judicial proceeding who fails to abide by valid orders issued by such authorities; and
- (b) impose sanctions on parties to a civil judicial proceeding, their counsel, experts, or other persons subject to the court's jurisdiction, for violation of judicial orders regarding the protection of confidential information produced or exchanged in a proceeding.

12. To the extent that any civil remedy can be ordered as a result of administrative procedures on the merits of a case, each Party shall provide that such procedures conform to principles equivalent in substance to those set out in this Chapter.

13. In civil judicial proceedings concerning the acts described in paragraphs 7 and 8 of Article 18.4, each Party shall provide that its judicial authorities shall, at the least, have the authority to:

- (a) impose provisional measures, including seizure of devices and products suspected of being involved in the prohibited activity;
- (b) provide an opportunity for the right holder to elect award of either actual damages it suffered or pre-established damages;
- (c) order payment to the prevailing right holder at the conclusion of civil judicial proceedings of court costs and fees, and reasonable attorney's fees, by the party engaged in the prohibited conduct; and
- (d) order the destruction of devices and products found to be involved in the prohibited activity.

Neither Party may make damages available under this paragraph against a nonprofit library, archives, educational institution, or public noncommercial broadcasting entity that sustains the burden of proving that it was not aware and had no reason to believe that its acts constituted a prohibited activity.

14. In civil judicial proceedings concerning the enforcement of intellectual property rights, each Party shall provide that its judicial authorities shall have the authority to order a party to desist from an infringement, in order, inter alia, to prevent infringing imports from entering the channels of commerce and to prevent their exportation.

15. In the event that a Party's judicial or other competent authorities appoint technical or other experts in civil proceedings concerning the enforcement of intellectual property rights and require that the parties to the litigation bear the costs of such experts, the Party should seek to ensure that such costs are closely related, inter alia, to the quantity and nature of work to be performed and do not unreasonably deter recourse to such proceedings.

Alternative Dispute Resolution

16. Each Party may permit use of alternative dispute resolution procedures to resolve civil disputes concerning intellectual property rights.

Provisional Measures

17. Each Party shall act on requests for provisional measures inaudita altera parte expeditiously.

18. Each Party shall provide that its judicial authorities have the authority to require the plaintiff, with respect to provisional measures, to provide any reasonably available evidence in order to satisfy themselves with a sufficient degree of certainty that the plaintiff's right is being infringed or that such infringement is imminent, and to order the plaintiff to provide a reasonable security or equivalent assurance set at a level sufficient to protect the defendant and to prevent abuse, and so as not to unreasonably deter recourse to such procedures.

Special Requirements Related to Border Measures

19. Each Party shall provide that any right holder initiating procedures for its competent authorities to suspend release of suspected counterfeit or confusingly similar trademark goods, or pirated copyright goods³⁰ into free circulation is required to provide adequate evidence to satisfy the competent authorities that, under the laws of the country of importation, there is prima facie an infringement of the right holder's intellectual property right and to supply sufficient information that may reasonably be expected to be within the right holder's knowledge to make the suspected goods reasonably recognizable by its competent authorities. The requirement to provide sufficient information shall not unreasonably deter recourse to these procedures. Each Party shall provide that the application to suspend the release of goods shall apply to all points of entry to its territory and remain applicable for a period of not less than one year from the date of application, or the period that the good is protected by copyright or that the relevant trademark registration is valid, whichever is shorter.

20. Each Party shall provide that its competent authorities shall have the authority to require a right holder initiating procedures to suspend the release of suspected counterfeit or confusingly similar trademark goods, or pirated copyright goods, to provide a reasonable security or equivalent assurance sufficient to protect the defendant and the competent authorities and to prevent abuse. Each Party shall provide that the security or equivalent assurance shall not unreasonably deter recourse to these procedures. Each Party may provide that the security may be in the form of a bond conditioned to hold the importer or owner of the imported merchandise harmless from any loss or damage resulting from any suspension of the release of goods in the event the competent authorities determine that the article is not an infringing good. In no case shall an importer be permitted to post a bond or other security to obtain possession of suspected counterfeit or confusingly similar trademark goods, or of pirated copyright goods.

21. Where its competent authorities have seized goods that are counterfeit or pirated, a Party shall inform the right holder within 30 days of the seizure of the names and addresses of the consignor, importer, exporter, or consignee, and provide to the right holder a description of the merchandise, the quantity of the merchandise, and, if known, the country of origin of the merchandise.

22. Each Party shall provide that its competent authorities may initiate border measures *ex officio*³¹ with respect to imported, exported, or in-transit merchandise,³² or merchandise in free trade zones, that is suspected of being counterfeit or confusingly similar trademark goods, or pirated copyright goods.

23. Each Party shall provide that goods that have been suspended from release by its customs authorities, and that have been forfeited as pirated or counterfeit, shall be destroyed, except in exceptional circumstances. In regard to counterfeit trademark goods, the simple

(a) counterfeit trademark goods means any goods, including packaging, bearing without authorization a trademark that is identical to the trademark validly registered in respect of such goods, or that cannot be distinguished in its essential aspects from such a trademark, and that thereby infringes the rights of the owner of the trademark in question under the law of the country of importation; and

(b) pirated copyright goods means any goods that are copies made without the consent of the right holder or person duly authorized by the right holder in the country of production and that are made directly or indirectly from an article where the making of that copy would have constituted an infringement of a copyright or a related right under the law of the country of importation.

³¹ For greater certainty, the Parties understand that ex officio action does not require a formal complaint from a private party or right holder.

³² For purposes of paragraph 22, in-transit merchandise means goods under "Customs transit" and goods "transshipped," as defined in the International Convention on the Simplification and Harmonization of Customs Procedures (Kyoto Convention).

removal of the trademark unlawfully affixed shall not be sufficient to permit the release of the goods into the channels of commerce. In no event shall the competent authorities be authorized, except in exceptional circumstances, to permit the exportation of counterfeit or pirated goods or to permit such goods to be subject to other customs procedures.

24. Where an application fee or merchandise storage fee is assessed in connection with border measures to enforce an intellectual property right, each Party shall provide that the fee shall not be set at an amount that unreasonably deters recourse to these measures.

25. Each Party shall provide the other Party, on mutually agreed terms, with technical advice on the enforcement of border measures concerning intellectual property rights, and the Parties shall promote bilateral and regional cooperation on these matters.

Criminal Procedures and Remedies

26. Each Party shall provide for criminal procedures and penalties to be applied at least in cases of willful trademark counterfeiting or copyright or related rights piracy on a commercial scale. Willful copyright or related rights piracy on a commercial scale includes:

- (a) significant willful copyright or related rights infringements that have no direct or indirect motivation of financial gain; and
- (b) willful infringements for purposes of commercial advantage or private financial gain.³³

Each Party shall treat willful importation or exportation of counterfeit or pirated goods as unlawful activities subject to criminal penalties.³⁴

27. Further to paragraph 26, each Party shall provide:

- (a) penalties that include sentences of imprisonment as well as monetary fines sufficient to provide a deterrent to future infringements, consistent with a policy of removing the infringer's monetary incentive. Each Party shall further encourage judicial authorities to impose those penalties at levels sufficient to provide a deterrent to future infringements, including the imposition of actual terms of imprisonment when criminal infringement occurs for purposes of commercial advantage or private financial gain;
- (b) that its judicial authorities shall have the authority to order the seizure of suspected counterfeit or pirated goods, any related materials and implements used in the commission of the offense, any documentary evidence relevant to the offense, and any assets traceable to the infringing activity. Each Party shall provide that such orders need not individually identify the items that are subject to seizure, so long as they fall within general categories specified in the order;

³³ For purposes of paragraph 26 and Articles 18.4.7(a), 18.4.8(a), and 18.10.27 and for greater certainty, "financial gain" includes the receipt or expectation of anything of value.

³⁴ A Party may comply with the obligation in paragraph 26 in relation to exportation of pirated goods through its measures concerning distribution.

- (c) that its judicial authorities shall have the authority to order, among other measures, the forfeiture of any assets traceable to the infringing activity;
- (d) that its judicial authorities shall, except in exceptional cases, order
 - (i) the forfeiture and destruction of all counterfeit or pirated goods, and any articles consisting of a counterfeit mark; and
 - (ii) the forfeiture and/or destruction of materials and implements that have been used in the creation of pirated or counterfeit goods.

Each Party shall further provide that forfeiture and destruction under this subparagraph and subparagraph (c) shall occur without compensation of any kind to the defendant;

- (e) that, in criminal cases, its judicial or other competent authorities shall keep an inventory of goods and other material proposed to be destroyed, and shall have the authority temporarily to exempt these materials from the destruction order to facilitate the preservation of evidence on notice by the right holder that it wishes to bring a civil or administrative case for damages; and
- (f) that its authorities may initiate legal action ex officio with respect to the offenses described in this Chapter, without the need for a formal complaint by a private party or right holder.

28. Each Party shall also provide for criminal procedures and penalties to be applied, even absent willful trademark counterfeiting or copyright piracy, at least in cases of knowing trafficking in:

- (a) counterfeit labels or illicit labels affixed to, enclosing, or accompanying, or designed to be affixed to, enclose, or accompany: a phonogram, a copy of a computer program or other literary work, a copy of a motion picture or other audiovisual work, or documentation or packaging for such items; and
- (b) counterfeit documentation or packaging for items of the type described in subparagraph (a).

29. Each Party shall also provide for criminal procedures to be applied against any person who, without authorization of the holder of copyright or related rights in a motion picture or other audiovisual work, knowingly uses or attempts to use an audiovisual recording device to transmit or make a copy of the motion picture or other audiovisual work, or any part thereof, from a performance of the motion picture or other audiovisual work in a public motion picture exhibition facility.

Liability for Service Providers and Limitations

30. For the purpose of providing enforcement procedures that permit effective action against any act of copyright infringement covered by this Chapter, including expeditious remedies to prevent infringements and criminal and civil remedies that constitute a deterrent to further infringements, each Party shall provide, consistent with the framework set out in this Article:

- (a) legal incentives for service providers to cooperate with copyright³⁵ owners in deterring the unauthorized storage and transmission of copyrighted materials; and
- (b) limitations in its law regarding the scope of remedies available against service providers for copyright infringements that they do not control, initiate, or direct, and that take place through systems or networks controlled or operated by them or on their behalf, as set forth in this subparagraph (b).³⁶
 - (i) These limitations shall preclude monetary relief and provide reasonable restrictions on court-ordered relief to compel or restrain certain actions for the following functions, and shall be confined to those functions:³⁷
 - (A) transmitting, routing, or providing connections for material without modification of its content, or the intermediate and transient storage of such material in the course thereof;
 - (B) caching carried out through an automatic process;
 - (C) storage at the direction of a user of material residing on a system or network controlled or operated by or for the service provider; and
 - (D) referring or linking users to an online location by using information location tools, including hyperlinks and directories.
 - (ii) These limitations shall apply only where the service provider does not initiate the chain of transmission of the material, and does not select the material or its recipients (except to the extent that a function described in clause (i)(D) in itself entails some form of selection).
 - (iii) Qualification by a service provider for the limitations as to each function in clauses (i)(A) through (D) shall be considered separately from qualification for the limitations as to each other function, in accordance with the conditions for qualification set forth in clauses (iv) through (vii).
 - (iv) With respect to functions referred to in clause (i)(B), the limitations shall be conditioned on the service provider:
 - (A) permitting access to cached material in significant part only to users of its system or network who have met conditions on user access to that material;

³⁵ For purposes of paragraph 30, “copyright” includes related rights.

³⁶ Subparagraph (b) is without prejudice to the availability of defenses to copyright infringement that are of general applicability.

³⁷ Either Party may request consultations with the other Party to consider how to address under subparagraph (b) functions of a similar nature that a Party identifies after the date this Agreement enters into force.

- (B) complying with rules concerning the refreshing, reloading, or other updating of the cached material when specified by the person making the material available online in accordance with a generally accepted industry standard data communications protocol for the system or network through which that person makes the material available;
 - (C) not interfering with technology consistent with industry standards accepted in the Party's territory used at the originating site to obtain information about the use of the material, and not modifying its content in transmission to subsequent users; and
 - (D) expeditiously removing or disabling access, on receipt of an effective notification of claimed infringement, to cached material that has been removed or access to which has been disabled at the originating site.
- (v) With respect to functions referred to in clauses (i)(C) and (D), the limitations shall be conditioned on the service provider:
- (A) not receiving a financial benefit directly attributable to the infringing activity, in circumstances where it has the right and ability to control such activity;
 - (B) expeditiously removing or disabling access to the material residing on its system or network on obtaining actual knowledge of the infringement or becoming aware of facts or circumstances from which the infringement was apparent, such as through effective notifications of claimed infringement in accordance with clause (ix); and
 - (C) publicly designating a representative to receive such notifications.
- (vi) Eligibility for the limitations in this subparagraph shall be conditioned on the service provider:
- (A) adopting and reasonably implementing a policy that provides for termination in appropriate circumstances of the accounts of repeat infringers; and
 - (B) accommodating and not interfering with standard technical measures accepted in the Party's territory that protect and identify copyrighted material, that are developed through an open, voluntary process by a broad consensus of copyright owners and service providers, that are available on reasonable and nondiscriminatory terms, and that do not impose substantial costs on service providers or substantial burdens on their systems or networks.
- (vii) Eligibility for the limitations in this subparagraph may not be conditioned on the service provider monitoring its service, or affirmatively seeking facts indicating infringing activity, except to the extent consistent with such technical measures.

- (viii) If the service provider qualifies for the limitations with respect to the function referred to in clause (i)(A), court-ordered relief to compel or restrain certain actions shall be limited to terminating specified accounts, or to taking reasonable steps to block access to a specific, non-domestic online location. If the service provider qualifies for the limitations with respect to any other function in clause (i), court-ordered relief to compel or restrain certain actions shall be limited to removing or disabling access to the infringing material, terminating specified accounts, and other remedies that a court may find necessary, provided that such other remedies are the least burdensome to the service provider among comparably effective forms of relief. Each Party shall provide that any such relief shall be issued with due regard for the relative burden to the service provider and harm to the copyright owner, the technical feasibility and effectiveness of the remedy and whether less burdensome, comparably effective enforcement methods are available. Except for orders ensuring the preservation of evidence, or other orders having no material adverse effect on the operation of the service provider's communications network, each Party shall provide that such relief shall be available only where the service provider has received notice of the court order proceedings referred to in this subparagraph and an opportunity to appear before the judicial authority.
- (ix) For purposes of the notice and take down process for the functions referred to in clauses (i)(C) and (D), each Party shall establish appropriate procedures in its law or in regulations for effective notifications of claimed infringement, and effective counter-notifications by those whose material is removed or disabled through mistake or misidentification. Each Party shall also provide for monetary remedies against any person who makes a knowing material misrepresentation in a notification or counter-notification that causes injury to any interested party as a result of a service provider relying on the misrepresentation.
- (x) If the service provider removes or disables access to material in good faith based on claimed or apparent infringement, each Party shall provide that the service provider shall be exempted from liability for any resulting claims, provided that, in the case of material residing on its system or network, it takes reasonable steps promptly to notify the person making the material available on its system or network that it has done so and, if such person makes an effective counter-notification and is subject to jurisdiction in an infringement suit, to restore the material online unless the person giving the original effective notification seeks judicial relief within a reasonable time.
- (xi) Each Party shall establish an administrative or judicial procedure enabling copyright owners who have given effective notification of claimed infringement to obtain expeditiously from a service provider information in its possession identifying the alleged infringer.

- (xii) For purposes of the function referred to in clause (i)(A), service provider means a provider of transmission, routing, or connections for digital online communications without modification of their content between or among points specified by the user of material of the user's choosing, and for purposes of the functions referred to in clauses (i)(B) through (D) service provider means a provider or operator of facilities for online services or network access.

ARTICLE 18.11: UNDERSTANDINGS REGARDING CERTAIN PUBLIC HEALTH MEASURES

1. The Parties affirm their commitment to the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health (WT/MIN(01)/DEC/2).
2. The Parties have reached the following understandings regarding this Chapter:
 - (a) The obligations of this Chapter do not and should not prevent a Party from taking measures to protect public health by promoting access to medicines for all, in particular concerning cases such as HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, malaria, and other epidemics as well as circumstances of extreme urgency or national emergency. Accordingly, while reiterating their commitment to this Chapter, the Parties affirm that this Chapter can and should be interpreted and implemented in a manner supportive of each Party's right to protect public health and, in particular, to promote access to medicines for all.
 - (b) In recognition of the commitment to access to medicines that are supplied in accordance with the Decision of the General Council of 30 August 2003 on the Implementation of Paragraph Six of the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health (WT/L/540) and the WTO General Council Chairman's statement accompanying the Decision (JOB(03)/177, WT/GC/M/82) (collectively, the "TRIPS/health solution"), this Chapter does not and should not prevent the effective utilization of the TRIPS/health solution.
 - (c) With respect to the aforementioned matters, if an amendment of the TRIPS Agreement enters into force with respect to the Parties and a Party's application of a measure in conformity with that amendment violates this Chapter, the Parties shall immediately consult in order to adapt this Chapter as appropriate in the light of the amendment.

ARTICLE 18.12: TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

1. Each Party shall give effect to this Chapter on the date this Agreement enters into force.
2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, Korea shall fully implement the obligations of Article 18.4.4 within two years after the date this Agreement enters into force.

June 30, 2007

The Honorable Susan C. Schwab
United States Trade Representative
Washington, D.C.

Dear Ambassador Schwab:

I have the honor to confirm the following understanding reached between the delegations of the Republic of Korea and the United States of America during the course of negotiations regarding Article 18.10.30(b)(ix) (Enforcement of Intellectual Property Rights) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

In meeting the obligations of Article 18.10.30(b)(ix), the United States shall apply the pertinent provisions of its law,¹ and any amendments thereto, and Korea shall adopt requirements for: (a) effective written notification to service providers with respect to materials that are claimed to be infringing, and (b) effective written counter-notification by those whose material is removed or disabled and who claim that it was disabled through mistake or misidentification, as set forth in this letter. Effective written notification means notification that substantially complies with the elements listed in section (a) of this letter, and effective written counter-notification means counter-notification that substantially complies with the elements listed in section (b) of this letter.

- (a) Effective Written Notification, by a Copyright² Owner or Person Authorized to Act on Behalf of an Owner of an Exclusive Right, to a Service Provider's Publicly Designated Representative³

In order for a notification to a service provider to comply with the relevant requirements set out in Article 18.10.30(b)(ix), that notification must be a written communication, which may be provided electronically, that includes substantially the following:

² For purposes of this letter, "copyright" includes related rights, and "works" includes the subject matter of related rights.

³ The Parties understand that a representative is publicly designated to receive notification on behalf of a service provider if the representative's name, physical and electronic address, and telephone number are posted on a publicly accessible portion of the service provider's website, and also in a register accessible to the public through the Internet, or designated in another form or manner appropriate for Korea.

1. The identity, address, telephone number, and electronic mail address of the complaining party (or its authorized agent);
 2. Information reasonably sufficient to enable the service provider to identify the copyrighted work(s)⁴ claimed to have been infringed;
 3. Information reasonably sufficient to permit the service provider to identify and locate the material residing on a system or network controlled or operated by it or for it that is claimed to be infringing, or to be the subject of infringing activity, and that is to be removed, or access to which is to be disabled;⁵
 4. A statement that the complaining party has a good faith belief that use of the material in the manner complained of is not authorized by the copyright owner, its agent, or the law;
 5. A statement that the information in the notification is accurate;
 6. A statement with sufficient indicia of reliability (such as a statement under penalty of perjury or equivalent legal sanctions) that the complaining party is the holder of an exclusive right that is allegedly infringed, or is authorized to act on the owner's behalf; and
 7. The signature of the person giving notification.⁶
- (b) Effective Written Counter-Notification by a Subscriber⁷ Whose Material was Removed or Disabled as a Result of Mistake or Misidentification of Material

⁵ In the case of notifications regarding an information location tool pursuant to paragraph (b)(i)(D) of Article 18.10.30, the information provided must be reasonably sufficient to permit the service provider to locate the reference or link residing on a system or network controlled or operated by or for it, except that in the case of a notification regarding a substantial number of references or links at a single online site residing on a system or network controlled or operated by or for the service provider, a representative list of such references or links at the site may be provided, if accompanied by information sufficient to permit the service provider to locate the references or links.

⁷ For purposes of this letter, "subscriber" refers to the person whose material has been removed or disabled by a service provider as a result of an effective notification described in section (a) of this letter.

In order for a counter-notification to a service provider to comply with the relevant requirements set out in Article 18.10.30(b)(ix), that counter-notification must be a written communication, which may be provided electronically, that includes substantially the following:

8. The identity, address, and telephone number of the subscriber;
9. The identity of the material that has been removed or to which access has been disabled;
10. The location at which the material appeared before it was removed or access to it was disabled;
11. A statement with sufficient indicia of reliability (such as a statement under penalty of perjury or equivalent legal sanctions) that the subscriber has a good faith belief that the material was removed or disabled as a result of mistake or misidentification of the material;
12. Dear Ambassador Schwab:

I have the honor to confirm the following understanding reached between the delegations of the Republic of Korea and the United States of America during the course of negotiations regarding Chapter Eighteen (Intellectual Property Rights) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

The Parties recognize the importance of preventing illegal copying and distribution of copyrighted works on university campuses and providing effective enforcement against book piracy. Therefore, consistent with Korea's May 2004 Master Plan for Intellectual Property Rights, Korea agrees to continue to increase its efforts to improve awareness of copyright infringement activities and book piracy on university campuses and reduce illegal reproduction and distribution of copyrighted works. In furtherance thereof, Korea agrees to take the following actions as soon as possible, but no later than six months after the date this Agreement enters into force:

- 1) continue to implement policies that work to promote the use of legitimate materials by students, lecturers, bookstores, and photocopy shops on university campuses, and develop and implement further such policies, if necessary. Within this framework, seek cooperation and information from all universities, and consider the need for follow-up action;
- 2) enhance training activities in the territory of Korea on book-piracy enforcement, thereby raising awareness among enforcement personnel of illegal book printing activities as well as commercial scale operations of illegal reproductions of copyrighted works;
- 3) enhance enforcement activities with respect to underground book piracy operations; and
- 4) develop and pursue public education campaigns to raise general awareness in the public sector of illegal book printing activities as well as commercial scale operations of illegal reproductions of copyrighted works.

I have the honor to propose that this letter and your letter in reply confirming that your Government shares this understanding shall constitute an integral part of the Free Trade Agreement.

Dear Ambassador Schwab:

I have the honor to confirm the following understanding reached between the delegations of the Republic of Korea and the United States of America during the course of negotiations regarding Chapter Eighteen (Intellectual Property Rights) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

The Parties agree on the objective of shutting down Internet sites that permit the unauthorized reproduction, distribution, or transmission of copyright works, of regularly assessing and actively seeking to reduce the impact of new technological means for committing online copyright piracy, and of providing generally for more effective enforcement of intellectual property rights on the Internet. Korea agrees that internet piracy of works and other subject matter protected by copyright¹ (including unauthorized reproduction and distribution of such works and other subject matter on the Internet) is a matter of priority for law enforcement of intellectual property rights. Korea also agrees on the objective of shutting down Internet sites that permit the unauthorized downloading (and other forms of piracy) of copyright works, including so-called webhard services, and providing for more effective enforcement of intellectual property rights on the Internet, including in particular with regard to peer-to-peer (P2P) services. To this end, Korea will strengthen enforcement of intellectual property rights in Korea, and work to prevent, investigate, and prosecute Internet piracy. As part of this effort, Korea will work with the private sector and with the United States and other foreign authorities.

In furtherance thereof, Korea agrees to issue as soon as possible, but no later than six months after the date the Agreement enters into force, a policy directive establishing clear jurisdiction for a division or joint investigation team to engage in effective enforcement against online piracy. This team will investigate and initiate criminal actions to address online piracy, including with respect to U.S. and other foreign works, whether ex officio or at the request of a right holder. The team will take these actions in a manner that is transparent to right holders. In addition to prosecuting direct infringers, Korea agrees to prosecute individuals and companies that profit from developing and maintaining services that effectively induce infringement.

¹ For purposes of this letter, "copyright" also includes related rights.

I have the honor to propose that this letter and your letter in reply confirming that your Government shares this understanding shall constitute an integral part of the Free Trade Agreement.

양 당사국은 저작물의 무단 복제·배포 또는 전송을 허용하는 인터넷 사이트를 폐쇄하는 목적, 온라인 저작권 무단복제를 행하는 새로운 기술적 수단¹⁾의 영향에 대하여 주기적으로 평가하고 이를 줄이기 위하여 적극적으로 노력하는 목적, 그리고 인터넷상의 지적재산권 보호에 대하여 보다 효과적인 집행을 일반적으로 규정하는 목적에 동의한다. 대한민국은 저작권¹⁾으로 보호되는 저작물 및 그 밖의 대상물의 인터넷 불법복제(인터넷상에서 그러한 저작물 및 그 밖의 대상물의 무단 복제 및 배포를 포함한다)가 지적재산권에 대한 법 집행상 우선순위를 가진 사안임에 동의한다. 대한민국은 또한 소위 웹하드 서비스를 포함하여 저작물의 무단 다운로드(및 그 밖의 형태의 무단 복제)를 허용하는 인터넷 사이트를 폐쇄하는 목적, 특히 개인간 파일공유서비스에 대한 것을 포함하여 인터넷상의 지적재산권에 대한 보다 효과적인 집행을 제공하는 목적에 동의한다. 이러한 목적으로, 대한민국은 대한민국에서 지적재산권의 집행을 강화하고 대한민국은 인터넷 불법복제를 방지·조사 및 기소하기 위하여 노력할 것이다. 이러한 노력의 일환으로, 대한민국은 민간부문, 그리고 미합중국 및 그 밖의 외국 당국과 협력할 것이다.

1) 이 서한의 목적상 "저작권"은 저작권집권을 또한 포함한다.

이에 더 나아가 대한민국은 가능한 한 조속히, 그러나 이 협정 발효일로부터 6월 이전에, 부서 또는 합동조사팀이 온라인 불법복제에 대한 효과적인 집행에 종사하도록 명확한 관할권을 설정하는 정책 지침을 발표하는데 동의한다. 이 팀은 직권으로 또는 권리자의 요청이 있는 경우, 미국 및 그 밖의 외국의 저작물에 대한 것을 포함한 온라인 불법복제를 조사하고 이에 대처하기 위한 형사조치를 개시한다. 그 팀은 권리자에게 투명한 방식으로 이러한 조치를 취할 것이다. 직접적인 침해자를 기소함에 더하여, 대한민국은 효과적으로 침해를 유도하는 서비스를 개발 및 유지함으로써 이익을 얻는 개인 및 회사를 기소하는 데에 동의한다.

본인은 이 서한과 귀 정부가 이 양해를 공유한다는 것을 확인하는 귀하의 회답 서한이 자유무역협정의 불가분의 일부를 구성함을 제안하는 영광을 가지는 바입니다.

CHAPTER NINETEEN
LABOR

ARTICLE 19.1: STATEMENT OF SHARED COMMITMENT

The Parties reaffirm their obligations as members of the International Labor Organization (ILO).

ARTICLE 19.2: FUNDAMENTAL LABOR RIGHTS

1. Each Party shall adopt and maintain in its statutes and regulations, and practices thereunder, the following rights, as stated in the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-Up (1998) (ILO Declaration):^{1 2}

- (a) freedom of association;
- (b) the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining;
- (c) the elimination of all forms of compulsory or forced labor;
- (d) the effective abolition of child labor and, for purposes of this Agreement, a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor; and
- (e) the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation.

2. Neither Party shall waive or otherwise derogate from, or offer to waive or otherwise derogate from, its statutes or regulations implementing paragraph 1 in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties, where the waiver or derogation would be inconsistent with a fundamental right set out in that paragraph.

ARTICLE 19.3: APPLICATION AND ENFORCEMENT OF LABOR LAWS

- 1. (a) Neither Party shall fail to effectively enforce its labor laws, including those it adopts or maintains in accordance with Article 19.2.1, through a sustained or recurring course of action or inaction, in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties, after the date this Agreement enters into force.
- (b) A decision a Party makes on the distribution of enforcement resources shall not be a reason for not complying with the provisions of this Chapter. Each Party retains the right to the reasonable exercise of discretion and to bona fide decisions with regard to the allocation of resources between labor enforcement activities among the fundamental labor rights enumerated in Article 19.2.1, provided the exercise of such discretion and such decisions are not inconsistent with the obligations of this Chapter.³

¹ The obligations set out in Article 19.2, as they relate to the ILO, refer only to the ILO Declaration.

² To establish a violation of an obligation under Article 19.2.1 a Party must demonstrate that the other Party has failed to adopt or maintain a statute, regulation, or practice in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties.

³ For greater certainty, a Party retains the right to exercise reasonable enforcement discretion and to make bona fide decisions regarding the allocation of enforcement resources with respect to labor laws other than those relating to fundamental rights enumerated in Article 19.2.1.

2. For greater certainty, nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to empower a Party's authorities to undertake labor law enforcement activities in the territory of the other Party.

ARTICLE 19.4: PROCEDURAL GUARANTEES AND PUBLIC AWARENESS

1. Each Party shall ensure that persons with a recognized interest under its law in a particular matter have appropriate access to tribunals for the enforcement of the Party's labor laws. Such tribunals may include administrative, quasi-judicial, judicial, or labor tribunals.

2. Each Party shall ensure that proceedings before such tribunals for the enforcement of its labor laws are fair, equitable, and transparent and, to this end, each Party shall ensure, in accordance with its law, that:

- (a) such proceedings comply with due process of law;
- (b) any hearings in such proceedings are open to the public, except where the administration of justice otherwise requires;
- (c) the parties to such proceedings are entitled to support or defend their respective positions, including by presenting information or evidence;
- (d) such proceedings do not entail unreasonable fees or time limits or unwarranted delays;
- (e) final decisions on the merits of the case in such proceedings are: (i) in writing and state the reasons on which the decisions are based; (ii) made available without undue delay to the parties to the proceedings and, consistent with its law, to the public; and (iii) based on information or evidence in respect of which the parties were offered the opportunity to be heard;
- (f) as appropriate, parties to such proceedings have the right to seek review and, where warranted, correction of decisions issued in such proceedings; and
- (g) tribunals that conduct or review such proceedings are impartial and independent and do not have any substantial interest in the outcome of the matter.

3. Each Party shall provide that parties to such proceedings may seek remedies to ensure the enforcement of their rights under its labor laws.

4. Each Party shall promote public awareness of its labor laws, including by:

- (a) ensuring that information related to its labor laws and enforcement and compliance procedures is publicly available; and
- (b) encouraging education of the public regarding its labor laws.

ARTICLE 19.5: INSTITUTIONAL ARRANGEMENTS

1. The Parties hereby establish a Labor Affairs Council. The Council shall comprise appropriate senior officials from the labor ministry and other appropriate agencies or ministries of each Party.

2. The Council shall meet within the first year after the date this Agreement enters into force, and thereafter as necessary, to oversee the implementation of this Chapter, including activities of the Labor Cooperation Mechanism established under Article 19.6. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, each meeting of the Council shall include a session in which members of the Council have an opportunity to meet with the public to discuss matters related to the implementation of this Chapter.

3. Each Party shall designate an office within its labor ministry that shall serve as a contact point with the other Party and with the public for purposes of implementing this Chapter. Each Party's contact point shall provide for the submission, receipt, and consideration of communications from persons of a Party on matters related to this Chapter and shall make such communications available to the other Party and the public. Each Party shall review such communications, as appropriate, in accordance with domestic procedures.

4. Each Party may convene a national labor advisory committee comprising members of its public, including representatives of its labor and business organizations and other persons, to advise it on the implementation of this Chapter.

5. Formal decisions of the Council shall be made public, unless the Council decides otherwise.

6. The Council may prepare reports on matters related to the implementation of this Chapter and shall make such reports public.

ARTICLE 19.6: LABOR COOPERATION

Recognizing that cooperation provides enhanced opportunities to promote respect for core labor standards embodied in the ILO Declaration and compliance with ILO Convention No. 182 Concerning the Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labour (1999) (ILO Convention 182), and to further advance other common commitments regarding labor matters, the Parties hereby establish a Labor Cooperation Mechanism, as set out in Annex 19-A.

ARTICLE 19.7: LABOR CONSULTATIONS

1. A Party may request consultations with the other Party regarding any matter arising under this Chapter by delivering a written request to the contact point the other Party has designated under Article 19.5.3. The request shall contain information that is specific and sufficient to enable the Party receiving the request to respond. Consultations shall commence promptly after a Party delivers a request for consultations to the other Party's contact point.

2. The Parties shall make every attempt to arrive at a mutually satisfactory resolution of the matter and may seek advice or assistance from any person or body they consider appropriate.

3. If the consultations fail to resolve the matter, either Party may request that the Council be convened to consider the matter by delivering a written request to the contact point of the other Party. The Council shall convene promptly and endeavor to resolve the matter expeditiously, including, where appropriate, by consulting governmental or other experts and having recourse to such procedures as good offices, conciliation, or mediation.

4. If the Parties have failed to resolve the matter within 60 days of the delivery of a request for consultations under paragraph 1, the complaining Party may request consultations under Article 22.7 (Consultations) or refer the matter to the Joint Committee pursuant to Article 22.8 (Referral to the Joint Committee) and, as provided in Chapter Twenty-Two (Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement), thereafter have recourse to the other provisions of that Chapter.

5. Neither Party may have recourse to dispute settlement under this Agreement for a matter arising under this Chapter without first seeking to resolve the matter in accordance with this Article.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
THE UNITED STATES TRADE REPRESENTATIVE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20508

June 30, 2007

The Honorable Hyun Chong Kim
Minister for Trade
Seoul, Republic of Korea

Dear Minister Kim:

I have the honor to confirm the following understanding reached between the delegations of the United States of America and the Republic of Korea during the course of negotiations regarding Article 19.5.3 (Institutional Arrangements) of Chapter Nineteen (Labor) of the Free Trade Agreement between our two Governments signed this day:

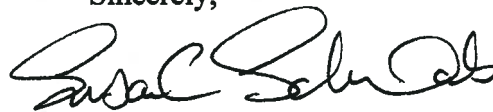

For greater certainty:

Each Party may establish appropriate procedures, consistent with Article 19.5.3, for reviewing communications from persons of a Party on matters related to Chapter Nineteen. Article 19.5.3 does not require a Party to establish new procedures that duplicate existing channels for reviewing such communications. A Party may limit the scope of any new procedures it establishes to comply with Article 19.5.3 to communications on labor matters in the other Party's territory, provided that the Party has other procedures in place for reviewing communications on other matters related to Chapter Nineteen.

The Parties recognize that it is in their mutual interest not to pursue frivolous or meritless communications and for each Party to take into account when reviewing any communication whether: (1) the person submitting the communication or any other person has sought relief regarding the matter under pertinent domestic laws of the other Party; (2) the matter is pending before an international body; and (3) the communication is substantially similar to another recent communication regarding the matter.

I have the honor to propose that this letter and your letter in reply confirming that your Government shares this understanding shall constitute an integral part of the Free Trade Agreement.

Sincerely,

CHAPTER TWENTY ENVIRONMENT

ARTICLE 20.1: LEVELS OF PROTECTION

Recognizing the right of each Party to establish its own levels of environmental protection and its own environmental development priorities, and to adopt or modify accordingly its environmental laws and policies, each Party shall strive to ensure that those laws and policies provide for and encourage high levels of environmental protection and shall strive to continue to improve its respective levels of environmental protection, including through such environmental laws and policies.

ARTICLE 20.2: ENVIRONMENTAL AGREEMENTS

A Party shall adopt, maintain, and implement laws, regulations, and all other measures to fulfill its obligations under the multilateral environmental agreements listed in Annex 20-A (“covered agreements”).^{1 2}

ARTICLE 20.3: APPLICATION AND ENFORCEMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL LAWS

1. (a) Neither Party shall fail to effectively enforce its environmental laws, and its laws, regulations, and other measures to fulfill its obligations under the covered agreements, through a sustained or recurring course of action or inaction, in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties, after the date this Agreement enters into force.
 - (b) (i) The Parties recognize that each Party retains the right to exercise prosecutorial discretion and to make decisions regarding the allocation of environmental enforcement resources with respect to other environmental laws determined to have higher priorities. Accordingly, the Parties understand that with respect to the enforcement of environmental laws and all laws, regulations, and other measures to fulfill a Party’s obligations under the covered agreements, a Party is in compliance with subparagraph (a) where a course of action or inaction reflects a reasonable, articulable, bona fide exercise of such discretion, or results from a reasonable, articulable, bona fide decision regarding the allocation of such resources.
 - (ii) The Parties recognize the importance of the covered agreements. Accordingly, where a course of action or inaction relates to laws, regulations, and other measures to fulfill its obligations under covered agreements, that shall be relevant to a determination under clause (i) regarding whether an allocation of resources is reasonable and bona fide.

¹ To establish a violation of Article 20.2 a Party must demonstrate that the other Party has failed to adopt, maintain, or implement laws, regulations, or other measures to fulfill an obligation under a covered agreement in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties.

² For purposes of Article 20.2: (1) “covered agreements” shall encompass those existing or future protocols, amendments, annexes, and adjustments under the relevant agreement to which both Parties are party; and (2) a Party’s “obligations” shall be interpreted to reflect, inter alia, existing and future reservations, exemptions, and exceptions applicable to it under the relevant agreement.

2. The Parties recognize that it is inappropriate to encourage trade or investment by weakening or reducing the protections afforded in its environmental laws. Accordingly, neither Party shall waive or otherwise derogate from, or offer to waive or otherwise derogate from, such laws in a manner that weakens or reduces the protections afforded in those laws in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties.

3. Paragraph 2 shall not apply where a Party waives or derogates from an environmental law pursuant to a provision in its environmental law providing for waivers or derogations, provided that the waiver or derogation is not inconsistent with the Party's obligations under a covered agreement.

4. For greater certainty, nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to empower a Party's authorities to undertake environmental law enforcement activities in the territory of the other Party.

ARTICLE 20.4: PROCEDURAL MATTERS

1. Each Party shall ensure that interested persons may request the Party's competent authorities to investigate alleged violations of its environmental laws and shall give such requests due consideration, in accordance with its law.

2. Each Party shall ensure that judicial, quasi-judicial, or administrative proceedings are available under its law to provide sanctions or remedies for violations of its environmental laws and that persons with a recognized interest under its law in a particular matter have appropriate access to such proceedings.

(a) Each Party shall ensure in accordance with its law that such proceedings:

- (i) are fair, equitable, and transparent and, to this end, comply with due process of law; and
- (ii) are open to the public, except where the administration of justice otherwise requires.

(b) Each Party shall ensure that tribunals that conduct or review such proceedings are impartial and independent and do not have any substantial interest in the outcome of the matter.

3. Each Party shall provide persons with a recognized interest under its law in a particular matter effective access to sanctions or remedies for violations of its environmental laws, or for violations of a legal duty under its law relating to human health or the environment, which may include rights such as to:

- (a) sue another person subject to its jurisdiction for damages;
- (b) seek injunctive relief where a person suffers, or may suffer, loss, damage, or injury as a result of conduct by another person subject to its jurisdiction;
- (c) seek sanctions or remedies such as monetary penalties, emergency closures, temporary suspension of activities, or orders to mitigate the consequences of such violations; or
- (d) request, or where applicable request a tribunal to order, that Party's competent authorities to take appropriate action to enforce its environmental laws in order to protect the environment or to avoid environmental harm.

4. Each Party shall provide appropriate and effective sanctions or remedies for violations of its environmental laws that:

- (a) take into consideration, as appropriate, the nature and gravity of the violation, any economic benefit the violator has derived from the violation, the economic condition of the violator, and other relevant factors; and
- (b) may include administrative, civil, and criminal sanctions and remedies, such as compliance agreements, penalties, fines, imprisonment, injunctions, closure of facilities, and requirements to take remedial action or pay for damage to the environment including the cost of containing or cleaning up pollution.

ARTICLE 20.5: MECHANISMS TO ENHANCE ENVIRONMENTAL PERFORMANCE

1. The Parties recognize that flexible, voluntary, and incentive-based mechanisms can contribute to the achievement and maintenance of high levels of environmental protection, complementing the procedures set out in Article 20.4. As appropriate and in accordance with its law, each Party shall encourage the development and use of such mechanisms, which may include:

- (a) mechanisms that facilitate voluntary action to protect or enhance the environment, such as:
 - (i) partnerships involving businesses, local communities, non-governmental organizations, government agencies, or scientific organizations;
 - (ii) voluntary guidelines for environmental performance; or
 - (iii) voluntary sharing of information and expertise among authorities, interested parties, and the public concerning methods for achieving high levels of environmental protection, voluntary environmental auditing and reporting, ways to use resources more efficiently or reduce environmental impacts, environmental monitoring, and collection of baseline data; or
- (b) incentives, including market-based incentives where appropriate, to encourage conservation, restoration, and protection of natural resources and the environment, such as public recognition of facilities or enterprises that are superior environmental performers, or programs for trading permits or other instruments to help achieve environmental goals.

2. As appropriate and feasible and in accordance with its law, each Party shall encourage:

- (a) the maintenance, development, or improvement of performance goals and standards used in measuring environmental performance; and
- (b) flexible means to achieve those goals and meet those standards, including through mechanisms identified in paragraph 1.

ARTICLE 20.6: INSTITUTIONAL ARRANGEMENTS

1. The Parties hereby establish an Environmental Affairs Council. The Council shall comprise appropriate senior officials from each Party, including officials with environmental responsibilities.
2. The Council shall meet within one year after the date this Agreement enters into force, and thereafter as necessary, to oversee the implementation of this Chapter. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, each meeting of the Council shall include a session in which members of the Council have an opportunity to meet with the public to discuss matters related to the implementation of this Chapter, including views received from the national advisory committees referred to in Article 20.7.3. The Council shall make public a written summary of discussions held during the public session.
3. The Council shall promote public participation in its work, including by seeking advice from the public in developing agendas for Council meetings and by engaging in a dialogue with the public on environmental issues of interest to the public.
4. The Council shall seek appropriate opportunities for the public to participate in the development and implementation of cooperative environmental activities, including through the environmental cooperation mechanism established by the Parties.
5. Formal decisions of the Council shall be made public, unless the Council decides otherwise.

ARTICLE 20.7: OPPORTUNITIES FOR PUBLIC PARTICIPATION

1. Each Party shall promote public awareness of its environmental laws by ensuring that information is available to the public regarding its environmental laws and environmental law enforcement and compliance procedures, including procedures for its interested persons to request the Party's competent authorities to investigate alleged violations of its environmental laws.
2. Recognizing that opportunities for public participation can facilitate the sharing of best practices and the development of innovative approaches to issues of interest to the public, each Party shall:
 - (a) seek to accommodate requests from persons of either Party for information or to exchange views regarding either Party's implementation of this Chapter; and
 - (b) provide for the receipt of written submissions from persons of either Party that concern matters related to the implementation of specific provisions of this Chapter. Each Party shall respond to these submissions in accordance with domestic procedures and make the submissions and its responses easily accessible to the public in a timely manner.
3. Each Party shall convene a new, or consult an existing, national advisory committee, comprising persons of the Party with relevant experience, which may include experience in business or environmental matters, to solicit its views on matters related to the implementation of this Chapter. Each time it meets, the Council shall consider views that each Party has received from its national advisory committee on matters related to the implementation of this Chapter.
4. The Parties recognize the importance of public participation in the implementation of this Chapter and that effectively implementing this Article will assist the Parties in implementing the other provisions of this Chapter. Accordingly, the Council shall review the implementation of this Article and prepare and submit to the Joint Committee a written report on the results of that review no later than 180 days after the first anniversary date of entry into force of this Agreement, and thereafter on the request of either Party. The Council shall make each such report public at the time the Council submits the report to the Joint Committee.

ARTICLE 20.8: ENVIRONMENTAL COOPERATION

1. The Parties recognize the importance of strengthening their capacity to protect the environment and of promoting sustainable development in concert with strengthening their trade and investment relations.
2. The Parties are committed to expanding their cooperative relationship in bilateral, regional, and multilateral fora on environmental matters, recognizing that such cooperation will help them achieve their shared environmental goals and objectives, including the development and improvement of environmental protection, practices, and technologies.
3. The Parties are committed to undertaking cooperative environmental activities pursuant to the Agreement between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the Republic of Korea on Environmental Cooperation (ECA), including activities related to implementation of this Chapter. Activities that the Parties undertake pursuant to the ECA will be coordinated and reviewed by the implementation body established under the ECA. The Parties also acknowledge the importance of cooperative environmental activities in other fora.
4. Each Party shall consider public comments and recommendations it receives regarding cooperative environmental activities undertaken pursuant to this Chapter and the ECA.
5. Each Party shall, as appropriate, share information with the other Party and the public regarding its experiences in assessing and addressing the positive and negative environmental effects of trade agreements and policies.

ARTICLE 20.9: ENVIRONMENTAL CONSULTATIONS AND PANEL PROCEDURE

1. A Party may request consultations with the other Party regarding any matter arising under this Chapter by delivering a written request to the contact point that the other Party has designated for purposes of this Article. The request shall contain information that is specific and sufficient to enable the Party receiving the request to respond. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, consultations shall commence promptly after a Party delivers a request for consultations to the other Party's contact point.
2. The Parties shall make every attempt to arrive at a mutually satisfactory resolution of the matter and may seek advice or assistance from any person or body they deem appropriate. If the matter arises under Article 20.2 or under both that Article and another provision of this Chapter, and involves an issue related to a Party's obligations under a covered agreement, the Parties shall endeavor to address the matter through a mutually agreeable consultative or other procedure, if any, under the relevant agreement, unless the procedure could result in unreasonable delay.³

³ The Parties understand that for purposes of paragraph 2, where a covered agreement requires a decision to be taken by consensus, such a requirement could create an unreasonable delay.

3. If the consultations fail to resolve the matter, either Party may request that the Council be convened to consider the matter by delivering a written request to the other Party's contact point referred to in paragraph 1. The Council shall convene promptly and endeavor to resolve the matter expeditiously, including, where appropriate, by consulting governmental or other experts and having recourse to such procedures as good offices, conciliation, or mediation. When the matter arises under Article 20.2 or under both that Article and another provision of this Chapter and involves an issue relating to a Party's obligations under a covered agreement, the Council shall:

- (a) through a mechanism that the Council establishes, consult fully with any entity authorized to address the issue under the relevant agreement; and
- (b) defer to interpretative guidance on the issue under the agreement to the extent appropriate in light of its nature and status, including whether the Party's relevant laws, regulations, and other measures are in accordance with its obligations under the agreement.

4. If the Parties have failed to resolve the matter within 60 days of the delivery of a request for consultations under paragraph 1, the complaining Party may request consultations under Article 22.7 (Consultations) or refer the matter to the Joint Committee pursuant to Article 22.8 (Referral to the Joint Committee) and, as provided in Chapter Twenty-Two (Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement), thereafter have recourse to the other provisions of that Chapter.

5. Neither Party may have recourse to dispute settlement under this Agreement for a matter arising under this Chapter without first seeking to resolve the matter in accordance with paragraphs 1 through 3.

6. In a dispute arising under Article 20.2, or under both that Article and another provision of this Chapter, that involves an issue relating to a Party's obligations under a covered agreement, a panel convened under Chapter Twenty-Two (Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement) shall in making its findings and determination under Article 22.11 (Panel Report):⁴

ARTICLE 20.10: RELATION TO MULTILATERAL ENVIRONMENTAL AGREEMENTS

⁴ For greater certainty, the consultations and guidance in this paragraph are without prejudice to a panel's ability to seek information and technical guidance from any person or body consistent with Article 22.10.4 (Rules of Procedure).

⁵ The guidance in subparagraph (c) shall prevail over any other interpretative guidance.

1. The Parties recognize that certain multilateral environmental agreements play an important role globally and domestically in protecting the environment. The Parties further recognize that this Chapter and the ECA can contribute to realizing the goals of such agreements. Accordingly, the Parties shall continue to seek means to enhance the mutual supportiveness of multilateral environmental agreements to which they are both party and trade agreements to which they are both party.

2. To this end, the Parties shall consult, as appropriate, with respect to negotiations on environmental issues of mutual interest.

3. In the event of any inconsistency between a Party's obligations under this Agreement and a covered agreement, the Party shall seek to balance its obligations under both agreements, but this shall not preclude the Party from taking a particular measure to comply with its obligations under the covered agreement, provided that the primary purpose of the measure is not to impose a disguised restriction on trade.⁶

³ Article 13.18 (Dispute Settlement) contains additional provisions relating to the establishment of a panel for matters arising under Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services).

⁴ If a panelist selected by lot under subparagraph (b) or (e) is unable to serve on the panel, the Parties shall meet within seven days of learning that the panelist is unavailable to select another panelist by lot from among the remaining members of the contingent list who are nationals of the relevant Party (in the case of subparagraph (b)) or not nationals of either Party (in the case of subparagraph (e)). If a panelist becomes unable to serve during the course of the proceeding or when the panel is reconvened pursuant to Article 22.13 or 22.14, then within seven days of learning that the panelist is unavailable, the relevant Party shall select a replacement panelist from the contingent list or, in the case of the chair, the Parties shall meet to select a replacement chair by lot from among the members of the contingent list who are not nationals of either Party.

- (f) A panelist shall be considered appointed to a panel when that person is proposed pursuant to subparagraph (b) and no peremptory challenge is exercised pursuant to subparagraph (c), or when that person is selected from the contingent list pursuant to this paragraph.

3. Within 180 days of the date this Agreement enters into force, the Parties shall establish a contingent list of individuals who are willing and able to serve as panelists. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, the contingent list shall include at least six nationals of each Party and at least eight individuals who are not nationals of either Party. An individual on the contingent list shall be appointed by agreement of the Parties for a minimum term of three years, and shall remain on the list until the individual is replaced or is unable to serve. The Parties shall review the contingent list every three years and may replace individuals on the list as appropriate. The Parties may also appoint a replacement where a member of the contingent list is no longer available to serve.

4. Individuals appointed to a panel pursuant to paragraph 2 or to the contingent list pursuant to paragraph 3 shall:

- (a) be chosen strictly on the basis of objectivity, reliability, and sound judgment;
- (b) have expertise or experience in law, international trade, or the resolution of disputes arising under international trade agreements;
- (c) be independent of, and not be affiliated with or take instructions from, either Party; and
- (d) comply with a code of conduct to be established by the Joint Committee.

In addition, in any dispute arising under Chapter Nineteen (Labor) or Twenty (Environment), panelists other than those chosen by lot from the contingent list shall have expertise or experience relevant to the subject matter under dispute. Paragraph 2(c) shall not apply to disputes arising under Chapter Nineteen or Twenty.

ARTICLE 22.10: RULES OF PROCEDURE

1. By the date this Agreement enters into force, the Parties shall establish model rules of procedure, which shall ensure:

- (a) a right to at least one hearing before the panel;
- (b) that, subject to subparagraph (f), any hearing before the panel shall be open to the public;
- (c) an opportunity for each Party to provide initial and rebuttal submissions;
- (d) that each Party's written submissions, written versions of its oral statements, and written responses to a request or questions from the panel shall be made available to the public within seven days after they are submitted, subject to subparagraph (f);
- (e) that the panel shall consider requests from non-governmental entities located in the Parties' territories to provide written views regarding the dispute that may assist the panel in evaluating the submissions and arguments of the Parties; and

- (f) the protection of confidential information.
- 2. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, the panel shall follow the model rules of procedure and may, after consulting with the Parties, adopt additional rules of procedure not inconsistent with the model rules.
- 3. Unless the Parties otherwise agree within 20 days from the date of the delivery of the request for the establishment of the panel, the panel's terms of reference shall be:

“To examine, in the light of the relevant provisions of this Agreement, the matter referenced in the request for the establishment of the panel, to make findings, determinations, and recommendations as provided in paragraphs 1 and 2 of Article 22.11, and to present the written reports referred to in paragraphs 1 and 4 of Article 22.11.”
- 4. On request of a Party, or on its own initiative, the panel may seek information and technical advice from any person or body that it deems appropriate, provided that the Parties so agree and subject to such terms and conditions as the Parties may agree.

ARTICLE 22.11: PANEL REPORT

- 1. Unless the Parties otherwise agree, the panel shall, within 180 days after the chair is appointed, present to the Parties an initial report containing findings of fact and its determination as to:
 - (a) (i) whether the measure at issue is inconsistent with the obligations of this Agreement;
 - (ii) whether a Party has otherwise failed to carry out its obligations under this Agreement; or
 - (iii) whether the measure at issue is causing nullification or impairment in the sense of Article 22.4(c); and
- (b) any other matter that the Parties have jointly requested that the Panel address, as well as the reasons for its findings and determinations.
- 2. The panel shall base its report on the relevant provisions of this Agreement and the submissions and arguments of the Parties. The panel shall consider this Agreement in accordance with customary rules of interpretation of public international law, which are reflected in Articles 31 through 33 of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties (1969). The panel may, at the request of the Parties, make recommendations for the resolution of the dispute.
- 3. Each Party may submit written comments to the panel on its initial report within 14 days of the presentation of the report. After considering any written comments by the Parties on the initial report, the panel may modify its report and make any further examination it considers appropriate.
- 4. The panel shall present a final report to the Parties within 45 days of presentation of the initial report, unless the Parties otherwise agree. The Parties shall make the final report available to the public within 15 days thereafter, subject to the protection of confidential information.

ARTICLE 22.12: IMPLEMENTATION OF THE FINAL REPORT

1. On receipt of the final report of a panel, the Parties shall agree on the resolution of the dispute, which normally shall conform with the determinations and recommendations, if any, of the panel.
2. If, in its final report, the panel determines that a Party has not conformed with its obligations under this Agreement or that a Party's measure is causing nullification or impairment in the sense of Article 22.4(c), the resolution, whenever possible, shall be to eliminate the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment.

ARTICLE 22.13: NON-IMPLEMENTATION

1. If a panel has made a determination of the type described in Article 22.12.2, and the Parties are unable to reach agreement on a resolution pursuant to Article 22.12.1 within 45 days of receiving the final report, or such other period as the Parties agree, the Party complained against shall enter into negotiations with the complaining Party with a view to developing mutually acceptable compensation.
2. If the Parties:
 - (a) are unable to agree on compensation within 30 days after the period for developing such compensation has begun; or
 - (b) have agreed on compensation or on a resolution pursuant to Article 22.12.1 and the complaining Party considers that the Party complained against has failed to observe the terms of the agreement, the complaining Party may at any time thereafter provide written notice to the Party complained against that it intends to suspend the application to the Party complained against of benefits of equivalent effect. The notice shall specify the level of benefits that the complaining Party proposes to suspend. Subject to paragraph 5, the complaining Party may begin suspending benefits 30 days after the later of the date on which it provides notice to the other Party under this paragraph or the panel issues its determination under paragraph 3, as the case may be.

3. If the Party complained against considers that:
 - (a) the level of benefits that the complaining Party has proposed to be suspended is manifestly excessive; or
 - (b) it has eliminated the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment that the panel has found, it may, within 30 days after the complaining Party provides notice under paragraph 2, request that the panel be reconvened to consider the matter. The Party complained against shall deliver its request in writing to the complaining Party. The panel shall reconvene as soon as possible after delivery of the request and shall present its determination to the Parties within 90 days after it reconvenes to review a request under either subparagraph (a) or (b), or within 120 days for a request under both subparagraphs (a) and (b). If the panel determines that the level of benefits proposed to be suspended is manifestly excessive, it shall determine the level of benefits it considers to be of equivalent effect.

4. The complaining Party may suspend benefits up to the level the panel has determined under paragraph 3 or, if the panel has not determined the level, the level the Party has proposed to suspend under paragraph 2, unless the panel has determined that the Party complained against has eliminated the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment.

5. The complaining Party may not suspend benefits if, within 30 days after it provides written notice of intent to suspend benefits or, if the panel is reconvened under paragraph 3, within 20 days after the panel provides its determination, the Party complained against provides written notice to the other Party that it will pay an annual monetary assessment. The Parties shall consult, beginning no later than ten days after the Party complained against provides notice, with a view to reaching agreement on the amount of the assessment. If the Parties are unable to reach an agreement within 30 days after consultations begin, the amount of the assessment shall be set at a level, in U.S. dollars, equal to 50 percent of the level of the benefits the panel has determined under paragraph 3 to be of equivalent effect or, if the panel has not determined the level, 50 percent of the level that the complaining Party has proposed to suspend under paragraph 2.

6. Unless the Joint Committee decides otherwise, a monetary assessment shall be paid to the complaining Party in U.S. currency, or in an equivalent amount of Korean currency, in equal, quarterly installments beginning 60 days after the Party complained against gives notice that it intends to pay an assessment. Where the circumstances warrant, the Joint Committee may decide that an assessment shall be paid into a fund established by the Joint Committee and expended at the direction of the Joint Committee for appropriate initiatives to facilitate trade between the Parties, including by further reducing unreasonable trade barriers or by assisting a Party in carrying out its obligations under this Agreement.

7. If the Party complained against fails to pay a monetary assessment, the complaining Party may suspend the application to the Party complained against of benefits in accordance with paragraph 4.

ARTICLE 22.14: COMPLIANCE REVIEW

1. Without prejudice to the procedures set out in Article 22.13.3, if the Party complained against considers that it has eliminated the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment that the panel has found, it may refer the matter to the panel by providing written notice to the complaining Party. The panel shall reconvene as soon as possible after delivery of the request and shall issue its report on the matter within 90 days after the Party complained against provides notice.

2. If the panel decides that the Party complained against has eliminated the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment, the complaining Party shall promptly reinstate any benefits it has suspended under Article 22.13, and the Party complained against shall no longer be required to pay any monetary assessment it has agreed to pay under Article 22.13.5.

ARTICLE 22.15: FIVE-YEAR REVIEW

The Joint Committee shall review the operation and effectiveness of Article 22.13 not later than five years after the date this Agreement enters into force, or within six months after benefits have been suspended or monetary assessments have been paid in five proceedings initiated under this Chapter, whichever occurs first.

Section C: Domestic Proceedings and Private Commercial Dispute Settlement

ARTICLE 22.16: PRIVATE RIGHTS

Neither Party may provide for a right of action under its law against the other Party on the ground that a measure of the other Party is inconsistent with this Agreement.

ARTICLE 22.17: ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION

1. Each Party shall, to the maximum extent possible, encourage and facilitate the use of arbitration and other means of alternative dispute resolution for the settlement of international commercial disputes between private parties in the free trade area established under Article 1.1 (Establishment of a Free Trade Area).
2. To this end, each Party shall provide appropriate procedures to ensure observance of agreements to arbitrate and for the recognition and enforcement of arbitral awards in such disputes.
3. A Party shall be deemed to be in compliance with paragraph 2 if it is a party to and is in compliance with the United Nations Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards, done at New York, June 10, 1958.

ANNEX 22-A
ALTERNATIVE PROCEDURES FOR DISPUTES CONCERNING MOTOR VEHICLES

With respect to any matter described in Article 22.4 that relates to motor vehicles, a Party may initiate the dispute settlement procedures set out in this Annex in lieu of the procedures provided for in Articles 22.7 through 22.13.

Unless the Parties otherwise agree:

1. The complaining Party may refer the matter to the Joint Committee by delivering written notification to the Party complained against. The Joint Committee shall promptly meet and endeavor to resolve the matter.
2. If the Joint Committee has not resolved the matter within 30 days after delivery of the notification described in paragraph 1, the complaining Party may notify the Party complained against in writing that it is referring the matter to a dispute settlement panel.
3. Within seven days after the complaining Party delivers written notice under paragraph 2, the Parties shall meet and select by lot from the contingent list established in Article 22.9.3 one national of each Party to serve as panelists and one person who is not a national of either Party to serve as chair of the panel. If an individual selected by lot is unable to serve on the panel, the Parties shall promptly meet to select a replacement by lot. The panel shall be deemed to be established once panel selection is complete.
4. The procedures provided for in Articles 22.10 and 22.11 shall apply to panel proceedings under this Annex, except that:
 - (a) the panel shall also make a determination as to whether the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment, if any, has materially affected the sale, offering for sale, purchase, transportation, distribution, or use of originating goods of the complaining Party;
 - (b) the panel shall present an initial report on the matter to the Parties within 120 days after the panel is established;
 - (c) each Party may submit written comments to the panel on its initial report within seven days of the presentation of the report; and
 - (d) the panel shall present its final report within 21 days after it presents its initial report.
5. If, in its final report, the panel determines that:
 - (a) the Party complained against has not conformed with its obligations under this Agreement or that its measure is causing nullification or impairment in the sense of Article 22.4(c); and
 - (b) the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment that the panel has found has materially affected the sale, offering for sale, purchase, transportation, distribution, or use of originating goods of the complaining Party,⁵

the complaining Party may increase the rate of customs duty on originating goods under tariff heading 8703 to a level not to exceed its prevailing most-favored-nation applied rate of duty on those goods.

6. If the complaining Party has increased duties pursuant to paragraph 5, it shall rescind the increased duties when the Party complained against has eliminated the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment.
7. The Party complained against may deliver a request in writing to the complaining Party to reconvene the panel if it considers that the complaining Party has failed to rescind the increased duties in conformity with paragraph 6. The panel shall reconvene as soon as possible after delivery of the request and shall present its determination to the Parties within 90 days after it reconvenes. If the panel decides that the Party complained against has eliminated the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment, the complaining Party shall promptly rescind the increased duties.
8. The procedures set forth in this Annex shall terminate ten years after the date this Agreement enters into force, provided that no panel established under this Annex during that period has determined that a Party has failed to conform with its obligations under this Agreement or that a Party's measure has caused nullification or impairment in the sense of Article 22.4(c).

⁵ If the panel determines that the non-conformity or the nullification or impairment that the panel has found has not materially affected the sale, offering for sale, purchase, transportation, distribution, or use of originating goods of the complaining Party, the procedures provided for in Articles 22.12 and 22.13 shall apply.

ANNEX 22-B
COMMITTEE ON OUTWARD PROCESSING ZONES ON THE KOREAN PENINSULA

1. Recognizing the Republic of Korea's constitutional mandate and security interests, and the corresponding interests of the United States, the Parties shall establish a Committee on Outward Processing Zones on the Korean Peninsula. The Committee shall review whether conditions on the Korean Peninsula are appropriate for further economic development through the establishment and development of outward processing zones.
2. The Committee shall be comprised of officials of each Party. The Committee shall meet on the first anniversary of the entry into force of the Agreement and at least once annually thereafter, or at any time as mutually agreed.
3. The Committee shall identify geographic areas that may be designated outward processing zones. The Committee shall establish criteria that must be met before goods from any outward processing zone may be considered originating goods for the purposes of this Agreement, including but not limited to: progress toward the denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula; the impact of the outward processing zones on intra-Korean relations; and the environmental standards, labor standards and practices, wage practices and business and management practices prevailing in the outward processing zone, with due reference to the situation prevailing elsewhere in the local economy and the relevant international norms.
4. The Committee shall determine whether any such outward processing zone has met the criteria established by the Committee. The Committee shall also establish a maximum threshold for the value of the total input of the originating final good that may be added within the geographic area of the outward processing zone.
5. Decisions reached by the unified consent of the Committee shall be recommended to the Parties, which shall be responsible for seeking legislative approval for any amendments to the Agreement with respect to outward processing zones.

ANNEX 22-C
FISHERIES COMMITTEE

1. The Parties hereby establish a Fisheries Committee, comprising representatives of each Party, to promote cooperation between the Parties regarding fisheries matters.
2. The Committee shall discuss:
 - (a) each Party's policies on commercial activities within its Exclusive Economic Zones;
 - (b) cooperation on scientific research on fisheries matters of mutual concern; and
 - (c) global fisheries issues of mutual concern.
3. The Committee shall meet within one year after the date this Agreement enters into force and annually thereafter unless the Parties otherwise agree. The Committee shall inform the Joint Committee of the results of each meeting.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE EXCEPTIONS

ARTICLE 23.1: GENERAL EXCEPTIONS

1. For purposes of Chapters Two through Four (National Treatment and Market Access for Goods, Agriculture, and Textiles and Apparel) and Six through Nine (Rules of Origin and Origin Procedures, Customs Administration and Trade Facilitation, Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures, and Technical Barriers to Trade), Article XX of GATT 1994 and its interpretive notes are incorporated into and made part of this Agreement, mutatis mutandis. The Parties understand that the measures referred to in Article XX(b) of GATT 1994 include environmental measures necessary to protect human, animal, or plant life or health, and that Article XX(g) of GATT 1994 applies to measures relating to the conservation of living and non-living exhaustible natural resources.

2. For purposes of Chapters Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services), Fourteen (Telecommunications), and Fifteen (Electronic Commerce),¹ Article XIV of GATS (including its footnotes) is incorporated into and made part of this Agreement, mutatis mutandis. The Parties understand that the measures referred to in Article XIV(b) of GATS include environmental measures necessary to protect human, animal, or plant life or health.

ARTICLE 23.2: ESSENTIAL SECURITY

Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed:

- (a) to require a Party to furnish or allow access to any information the disclosure of which it determines to be contrary to its essential security interests; or
- (b) to preclude a Party from applying measures that it considers necessary for the fulfillment of its obligations with respect to the maintenance or restoration of international peace or security or the protection of its own essential security interests.²

ARTICLE 23.3: TAXATION

1. Except as set out in this Article, nothing in this Agreement shall apply to taxation measures.

- 2. (a) Nothing in this Agreement shall affect the rights and obligations of either Party under any tax convention. In the event of any inconsistency between this Agreement and any such convention, that convention shall prevail to the extent of the inconsistency.
- (b) In the case of a tax convention between the Parties, the competent authorities under that convention shall have sole responsibility for determining whether any inconsistency exists between this Agreement and that convention.

¹ Article 23.1 is without prejudice to whether digital products should be classified as goods or services.

² For greater certainty, if a Party invokes Article 23.2 in an arbitral proceeding initiated under Chapter Eleven (Investment) or Chapter Twenty-Two (Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement), the tribunal or panel hearing the matter shall find that the exception applies.

3. Notwithstanding paragraph 2:
- (a) Article 2.2 (National Treatment) and such other provisions of this Agreement as are necessary to give effect to that Article shall apply to taxation measures to the same extent as does Article III of GATT 1994; and
 - (b) Articles 2.11 (Export Duties, Taxes, or Other Charges) and 2.12 (Engine Displacement Taxes) shall apply to taxation measures.

4. Subject to paragraph 2:

- (a) Articles 12.2 (National Treatment), 13.2 (National Treatment), and 13.5.1 (Cross-Border Trade) shall apply to taxation measures on income, on capital gains, or on the taxable capital of corporations that relate to the purchase or consumption of particular services, except that nothing in this subparagraph shall prevent a Party from conditioning the receipt or continued receipt of an advantage relating to the purchase or consumption of particular services on requirements to provide the service in its territory; and
- (b) Articles 11.3 (National Treatment) and 11.4 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment), Articles 12.2 (National Treatment) and 12.3 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment), and Articles 13.2 (National Treatment) and 13.3 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment) shall apply to all taxation measures, other than those on income, on capital gains, or on the taxable capital of corporations, or taxes on estates, inheritances, gifts, and generation-skipping transfers; except that nothing in the Articles referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) shall apply:

- (c) any most-favored-nation obligation with respect to an advantage accorded by a Party pursuant to a tax convention;
- (d) to a non-conforming provision of any existing taxation measure;
- (e) to the continuation or prompt renewal of a non-conforming provision of any existing taxation measure;
- (f) to an amendment to a non-conforming provision of any existing taxation measure to the extent that the amendment does not decrease its conformity, at the time of the amendment, with any of those Articles;
- (g) to the adoption or enforcement of any taxation measure aimed at ensuring the equitable or effective imposition or collection of taxes (as permitted by Article XIV(d) of GATS); or
- (h) to a provision that conditions the receipt, or continued receipt, of an advantage relating to the contributions to, or income of, a pension trust or pension plan on a requirement that the Party maintain continuous jurisdiction over the pension trust or pension plan.

5. Subject to paragraph 2 and without prejudice to the rights and obligations of the Parties under paragraph 3, paragraphs 2, 3, and 4 of Article 11.8 (Performance Requirements) shall apply to taxation measures.

 - (a) Article 11.16 (Submission of a Claim to Arbitration) shall apply to a taxation measure alleged to be an expropriation or a breach of an investment agreement or an investment authorization.
 - (b) Article 11.6 (Expropriation and Compensation) shall apply to taxation measures. However, no investor may invoke Article 11.6 as the basis for a claim where it has been determined pursuant to this subparagraph that the measure is not an expropriation. An investor that seeks to invoke Article 11.6 with respect to a taxation measure must first refer to the competent authorities, at the time that it gives its notice of intent under Article 11.16.2 (Submission of a Claim to Arbitration), the issue of whether that taxation measure is not an expropriation. If the competent authorities do not agree to consider the issue or, having agreed to consider it, fail to agree that the measure is not an expropriation within a period of 180 days of such referral, the investor may submit its claim to arbitration under Article 11.16.3.
 - (c) For purposes of this paragraph, competent authorities means:
 - (i) in the case of Korea, the Deputy Minister for Tax and Customs, Ministry of Finance and Economy; and
 - (ii) in the case of the United States, the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury (Tax Policy).
7. For purposes of this Article, “taxes” and “taxation measures” do not include:
 - (a) a customs duty as defined in Article 1.4 (Definitions); or
 - (b) the measures listed in exceptions (b) and (c) of that definition.

ARTICLE 23.4: DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION

Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed to require a Party to furnish or allow access to confidential information the disclosure of which would impede law enforcement or otherwise be contrary to the public interest or which would prejudice the legitimate commercial interests of particular enterprises, public or private.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR FINAL PROVISIONS

ARTICLE 24.1: ANNEXES, APPENDICES, AND FOOTNOTES

The Annexes, Appendices, and footnotes to this Agreement constitute an integral part of this Agreement.

ARTICLE 24.2: AMENDMENTS

The Parties may agree, in writing, to amend this Agreement. An amendment shall enter into force after the Parties exchange written notifications certifying that they have completed their respective applicable legal requirements and procedures, on such date as the Parties may agree.

ARTICLE 24.3: AMENDMENT OF THE WTO AGREEMENT

If any provision of the WTO Agreement that the Parties have incorporated into this Agreement is amended, the Parties shall consult to consider amending the relevant provision of this Agreement, as appropriate, in accordance with Article 24.2.

ARTICLE 24.4: ACCESSION

1. Any country or group of countries may accede to this Agreement subject to such terms and conditions as may be agreed between the country or group of countries and the Parties and following approval in accordance with the applicable legal requirements and procedures of each Party and acceding country.
2. This Agreement shall not apply as between any Party and any acceding country or group of countries if, at the time of the agreement described in paragraph 1, one of them does not consent to such application.

ARTICLE 24.5: ENTRY INTO FORCE AND TERMINATION

1. This Agreement shall enter into force 60 days after the date the Parties exchange written notifications certifying that they have completed their respective applicable legal requirements and procedures or on such other date as the Parties may agree.
2. This Agreement shall terminate 180 days after the date either Party notifies the other Party in writing that it wishes to terminate the Agreement.
3. Within 30 days after a Party provides notice under paragraph 2, either Party may request the other Party in writing to enter into consultations regarding whether any provision of this Agreement should terminate on a date later than that provided under paragraph 2. The consultations shall begin no later than 30 days after the Party delivers its request.

ARTICLE 24.6: AUTHENTIC TEXT

The English and Korean texts of this Agreement are equally authentic.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned, being duly authorized by their respective Governments, have signed this Agreement.

DONE at Washington, D.C., this 30th day of June, 2007, in duplicate, in the English and Korean languages.

THE REPUBLIC OF KOREA:

ANNEX I
EXPLANATORY NOTES

1. The Schedule of a Party to this Annex sets out, pursuant to Articles 11.12 (Non-Conforming Measures) and 12.6 (Non-Conforming Measures), the Party's existing measures that are not subject to some or all of the obligations imposed by:
 - (a) Article 11.3 (National Treatment) or 12.2 (National Treatment);
 - (b) Article 11.4 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment) or 12.3 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment);
 - (c) Article 12.5 (Local Presence);
 - (d) Article 11.8 (Performance Requirements);
 - (e) Article 11.9 (Senior Management and Boards of Directors); or
 - (f) Article 12.4 (Market Access).

2. Each Schedule entry sets out the following elements:
 - (a) Sector refers to the sector for which the entry is made;
 - (b) Obligations Concerned specifies the article(s) referred to in paragraph 1 that, pursuant to Articles 11.12.1(a) and 12.6.1(a), do not apply to the non-conforming aspects of the law, regulation, or other measure, as set out in paragraph 3;
 - (c) Level of Government¹ indicates the level of government maintaining the scheduled measure(s);
 - (d) Measures² identifies the laws, regulations, or other measures for which the entry is made. A measure cited in the Measures element:
 - (i) means the measure as amended, continued, or renewed as of the date of entry into force of this Agreement; and
 - (ii) includes any subordinate measure adopted or maintained under the authority of and consistent with the measure; and

¹ If none is specified, the measure is maintained at the central level of government.

² For greater certainty, in the case of Korea, a change in the level of government at which a measure is administered or enforced does not, by itself, decrease the conformity of the measure with the obligations referred to in Article 11.12.1 and Article 12.6.1.

- (e) Description sets out commitments, if any, for liberalization on the date of entry into force of the Agreement, and the remaining non-conforming aspects of the measure for which the entry is made.
3. In the interpretation of a Schedule entry, all elements of the entry shall be considered. An entry shall be interpreted in light of the relevant articles of the Chapters against which the entry is made. To the extent that:
- (a) the Measures element is qualified by a liberalization commitment from the Description element, the Measures element as so qualified shall prevail over all other elements; and
 - (b) the Measures element is not so qualified, the Measures element shall prevail over all other elements, unless any discrepancy between the Measures element and the other elements considered in their totality is so substantial and material that it would be unreasonable to conclude that the Measures element should prevail, in which case the other elements shall prevail to the extent of that discrepancy.
4. In accordance with Articles 11.12.1(a) and 12.6.1(a), and subject to Articles 11.12.1(c) and 12.6.1(c), the articles of this Agreement specified in the Obligations Concerned element of an entry do not apply to the non-conforming aspects of the law, regulation, or other measure identified in the Measures element of that entry.
5. Where a Party maintains a measure that requires that a service provider be a citizen, permanent resident, or resident of its territory as a condition to the provision of a service in its territory, a Schedule entry for that measure taken with respect to Article 12.2 (National Treatment), 12.3 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment), or 12.5 (Local Presence) shall operate as a Schedule entry with respect to Article 11.3 (National Treatment), 11.4 (Most-Favored-Nation Treatment), or 11.8 (Performance Requirements) to the extent of that measure.
6. For Korea, a foreign person means a foreign national or an enterprise organized under the laws of another country.
7. For greater certainty, Local Presence (Article 12.5) and National Treatment (Article 12.2) are separate disciplines and a measure that is only inconsistent with Local Presence (Article 12.5) need not be reserved against National Treatment (Article 12.2).

- (a) an equity interest in a terrestrial broadcaster, relay-only cable operator, or program provider that is engaged in jong-hap-pyeon-sung (multi-genre programming) or bo-do (news reporting);
- (b) in the aggregate more than 33 percent of the total issued stocks or equity interest of a satellite broadcasting operator; or
- (c) in the aggregate more than 49 percent of the total issued stocks or equity interest of a cable system operator, a signal transmission network business operator, or a program provider that is not engaged in jong-hap-pyeon-sung (multi-genre programming) or bo-do (news reporting).

No later than three years after this Agreement enters into force, Korea shall permit a deemed foreign person to hold up to 100 percent of the equity interest in a program provider that is not engaged in jong-hap-pyeon-sung (multi-genre programming), bo-do (news reporting), or home shopping.

For transparency purposes, no single person (including “specially related person” under Article 3 of the Enforcement Decree of the Broadcasting Act) may hold in the aggregate more than 30 percent of the total issued stocks or equity interest of a terrestrial broadcaster or a program provider that is engaged in jong-hap-pyeon-sung (multi-genre programming) or bo-do (news reporting), unless such broadcaster primarily provides religious or missionary content. Such limitations do not apply to the Government of Korea and a corporation established by a special law (e.g., Mun-hwa Broadcasting Corporation (MBC), which is established under the Broadcasting Culture Promotion Act).

A terrestrial broadcaster, program provider, cable system operator, or satellite broadcasting operator must include the following percentage of Korean content in its quarterly programming:

- (a) 80 percent of the quarterly programming hours of a terrestrial broadcaster or program provider that uses terrestrial broadcasting to provide its programming;
- (b) 50 percent of the quarterly programming hours of a cable system operator or a satellite broadcasting operator; and
- (c) 50 percent of the quarterly programming hours per channel of a program provider that does not use terrestrial broadcasting to provide its programming.

A terrestrial broadcaster providing programming in the following genres must include the following percentage of Korean content in its annual programming:

- (a) Animation: 45 percent of the broadcaster's annual animation programming hours;
- (b) Movies: 25 percent of the broadcaster's annual movie programming hours; and
- (c) Music: 60 percent of the broadcaster's annual music programming hours.

A cable system operator, satellite broadcasting operator or program provider providing at least some music programming must include Korean content in 60 percent of its annual music programming hours, per channel.

No later than the date this Agreement enters into force, Korea shall not require a cable system operator, satellite broadcasting operator, or program provider providing at least some animation or movie programming to provide a percentage of Korean content in its annual programming hours, per channel, that is greater than:

- (a) Animation: 30 percent of the broadcaster's annual animation programming hours; and
- (b) Movies: 20 percent of the broadcaster's annual movie programming hours.

Certain separate content quota requirements apply to a broadcaster specialized in religious programming or education programming, or to a terrestrial digital multimedia broadcasting (DMB) operator. A satellite DMB operator is subject to content quota requirements applied to a satellite broadcasting operator.

No later than the date this Agreement enters into force, Korea shall permit no less than 80 percent of a terrestrial broadcaster's, cable system operator's, satellite broadcasting operator's, or program provider's quarterly programming hours of foreign content per genre to be foreign content of a single country (single-country content ceiling).

For purposes of this entry:

- (a) program provider engaged in jong-hap-pyeon-sung (multi-genre programming) means a program provider that offers a combination of news, entertainment, drama, movies, music programming, etc.;
- (b) deemed foreign person means a juridical person organized under Korean law in which a foreign government or a foreign person holds in the aggregate more than 50 percent of the juridical person's total issued stocks or equity interest, or whose largest shareholder is a foreign government or a foreign person; and
- (c) a "satellite broadcasting operator" includes an operator that uses or leases capacity on a satellite registered in a foreign country.

Measures: Export Trading Company Act of 1982, 15 U.S.C. §§ 4011-4021
15 C.F.R. Part 325

Description: Cross-Border Services

Title III of the Export Trading Company Act of 1982 authorizes the Secretary of Commerce to issue “certificates of review” with respect to export conduct. The Act provides for the issuance of a certificate of review where the Secretary determines, and the Attorney General concurs, that the export conduct specified in an application will not have the anticompetitive effects proscribed by the Act. A certificate of review limits the liability under federal and state antitrust laws in engaging in the export conduct certified.

Only a “person” as defined by the Act can apply for a certificate of review. “Person” means “an individual who is a resident of the United States; a partnership that is created under and exists pursuant to the laws of any State or of the United States; a State or local government entity; a corporation, whether organized as a profit or nonprofit corporation, that is created under and exists pursuant to the laws of any State or of the United States; or any association or combination, by contract or other arrangement, between such persons.”

A foreign national or enterprise may receive the protection provided by a certificate of review by becoming a “member” of a qualified applicant. The regulations define “member” to mean “an entity (U.S. or foreign) that is seeking protection under the certificate with the applicant. A member may be a partner in a partnership or a joint venture; a shareholder of a corporation; or a participant in an association, cooperative, or other form of profit or nonprofit organization or relationship, by contract or other arrangement.”

ANNEX II
SCHEDULE OF KOREA

Obligations Concerned: National Treatment (Article 11.3)
Performance Requirements (Article 11.8)

Description: Investment

1. Korea reserves the right to adopt, with respect to the establishment or acquisition of an investment, any measure that is necessary for the maintenance of public order pursuant to Article 4 of the Foreign Investment Promotion Act (2007) and Article 5 of the Enforcement Decree of the Foreign Investment Promotion Act (2007), provided that Korea promptly provides written notice to the United States that it has adopted such a measure and that the measure:

- (a) is applied in accordance with the procedural requirements set out in the Foreign Investment Promotion Act (2007), Enforcement Decree of the Foreign Investment Promotion Act (2007), and other applicable law;
- (b) is adopted or maintained only where the investment poses a genuine and sufficiently serious threat to the fundamental interests of society;
- (c) is not applied in an arbitrary or unjustifiable manner;
- (d) does not constitute a disguised restriction on investment; and
- (e) is proportional to the objective it seeks to achieve.

2. Without prejudice to any claim that may be submitted to arbitration pursuant to Article 11.16.1, a claimant may submit to arbitration under Section B of Chapter Eleven (Investment) a claim that:

- (b) the claimant or, as the case may be, an enterprise of Korea that is a juridical person that the claimant owns or controls directly or indirectly, has incurred loss or damage by reason of, or arising out of, the measure.

In the event of such a claim, Section B of Chapter Eleven shall apply, mutatis mutandis, and all references in Section B of Chapter Eleven to a breach, or to an alleged breach, of an obligation under Section A of Chapter Eleven shall be understood to refer to the measure, which would constitute a breach of an obligation under Section A of Chapter Eleven but for this entry. However, no award may be made in favor of the claimant, if Korea establishes to the satisfaction of the tribunal that the measure satisfies all the conditions listed in subparagraphs (a) through (e) of paragraph 1.

APPENDIX III-A CERTAIN MEASURES NOT INCONSISTENT WITH ARTICLE 13.4 OR SUBJECT TO 13.10.1

The following measures are not inconsistent with Article 13.4 (Market Access for Financial Institutions):

- (5) The overall net open position of foreign exchange banks, measured by the sum of the net short position or the sum of the net long positions, whichever is greater (short-hand method), is limited to 50 percent of the total equity capital at the end of the previous month; the overbought (long won) position of NDFs (Non-Deliverable Forwards) held by onshore banks may not exceed 110 percent of the position as registered on January 14, 2004. (Article 11-2 of the Foreign Exchange Transaction Act (Law No. 8050, October 4, 2006); and Article 2-9 of the Foreign Exchange Transaction Regulation (Notification of the Ministry of Finance and Economy No. 2006-26, August 3, 2006));

securities. (Articles 49 and 50 of the Securities and Exchange Act (Law No. 7762, December 29, 2005); Articles 35-15 and 35-16 of the Enforcement Decree of the Securities and Exchange Act (Presidential Decree No. 19806, December 29, 2006));

- (7) The value of lending to an individual credit card holder may be capped. (Article 24 of the Specialized Credit Financing Business Act (Law No. 7929, April 28, 2006));
- (8) A bank, securities company or other financial institution constituted in Korea may only engage in activities permitted by the relevant laws. (Articles 27 and 28 of the Banking Act (Law No. 7428, March 31, 2005); and Article 51 of the Securities and Exchange Act (Law No. 7762, December 29, 2005) and Articles 36-2 and 36-3 of the Enforcement Decree of Securities and Exchange Act (Presidential Decree No. 19806, December 29, 2006));

The following measures fall within Article 13.10.1 (Exceptions) and that, therefore, Article 13.2 (National Treatment) does not prevent Korea from maintaining them:

- (1) The operating fund of a branch of a foreign insurance company will be considered as capital and the head office's capital will not be taken into consideration for purposes of determining the amount of funds to be raised or loans to be extended by such local branch (Article 9-3 of the Insurance Business Act (Law No. 7971, August 29, 2006));
- (2) A branch in Korea of a foreign insurance company must maintain in the territory of Korea assets equal to the aggregate of the reserve for performance of liability and the reserve for emergency relating to the insurance contracts executed in Korea (Article 75 of the Insurance Business Act (Law No. 7971, August 29, 2006)).

Headnotes

1. Commitments in these subsectors under the Agreement are undertaken subject to the limitations and conditions set forth in these headnotes and in the Schedules below.
2. To clarify the commitment of Korea with respect to Article 13.4 (Market Access for Financial Institutions), juridical persons supplying financial services and constituted under the laws of Korea are subject to non-discriminatory limitations on juridical form.¹
3. The commitments of Korea under Articles 13.2 (National Treatment) and 13.4 (Market Access for Financial Institutions) are subject to the limitation that in order to establish or acquire a controlling interest in a financial institution in Korea, a foreign investor must own or control a financial institution that engages in supplying financial services within the same financial services subsector in its home country.
4. Korea limits its commitments under Article 13.9.1(c) (Non-Conforming Measures) with respect to Article 13.4 (Market Access for Financial Institutions) in the following manner: Article 13.9.1(c) shall apply only to non-conforming measures relating to 13.4(a) and not to those non-conforming measures relating to Article 13.4(b).

¹ For example, partnerships and sole proprietorship are generally not acceptable juridical forms for depository financial institutions in Korea. This headnote is not itself intended to affect, or otherwise limit, a choice by a financial institution of the other Party between branches or subsidiaries.

7. An entry in Annex I or Annex II specifying that Article 12.2 (National Treatment) does not apply to the non-conforming aspects of a law, regulation, or other measure, shall not be construed as limiting a Party's obligation under Article 13.5.1 to accord national treatment with respect to the supply of services specified in Annex 13-A to cross-border financial service suppliers of the other Party.

Headnotes

1. Commitments in these subsectors under the Agreement are undertaken subject to the limitations and conditions set forth in these headnotes and in the Schedule below.
2. National treatment commitments in these subsectors are subject to the following limitations:
 - (a) National treatment with respect to banking will be provided based upon the foreign bank's "home state" in the United States, as that term is defined under the International Banking Act, where that Act is applicable. A domestic bank subsidiary of a foreign firm will have its own "home state," and national treatment will be provided based upon the subsidiary's home state, as determined under applicable law.¹
 - (b) National treatment with respect to insurance financial institutions will be provided according to a non-U.S. insurance financial institution's state of domicile, where applicable, in the United States. State of domicile is defined by individual states, and is generally the state in which an insurer either is incorporated, is organized, or maintains its principal office in the United States.
3. To clarify the U.S. commitment with respect to Article 13.4 (Market Access for Financial Institutions), juridical persons supplying banking or other financial services (excluding insurance) and constituted under the laws of the United States are subject to non-discriminatory limitations on juridical form.²
4. The United States limits its commitments under Article 13.9.1(c) (Non-Conforming Measures) with respect to Article 13.4 (Market Access for Financial Institutions) in the following manner: with respect to banking and other financial services (excluding insurance), Article 13.9.1(c) shall apply only to non-conforming measures relating to 13.4(a) and not to those non-conforming measures relating to Article 13.4(b).

² For example, partnerships and sole proprietorships are generally not acceptable juridical forms for depository financial institutions in the United States. This headnote is not itself intended to affect, or otherwise limit, a choice by a financial institution of the other Party between branches or subsidiaries.

The provisions of this Schedule are generally expressed in terms of the HTSUS, and the interpretation of the provisions of this Schedule, including the product coverage of subheadings of this Schedule, shall be governed by the General Notes, Section Notes, and Chapter Notes of the HTSUS. To the extent that provisions of this Schedule are identical to the corresponding provisions of the HTSUS, the provisions of this Schedule shall have the same meaning as the corresponding provisions of the HTSUS.

 - (b) duties on originating goods provided for in the items in staging category S shall be eliminated entirely and such goods shall be duty-free on the date this Agreement enters into force. APPENDIX 2-B-1

Furthermore, any quantity of originating goods imported from Korea under a TRQ provided for in this Appendix shall not be counted toward the in-quota amount of any TRQ provided for such goods elsewhere in the HTSUS.

3. The United States may require an originating good of Korea to be imported, purchased, or distributed in its territory by a state trading enterprise only if, and on such terms and conditions as, the Parties may agree.

3 SEC. 202. RULES OF ORIGIN.

4 (a) APPLICATION AND INTERPRETATION.—In this 5 section:

6 (1) TARIFF CLASSIFICATION.—The basis for 7 any tariff classification is the HTS.

8 (2) REFERENCE TO HTS.—Whenever in this 9 section there is a reference to a chapter, heading, or 10 subheading, such reference shall be a reference to a 11 chapter, heading, or subheading of the HTS.

12 (3) COST OR VALUE.—Any cost or value re-
13 ferred to in this section shall be recorded and main-
14 tained in accordance with the generally accepted ac-15 counting principles applicable in the territory of the 16 country in which the good is produced (whether 17 Korea or the United States).

18 (b) ORIGINATING GOODS.—For purposes of this Act
19 and for purposes of implementing the preferential tariff
20 treatment provided for under the Agreement, except as 21 otherwise provided in this section, a good is an originating 22 good if—

23 (1) the good is a good wholly obtained or pro-24 duced entirely in the territory of Korea, the United 25 States, or both;

1 (2) the good—

2 (A) is produced entirely in the territory of 3 Korea, the United States, or both, and—

4 (i) each of the nonoriginating mate-
5 rials used in the production of the good
6 undergoes an applicable change in tariff
7 classification specified in Annex 4-A or 8 Annex 6-A of the Agreement; or

9 (ii) the good otherwise satisfies any 10 applicable regional value-content or other 11 requirements specified in Annex 4-A or 12 Annex 6-A of the Agreement; and 13 (B) satisfies all other applicable require-14 ments of this section; or 15 (3) the good is produced entirely in the terri-

16 tory of Korea, the United States, or both, exclusively 17 from materials described in paragraph (1) or (2).

18 (c) REGIONAL VALUE-CONTENT.—

19 (1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of subsection 20 (b)(2), the regional value-content of a good referred 21 to in Annex 6-A of the Agreement, except for goods
22 to which paragraph (4) applies, shall be calculated 23 by the importer, exporter, or producer of the good, 24 on the basis of the build-down method described in

1 paragraph (2) or the build-up method described in 2 paragraph (3).

3 (2) BUILD-DOWN METHOD.—

4 (A) IN GENERAL.—The regional value-con-
5 tent of a good may be calculated on the basis
6 of the following build-down method:

$$\text{RVC} = \frac{\text{AV} - \text{VNM}}{\text{AV}} \times 100$$

7 (B) DEFINITIONS.—In subparagraph (A):

8 (i) RVC.—The term “RVC” means
9 the regional value-content of the good, ex-
10 pressed as a percentage.

11 (ii) AV.—The term “AV” means the
12 adjusted value of the good.

13 (iii) VNM.—The term “VNM” means
14 the value of nonoriginating materials, other
15 than indirect materials, that are acquired
16 and used by the producer in the production
17 of the good, but does not include the value
18 of a material that is self-produced.

19 (3) BUILD-UP METHOD.—

20 (A) IN GENERAL.—The regional value-con-
21 tent of a good may be calculated on the basis
22 of the following build-up method:

$$\text{RVC} = \frac{\text{VOM}}{\text{AV}} \times 100$$

23 (B) DEFINITIONS.—In subparagraph (A):

1 (i) RVC.—The term “RVC” means
2 the regional value-content of the good, ex-
3 pressed as a percentage.

4 (ii) AV.—The term “AV” means the
5 adjusted value of the good.

6 (iii) VOM.—The term “VOM” means
7 the value of originating materials, other
8 than indirect materials, that are acquired
9 or self-produced, and used by the producer
10 in the production of the good.

11 (4) SPECIAL RULE FOR CERTAIN AUTOMOTIVE
12 GOODS.—

13 (A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of sub-14 section (b)(2), the regional value-content of an 15 automotive good referred to in Annex 6-A of 16 the Agreement may be calculated by the im-
17 porter, exporter, or producer of the good on the 18 basis of the build-down method described in 19 paragraph (2), the build-up method described in 20 paragraph (3), or the following net cost method:

$$\text{RVC} = \frac{\text{NC} - \text{VNM}}{\text{NC}} \times 100$$

21 (B) DEFINITIONS.—In subparagraph (A):

22 (i) AUTOMOTIVE GOOD.—The term
23 “automotive good” means a good provided
24 for in any of subheadings 8407.31 through

1 8407.34, subheading 8408.20, heading
2 8409, or any of headings 8701 through 3 8708.

4 (ii) RVC.—The term “RVC” means
5 the regional value-content of the auto-
6 motive good, expressed as a percentage.

7 (iii) NC.—The term “NC” means the 8 net cost of the automotive good.

9 (iv) VNM.—The term “VNM” means
10 the value of nonoriginating materials, other
11 than indirect materials, that are acquired
12 and used by the producer in the production
13 of the automotive good, but does not in-14 clude the value of a material that is self-15 produced.

16 (C) MOTOR VEHICLES.—

17 (i) BASIS OF CALCULATION.—For 18 purposes of determining the regional value-
19 content under subparagraph (A) for an
20 automotive good that is a motor vehicle
21 provided for in any of headings 8701
22 through 8705, an importer, exporter, or 23 producer may average the amounts cal-
24 culated under the net cost formula con-

1 tained in subparagraph (A), over the pro-
2 ducer's fiscal year—

3 (I) with respect to all motor vehi-
4 cles in any one of the categories de-
5 scribed in clause (ii); or

6 (II) with respect to all motor ve-
7 hicles in any such category that are 8 exported to the territory of Korea or
9 the United States.

10 (ii) CATEGORIES.—A category is de-
11 scribed in this clause if it—

12 (I) is the same model line of 13 motor vehicles, is in the same class of 14 motor vehicles, and is produced in the 15 same plant in the territory of Korea
16 or the United States, as the good de-17 scribed in clause (i) for which regional 18 value-content is being calculated;

19 (II) is the same class of motor
20 vehicles, and is produced in the same
21 plant in the territory of Korea or the 22 United States, as the good described
23 in clause (i) for which regional value-
24 content is being calculated; or

1 (III) is the same model line of
2 motor vehicles produced in the terri-
3 tory of Korea or the United States as 4 the good described in clause (i) for 5 which regional value-content is being 6 calculated.

7 (D) OTHER AUTOMOTIVE GOODS.—For
8 purposes of determining the regional value-con-
9 tent under subparagraph (A) for automotive
10 materials provided for in any of subheadings
11 8407.31 through 8407.34, in subheading
12 8408.20, or in heading 8409, 8706, 8707, or 13 8708, that are produced in the same plant, an 14 importer, exporter, or producer may—

15 (i) average the amounts calculated 16 under the net cost formula contained in 17 subparagraph (A) over—

18 (I) the fiscal year of the motor
19 vehicle producer to whom the auto-
20 motive goods are sold,

21 (II) any quarter or month, or

22 (III) the fiscal year of the pro-
23 ducer of such goods,

1 if the goods were produced during the fis-
2 cal year, quarter, or month that is the 3 basis for the calculation;

4 (ii) determine the average referred to
5 in clause (i) separately for such goods sold
6 to 1 or more motor vehicle producers; or

7 (iii) make a separate determination
8 under clause (i) or (ii) for such goods that 9 are exported to the territory of Korea or 10 the United States.

11 (E) CALCULATING NET COST.—The im-
12 porter, exporter, or producer of an automotive
13 good shall, consistent with the provisions re-
14 garding allocation of costs provided for in gen-
15 erally accepted accounting principles, determine
16 the net cost of the automotive good under sub-17 paragraph (B) by—

18 (i) calculating the total cost incurred
19 with respect to all goods produced by the 20 producer of the automotive good, sub-
21 tracting any sales promotion, marketing,
22 and after-sales service costs, royalties,
23 shipping and packing costs, and nonallow-
24 able interest costs that are included in the 25 total cost of all such goods, and then rea-

1 sonably allocating the resulting net cost of 2 those goods to the automotive good;

3 (ii) calculating the total cost incurred
4 with respect to all goods produced by that 5 producer, reasonably allocating the total
6 cost to the automotive good, and then sub-
7 tracting any sales promotion, marketing,
8 and after-sales service costs, royalties,
9 shipping and packing costs, and nonallow-
10 able interest costs that are included in the 11 portion of the total cost allocated to the 12 automotive good; or

13 (iii) reasonably allocating each cost
14 that forms part of the total cost incurred
15 with respect to the automotive good so that 16 the aggregate of these costs does not in-17 clude any sales promotion, marketing, and 18 after-sales service costs, royalties, shipping
19 and packing costs, or nonallowable interest
20 costs.

21 (d) VALUE OF MATERIALS.—

22 (1) IN GENERAL.—For the purpose of calcu-
23 lating the regional value-content of a good under 24 subsection (c), and for purposes of applying the de

1 minimis rules under subsection (f), the value of a 2 material is—

3 (A) in the case of a material that is im-
4 ported by the producer of the good, the ad-
5 justed value of the material;

6 (B) in the case of a material acquired in 7 the territory in which the good is produced, the 8 value, determined in accordance with Articles 1
9 through 8, Article 15, and the corresponding in-10 terpretive notes, of the Agreement on Imple-
11 mentation of Article VII of the General Agree-12 ment on Tariffs and Trade 1994 referred to in 13 section 101(d)(8) of the Uruguay Round Agree-
14 ments Act (19 U.S.C. 3511(d)(8)), as set forth 15 in regulations promulgated by the Secretary of 16 the Treasury providing for the application of 17 such Articles in the absence of an importation 18 by the producer; or

19 (C) in the case of a material that is self-20 produced, the sum of—

21 (i) all expenses incurred in the pro-
22 duction of the material, including general
23 expenses; and

1 (ii) an amount for profit equivalent to 2 the profit added in the normal course of 3 trade.

4 (2) FURTHER ADJUSTMENTS TO THE VALUE OF 5 MATERIALS.—

6 (A) ORIGINATING MATERIAL.—The fol-
7 lowing expenses, if not included in the value of 8 an originating material calculated under para-
9 graph (1), may be added to the value of the 10 originating material:

11 (i) The costs of freight, insurance,
12 packing, and all other costs incurred in 13 transporting the material within or be-
14 tween the territory of Korea, the United
15 States, or both, to the location of the pro-
16 ducer.

17 (ii) Duties, taxes, and customs broker-
18 age fees on the material paid in the terri-
19 tory of Korea, the United States, or both,
20 other than duties or taxes that are waived,
21 refunded, refundable, or otherwise recover-
22 able, including credit against duty or tax
23 paid or payable.

24 (iii) The cost of waste and spoilage re-
25 sulting from the use of the material in the

1 production of the good, less the value of
2 renewable scrap or byproducts.

3 (B) NONORIGINATING MATERIAL.—The
4 following expenses, if included in the value of a
5 nonoriginating material calculated under para-
6 graph (1), may be deducted from the value of 7 the nonoriginating material:

8 (i) The costs of freight, insurance,
9 packing, and all other costs incurred in
10 transporting the material within or be-
11 tween the territory of Korea, the United
12 States, or both, to the location of the pro-
13 ducer.

14 (ii) Duties, taxes, and customs broker-
15 age fees on the material paid in the terri-
16 tory of Korea, the United States, or both,
17 other than duties or taxes that are waived,
18 refunded, refundable, or otherwise recover-
19 able, including credit against duty or tax
20 paid or payable.

21 (iii) The cost of waste and spoilage re-
22 sulting from the use of the material in the 23 production of the good, less the value of
24 renewable scrap or byproducts.

1 (iv) The cost of originating materials
2 used in the production of the nonorigi-
3 nating material in the territory of Korea,
4 the United States, or both.

5 (e) ACCUMULATION.—

6 (1) ORIGINATING MATERIALS USED IN PRODUC-
7 TION OF GOODS OF THE OTHER COUNTRY.—Origi-
8 nating materials from the territory of Korea or the 9 United States that are used in the production of a 10 good in the territory of the other country shall be 11 considered to originate in the territory of such other 12 country.

13 (2) MULTIPLE PRODUCERS.—A good that is 14 produced in the territory of Korea, the United 15 States, or both, by 1 or more producers, is an origi-16 nating good if the good satisfies the requirements of 17 subsection (b) and all other applicable requirements
18 of this section.

19 (f) DE MINIMIS AMOUNTS OF NONORIGINATING MA-
20 TERIALS.—

21 (1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in para-
22 graphs (2) and (3), a good that does not undergo a 23 change in tariff classification pursuant to Annex 6-24 A of the Agreement is an originating good if—

1 (A) the value of all nonoriginating mate-
2 rials used in the production of the good that do
3 not undergo the applicable change in tariff clas-
4 sification (set forth in Annex 6-A of the Agree-
5 ment) does not exceed 10 percent of the ad-
6 justed value of the good;

7 (B) the good meets all other applicable re-
8 quirements of this section; and

9 (C) the value of such nonoriginating mate-
10 rials is included in the value of nonoriginating
11 materials for any applicable regional value-con-
12 tent requirement for the good.

13 (2) EXCEPTIONS.—Paragraph (1) does not
14 apply to the following:

23 component of the good that determines the tar-24 iff classification of the good do not undergo an 25 applicable change in tariff classification, set

1 forth in Annex 4-A of the Agreement, shall be
2 considered to be an originating good if the total

4 accessories, spare parts, or tools shall—

5 (A) be treated as originating goods if the 6 good is an originating good; and 7 (B) be disregarded in determining whether 8 all the nonoriginating materials used in the pro-

10 change in tariff classification set forth in Annex
11 6-A of the Agreement.

12 (2) CONDITIONS.—Paragraph (1) shall apply 13 only if—

14 (A) the accessories, spare parts, or tools
15 are classified with and not invoiced separately 16 from the good; and

17 (B) the quantities and value of the acces-18 sories, spare parts, or tools are customary for 19 the good.

20 (3) REGIONAL VALUE CONTENT.—If the good is 21 subject to a regional value-content requirement, the 22 value of the accessories, spare parts, or tools shall 23 be taken into account as originating or nonorigi-
24 nating materials, as the case may be, in calculating
25 the regional value-content of the good.

1 (i) PACKAGING MATERIALS AND CONTAINERS FOR 2 RETAIL SALE.—Packaging materials and containers in 3 which a good is packaged for retail sale, if classified with 11 originating materials, as the case may be, in calculating

12 the regional value-content of the good.

14 SHIPMENT.—Packing materials and containers for ship-
15 ment shall be disregarded in determining whether a good
16 is an originating good.

17 (k) INDIRECT MATERIALS.—An indirect material 18 shall be disregarded in determining whether a good is an 19 originating good.

20 (l) TRANSIT AND TRANSHIPMENT.—A good that has 21 undergone production necessary to qualify as an origi-
22 nating good under subsection (b) shall not be considered
23 to be an originating good if, subsequent to that produc-
24 tion, the good—

1 (1) undergoes further production or any other
2 operation outside the territory of Korea or the 3 United States, other than unloading, reloading, or 4 any other operation necessary to preserve the good
5 in good condition or to transport the good to the ter-

16 (1) each of the goods in the set is an origi-
17 nating good; or

18 (2) the total value of the nonoriginating goods
19 in the set does not exceed—

20 (A) in the case of textile or apparel goods, 21 10 percent of the adjusted value of the set; or

22 (B) in the case of goods, other than textile

9 Agreement, a Korean article is being imported into the 10 United States in such increased quantities, in absolute 11 terms or relative to domestic production, and under such 12 conditions that imports of the Korean article constitute 13 a substantial cause of serious injury or threat thereof to 14 the domestic industry producing an article that is like, or 15 directly competitive with, the imported article.

16 (c) APPLICABLE PROVISIONS.—The following provi-

5 (ii) there is evidence that the industry
6 is making a positive adjustment to import
7 competition.

8 (B) ACTION BY COMMISSION.—

9 (i) INVESTIGATION.—Upon a petition
10 on behalf of the industry concerned that is

THE UNITED STATES – KOREA FREE TRADE AGREEMENT IMPLEMENTATION ACT

STATEMENT OF ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION

This Statement of Administrative Action (“Statement”) is submitted to the Congress in compliance with section 2105(a)(1)(C)(ii) of the Bipartisan Trade Promotion Authority Act of 2002 (“TPA Act”) and accompanies the implementing bill for the free trade agreement (“Agreement”) that the United States has concluded with the Republic of Korea (“Korea”). The bill approves the Agreement, which the United States Trade Representative signed in Washington, D.C. on June 30, 2007, and makes statutory changes necessary or appropriate to implement the Agreement, including statutory changes to secure the benefits of an exchange of letters between the United States and Korea on February 10, 2011 related to the Agreement (“February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters”).

As is the case with Statements of Administrative Action submitted to the Congress in connection with earlier trade agreements, this Statement represents an authoritative expression by the Administration concerning its views regarding the interpretation and application of the Agreement, both for purposes of U.S. international obligations and domestic law. The Administration understands that it is the expectation of the Congress that future administrations will observe and apply the interpretations and commitments set out in this Statement. In addition, since this Statement will be approved by the Congress at the time it approves the implementing bill for this Agreement, the interpretation of the Agreement included in this Statement carries particular authority.

This Statement describes significant administrative actions proposed to implement U.S. obligations under the Agreement. The Statement also describes the pertinent provisions of the implementing bill, explaining how the bill changes or affects existing law, and stating why those provisions are necessary or appropriate to implement the Agreement.

In addition, incorporated into this Statement are two other statements required under section 2105(a) of the TPA Act: (1) an explanation of how the implementing bill and proposed administrative action will change or affect existing law; and (2) a statement setting forth the reasons why the implementing bill and proposed administrative action are necessary or appropriate to carry out the Agreement. The Agreement does not change the provisions of any agreement the United States has previously negotiated with Korea.

For ease of reference, this Statement generally follows the organization of the Agreement, with the exception of grouping the general provisions of the Agreement (Chapters One and Twenty-One through Twenty-Four) at the beginning of the discussion.

For each chapter of the Agreement, the Statement describes the pertinent provisions of the implementing bill, explaining how the bill changes or affects existing law, and stating why those provisions are necessary or appropriate to implement the Agreement. The Statement then describes the administrative action proposed to implement the particular chapter of the Agreement, explaining how the proposed action changes existing administrative practice or authorizes further action and stating why such actions are necessary or appropriate to implement the Agreement.

It should be noted that this Statement does not, for the most part, discuss those many instances in which U.S. law or administrative practice will remain unchanged under the Agreement. In many cases, U.S. laws and regulations are already in conformity with the obligations assumed under the Agreement.

Finally, references in this Statement to particular sections of U.S. statutes are based on those statutes in effect as of the date this Statement was submitted to the Congress.

1. Implementing Bill

a. Congressional Approval

Section 101(a) of the implementing bill provides Congressional approval for the Agreement and this Statement, as required by sections 2103(b)(3) and 2105(a)(1) of the TPA Act.

b. Entry into Force

Article 24.5 of the Agreement requires the United States and Korea to exchange written notifications that their respective legal requirements for the entry into force of the Agreement have been fulfilled. The exchange of notifications is a necessary condition for the Agreement's entry into force. Section 101(b) of the implementing bill authorizes the President to exchange notes with Korea to provide for the Agreement to enter into force for the United States on or after January 1, 2012. The exchange of notes is conditioned on a determination by the President that Korea has taken measures necessary to comply with those of its obligations that are to take effect at the time the Agreement enters into force.

Certain provisions of the Agreement become effective after the Agreement enters into force. For example, Annex I of the Agreement provides Korea up to two years to comply with the general national treatment rule for investment as it applies to indirect foreign ownership of certain Korean public telecommunications suppliers. Certain specific commitments Korea has undertaken in Annex 13-B of the Agreement relating to financial services will apply within prescribed times after the Agreement enters into force. In addition, Annex II of the Agreement provides for Korea's obligations with respect to certain legal services to take effect at specified times after the Agreement enters into force.

c. Relationship to Federal Law

Section 102(a) of the bill establishes the relationship between the Agreement and U.S. law. The implementing bill, including the authority granted to federal agencies to promulgate implementing regulations, is intended to bring U.S. law fully into compliance with U.S. obligations under the Agreement, and to make other changes that are necessary or appropriate to implement the Agreement. The bill accomplishes those objectives with respect to federal legislation by amending existing federal statutes that would otherwise be inconsistent with the Agreement, amending existing federal laws that are necessary or appropriate to implement the Agreement, and, in certain instances, by creating entirely new provisions of law.

Section 102(a) clarifies that no provision of the Agreement will be given effect under domestic law if it is inconsistent with federal law, including provisions of federal law enacted or amended by the bill. Section 102(a) will not prevent implementation of federal statutes consistent with the Agreement, where permissible under the terms of such statutes. Rather, the section reflects the Congressional view that necessary changes in federal statutes should be specifically enacted rather than provided for in a blanket preemption of federal statutes by the Agreement.

The Administration has made every effort to include all laws in the implementing bill and to identify all administrative actions in this Statement that must be changed in order to conform with the new U.S. rights and obligations arising from the Agreement. Those include both regulations resulting from statutory changes in the bill itself and changes in laws, regulations, rules, and orders that can be implemented without a change in the underlying U.S. statute.

Accordingly, at this time it is the expectation of the Administration that no changes in existing federal law, rules, regulations, or orders other than those specifically indicated in the implementing bill and this Statement will be required to implement the new international obligations that the United States will assume under the Agreement. This is without prejudice to the President's continuing responsibility and authority to carry out U.S. law and agreements. As experience under the Agreement is gained over time, other or different administrative actions may be taken in accordance with applicable law to implement the Agreement. If additional action is called for, the Administration will seek legislation from Congress or, if a change in regulation is required, follow normal agency procedures for amending regulations.

d. Relationship to State Law

The Agreement's rules generally cover state and local laws and regulations, as well as those at the federal level. There are a number of exceptions to, or limitations on, this general rule, however, particularly in the areas of government procurement, labor, environment, investment, and cross-border trade in services and financial services.

The Agreement does not automatically "preempt" or invalidate state laws that do not conform to the Agreement's rules, even if a dispute settlement panel were to find a state measure inconsistent with the Agreement. The United States is free under the Agreement to determine how it will conform with the Agreement's rules at the federal and non-federal level. The Administration is committed to carrying out U.S. obligations under the Agreement, as they apply to the states, through the greatest possible degree of state-federal consultation and cooperation.

Section 102(b)(1) of the bill makes clear that only the United States is entitled to bring an action in court in the event that there is an unresolved conflict between a state law, or the application of a state law, and the Agreement. The authority conferred on the United States under this paragraph is intended to be used only as a "last resort," in the unlikely event that efforts to achieve consistency through consultations have not succeeded.

The reference in section 102(b)(2) of the bill to the business of insurance is required by virtue of section 2 of the McCarran-Ferguson Act (15 U.S.C. 1012). That section states that no federal statute shall be construed to supersede any state law regulating or taxing the business of insurance unless the federal statute “specifically relates to the business of insurance.” Certain provisions of the Agreement (for example, Chapter Thirteen, relating to financial services) do apply to state measures regulating the insurance business, although “grandfathering” provisions in Chapter Thirteen exempt existing inconsistent (i.e., “non-conforming”) measures.

Given section 2 of the McCarran-Ferguson Act, the implementing act must make specific reference to the business of insurance in order for the Agreement’s provisions covering the insurance business to be given effect with respect to state insurance law. Insurance is otherwise treated in the same manner under the Agreement and the implementing bill as other financial services under the Agreement.

e. Private Lawsuits

Section 102(c) of the implementing bill precludes any private right of action or remedy against the federal government, a state or local government, or a private party based on the provisions of the Agreement. A private party thus could not sue (or defend a suit against) the United States, a state, or a private party on grounds of consistency (or inconsistency) with the Agreement. The provision also precludes a private right of action attempting to require, preclude, or modify federal or state action on grounds such as an allegation that the government is required to exercise discretionary authority or general “public interest” authority under other provisions of law in conformity with the Agreement.

With respect to the states, section 102(c) represents a determination by the Congress and the Administration that private lawsuits are not an appropriate means for ensuring state compliance with the Agreement. Suits of this nature may interfere with the Administration’s conduct of trade and foreign relations and with suitable resolution of disagreements or disputes under the Agreement.

Section 102(c) does not preclude a private party from submitting a claim against the United States to arbitration under Chapter Eleven (Investment) of the Agreement or seeking to enforce an award against the United States issued pursuant to such arbitration. The provision also would not preclude any agency of government from considering, or entertaining argument on, whether its action or proposed action is consistent with the Agreement, although any change in agency action would have to be consistent with domestic law.

f. Implementing Regulations

Section 103(a) of the bill provides the authority for new or amended regulations to be issued, and for the President to proclaim actions implementing the provisions of the Agreement, as of the date the Agreement enters into force. Section 103(b) of the bill requires that, whenever possible, all federal regulations required or authorized under the bill and those proposed in this Statement as necessary or appropriate to implement immediately applicable U.S. obligations under the Agreement are to be developed and promulgated within one year of the Agreement’s entry into force. In practice, the Administration intends, wherever possible, to amend or issue the other regulations required to implement U.S. obligations under the Agreement at the time the Agreement enters into force. The process for issuing regulations pursuant to this authority will comply with the requirements of the Administrative Procedures Act, including requirements to provide notice of and an opportunity for public comment on such regulations. If issuance of any regulation will occur more than one year after the date provided in section 103(b), the officer responsible for issuing such regulation will notify the relevant committees of both Houses of Congress of the delay, the reasons for such delay, and the expected date for issuance of the regulation. Such notice will be provided at least 30 days prior to the end of the one-year period.

g. Dispute Settlement

Section 105(a) of the bill authorizes the President to establish within the Department of Commerce an office responsible for providing administrative assistance to dispute settlement panels established under Chapter Twenty-Two of the Agreement. This provision enables the United States to implement its obligations under Article 22.5 of the Agreement. This office will not be an “agency” within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. 552, consistent with treatment provided under other U.S. free trade agreements, including the North American Free Trade Agreement (“NAFTA”) and free trade agreements with Australia, Chile, Singapore, Morocco, the Dominican Republic and Central America, Bahrain, Oman, and Peru. Thus, for example, the office will not be subject to the Freedom of Information Act or the Government in the Sunshine Act. Since they are international bodies, panels established under Chapter Twenty-Two are not subject to those acts.

Section 105(b) of the bill authorizes the appropriation of funds to support the office established pursuant to section 105(a).

h. Effective Dates

Section 107(b)(1) of the bill provides that the first three sections of the bill as well as section 207(g), Title I, and Title V of the bill go into effect on the date of enactment of the bill. Section 107(b)(2) provides that certain amendments made by the bill take effect upon enactment, but will apply with respect to Korea only when the Agreement enters into force.

Section 107(a) of the bill provides that the provisions of the bill and the amendments to other statutes made by the bill, other than those described in section 107(b), take effect on the date the Agreement enters into force. Section 107(c) of the bill provides that the provisions of the bill (other than section 107(c) itself and Title V) and the amendments to other statutes made by the bill (except the amendments made by Title V) will cease to have effect on the date on which the Agreement terminates.

2. Administrative Action

No administrative changes will be necessary to implement Chapters One, Twenty-One, Twenty-Three, and Twenty-Four.

Article 22.1.1 of the Agreement requires each government to designate a contact point to facilitate communications regarding the Agreement. The Office of the United States Trade Representative (“USTR”) will serve as the U.S. contact point for this purpose. In addition, Article 22.2 of the Agreement establishes a Joint Committee to oversee the implementation of the Agreement and the work of committees and other bodies established under the Agreement. The U.S. Trade Representative, or his or her designee, will represent the United States on the Joint Committee.

The Agreement calls for the United States and Korea to develop a list of independent experts willing to serve as panelists to settle disputes between the parties that may arise under the Agreement. USTR will consult with the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate (“Trade Committees”) as it develops the list of panelists. USTR will provide the Trade Committees with the names of the experts it is considering, and detailed background information on each, at least 30 days before submitting the names of any nominees to Korea.

Annex 22-B of the Agreement establishes a committee comprised of officials from each government to review whether conditions on the Korean Peninsula may be appropriate for further economic development through the establishment and development of outward processing zones (OPZ).

Each step in the review process is contingent on the unanimous consent of committee members. The committee will establish criteria that must be met before goods from any OPZ may be considered “originating goods” for purposes of the Agreement, and thereby eligible to receive preferential tariff treatment under the Agreement. If the committee determines that goods from an OPZ should qualify as originating goods, it will issue a recommendation to that effect to the two governments. Furthermore, Congress would have to consider and enact, and the President would have to sign into law, additional legislation before any goods from an OPZ would be eligible for preferential duties under the Agreement.

U.S. law currently prohibits, including pursuant to the International Emergency Economic Powers Act, direct and indirect imports of all goods, services, and technology from North Korea, absent a license from the Department of Treasury’s Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC). This broad prohibition also applies to goods, services, and technology from North Korea that are used as components of finished goods of, or substantially transformed in, a third country. OFAC issues an import license only if it is determined that the importation is consistent with U.S. law, national security, and foreign policy objectives, as well as our international obligations. Neither the Agreement nor this implementing bill alters U.S. sanctions on North Korea, including those imposed by Executive Order 13570 of April 18, 2011. Persons who violate U.S. sanctions may be subject to substantial civil and criminal penalties.

Chapter Two (National Treatment and Market Access for Goods)

1. Implementing Bill

a. Proclamation Authority

Section 201(a) of the bill grants the President authority to implement by proclamation U.S. rights and obligations under Chapter Two of the Agreement through the application or elimination of customs duties and tariff-rate quotas (“TRQs”). Section 201(a) of the bill authorizes the President to:

- modify or continue any duty;
- keep in place duty-free or excise treatment; or
- impose any duty

that the President determines to be necessary or appropriate to carry out or apply Articles 2.3, 2.5, and 2.6, and Annex 2-B, Annex 4-B, and Annex 22-A of the Agreement. In addition, Section 201(d) of the bill authorizes the President to proclaim the duty rates for passenger cars and trucks specified in the February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters.

The proclamation authority with respect to Article 2.3 of the Agreement authorizes the President to provide for the continuation, phase-out, and elimination, according to the Schedule of the United States to Annex 2-B of the Agreement, of customs duties on imports from Korea that meet the Agreement’s rules of origin.

The proclamation authority with respect to Articles 2.5 and 2.6 of the Agreement authorizes the President to provide for the elimination of duties on particular categories of imports from Korea. Article 2.5 pertains to the temporary admission of certain goods, such as commercial samples, goods intended for display at an exhibition, and goods necessary for carrying out the business activity of a person who qualifies for temporary entry into the United States. Article 2.6 pertains to the importation of goods: (i) returned to the United States after undergoing repair or alteration in Korea; or (ii) sent from Korea for repair or alteration in the United States.

The proclamation authority with respect to Annex 22-A of the Agreement authorizes the President to increase duties on passenger vehicles up to the prevailing U.S. Normal Trade Relations (NTR) (known internationally as most-favoured nation or MFN) duty rate if a dispute settlement panel determines that Korea has acted inconsistently with or nullified or impaired an obligation under the Agreement and that this action materially affects the sale, offering for sale, purchase, transportation, distribution or use of U.S. motor vehicles.

Section 201(b) of the bill authorizes the President, subject to the consultation and layover provisions of section 104 of the bill, to:

- modify or continue any duty;
- modify the staging of any duty elimination set out in Annex 2-B of the Agreement, pursuant to an agreement with Korea under Article 2.3.3 of the Agreement;

- keep in place duty-free or excise treatment; or
- impose any duty

by proclamation whenever the President determines it to be necessary or appropriate to maintain the general level of reciprocal and mutually advantageous concessions with respect to Korea provided by the Agreement.

Section 104 of the bill sets forth consultation and layover steps that must precede the President's implementation of any duty modification by proclamation. This would include, for example, modifications of duties under section 201(b) of the bill. Under the consultation and layover provisions, the President must obtain the advice of the appropriate private sector advisory committees (pursuant to section 135 of the Trade Act of 1974) and the ITC on the proposed action. The President must submit a report to the Trade Committees setting forth the action proposed, the reasons for the proposed action, and the advice of the private sector and the ITC. The bill sets aside a 60-day period following the date of transmittal of the report for the President to consult with the Trade Committees on the action. Following the expiration of the 60-day period, the President may proclaim the action.

The President may initiate the consultation and layover process under section 104 of the bill on enactment of the bill. However, under section 103(a) of the bill, any modifying proclamation cannot take effect until the Agreement enters into force. In addition to modifications of customs duties, these provisions apply to other Presidential proclamation authority provided in the bill that is subject to consultation and layover, such as authority to implement a proposal to modify the Agreement's specific rules of origin pursuant to an agreement with Korea under Article 6.14 of the Agreement.

Section 201(c) of the bill provides for the conversion of existing specific or compound rates of duty for various goods to ad valorem rates for purposes of implementing the Agreement's customs duty reductions. (A compound rate of duty for a good would be a rate of duty stated, for example, as the sum of X dollars per kilogram plus Y percent of the value of the good.)

b. Customs User Fees

Section 203 of the bill implements U.S. commitments under Article 2.10.4 of the Agreement, regarding customs user fees on originating goods, by amending section 13031(b) of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (19 U.S.C. 58c(b)). The amendment provides for the immediate elimination of the merchandise processing fee for goods qualifying as originating goods under Article 4.2, Annex 4-A, or Chapter Six of the Agreement. Customs processing of goods qualifying as originating goods under the Agreement will be financed by money from the General Fund of the Treasury. This is necessary to ensure that the United States complies with obligations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994 by limiting fees charged for the processing of non-originating imports to amounts commensurate with the processing services provided. That is, fees charged on such non-originating imports will not be used to finance the processing of originating imports.

2. Administrative Action

As discussed above, section 201(a)(1) of the bill authorizes the President to proclaim duty-free treatment for certain goods to carry out Article 2.5 (temporary admission of certain goods) and Article 2.6 (repair or alteration of certain goods) of the Agreement. The Secretary will issue regulations to carry out this portion of the proclamation.

Chapter Three (Agriculture)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Three.

Chapter Four (Textiles and Apparel)

1. Implementing Bill

a. Textile or Apparel Safeguard

Article 4.1 of the Agreement makes remedies available to domestic textile and apparel industries that have sustained or are threatened by serious damage from imports of textile or apparel goods for which duties have been reduced or eliminated under the Agreement. Article 4.1 also sets forth procedures for obtaining such remedies. The Administration does not anticipate that the Agreement will result in injurious increases in textile or apparel imports from Korea. Nevertheless, the Agreement's textile or apparel safeguard procedure will ensure that relief is available if needed.

The safeguard mechanism applies when, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a customs duty under the Agreement, textile or apparel goods of Korea are being imported into the United States in such increased quantities, in absolute or relative terms, and under such conditions as to cause serious damage or actual threat thereof to a U.S. industry producing like or directly competitive goods. In these circumstances, Article 4.1 permits the United States to suspend the reduction of any rate of customs duties on the imported good provided for under the Agreement or increase duties on the imported goods to a level that does not exceed the lesser of the prevailing U.S. NTR (MFN) duty rate for the good or the U.S. NTR (MFN) duty rate in effect at the time the Agreement entered into force.

Subtitle C of Title III of the bill (sections 331 through 338) implements the Agreement's textile and apparel safeguard.

Section 331(a) of the bill establishes that an interested party may file a request for a textile or apparel safeguard measure with the President, who must review the request to determine whether to commence consideration of the request on its merits. Under section 331(b) of the bill, if the President determines that the request contains information necessary to warrant consideration on the merits, the President must provide notice in the Federal Register stating that the request will be considered and seeking public comments on the request. The notice will contain a summary of the request itself and the dates by which comments and rebuttals must be received. Subject to protection of confidential business information, if any, the full text of the request will be made available on the Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration's website.

Section 332 of the bill sets out the procedures to be followed in considering the request. Section 332(a)(1) of the bill provides for the President to determine whether, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a duty provided for under the Agreement, a "Korean textile or apparel article" is being imported into the United States in such increased quantities, in absolute terms or relative to the domestic market for that article, and under such conditions that imports of the article cause serious damage, or actual threat thereof, to a domestic industry producing an article that is like, or directly competitive with, the imported article. Section 301(2) of the bill defines "Korean textile or apparel article" to mean an article listed in the Annex to the World Trade Organization ("WTO") Agreement on Textiles and Clothing that qualifies as an originating good under section 202(b) of the bill. The President's determination corresponds to the determination required under Article 4.1 of the Agreement. Section 332(a)(2) of the bill includes criteria for determining serious damage or actual threat thereof, consistent with Article 4.1.2 of the Agreement.

Section 332(b) of the bill identifies the relief that the President may provide to a U.S. industry that the President determines is facing serious damage or actual threat thereof. Such relief may consist of (a) the suspension of any further reduction in the rate of duty imposed on the article or (b) an increase in tariffs to the lesser of: (i) the NTR (MFN) duty rate in place for the textile or apparel article at the time the relief is granted; or (ii) the NTR (MFN) duty rate for that article on the day before the Agreement entered into force.

Section 333 of the bill provides that the maximum period of relief under the textile or apparel safeguard shall be four years in the aggregate. The initial period of import relief may be up to two years. The President may extend the relief for up to two years, however, if he determines that continuation is necessary to remedy or prevent serious damage and to facilitate adjustment, and that the domestic industry is, in fact, adjusting to import competition.

Section 334 of the bill provides that relief may not be granted to an article under the textile and apparel safeguard if: (i) relief previously has been granted to that article under the textile and apparel safeguard; or (ii) the article is subject, or becomes subject, to a safeguard measure under (a) Chapter Ten of the Agreement (corresponding to Subtitle A of Title III of the bill), or (b) chapter 1 of Title II of the Trade Act of 1974.

Section 335 of the bill provides that on the date import relief terminates, imports of the textile or apparel article that was subject to the safeguard action will be subject to the rate of duty that would have been in effect on that date in the absence of the relief.

Section 336 of the bill provides that authority to provide relief under the textile and apparel safeguard will expire ten years after the date on which duties on the article are eliminated pursuant to the Agreement.

Under Article 4.1.6 of the Agreement, if the United States provides relief to a domestic industry under the textile and apparel safeguard, it must provide Korea “mutually agreed trade liberalizing compensation in the form of concessions having substantially equivalent trade effects or equivalent to the value of the additional duties expected to result from the [safeguard].” If the United States and Korea are unable to agree on trade liberalizing compensation, Korea may increase tariffs equivalently on U.S. goods. The obligation to provide compensation (and the right to increase tariffs absent agreement on compensation) terminates when the safeguard relief ends.

Section 123 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2133), as amended, authorizes the President to provide trade compensation for global safeguard measures taken pursuant to chapter 1 of title II of the Trade Act of 1974. Section 337 of the implementing bill extends that authority to measures taken pursuant to the Agreement’s textile or apparel safeguard provisions.

Finally, section 338 of the bill provides that confidential business information submitted in the course of consideration of a request for a textile or apparel safeguard may not be released absent the consent of the party providing the information. It also provides that a party submitting confidential business information in a textile or apparel safeguard proceeding must submit a non-confidential version of the information or a summary of the information.

b. Enforcement of Textile and Apparel Rules of Origin

In addition to lowering barriers to trade in textile and apparel goods, the Agreement includes anti-circumvention provisions designed to ensure the accuracy of claims of origin and to prevent circumvention of laws, regulations, and procedures affecting such trade. Article 4.3 of the Agreement provides for verifications to determine the accuracy of claims of origin for textile or apparel goods, and to determine that exporters and producers are complying with applicable laws, regulations, and procedures regarding trade in textile or apparel goods.

Under Articles 4.3.3 and 4.3.5 of the Agreement, at the request of the United States, the government of Korea must conduct a verification. The object of a verification under Article 4.3.3 is to determine whether a claim of origin for a textile or apparel good is accurate. The object of a verification under Article 4.3.5 is to determine whether an exporter or producer is complying with applicable customs laws, regulations, and procedures or to determine whether claims of origin for textile or apparel goods exported or produced by that person are accurate.

Under Article 4.3.8 of the Agreement, the United States may take appropriate action during a verification, including suspending the application of preferential treatment to textile or apparel goods exported or produced by the person subject to the verification. Under Article 4.3.10 of the Agreement, the United States also may take appropriate action if, after 12 months, it is unable to make the requisite determination. Generally, there are two situations in which the United States would be unable to make the required determination. One would be, e.g., due to lack of cooperation on the part of the exporter or producer. The second would be when the United States has sufficient information, and based on that information determines that: (1) a claim of origin is not accurate; or (2) an exporter or producer is not complying with applicable customs laws, regulations, and procedures, and therefore that claims of origin for textile or apparel goods produced by that person are not accurate.

Section 207 of the bill implements Article 4.3 of the Agreement. Section 207(a) of the bill authorizes the President to direct the Secretary to take “appropriate action” while a verification requested by the Secretary is being conducted. The purpose of such verification is to determine compliance with applicable customs law or to determine the accuracy of a claim that a particular good is an originating good or a “good of Korea.” Under section 207(b) of the bill, such action may include, but is not limited to, suspension of liquidation of entries of textile or apparel goods exported or produced by the person that is the subject of the verification.

Under section 207(c) of the bill, if the Secretary is unable to confirm within 12 months of making a verification request that a claim of origin for a good is accurate or, more generally, that a Korean exporter or producer is complying with applicable customs laws, regulations, and procedures regarding trade in textile or apparel goods, the President may determine what further “appropriate action” to take. Under section 207(d) of the bill, “appropriate action” in the case of a verification under Article 4.3.5 of the Agreement would include denying preferential treatment under the Agreement to any textile or apparel goods exported or produced by the person subject to the verification, and denying entry of such goods into the United States. In the case of a verification under Article 4.3.3 of the Agreement, “appropriate action” would include denying preferential treatment to a textile or apparel good that is the subject of the verification and denying entry of such a good into the United States. Any action taken under section 207(c) of the bill may remain in effect until the Secretary receives information sufficient to make a determination under section 207(a) of the bill or until such earlier date as the President may direct.

Under section 207(e) of the bill, the Secretary may publish the name of a person that the Secretary has determined: (i) is engaged in circumvention of applicable laws, regulations, or procedures affecting trade in textile or apparel goods; or (ii) has failed to demonstrate that it produces, or is capable of producing, textile or apparel goods.

Section 207(f) of the bill implements paragraph 9 of Annex 4-B of the Agreement. Pursuant to paragraph 9, if Korea so requests, the United States must require an importer in the United States claiming preferential tariff treatment for a Korean good under Annex 4-B of the Agreement to submit a certificate of eligibility completed and signed by an authorized official of the Korean government. Section 207(f) authorizes the Commissioner of Customs to implement this requirement.

Section 207(g) of the bill provides that at the request of a government of a country such as Korea that is a party to a free trade agreement with the United States, as provided for in the agreement, the Secretary may request to verify production of any textile or apparel good in order to assist that government in determining whether a claim of origin under the agreement for a textile or apparel good is accurate or whether an exporter, producer, or other enterprise located in the United States involved in the movement of textile or apparel goods is complying with applicable customs laws, regulations, and procedures regarding trade in textile or apparel goods.

c. Fibers, Yarns, or Fabrics Not Available in Commercial Quantities

Under the specific rules of origin for textile and apparel goods set out in Annex 4-A of the Agreement, fibers, yarns, or fabrics that are not available in commercial quantities in a timely manner in the United States are treated as if they originate in the United States or Korea, regardless of their actual origin, when used as inputs in the production of textile or apparel goods. Annex 4-B of the Agreement provides for the United States to determine that specific fibers, yarns, or fabrics are not available in commercial quantities. If the United States determines, at the request of an “interested entity” (a potential or actual purchaser or supplier, or a Party), that a fiber, yarn, or fabric is unavailable in commercial quantities in a timely manner in the United States, or if it determines that no interested entity objects to the request, the United States will add the material to the list of such materials contained in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement.

Annex 4-B also authorizes the United States to remove a material from the list in response to a request from an interested entity. The United States may take this action beginning six months after it publishes notice of its determination that the material has become commercially available in the United States.

Section 202(o)(3) of the bill implements those provisions of Annex 4-B of the Agreement that provide for the United States to modify the list of materials in the list of the United States in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement after the Agreement enters into force.

Specifically, subparagraph (C)(i) of Section 202(o)(3) of the bill provides that an interested entity may request the President to determine that a fiber, yarn, or fabric is not available in commercial quantities in the United States and to proclaim that the material is included in the list of the United States in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement.

Subparagraph (C)(ii) of Section 202(o)(3) authorizes the President to determine whether the material is commercially available in a timely manner in the United States. Subparagraph (C)(iii) of Section 202(o)(3) provides that if the President determines that the material is not commercially available in a timely manner in the United States, or if no interested entity has objected, he may issue a proclamation adding the fiber, yarn, or fabric to the list of the United States in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement. The President normally must issue the proclamation within 30 business days of receiving a request. However, subparagraph (C)(iv)(II) of Section 202(o)(3) provides that the President may take up to 60 business days if the President decides he lacks sufficient information to make the determination within 30 business days. Subparagraph (C)(v) of Section 202(o)(3) provides for proclamations to take effect when published in the Federal Register.

Subparagraph (D) of Section 202(o)(3) provides that in the event that the President takes no action in response to a request to add a material to the list, the request shall be considered to be denied.

Under subparagraph (E)(i) of Section 202(o)(3), an interested entity may request the President to remove any fiber, yarn, or fabric that the United States has included on its list in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement. Subparagraph (E)(ii) of Section 202(o)(3) provides for the President to issue a proclamation carrying out a request if he determines within 30 business days after the request is submitted that the material is available in commercial quantities in a timely manner in the United States. Subparagraph (E)(iii) of Section 202(o)(3) provides that this type of proclamation may take effect no earlier than six months after it is published in the Federal Register.

Subparagraph (F) of Section 202(o)(3) calls for the President to establish procedures for interested entities to submit requests for changes in the list of the United States in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement and to submit comments and supporting evidence before the President determines whether to change the list.

2. Administrative Action

a. Textile and Apparel Safeguard

The interagency Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements (CITA) will perform the function of receiving requests for textile or apparel safeguard measures under section 331 of the bill, making determinations of serious damage or actual threat thereof under section 332(a) of the bill, and providing relief under section 332(b) of the bill. CITA will issue procedures for requesting such safeguard measures, for making its determinations under section 332(a), and for providing relief under section 332(b). CITA will perform these functions pursuant to a delegation of the President's authority under the bill.

b. Enforcement of Textile and Apparel Rules of Origin

Section 207 of the bill provides that the Secretary may request Korea to initiate verifications in order to determine whether claims of origin for textile or apparel goods are accurate or whether exporters and producers are complying with applicable laws, regulations, and procedures regarding trade in textile or apparel goods. The President will delegate to CITA his authority under section 207(a) of the bill to direct appropriate U.S. officials to take an action described in section 207(b) of the bill while such a verification is being conducted. The President will also authorize CITA to direct pertinent U.S. officials to take an action described in section 207(d) in the case of an adverse determination or if it is unable to make the necessary determination. If CITA decides that it is appropriate to deny preferential tariff treatment or deny entry to particular goods, CITA will issue an appropriate directive to U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP).

Section 207 of the bill provides the exclusive basis in U.S. law for CITA to direct appropriate action implementing Article 4.3 of the Agreement.

c. Fibers, Yarns, or Fabrics Not Available in Commercial Quantities

The President will delegate to CITA his authority under section 202(o)(3) of the bill, which establishes procedures for changing the list of fibers, yarns, or fabrics not available in commercial quantities in a timely manner set out in the list of the United States in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement.

CITA will publish procedures under which interested entities may request that CITA: (i) add a fiber, yarn, or fabric to the list of the United States in Appendix 4-B-1 of the Agreement; or (ii) remove a fiber, yarn, or fabric from the list. These procedures will set out the information required to be submitted with a request. CITA will publish notice of requests that meet these requirements. CITA will provide an opportunity for interested entities to submit comments and evidence regarding a request, and to rebut evidence that other interested entities have submitted, before CITA makes a determination.

CITA will make determinations under section 202(o)(3) of the bill on a case-by-case basis taking into account factors relevant to the request. Such factors ordinarily would include the physical and technical specifications of the fiber, yarn, or fabric that is the subject of the request, and evidence demonstrating the extent to which manufacturers in the United States are able to supply the item in commercial quantities in a timely manner. CITA will provide public notice of its determinations.

Chapter Five (Pharmaceutical Products and Medical Devices)

1. Implementing Bill

No statutory changes will be required to implement Chapter Five.

2. Administrative Action

Chapter Five of the Agreement addresses market access for pharmaceutical products and medical devices. Under the chapter, if U.S. federal healthcare programs list new pharmaceutical products or medical devices for reimbursement purposes, or set the amount of reimbursement for pharmaceutical products or medical devices, the United States must ensure that the procedures and criteria the programs apply are fair, reasonable, and non-discriminatory. No change in U.S. regulation or practice is required to implement Chapter Five.

Chapter Six (Rules of Origin and Origin Procedures)

1. Implementing Bill

a. General

Section 202 of the implementing bill codifies the general rules of origin set forth in Chapter Six of the Agreement. These rules apply only for the purposes of this bill and for the purposes of implementing the customs duty treatment provided under the Agreement. An originating good for the purposes of this bill would not necessarily be a good of or import from Korea for the purposes of other U.S. laws or regulations.

Under the general rules, there are three basic ways for a good of Korea to qualify as an “originating” good and, therefore, be eligible for preferential treatment when it is imported into the United States. First, a good is originating if it is “wholly obtained or produced entirely in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both.” The term “good wholly obtained or produced entirely in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both” is defined in section 202(n)(5) of the bill and includes, for example, minerals extracted from the territory of Korea, the United States, or both; animals born and raised in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both; and waste and scrap derived from production of goods that takes place in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both.

The term “good wholly obtained or produced entirely in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both” includes “recovered goods.” These are parts resulting from the disassembly of used goods that are brought into good working condition in order to be combined with other recovered goods and other materials to form a “remanufactured good.” The term “remanufactured good” is separately defined in section 202(n)(20) of the bill to mean a good falling within Chapter 84, 85, 87 or 90 of the HTS or heading 9402 that: (i) is entirely or partially comprised of recovered goods; and (ii) has a similar life expectancy and enjoys a factory warranty similar to such a good that is new.

Second, the general rules of origin provide that a good is “originating” if the good is produced in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both, and the materials used to produce the good that are not themselves originating goods are transformed in such a way as to cause their tariff classification to change and to meet other requirements, as specified in Annex 4-A or Annex 6-A of the Agreement. Such additional requirements include, for example, performing certain processes or operations related to textile or apparel goods in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both, or meeting regional value content requirements, sometimes in conjunction with changes in tariff classification.

Third, the general rules of origin provide that a good is “originating” if the good is produced entirely in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both, exclusively from materials that themselves qualify as originating goods.

A footnote in Chapter Six of the Agreement makes clear that originating goods are not automatically “admissible” into either country’s territory. As is the case for all goods exported to the United States, “originating goods” must comply with applicable U.S. laws and regulations, including import prohibitions, sanctions, and licensing requirements, in order to be admitted into the territory of the United States.

The remainder of section 202 of the implementing bill sets forth specific rules related to determining whether a good meets the Agreement’s specific requirements to qualify as an originating good. For example, section 202(c) of the bill implements provisions in Annex 6-A of the Agreement that require certain goods to have at least a specified percentage of “regional value content” to qualify as originating goods. It prescribes alternative methods for calculating regional value content, as well as a specific method that may be used in the case of certain automotive goods. Section 202(f) of the bill provides that a good is not disqualified as an originating good if it contains de minimis quantities of non-originating materials that do not undergo a change in tariff classification. Other provisions in section 202 of the bill address how materials are to be valued, how to determine whether fungible goods and materials qualify as originating or non-originating, as well as a variety of other matters.

Section 202(l) of the bill allows a good to be shipped through a third country without losing its status as an originating good, provided certain conditions are met. While in a third country, the good may not be further produced, except that it may be unloaded, reloaded, or preserved, if necessary. Whether the good is unloaded, reloaded, or preserved in a third country, or is simply shipped through the third country, the good must, while in that country, remain under customs control.

Section 202(l) recognizes that, in modern commerce, a good may not be directly shipped from Korea to the United States, or vice versa; for example, shipments may be consolidated at an interim port. At the same time, in order to ensure that the preferential tariff treatment under the Agreement inures to producers in Korea and the United States, rather than producers in third countries, an originating good may not be further produced in a country that is not a party to the Agreement. Requiring the good to remain under customs control provides greater traceability of the good to ensure that no further production occurred.

b. Proclamation Authority

Section 202(o)(1) of the bill authorizes the President to proclaim the specific rules of origin in Annex 4-A and Annex 6-A of the Agreement, as well as any additional subordinate rules necessary to carry out the customs duty provisions of the bill consistent with the Agreement. In addition, section 202(o)(2) of the bill gives authority to the President to modify certain of the Agreement’s specific origin rules by proclamation, subject to the consultation and layover provisions of section 104 of the bill. (See item 1.a of Chapter Two, above.)

Various provisions of the Agreement expressly contemplate that Korea and the United States may agree to modify the Agreement's rules of origin. Article 6.14 of the Agreement calls for the two governments to consult regularly after the Agreement's entry into force to discuss possible amendments or modifications to Chapter Six of the Agreement and its Annex. In addition, Article 4.2.3 of the Agreement calls for the Parties to consult at either Party's request to consider whether rules of origin for particular textile or apparel goods should be modified to address issues of availability of supply of fibers, yarns, or fabrics in the territories of the Parties.

Section 202(o)(2) of the bill expressly limits the President's authority to modify by proclamation specific rules of origin pertaining to textile or apparel goods (listed in Chapters 50 through 63 of the HTS and identified in Annex 4-A of the Agreement). However, those rules of origin may be modified by proclamation within one year of entry into force of the Agreement, to correct typographical, clerical, or other non-substantive technical errors. As discussed above, section 202(o)(3) of the bill, also provides the President with authority to proclaim modifications to the rules of origin limited to fibers, yarns, or fabrics that are not available in commercial quantities in the United States.

c. Disclosure of Incorrect Information and Denial of Preferential Treatment Article 6.19.3 of the Agreement provides that a Party may not impose a penalty on an importer who makes an invalid claim for preferential tariff treatment under the Agreement if the importer did not engage in negligence, gross negligence, or fraud in making the claim or, after discovering that the claim is invalid, promptly and voluntarily corrects the claim and pays any customs duty owing. Article 6.18.6 of the Agreement provides if an importing country determines through verification that an importer, exporter, or producer has engaged in a pattern of conduct in providing false or unsupported certifications or other representations that a good qualifies as originating, it may suspend preferential tariff treatment under the Agreement for identical goods covered by any subsequent certifications or other representations that that person may make. The suspension may continue until the importing country determines that the importer, exporter, or producer is in compliance with applicable laws and regulations governing claims for preferential tariff treatment under the Agreement.

Section 204(a) of the bill implements Article 6.19.3 of the Agreement for the United States by amending section 592(c) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1592(c)). Section 204(b) of the bill implements Article 6.18.6 of the Agreement for the United States by amending section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1514).

d. Claims for Preferential Tariff Treatment

Article 6.19.5 of the Agreement provides that an importer may claim preferential tariff treatment for an originating good within one year of importation, even if no such claim was made at the time of importation. In seeking a refund for excess duties paid, the importer must provide to the customs authorities information substantiating that the good was in fact an originating good at the time of importation.

Section 205 of the bill implements U.S. obligations under Article 6.19.5 of the Agreement by amending section 520(d) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1520(d)) to allow an importer to claim preferential tariff treatment for originating goods within one year of their importation.

e. Exporter and Producer Certifications

Article 6.15 of the Agreement provides that an importer may base a claim for preferential tariff treatment on either (i) a written or electronic certification by the importer, exporter, or producer, or (ii) the importer's knowledge that the good is an originating good, including through reasonable reliance on information in the importer's possession that the good is an originating good. (The Agreement allows certain exceptions, for example, for goods with a customs value less than or equal to $1,000.) If an exporter issues a certification, it must either be based on the person's knowledge that the good is originating or supported by a separate certification issued by the producer.

Article 6.20 of the Agreement sets out rules governing incorrect certifications of origin issued by exporters or producers. Where an exporter or producer becomes aware that a certification of origin contains or is based on incorrect information, it must promptly and voluntarily notify in writing every person to whom the exporter or producer issued the certification of any change that could affect the accuracy or validity of the certification. If it does so, neither Party may impose a penalty.

Section 204(a) of the bill implements U.S. obligations under Article 6.20 of the Agreement by amending section 592 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1592). New subsection (j) of section 592 of the Tariff Act, as added by section 204(a) of the bill, imposes penalties on exporters and producers that issue false KFTA certifications of origin through fraud, gross negligence, or negligence. These penalties do not apply where an exporter or producer corrects an error in the manner described above.

f. Recordkeeping Requirements

Article 6.17 of the Agreement sets forth record keeping requirements that each government must apply to its importers. U.S. obligations under Article 6.17 of the Agreement regarding importers are satisfied by current law, including the record keeping provisions in section 508 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1508).

Article 6.17 also sets forth record keeping requirements that each government must apply to exporters and producers issuing certifications of origin for goods exported under the Agreement. Section 206 of the bill implements Article 6.17 of the Agreement for the United States by amending the customs record keeping statute (section 508 of the Tariff Act of 1930).

As added by section 206 of the bill, subsection (i) of section 508 of the Tariff Act of 1930 defines the terms "KFTA certification of origin" and "records and supporting documents." It then provides that a U.S. exporter or producer that issues a KFTA certification of origin must make, keep, and, if requested pursuant to rules and regulations promulgated by the Secretary, render for examination and inspection a copy of the certification and such records and supporting documents. The exporter or producer must keep these records and supporting documents for five years from the date it issues the certification. New subsection (j) of section 508 of the Tariff Act of 1930 also sets forth penalties for violations of this record keeping requirement.

2. Administrative Action

The rules of origin in Chapter Six of the Agreement are intended to direct the benefits of customs duty elimination under the Agreement principally to firms producing or manufacturing goods in Korea and the United States, not third countries. For this reason, the rules ensure that, in general, a good is eligible for benefits under the Agreement only if it is: (i) wholly produced or obtained in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both; or (ii) undergoes substantial processing in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both.

a. Claims for Preferential Treatment

Section 208 of the bill authorizes the Secretary to prescribe regulations necessary to carry out the tariff-related provisions of the bill, including the rules of origin and customs user fee provisions. The Secretary will use this authority in part to promulgate any regulations necessary to implement the Agreement's provisions governing claims for preferential treatment. Under Article 6.15 of the Agreement, an importer may claim preferential treatment for a good based on either (i) a written or electronic certification by the importer, exporter, or producer, or (ii) the importer's knowledge, including through reasonable reliance on information in the importer's possession, that the good is originating. A certification need not be in a prescribed format, but must include the elements set out in Article 6.15.2 of the Agreement. Under Article 6.19.1 of the Agreement, an importing Party must grant a claim for preferential tariff treatment made in accordance with Chapter Six of the Agreement, unless its customs officials issue a written determination that the claim is invalid as a matter of law or fact.

b. Verification

Under Article 6.18 of the Agreement, customs officials may use a variety of methods to verify claims that goods imported from the other Party satisfy the Agreement's rules of origin. Article 4.3 of the Agreement sets out special procedures for verifying claims that textile or apparel goods imported from the other Party meet the Agreement's origin rules. (See item 1.c of Chapter Three, above.) U.S. officials will carry out verifications under Articles 6.18 and 4.3 of the Agreement pursuant to authorities under current law. For example, section 509 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1509) provides authority to examine records and issue summonses to determine liability for duty and ensure compliance with U.S. customs laws.

Chapter Seven (Customs Administration and Trade Facilitation)

1. Implementing Bill

No statutory changes will be required to implement Chapter Seven of the Agreement.

2. Administrative Action

a. Inquiry Point

Article 7.1.2 of the Agreement requires each government to designate an inquiry point for inquiries from interested persons on customs matters. CBP will serve as the U.S. inquiry point for this purpose. Consistent with Article 7.1.2 of the Agreement, CBP will post information on the Internet at “www.cbp.gov” on how interested persons can make customs-related inquiries.

b. Advance Rulings

Treasury regulations for advance rulings under Article 7.10 of the Agreement (including on classification, valuation, origin, and qualification as an originating good) will parallel in most respects existing regulations in Part 177 of the Customs Regulations for obtaining advance rulings. For example, a ruling may be relied on provided that the facts and circumstances represented in the ruling are complete and do not change. The regulations will make provision for modifications and revocations as well as for delaying the effective date of a modification where the firm in question has relied on an existing ruling. Advance rulings under the Agreement will be issued within 90 days of receipt of all information reasonably required to process the application for the ruling.

Chapter Eight (Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Eight.

Chapter Nine (Technical Barriers to Trade)

1. Implementing Bill

No statutory changes will be required to implement Chapter Nine.

2. Administrative Action

Article 9.8 of the Agreement establishes an inter-governmental Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade (“TBT”). A USTR official responsible for TBT matters or trade relations with Korea will serve as the U.S. coordinator for the committee. Annex 9-B of the Agreement establishes an Automotive Working Group that will serve as an early warning system for potential trade barriers, allowing the United States to provide timely input into the development, implementation, and enforcement of standards, technical regulations, and conformity assessment procedures affecting motor vehicles. A USTR official responsible for TBT matters or trade relations with Korea will serve as the U.S. coordinator for this working group. The Working Group will include or consult as appropriate with officials from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency and their Korean counterparts, as well as other relevant government regulatory agencies. The Working Group may also include or consult with private sector experts and stakeholders as the two governments consider necessary and appropriate.

Chapter Ten (Trade Remedies)

1. Implementing Bill

Subtitle A of Title III of the bill implements in U.S. law the safeguard provisions set out in Chapter Ten of the Agreement. Subtitle B of Title III of the bill implements the special safeguard for motor vehicles set out in Section D of the February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters. Subtitle D of Title III of the bill implements the global safeguard provisions set out in Chapter Ten of the Agreement. (As discussed under Chapter Four, above, Subtitle C of Title III of the bill implements the textile or apparel safeguard provisions of the Agreement.)

a. Safeguard Measures

Subtitle A of Title III of the bill, sections 311 through 316, authorizes the President, after an investigation and affirmative determination by the ITC (or a determination that the President may consider to be an affirmative determination), to suspend duty reductions or impose duties temporarily up to NTR (MFN) rates on a “Korean article” when, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a duty under the Agreement, the article is being imported into the United States in such increased quantities and under such conditions as to be a substantial cause of serious injury or threat of serious injury to a domestic industry that produces a like or directly competitive good. The standards and procedures set out in these provisions closely parallel the procedures set forth in sections 201 through 204 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2251 - 2254).

Section 301(1) of the bill defines the term “Korean article” to mean a good that qualifies as an originating good under section 202(b) of the bill. Section 301(2) of the bill defines the term “Korean motor vehicle article” to mean a good provided for in HTS heading 8703 or 8704 that qualifies as an originating good under section 202(b) of the bill.

Section 311 of the bill provides for the filing of petitions with the ITC and for the ITC to conduct safeguard investigations initiated under Subtitle A. Section 311(a)(1) of the bill provides that a petition requesting a safeguard action may be filed with the ITC by an entity that is “representative of an industry.” As under section 202(a)(1) of the Trade Act of 1974, the term “entity” is defined to include a trade association, firm, certified or recognized union, or a group of workers.

Section 311(a)(2) of the bill permits a petitioning entity to request provisional relief as if the petition had been filed under section 202(a) of the Trade Act of 1974. Section 311(a)(3) of the bill requires that any claim of “critical circumstances” with respect to an increase of imports from Korea be included in the petition. It is a necessary element in a claim for provisional relief under section 202(d)(2) of the Trade Act of 1974, which is made applicable to Subtitle A safeguards proceedings through section 311(c) of the bill.

Section 311(b) of the bill sets out the standard to be used by the ITC in undertaking an investigation and making a determination in Subtitle A safeguard proceedings.

Section 311(c) of the bill makes applicable by reference several provisions of the Trade Act of 1974. These are the definition of “substantial cause” in section 202(b)(1)(B) of that act, the factors listed in section 202(c) applied in making determinations, the provisional relief provisions in section 202(d), the hearing requirement of section 202(b)(3), and the provisions of section 202(i) permitting confidential business information to be made available under protective order to authorized representatives of parties to a safeguard investigation.

Section 311(d) of the bill exempts from investigation under this section Korean articles, that have previously been the basis for according relief under Subtitle A to a domestic industry.

Section 312(a) of the bill establishes deadlines for ITC determinations following an investigation under section 311(b) of the bill. The ITC must make its injury determination within 120 days of the date on which it initiates an investigation (or 180 days if critical circumstances are alleged).

Section 312(b) of the bill makes applicable the provisions of section 330(d) of the Tariff Act of 1930, which will apply when the ITC Commissioners are equally divided on the question of injury or remedy.

Under section 312(c) of the bill, if the ITC makes an affirmative determination, or a determination that the President may consider to be an affirmative determination, under section 312(a) of the bill, it must find and recommend to the President the amount of import relief that is necessary to remedy or prevent the serious injury and to facilitate the efforts of the domestic industry to make a positive adjustment to import competition. The relief that the ITC may recommend is limited to that authorized in section 313(c) of the bill. Similar to procedures under the global safeguards provisions in current law, section 312(c) of the bill provides that only those members of the ITC who agreed to the affirmative determination under section 312(a) of the bill may vote on the recommendation of relief under section 312(c).

Under section 312(d) of the bill, the ITC is required to transmit a report to the President not later than 30 days after making its injury determination. The ITC’s report must include: (i) the ITC’s determination(s) under section 312(a) of the bill and the reasons supporting the determination(s); (ii) if the determination under section 312(a) is affirmative or may be considered to be affirmative by the President, any findings and recommendations for import relief and an explanation of the basis for each recommendation; and (iii) any dissenting or separate views of ITC Commissioners. Section 312(e) of the bill requires the ITC to make public its report promptly and to publish a summary of the report in the Federal Register.

Section 313(a) of the bill directs the President, subject to section 313(b) of the bill, to take action not later than 30 days after receiving a report from the ITC containing an affirmative determination or a determination that the President may consider to be an affirmative determination. The President must provide import relief to the extent that the President determines is necessary to remedy or prevent the injury the ITC has found and to facilitate the efforts of the domestic industry to make a positive adjustment to import competition. Under section 313(b), the President is not required to provide import relief if the President determines that the relief will not provide greater economic and social benefits than costs.

Section 313(c)(1) of the bill sets forth the nature of the relief that the President may provide. In general, the President may take action in the form of:

- a suspension of further reductions in the rate of duty to be applied to the articles in question; or
- an increase in the rate of duty on the articles in question to a level that does not exceed the lesser of the existing NTR (MFN) rate or the NTR (MFN) rate of duty imposed on the day before the Agreement entered into force.

Section 313(c)(1) also sets out a special rule for duties applied on a seasonal basis.

Under section 313(c)(2) of the bill, if the relief the President provides has a duration greater than one year, the relief must be subject to progressive liberalization at regular intervals over the course of its application.

Section 313(d) of the bill provides that the period for import relief under a Subtitle A safeguard may not exceed three years in the aggregate. The initial period of import relief may be up to two years. The President may extend the period of import relief by up to one year, however, if he determines that continuation of relief is necessary to remedy or prevent serious injury and to facilitate adjustment to import competition, and that there is evidence that the industry is making a positive adjustment to import competition. That determination must follow an affirmative determination (or a determination that the President may consider to be an affirmative determination) by the ITC to the same effect.

Section 313(e) of the bill specifies the duty rate to be applied to Korean articles after termination of a safeguard action. On the termination of relief, the rate of duty is the rate that would have been in effect for those articles but for the provision of such relief.

Section 313(f) of the bill exempts from relief any article that is: (i) subject to import relief under the global safeguard provisions in U.S. law (chapter 1 of Title II of the Trade Act of 1974) or (ii) subject to import relief under the textile and apparel safeguard in Subtitle C.

Section 314 of the bill provides that the President's authority to take action under Subtitle A expires ten years after the date on which the Agreement enters into force, unless the period for elimination of duties on the article exceeds ten years. In cases where the period of duty elimination exceeds ten years, relief with respect to the article may be provided until the Agreement calls for duties on the article to be eliminated. The President may take action under Subtitle A after the 10-year duty elimination period, or any longer elimination period for a particular product, only if the government of Korea consents.

Section 315 of the bill allows the President to provide trade compensation to Korea, as required under Article 10.4 of the Agreement, when the United States imposes relief through a Subtitle A safeguard action. Section 315 provides that for purposes of section 123 of the Trade Act of 1974, which allows the President to provide compensation for global safeguards, any relief provided under section 313 of the bill will be treated as an action taken under the global safeguard provisions of U.S. law (sections 201 through 204 of the Trade Act of 1974).

Section 316 of the bill amends section 202(a) of the Trade Act of 1974 to provide that the procedures in section 332(g) of the Tariff Act of 1930 with respect to the release of confidential business information are to apply to Subtitle A safeguard investigations.

The Administration has not provided classified information to the ITC in past safeguard proceedings and does not expect to provide such information in future proceedings. In the unlikely event that the Administration provides classified information to the ITC in such proceedings, that information would be protected from publication in accordance with Executive Order 12958.

b. Motor Vehicle Safeguard Measures

Section 321 of the bill implements the special safeguard for motor vehicles set out in Section D of the February 10, 2011, Exchange of Letters. It provides that, for a Korean motor vehicle article: (1) articles that have previously been the basis for according relief to a domestic industry under Subtitle A are not exempt from investigation; (2) relief is not subject to progressive liberalization at regular intervals over the course of its application; (3) the President may extend the effective period of any import relief by up to 2 years (for a total of 4 years) if the requirements for extension set forth in section 313(d)(2)(A) are met; and (4) relief may be provided at any time up to 10 years after the date the relevant duties are eliminated under section 201(d) or the Agreement, as the case may be.

c. Global Safeguard Measures

Section 341 of the bill implements the global safeguard provisions of Article 10.5 of the Agreement. It authorizes the President, in granting global import relief under sections 201 through 204 of the Trade Act of 1974, to exclude imports of originating articles from the relief when certain conditions are present.

Specifically, section 341(a) of the bill provides that if the ITC makes an affirmative determination, or a determination that the President may consider to be an affirmative determination, in a global safeguard investigation under section 202(b) of the Trade Act of 1974, the ITC must find and report to the President whether imports of the article from Korea considered individually that qualify as originating goods under section 202(b) are a substantial cause of serious injury or threat thereof. Under section 341(b) of the bill, if the ITC makes a negative finding under section 341(a) of the bill the President may exclude any imports that are covered by the ITC's finding from the global safeguard action.

2. Administrative Action

Article 10.8 of the Agreement establishes an intergovernmental Committee on Trade Remedies. A USTR official with responsibilities for trade remedies matters or trade relations with Korea will serve as the U.S. coordinator for the Committee.

Pursuant to Article 10.7.3 of the Agreement, the Department of Commerce will notify the government of Korea when it receives a properly documented antidumping (AD) or countervailing duty (CVD) petition with respect to imports from Korea. In the case of CVD petitions, the Department will afford representatives of Korea an opportunity to consult with Department officials regarding the petition; in the case of AD petitions, the Department will afford representatives of Korea a meeting or other similar opportunities, consistent with 19 U.S.C. 1673a(b)(3).

Consistent with Article 10.7.4, the Department will provide the government of Korea with information regarding its procedures for requesting price undertakings and provide an opportunity for that government and Korean exporters to consult with the Department regarding proposed undertakings. The opportunity to request an undertaking is provided for under U.S. law and regulation and is available in all investigations. Any agreement with respect to an undertaking must conform to conditions specified in U.S. law. Article 10.7 of the Agreement is not subject to the Agreement's dispute settlement provisions.

Implementation of these obligations does not require any changes to U.S. AD or CVD laws or regulations.

Chapter Eleven (Investment)

1. Implementing Bill

Section 106 of the bill authorizes the United States to use binding arbitration to resolve claims by investors of Korea under Article 11.16.1(a)(i)(C) or Article 11.16.1(b)(i)(C) of the Agreement. Those articles concern disputes over certain types of government contracts, and section 106 of the bill clarifies that the United States consents to the arbitration of such disputes. No statutory authorization is required for the United States to engage in binding arbitration for other claims covered by Article 11.16 of the Agreement. Provisions allowing arbitration of certain contract claims have regularly been included in U.S. bilateral investment treaties over recent decades, as well as in the free trade agreements with Chile, Singapore, Morocco, Central America and the Dominican Republic, Oman, and Peru.

2. Administrative Action

No administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Eleven.

Chapter Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Twelve.

Chapter Thirteen (Financial Services)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Thirteen.

Chapter Fourteen (Telecommunications)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Fourteen.

Chapter Fifteen (Electronic Commerce)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Fifteen.

Chapter Sixteen (Competition-Related Matters)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Sixteen.

Chapter Seventeen (Government Procurement)

1. Implementing Bill

Chapter Seventeen of the Agreement establishes rules that certain government entities, listed in Annex 17-A of the Agreement, must follow in procuring goods and services. The Chapter's rules will apply whenever these entities undertake procurements valued above thresholds specified in Annex 17-A of the Agreement.

In order to comply with its obligations under Chapter Seventeen of the Agreement, the United States must waive the application of certain federal laws, regulations, procedures and practices that ordinarily treat foreign goods and services and suppliers of such goods and services less favorably than U.S. goods, services, and suppliers. Section 301(a) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (19 U.S.C. 2511(a)) authorizes the President to waive the application of such laws, regulations, procedures, and practices with respect to "eligible products" of a foreign country designated under section 301(b) of that Act. By virtue of taking on the procurement-related obligations in Chapter Seventeen, Korea is eligible to be designated under section 301(b) of the Trade Agreements Act and will be so designated.

The term “eligible product” in section 301(a) of the Trade Agreements Act is defined in section 308(4)(A) of that Act for goods and services of countries and instrumentalities that are parties to the WTO Agreement on Government Procurement (GPA) and countries that are covered under the NAFTA and other recent free trade agreements. Korea is a party to the GPA and U.S. agencies covered under the GPA must currently treat Korean goods and services as “eligible products” for procurements above specified dollar thresholds. When it enters into force, the Free Trade Agreement will lower those thresholds for Korean goods and services and those thresholds will apply to procurements conducted by all of the U.S. government entities subject to the GPA, plus procurements of the U.S. Social Security Administration.

Section 401 of the bill amends the definition of “eligible product” in section 308(4)(A) of the Trade Agreements Act. As amended, section 308(4)(A) of that Act will provide that, for Korea, an “eligible product” means a product or service of Korea that is covered under the Agreement for procurement by the United States. This amended definition, coupled with the President’s exercise of his authority under section 301(a) of the Trade Agreements Act, will allow U.S. government entities covered by the Agreement to purchase on non-discriminatory terms products and services from Korea that fall within the lower thresholds established under the Agreement.

2. Administrative Action

As noted above, Annex 17-A of the Agreement provides that U.S. government entities subject to Chapter Seventeen of the Agreement must apply the chapter’s rules to goods and services from Korea when they make purchases valued above certain dollar thresholds. USTR will notify the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council (“FAR Council”) of the thresholds that pertain to Korea under the Agreement. The FAR Council will then incorporate those thresholds into the Federal Acquisition Regulation in accordance with applicable procedures under the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act.

Article 17.7 of the Agreement clarifies that a procuring entity is not precluded from preparing, adopting, or applying “technical specifications” to promote the conservation of natural resources and the environment, or to require a supplier to comply with generally applicable laws regarding fundamental principles and rights at work and acceptable conditions of work with respect to minimum wages, hours of work, and occupational safety and health, in the territory in which the good is produced or the service is performed. Thus, for example, a procuring entity is permitted to require a foreign producer to comply with laws guaranteeing freedom of association and protecting collective bargaining rights that generally apply in the territory in which the good is produced, even if that law does not apply to that foreign producer based on its location in an export processing zone.

Finally, neither this provision nor any other provision of Chapter Seventeen of the Agreement will affect application of the Davis-Bacon Act and related Acts (40 U.S.C. 3141 - 48 and 29 C.F.R. 5.1).

Chapter Eighteen (Intellectual Property Rights)

No statutory or administrative changes will be required to implement Chapter Eighteen.

Chapter Nineteen (Labor)

1. Implementing Bill

No statutory changes will be required to implement Chapter Nineteen.

2. Administrative Action

Article 19.5.1 of the Agreement establishes a Labor Affairs Council comprising senior officials from each Party. Article 19.5.3 of the Agreement calls for each government to designate an office to serve as a contact point with the other country and the public. The Department of Labor's Bureau of International Labor Affairs (ILAB) will serve as the U.S. contact point for these purposes, and will consult with USTR in carrying out this function.

Chapter Twenty (Environment)

1. Implementing Bill

No statutory changes will be required to implement Chapter Twenty.

2. Administrative Action

Article 20.6.1 of the Agreement establishes an Environmental Affairs Council, comprising senior-level officials, including officials with environmental responsibilities, from each Party. Article 20.9.1 of the Agreement provides that either government may request consultations with the other concerning any matter arising under the chapter and contemplates that each government will designate a contact point to receive such requests. USTR's Office of Environment and Natural Resources will serve as the U.S. contact point for this purpose.

TITLE V – OFFSETS

Increase in Penalty on Paid Preparers Who Fail to Comply with Earned Income Tax Credit Due Diligence Requirements

Section 501 of the bill amends section 6695 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to increase from $100 to $500 the penalty on tax return preparers who fail to comply with the due diligence requirements for determining eligibility for the earned income tax credit.

Requirement for Prisons Located in U.S. to Provide Information for Tax Administration

Section 502 of the bill amends subchapter B of chapter 61 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to require all prisons located in the United States to submit annually to the IRS a list of names and valid Social Security numbers of all inmates serving sentences of one year or more to assist in identifying fraudulent returns filed by prisoners.

Merchandise Processing Fee Rate

Section 503 of the bill amends section 13031 of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (COBRA) to provide for an increase in the current merchandise processing fee rate charged by Customs and Border Protection for formal entries to 0.3464 percent ad valorem and increases the cap on the range of such rate from 0.21 percent to 0.3464 percent ad valorem. The amendment does not affect the limitations imposed on user fees for goods under free trade agreement implementing acts, including section 203 of this bill. The change in rate addresses the increased costs Customs and Border Protection is incurring. The last legislative change to the merchandise processing fee occurred in 1995. The provision will be effective from December 1, 2015, through June 30, 2021.

Customs User Fee Extension

Section 504 of the bill amends section 13031 of COBRA to extend until August 2, 2021 the merchandise processing fees (MPFs) and until December 8, 2020 the passenger and conveyance processing fees authorized under that act.

Timing of Estimated Corporate Tax Payments

Section 505 of the bill increases the amount of the required installment of estimated tax otherwise due from a corporation with at least $1 billion in assets in (1) July, August, or September 2012 by 0.25 percent; and (2) July, August, or September 2016 by 2.75 percent. The bill reduces the next required installment to reflect the prior increase.

STATEMENT ON HOW
THE UNITED STATES – KOREA FREE TRADE AGREEMENT
MAKES PROGRESS IN ACHIEVING
U.S. PURPOSES, POLICIES, OBJECTIVES, AND PRIORITIES

A. INTRODUCTION

The United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement (“Agreement”) makes progress in achieving the applicable purposes, policies, objectives, and priorities of the Bipartisan Trade Promotion Authority Act of 2002 (“TPA Act”). In addition, the Agreement reflects the May 10, 2007 bipartisan Congressional-Executive agreement on trade. This Statement describes how and to what extent the Agreement makes progress in achieving the applicable purposes, policies, objectives, and priorities.

In terms of trade and investment flows, this Agreement will be the most significant free trade agreement the United States has concluded with a country outside North America. It will create significant new opportunities for American workers, farmers, businesses, and consumers by eliminating barriers to trade with our seventh-largest trading partner, and fifth-largest market for agricultural exports. The large-scale commercial benefits are clear: over 95 percent of U.S. exports to the Republic of Korea (“Korea”) of consumer and industrial goods will become duty-free within five years after the Agreement enters into force. Virtually all remaining Korean tariffs on U.S. consumer and industrial goods will be eliminated within ten years. Key U.S. sectors that will benefit from duty elimination under the Agreement are machinery and equipment, auto parts, electronics, forest products, chemicals, and medical and scientific equipment.

Nearly two-thirds ($3 billion) of current U.S. farm exports to Korea will become duty-free on the day the Agreement takes effect. Other U.S. agricultural products will benefit from the creation and annual expansion of “tariff-rate quotas” that will provide duty-free access to Korea’s market for specified quantities of imports. U.S. farm products that will most significantly benefit from improved access to Korea’s market include pork, beef, wheat, corn, poultry, and a broad range of high value agricultural products such as almonds, pistachios, wine, fruits, fruit juices, and vegetables.

The Agreement calls for Korea to substantially reduce barriers to U.S. services and investments. The Agreement also includes high-standard provisions in such key areas as intellectual property rights, electronic commerce, transparency, customs and trade facilitation, dispute settlement, and labor and environmental protection.

The Agreement forms an integral part of the Administration's larger strategy of opening markets around the world through negotiating and concluding global, regional, and bilateral trade agreements. The Agreement provides the opportunity to strengthen our economic and political relationship with a long-time ally and a strong democracy, and advance our strategic interests in East Asia.

The Agreement makes progress in achieving the applicable purposes, policies, objectives, and priorities that the Congress spelled out in the TPA Act. Accordingly, the President strongly believes that the Congress should approve the Agreement and enact the legislation needed to implement it.

B. OVERALL TRADE NEGOTIATING OBJECTIVES

The TPA Act sets out a variety of "overall trade negotiating objectives" that call for future U.S. trade agreements to: (1) open markets by eliminating or reducing barriers to and distortions of trade and creating reciprocal market opportunities, in particular for small businesses; (2) further strengthen international trading disciplines; (3) foster economic growth in the United States and globally; and (4) promote environmental and worker rights policies in the context of trade. The Agreement builds on the foundation of existing trade agreements to make substantial progress in achieving each of these objectives and, in addition, reflects the May 10, 2007 bipartisan Congressional-Executive agreement on trade.

1. Market Opening

The Agreement is comprehensive in scope. Each Party has agreed to liberalize trade in virtually all goods, and to make significant market openings in services and government procurement.

- Consumer/Industrial Goods. Over 95 percent of U.S. exports of consumer and industrial goods will enter Korea duty-free within five years after the Agreement enters into force. Virtually all remaining tariffs on consumer and industrial goods will be eliminated within ten years. The average applied tariff on industrial goods in Korea currently is 6.2 percent, over two times greater than the U.S. average of 2.8 percent.
- Textiles and Apparel. The Agreement adopts a "yarn forward" origin rule, meaning that, generally, apparel using yarn and fabric from the United States and Korea will qualify for preferential tariff treatment. Most trade in textile and apparel goods that satisfy the Agreement's rules of origin will be duty-free immediately.

- Agriculture. Reducing Korea’s average applied tariff of 54 percent on agricultural products, almost six times greater than the U.S. average of nearly 9 percent, will be of significant benefit to U.S. agriculture. Nearly two-thirds ($3 billion) of current U.S. agricultural exports to Korea will become duty-free on the day the Agreement enters into force, including important export priorities such as wheat, corn, soybeans for crushing, whey for feed use, hides and skins, cotton, cherries, pistachios, almonds, orange juice, grape juice, and wine. Korea’s tariffs on most other U.S. agricultural products will be phased out within 15 years.
- Services/Financial Services/Telecommunications. The Agreement will provide enhanced access for U.S. firms to Korea’s services market across a broad range of sectors, including express mail delivery, audio-visual services, foreign legal consultant services, environmental services, telecommunications, and insurance, banking, and other financial services.

Regarding the reduction or elimination of barriers for small business, in 2009, U.S. small- and medium-sized enterprises (“SMEs”) exported $8.4 billion in merchandise to Korea, representing 35 percent of total U.S. merchandise exports to Korea. U.S. SMEs should benefit from the significant tariff cuts under the Agreement. Eighty-nine percent of U.S. businesses exporting to Korea are small businesses.

2. Trade Disciplines for the Digital Economy

The Agreement includes high-standard commitments to promote trade in digital products such as software, music, images, videos, and text. The Agreement draws from traditional trade principles to fashion customized nondiscrimination rules that will apply specifically to digital products. The Agreement also commits both Parties to refrain from imposing tariffs on digital products and includes provisions relating to electronic authentication, online consumer protection, and the acceptance of electronically transmitted trade administration documents.

The Agreement seeks to ensure that workers and firms can fully realize its market-opening potential by building on disciplines currently in place through other agreements. Thus, the Agreement sets out rules on intellectual property rights (“IPR”) that clarify and build on those in the World Trade Organization (“WTO”) Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights and provide for implementation of more recent World Intellectual Property Organization treaties on protection of copyright and rights of performers and producers to strengthen enforcement and enhance IPR rules.

The Agreement also includes detailed rules governing telecommunications services, which establish market-opening disciplines that extend beyond those in effect under the WTO Agreement. In addition, the Agreement contains innovative procedures for settling disputes that may arise under the Agreement.

3. Fostering U.S. Economic Growth

According to the U.S. International Trade Commission (“ITC”), when fully implemented the Agreement is estimated to boost U.S. GDP by $10.1 – 11.9 billion (0.1 percent). The ITC estimated that U.S. exports to Korea will increase by $9.7 to 10.9 billion. Formal models, such as the ITC model, however, tend to underestimate the benefits of trade agreements because their scope is limited (e.g., they do not assess the impact of rules changes, such as improved IPR protection, and group many industries and products into a limited number of categories for analysis) and because not all the expected effects of the Agreement are necessarily measured (e.g., they do not estimate or fully estimate dynamic or intermediate growth gains from trade liberalization). The ITC model, specifically, also does not reflect the removal of barriers to trade in services. It is clear, therefore, that the Agreement will produce economic gains beyond those accounted for by the ITC.

4. Labor Rights and Environmental Protection

Trade agreements can, and should, complement efforts to protect worker rights and enhance environmental protection. Accordingly, the Agreement includes meaningful commitments by each country on labor and environmental protection. The set of commitments included in the Agreement reflects the May 10, 2007 bipartisan Congressional-Executive agreement on trade.

The Parties reaffirm their obligations as members of the International Labor Organization (“ILO”). The Agreement is one of the first U.S. trade agreements to include a provision requiring each Party to adopt and maintain in its statutes and regulations, and practice thereunder, the fundamental labor rights stated in the 1998 ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-up adopted by the International Labor Organization (“ILO Declaration”), including for purposes of the Agreement’s labor chapter a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor. To establish a violation of this obligation a Party must demonstrate that the other Party has failed to comply with its terms in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment. The Agreement also provides that neither Party will waive or derogate from its statutes and regulations that implement this obligation in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties.

Each Party also agrees that it will not to fail to effectively enforce its labor laws on a sustained or recurring basis in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment. The labor chapter defines “labor laws” to include laws directly related to the labor rights as stated in the ILO Declaration, laws providing for acceptable conditions of work with respect to minimum wages, hours of work, and occupational safety and health, and laws providing labor protections for children and minors, including the effective abolition of child labor and a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor. All obligations set out in the Agreement's labor chapter will be subject to enforcement through the same general dispute settlement procedures and remedies applicable to the Agreement's commercial obligations. The Parties will also create a labor cooperation mechanism through which they will collaborate in addressing labor matters of common interest.

In addition, the Agreement's chapter on government procurement is one of the first U.S. trade agreements to include a labor-related provision clarifying that in procurements subject to the Agreement, a government agency may adopt technical specifications that require suppliers to comply with generally applicable laws regarding fundamental principles and rights at work and acceptable conditions of work in the territory where the suppliers make the product or perform the service that the agency will purchase.

The Agreement's environment chapter commits each Party to strive to ensure that its laws and policies provide for and encourage high levels of environmental protection and to continue to improve its respective levels of protection. The Agreement is also one of the first U.S. trade agreements to require each country to adopt, maintain, and implement laws, regulations, and all other measures to fulfill its obligations under certain multilateral environmental agreements ("covered agreements") to which both governments are parties. To establish a violation of this obligation a Party must demonstrate that the other Party has failed to comply in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment.

The environment chapter also commits each Party not to fail to effectively enforce its environmental laws, and its laws, regulations, and other measures to fulfill its obligations under the covered agreements, on a sustained or recurring basis in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment. The chapter also provides that neither Party may waive or derogate from its environmental laws in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment other than pursuant to the waiver provisions of those laws. Further, the chapter contains provisions to enhance the mutual supportiveness of trade and environmental policies. As is the case for the Agreement's labor chapter, all obligations under the environment chapter will be subject to enforcement through the same general dispute settlement procedures and remedies as those applicable to the Agreement's commercial obligations. The two Parties have also signed a separate Environmental Cooperation Agreement to facilitate bilateral cooperation on environmental matters.

Finally, the Agreement's government procurement chapter clarifies that government agencies may include technical specifications in their procurements to promote environmental protection.

C. PRINCIPAL TRADE NEGOTIATING OBJECTIVES

The TPA Act establishes a variety of “principal trade negotiating objectives.” The Agreement makes substantial progress toward each of the applicable goals set out in the Act.

1. Opening Markets for U.S. Goods

As noted above, the Agreement eliminates virtually all Korean import duties on U.S. goods, reducing most tariffs to zero as soon as the Agreement takes effect. Moreover, the Agreement includes specific provisions designed to reinforce the increased market opportunities that duty-free trade will offer and provide greater certainty for U.S. exporters in accessing Korea’s markets. For example, in addition to cutting tariffs on agricultural goods, the Agreement will facilitate bilateral trade in farm and ranch products through a new bilateral standing committee established to address sanitary and phytosanitary (“SPS”) issues. The two Parties will also increase bilateral cooperation on technical regulations, standards, and conformity assessment procedures, which will help to address unnecessary technical barriers to trade (“TBT”) that may hinder U.S. companies from taking full advantage of the Korean market.

The Agreement contains a comprehensive package of provisions to ensure that the Korean market is open to U.S.-made automobiles. The Agreement eliminates discriminatory aspects of Korea’s vehicle tax regime, and addresses nontariff barriers arising from Korean automotive regulations to ensure that they do not prevent U.S. vehicles from accessing the Korean market, including by establishing California standards as the benchmark for Korea’s non-methane organic gas emissions standards. Under the Agreement Korea is prohibited from adopting technical regulations related to motor vehicles that create unnecessary obstacles to trade. Building on the progress made by these provisions toward achieving TPA market opening objectives, the commitments contained in the February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters between Korea and the United States further advance those objectives. Korea will allow a U.S. manufacturer that sells 25,000 or fewer originating vehicles in Korea annually to certify that its originating vehicles meet U.S. automotive safety standards, whereupon Korea will deem those vehicles compliant with its safety standards. For all significant regulations affecting motor vehicles, Korea also agreed to provide a one-year grace period between the date a regulation is issued and the date manufacturers must comply with it, and to conduct post-implementation reviews of existing significant motor vehicle-related regulations to assess whether the regulations remain appropriate.

In the telecommunications equipment sector, the Agreement also includes specific provisions guarding against the adoption of technical requirements that could be applied to disadvantage U.S. technologies.

2. Opening Markets for U.S. Services

The Agreement creates new market opportunities in Korea for a range of key U.S. services suppliers and will lock in access in sectors where Korea's services markets are already open. The Agreement includes a market-opening services framework based in substantial part on a trade-liberalizing "negative list" approach. This means that all services sectors will be subject to the Agreement's rules unless a Party negotiated a specific exemption.

The Agreement either opens or locks in existing access to Korea's services markets in such priority U.S. services sectors as financial services, telecommunications, computer and related services, distribution services, professional services, advertising, audiovisual services, education and training, tourism, construction and engineering, energy services, and environmental services. The Agreement's market-opening provisions are complemented by high-standard rules governing regulatory transparency – rules that are especially important given the highly regulated nature of many services industries.

Under the Agreement, Korea will enhance access for U.S. suppliers to another key services market – express delivery. The Agreement includes a comprehensive definition of express delivery services that requires Korea to provide national treatment, most-favored-nation treatment, and additional market access to U.S. express delivery suppliers. The Agreement also addresses the issue of postal monopolies directing revenues derived from monopoly postal services to confer an advantage on express delivery services.

In the financial services sector, Korea will undertake commitments to ensure a more transparent and open financial services regime. The Agreement also helps U.S. financial service suppliers take advantage of regional economies of scale. In addition, in the insurance sector, the Agreement levels the competitive playing field between government-owned Korea Post, sectoral cooperative insurance suppliers, and U.S. private sector firms.

3. Opening Markets for U.S. Investment

The Agreement commits Korea to provide a strong and predictable legal framework for U.S. investors. Investments covered by the Agreement include companies, real estate, intellectual property rights, concessions, permits, and debt instruments in Korea. With limited exceptions, the Agreement gives U.S. investors the opportunity to establish, acquire, and operate investments in Korea on the same basis as Korea's own investors or other foreign investors. Under the Agreement, the United States will continue to provide Korean investors a high level of protection and due process, but, consistent with TPA negotiating objectives, the Agreement does not require the United States to give Korean investors greater substantive rights than U.S. companies already enjoy in the United States.

Under the Agreement, Korea will provide U.S. investors substantive protections and due process rights that are consistent with U.S. legal principles and practice. For example, the Agreement includes protection against denials of justice in accordance with the principle of due process embodied in the principal legal systems of the world. The expropriation provisions of the Agreement draw heavily from principles developed in U.S. takings law under the Fifth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. Korea may expropriate an investment only for a public purpose and only if it acts in a non-discriminatory manner, affords an affected investor due process, and pays prompt, adequate, and effective compensation. The Agreement also clarifies that expropriation claims are limited to property rights and property interests, not other types of interests, and incorporates tests used by the U.S. Supreme Court to determine whether a regulatory taking has occurred. The expropriation provisions also recognize that, as has been the case in U.S. practice, nondiscriminatory regulatory actions designed and applied to protect legitimate public welfare objectives only rarely constitute an expropriation.

The Agreement also prohibits Korea from burdening U.S. investors with protectionist “performance requirements” – such as rules requiring investors to buy local products – and ensures that Korea will allow U.S. investors to transfer funds related to their investments into and out of Korea.

The Agreement establishes a dispute settlement mechanism that will allow an investor from one Party who invests in the other Party to pursue a damages claim under the Agreement against the host government through binding international arbitration. The investor may assert that the Party has breached a substantive obligation of the investment chapter or that it has breached an investment agreement with, or an investment authorization granted to, the investor or its investment. Key provisions afford public access to information on these “investor-State” dispute settlement proceedings. For example, the Agreement requires the two Parties to make key documents available to the public and to open arbitral hearings to the public, with limited exceptions for business and other legally confidential information. The Agreement also authorizes arbitral tribunals to accept amicus submissions from the public. In addition, the Agreement includes provisions, based on those used in U.S. courts, to dispose quickly of frivolous claims.

Finally, the Agreement calls on the Parties to consider, within three years after the Agreement enters into force, whether to establish an appellate body or similar mechanism to review awards that arbitral tribunals render under the investment chapter.

4. Intellectual Property Rights

The Agreement clarifies and builds on existing international standards for the protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights, with an emphasis on new and emerging technologies. The Agreement ensures that Korea will provide a high level of IPR protection, similar to that provided under U.S. law. Key provisions of the Agreement, such as those on preventing circumvention of anti-piracy devices and establishing the scope of liability for copying works on the Internet, are modeled on U.S. statutes.

The Agreement includes state-of-the-art protection for trademarks and copyrights as well as expanded protection for patents and undisclosed information.

The Agreement requires Korea to accede to certain international copyright and related rights treaties and to extend its term of protection for copyrighted works. Under the Agreement, Korea will ensure that copyright owners maintain rights with respect to temporary copies of their works, which is vital for protecting copyrighted music, videos, software, and text from widespread unauthorized sharing over the Internet. The Agreement also requires each Party to ensure that its government agencies use only legitimate computer software, thus setting a positive example for private users. To prevent piracy of satellite television broadcasts, the Agreement also requires Korea to protect encrypted satellite signals as well as the programming those signals carry.

The Agreement commits Korea to make patent rights available for inventions, with certain exceptions, and provides for extending a patent's term if there are unreasonable delays in issuing the patent or granting regulatory approval for marketing the patented product. The Agreement also requires Korea to protect against unauthorized disclosure or unfair commercial use of test data and other information that pharmaceutical and agricultural chemical companies submit to government regulators in order to secure regulatory approval for their products. Under the Agreement, Korea will protect for at least five years such information generated in connection with pharmaceutical product approvals and will protect similar information for agricultural chemicals for at least ten years.

These standards are made more meaningful through requirements for tough enforcement measures and remedies to combat piracy and counterfeiting, including procedures in civil cases for seizure and destruction of pirated and counterfeit products, and the equipment used to manufacture these products. The Agreement also commits Korea to ensure that its criminal law enforcement authorities are empowered to seize goods, order the forfeiture of assets, and destroy counterfeit and pirated goods and the equipment used to produce those goods. Korea must also enable its enforcement officials to act on their own initiative against counterfeit and pirated goods, even without a formal complaint by the right-holder, either by stopping them at the border or initiating criminal actions, thus providing more effective enforcement against these products.

5. Transparency

Without a high standard of regulatory transparency, the benefits of market-opening trade commitments can be lost through arbitrary or unfair government regulations. Accordingly, the Agreement includes provisions that will ensure that Korea observes fundamental principles of regulatory transparency. Those provisions are set out in a specific chapter of the Agreement dealing with regulatory transparency as well as in provisions addressing customs administration, TBT, investment, cross-border trade in services, financial services, telecommunications, and pharmaceuticals and medical devices. The Agreement's principal transparency rules are based on U.S. practice under the Administrative Procedures Act.

Increased transparency is an effective tool in addressing government corruption in international trade. Under the Agreement, Korea must have in place prohibitions on bribery in matters affecting international trade and investment, including bribery of foreign officials, and establish criminal penalties for such offenses. In addition, Korea must adopt appropriate measures to protect those who, in good faith, report acts of bribery. The Agreement also affirms the commitment of both Parties to prevent and combat corruption in international trade and to work jointly to support appropriate initiatives in international fora.

6. Regulatory Practices

The Agreement reduces the possibility that regulatory practices can be used to place U.S. goods or companies at a competitive disadvantage in Korea's market. The Agreement imposes disciplines against protectionist practices of this sort across a broad spectrum of government measures, including disciplines on customs practices, TBT measures, government procurement practices, and regulations affecting services, telecommunications, electronic commerce, and investment. In addition, the Agreement imposes specific obligations on regulatory transparency, rights of appeal in administrative proceedings, and access to information. The Agreement also includes a chapter addressing anticompetitive practices.

In addition, the Agreement includes an entire chapter directly addressing issues related to market access and innovation of pharmaceutical products and medical devices. The chapter calls for Korea to ensure that its national health care authorities maintain fair, efficient, and transparent procedures for listing pharmaceutical products and medical devices eligible for reimbursement under its national health care system and for setting the amount of reimbursement for those products and devices. Korea will also establish an independent review process that an applicant directly affected by a government pricing and reimbursement determination may invoke.

7. Electronic Commerce

The Agreement requires both Korea and the United States to apply the principle of national treatment and NTR (MFN) treatment to trade in electronically transmitted digital products (e.g., digitally encoded computer programs, video, images, and sound recordings). The Agreement includes rules prohibiting duties on electronically transmitted digital products and limiting duties on digital products stored on a carrier medium to a duty based on the value of the carrier medium alone. In so doing, the Agreement creates a strong foundation for wider efforts to bar duties and discriminatory treatment of digital products. The Agreement also includes provisions relating to the authentication of electronic transactions, online consumer protection, and the acceptance of electronically transmitted trade administration documents.

8. Trade in Agricultural Products

As described above, the Agreement cuts Korean tariffs on U.S. agricultural products, with immediate duty-free access across a wide variety of U.S. farm and ranch products. The Agreement also includes several provisions designed to eliminate specific Korean barriers to U.S. agricultural products, while providing reasonable adjustment periods for producers of U.S. import-sensitive agricultural goods, including a TRQ for certain dairy products entering the United States. In addition, the Agreement includes provisions designed to ensure that Korea administers its TRQs in a fair and transparent manner.

9. Labor Rights and Environmental Protection

As described earlier, the Agreement is one of the first U.S. trade agreements to include a commitment by each Party to implement in its law and practice the fundamental labor rights as stated in the ILO Declaration, reflecting a key element of the May 10, 2007 bipartisan Congressional-Executive agreement on trade. Moreover, the Agreement's labor chapter also includes a commitment by each Party not to fail to effectively enforce its labor laws, including its laws embodying those fundamental rights in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment. In addition, all of the Agreement's labor obligations will be enforceable through the same dispute settlement procedures and remedies that apply to the Agreement's commercial obligations. The United States and Korea also commit to cooperate on labor issues, in part through a "labor cooperation mechanism" described in an annex to the Agreement's labor chapter.

The Agreement is also one of the first U.S. trade agreements to call for each Party to adopt, maintain, and implement laws, regulations, and all other measures to fulfill its obligations under certain multilateral environmental agreements ("MEAs") to which both governments are parties. Similar to a provision in the Agreement's labor chapter, a key component of the Agreement's environmental provisions is a commitment by each Party that it will not fail to effectively enforce its environmental laws and its measures to fulfill its obligations under the specified MEAs in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment. The Agreement also will prohibit each Party from waiving or otherwise derogating from its domestic environmental laws in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment other than pursuant to the waiver provisions of those laws. Each of the obligations set out in the Agreement's environment chapter will be enforceable through the same dispute settlement procedures and remedies as those available to enforce the Agreement's commercial obligations.

10. Dispute Settlement

The Agreement includes detailed procedures for settling disputes that may arise between the Parties over its implementation. The Agreement's general dispute settlement remedies and procedures will be available for all of its enforceable obligations, including the Agreement's commercial, environmental, and labor provisions. In addition, the Agreement provides an expedited dispute settlement mechanism specifically for disputes that relate to motor vehicles.

The Agreement's dispute settlement procedures rely principally on consultations and compliance rather than on imposition of trade sanctions or penalties. The procedures set high standards of openness and transparency. The Agreement requires dispute settlement proceedings to be open to the public, provides for the disputing Parties to release their legal briefs and other filings to the public (except for confidential information), and authorizes dispute settlement panels to receive submissions from interested non-governmental groups.

If a panel finds that a Party has violated an obligation under the Agreement, the two Parties must seek to agree on a resolution to the dispute. If they cannot agree on a resolution, they must try to agree on acceptable trade compensation. If the two Parties cannot agree on compensation, or if the Party that initiated the proceeding believes the defending Party has failed to implement an agreed resolution, the complaining Party may provide notice that it intends to suspend trade benefits equivalent in effect to those impaired as a result of the disputed measure. Alternatively, the defending Party may provide notice that it will pay an annual monetary assessment to the other Party. The two Parties must seek to agree on the amount of the assessment. If they cannot, the assessment will be set at 50 percent of the level of trade concessions the complaining Party is authorized to suspend. This mechanism meets the TPA Act objectives of encouraging the provision of trade-expanding compensation as well as the imposition of penalties to encourage compliance.

The Agreement includes an expedited dispute settlement mechanism for disputes concerning motor vehicles. Under this mechanism, if a panel determines that a Party has not met its obligations under the Agreement with respect to motor vehicles and, as a result, has materially affected their sale or distribution, the other Party may revoke the tariff concessions it made under the Agreement with respect to passenger vehicles until the violation is remedied.

11. Trade Remedies

The Agreement includes a safeguard procedure, similar to the procedures in other U.S. trade agreements, which will be available to aid domestic industries in the unlikely event that an industry sustains or is threatened with serious injury due to increased imports resulting from the reduction or elimination of U.S. import duties under the Agreement. The Agreement also includes a special safeguard mechanism to address the possibility that duty reduction or elimination under the Agreement could result in damaging levels of textile or apparel imports. In addition to the provisions of the Agreement, Korea agreed to a special safeguard procedure for motor vehicles in the exchange of letters signed in February 2011.

The Agreement will not affect U.S. rights to take safeguard actions under section 201 of the Trade Act of 1974, which implements the WTO Agreement on Safeguards and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994. Under the Agreement, the President may, but will not be required to, exempt imports of goods from Korea from a WTO safeguard measure, if the goods are not a substantial cause or threat of serious injury.

The Agreement also provides that each country will retain its rights and obligations under the WTO Agreement with regard to the application of antidumping and countervailing duties. Thus, the Agreement will not affect U.S. rights and obligations regarding these trade remedies as they currently exist under the WTO. The Agreement provides that a Party will notify the other Party if it receives an antidumping or countervailing duty application and that following an affirmative preliminary determination, a Party's competent authorities will provide an opportunity to exporters of the other country to consult regarding proposed price undertakings. Antidumping and countervailing duty measures may not be challenged under the Agreement's dispute settlement procedures.

D. PRIORITIES FOR MAINTAINING GLOBAL COMPETITIVENESS

The TPA Act also calls for the President to promote certain priorities to address and maintain U.S. competitiveness in the global economy. The Agreement makes progress in promoting each of these priorities.

1. Labor Cooperation

The United States and Korea are members of the ILO and have a longstanding cooperative relationship on labor issues. During the negotiations, government labor experts from the two countries convened to discuss their respective labor laws and the operation of each country's labor law system. The Parties will continue to consult and work together to promote respect for the rights and principles embodied in the ILO Declaration and ILO Convention 182 Concerning the Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labour. The Agreement establishes a labor cooperation mechanism that provides for a range of possible collaborative labor activities. The U.S. Department of Labor and Korea's labor ministry will serve as contact points for this mechanism and, together with officials from other appropriate agencies, will carry out the work under it.

2. Domestic Policy Objectives

The Agreement fully takes into account critical U.S. domestic policy objectives, such as the need to maintain flexibility in addressing U.S. national security and public health, safety, and consumer interests. The Agreement includes a broad set of general policy exceptions for measures governing trade in both goods and services to ensure that the United States remains fully free to safeguard the national and public interest, including specific exceptions for national security, public health and morals, conservation, taxation, and protection of confidential information. Consistent with the May 10, 2007 bipartisan Congressional-Executive agreement on trade, the Agreement includes language clarifying that an arbitral tribunal or panel must apply the Agreement's "essential security" exception if a Party invokes it in a proceeding. The Agreement also avoids disturbing existing state and local governmental measures by including "grandfather" clauses that will exempt those measures from challenge under the Agreement.

3. Relationship between MEAs and the Agreement

As noted in the Administration's environmental review of the Agreement, the environment and sustainable development are important concerns for both the United States and Korea. The Agreement's environment chapter will obligate each Party to adopt and maintain laws, regulations, and all other measures to fulfill its obligations under certain "covered agreements," i.e., specified MEAs to which the United States and Korea are both parties. In addition, the Agreement expressly recognizes that certain MEAs play an important role in protecting the environment and that the environment chapter and a separate bilateral environmental cooperation agreement can contribute to realizing the objectives of those MEAs. The Agreement, therefore, commits the Parties to continue to seek means to enhance the mutual supportiveness of MEAs and trade agreements to which they are both parties.

In the event of any inconsistency between a Party's obligations under the Agreement and one of the covered agreements, the Agreement provides that the Party must seek to balance its obligations under both agreements, but this will not preclude the Party from taking a measure to comply with the MEA as long as the measure's primary purpose is not to impose a disguised restriction on trade.

4. Currency and Exchange Rate Manipulation

Section 2102(c)(12) of the TPA Act states that "[i]n order to address and maintain United States competitiveness in the global economy, the President shall ... seek to establish consultative mechanisms among parties to trade agreements to examine the trade consequences of significant and unanticipated currency movements and to scrutinize whether a foreign government engaged in a pattern of manipulating its currency to promote a competitive advantage in international trade.”

The Agreement’s provisions on investment, cross-border trade in services, and financial services will promote and protect the freer international movement of capital and consequently make it more difficult to manipulate exchange rates to achieve levels inconsistent with levels set by market forces.

The currency movements mentioned in section 2102(c)(12) can arise from many conditions, particularly from macroeconomic developments, macroeconomic policy changes, or the appearance of new information on fundamental economic conditions. The determination of whether any such movement reflects currency manipulation to promote a competitive advantage in international trade must therefore take into account a broad range of issues, institutions, and market developments which will require a review mechanism with a larger scope than any specific trade agreement.

The Secretary of the Treasury, under the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988 (22 U.S.C. 5304, 5305, and 5306), provides semiannual reports on the international economic and exchange rate policies of the major trading partners of the United States after having consulted with the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and with the International Monetary Fund (“IMF”) management and staff. These reports consider whether countries manipulate the rate of exchange between their currency and the United States dollar for purposes of preventing effective balance of payments adjustments or gaining an unfair competitive advantage in international trade. Each member of the IMF is obligated, under Article IV of the IMF Articles of Agreement, to avoid manipulation of exchange rates for such purposes.

In its analysis of exchange rate policies of foreign countries and in its consultations with the IMF concerning these policies, the Department of the Treasury will ensure that currency movements mentioned in section 2102(c)(12) are examined. The Department of the Treasury will seek to resolve problems of currencies that are considered to be manipulated in the sense of section 2102(c)(12) through discussions with the foreign authorities responsible for foreign exchange rate policies.

5. Reporting Requirements

As required under the TPA Act, the Administration has provided a report to the Congress describing Korea’s laws governing exploitative child labor. In addition, the Administration has reported to the appropriate Congressional committees as required under the TPA Act on: (1) the Administration's environmental review of the Agreement; and (2) its review of the Agreement's impact on U.S. employment. The Administration has also provided the Congress a labor rights report on Korea. All of these reports will be made available to the public. Finally, the Administration has reported, as specified in the TPA Act, on U.S. efforts to establish consultative mechanisms to strengthen Korea's capacity to promote respect for core labor standards and to develop and implement standards for the protection of the environment and human health based on science.

STATEMENT OF WHY THE UNITED STATES – KOREA FREE TRADE AGREEMENT IS IN THE INTERESTS OF U.S. COMMERCE

INTRODUCTION

The United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS) provides for reciprocal trade liberalization between the United States and the Republic of Korea (“Korea”). The elimination of tariffs and the reduction of certain Korean taxes on automobiles under the KORUS is estimated to increase U.S. Gross Domestic Product (GDP) by up to $12 billion and U.S. goods exports by nearly $11 billion annually. In addition, U.S. private services exports to Korea are expected to grow significantly, from a base of $12.6 billion in 2009. Together, these export opportunities support the President’s National Export Initiative goal of doubling exports by the end of 2014.

In February 2006, the United States initiated negotiations with Korea on a trade agreement. These negotiations were completed April 1, 2007, and the KORUS was signed on June 30, 2007. Additional agreements, which principally address issues related to autos, were signed on February 10, 2011.

WHY A TRADE AGREEMENT WITH KOREA?

The KORUS is essential to ensuring U.S. competitiveness in Korea and is a necessary step to correct the existing imbalance in our trade relationship with Korea. Eleven years ago, the United States was the top exporter to Korea, providing one-fifth of all Korean imports; today we are in third place with less than 10 percent market share. Implementing the KORUS can help U.S. businesses and their workers stem this downward slide by making U.S. products more competitive in the Korean market. U.S. exporters of industrial goods to Korea currently pay an average 6.2 percent tariff, or over $1.3 billion a year. In contrast, Korean exporters of industrial goods to the United States currently face an average 2.8 percent tariff. The KORUS will level the playing field, eliminating tariffs on over 95 percent of U.S. exports of consumer and

Moves the Trade Relationship to Full Partnership

The KORUS will level the playing field by eliminating the significant tariff imbalance that currently favors Korean exporters over U.S. exporters. Korea’s current applied tariffs on consumer and industrial goods average 6.2 percent. The average applied U.S. tariff rate is only 2.8 percent — less than half of the Korean rate. The KORUS levels the playing field, enhances competition, and brings the commercial relationship to full partnership.

industrial products to Korea within five years of entry into force, including computers and electronic products; auto parts; power generation equipment; chemicals; medical and scientific equipment; and certain wood products. Most remaining tariffs will be eliminated within ten years. Almost two-thirds of U.S. agricultural exports to Korea will be immediately duty-free when the KORUS enters into force ($3.0 billion duty-free out of $4.9 billion average during the period 2008-2010). (USDA data; http://www.fas.usda.gov/ustrade/USTExFAS.asp?QI=.) Agreements like the KORUS not only reduce foreign barriers to U.S. trade, but also require important reforms of the partner country's domestic legal and business environment that will encourage business development and investment. In this instance, Korea will make reforms that include providing greater transparency for government regulatory actions, improving the protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights, and providing clear guidance on customs matters.

Expanding Economic Opportunities for U.S. Manufacturers, Workers, Farmers and Ranchers

Korea is our seventh largest export market, and it continues to grow. Between 2003 and 2010, U.S. merchandise exports to Korea grew from $24.1 billion to $38.8 billion. The market access and trade disciplines provided by the KORUS offer an opportunity to further expand U.S. exports to a region that is already seeing high export growth rates. In 2010, total goods trade between the United States and Korea was $87.7 billion. The U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) estimates that the reduction of Korean tariffs and tariff-rate quotas on goods alone would add up to $12 billion to annual U.S. GDP and up to $11 billion in annual merchandise exports to Korea. The KORUS will support tens of thousands of additional American jobs.

Although no longer the number one exporter to Korea, the United States remains an important source of Korea's imports, with a 9.5 percent market share in 2010. Despite Korea's close proximity to other competitive Asian economies, such as China, Japan, and the rest of the Asia Pacific group, the high quality and wide selection of competitively priced U.S. products provide U.S. exporters with a distinctive edge, one which will be enhanced under the tariff elimination provisions of the KORUS.

Korea is carrying out an ambitious policy of concluding free trade agreements with its main trading partners. For example, Korea's trade agreement with the European Union (EU) entered into force on July 1, 2011. Korea's trade agreement with Peru entered into force on August 1, 2011. Korea presently has additional trade agreements in place with Chile, India, the 10 country ASEAN group, and the four countries of the European Free Trade Association (EFTA), among others. In addition, the country is negotiating new trade agreements with several countries and regional groups, notably including Australia, Colombia, Turkey, and New Zealand. Korea is also considering launching negotiations with a number of trading partners, including China, and is exploring re-launching its stalled negotiations with Japan. Most of these countries compete with the United States in the Korean market. Should the United States not implement the KORUS, the U.S. share of Korea's imports will further erode as Korea's trade agreements with competitor countries take hold, leaving U.S. exporters in an increasingly disadvantaged position.

Advancing the U.S. Trade Agenda

The KORUS is a key part of the Administration's regional and global efforts to open markets and enable U.S. businesses to sell goods and services around the world. As Korea's trade ties with us deepen, the United States will look for new opportunities to work with Korea in multilateral fora such as the World Trade Organization (WTO). The common disciplines and trade objectives developed through the KORUS will enhance our ability to forge consensus on the global trading level.

U.S. SMALL AND MEDIUM-SIZED ENTERPRISES: KEY EXPORTERS TO KOREA

The KORUS will be of particular benefit to U.S. small- and medium-sized enterprises (businesses with fewer than 500 employees). In 2008, U.S. small- and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) exported $11.2 billion in merchandise to Korea, representing 35 percent of total U.S. exports to Korea — above the 31 percent SME share of U.S. exports to the world.

U.S. SMEs in particular benefit from tariff elimination under our trade agreements, and should benefit from the significant tariff cuts under the KORUS.

Eighty-nine percent of the U.S. businesses exporting to Korea are small businesses.

The transparency obligations, particularly those contained in the customs chapter, are also very important to U.S. SMEs, which may not have the resources to navigate complex customs requirements and other regulatory red tape.

Free trade is important to U.S. SMEs

- U.S. SMEs are already taking advantage of U.S. efforts to open markets throughout the world. In 2008, SMEs represented nearly 96 percent of exporting companies to our NAFTA partners Canada and Mexico.
- SMEs represented a majority of U.S. exporting companies to our other trade agreement partners in 2008, including Australia (91 percent), Singapore (89 percent), Chile (86 percent), and Morocco (75 percent).
- U.S. SMEs represented over 90 percent of all U.S. exporters to Dominican Republic-Central America Free Trade Agreement partner countries (Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua) in 2008.
- According to the U.S. ITC, an estimated 40 percent of jobs supported by goods and services exports are from SME direct and indirect exports.

ENHANCED MARKET ACCESS TO KOREA

Over 95 percent of U.S. exports of consumer and industrial products will enter Korea duty-free within five years of implementation of the KORUS, including exports in the following key industrial sectors: agricultural equipment, aerospace, automotive, building products, consumer goods, electrical equipment, environmental goods, footwear and travel goods, information and communications technologies, metals and ores, paper and paper products, scientific equipment, shipping and transportation, and wood and lumber. All remaining tariffs on non-textile consumer and industrial products will be phased out over ten years, with the exception of tariffs on four fish products that will be phased out over 12 or 15 years. The KORUS will benefit farmers and ranchers by immediately eliminating tariffs on two-thirds of the value of current U.S. agricultural exports, with the tariffs on virtually all remaining agricultural products phased-out over a defined time period of 5 to 15 years in most cases.

INDUSTRIAL GOODS

Aerospace

U.S. exports of aerospace products averaged over $2.5 billion during the period 2008-2010, accounting for 8.2 percent of total U.S. industrial exports to Korea. All U.S. aerospace exports to Korea, which are currently subject to tariffs that average 3.5 percent and range up to 8 percent, will be duty-free within three years after entry into force of the KORUS. Key U.S. products that will benefit from the rapid tariff elimination include turbojets, turbo propellers, gas turbines, radar apparatus, and navigation instruments.

Auto and Auto Parts	8.3%
Building Products	7.8%
Chemicals	6.1%
Consumer Goods	7.0%
Electrical Equipment	7.4%
Fish and Fish Products	17.2%
Machinery	7.5%
Medical Equipment	5.4%
Scientific Equipment	4.7%

Chemicals

Chemicals accounted for over 17 percent of U.S. industrial exports to Korea during the period 2008-2010, averaging $5.4 billion per year. More than 82 percent of chemical exports to Korea, currently subject to average tariffs of 6.1 percent and ranging up to 50 percent, will be duty-free within three years after entry into force of the KORUS. The remaining tariffs will be phased out over the next two to seven years. Best export prospects in this sector include plastics articles, polyurethane, cellulose acetate, and phenols. Additionally, tariffs on more than 97 percent of pharmaceuticals and fertilizer and agrochemical exports will fall to zero within three years of entry into force of the KORUS.

Environmental Goods

Environmental goods, which include a variety of products geared toward improving the environment and human safety, accounted for over 4 percent of U.S. industrial exports to Korea during the period 2008-2010, averaging $1.3 billion. More than 95 percent of U.S. exports of environmental goods to Korea, currently subject to average tariffs of 5.8 percent and ranging up to 16 percent, will enter Korea duty-free within three years. Korea's remaining tariffs will be phased out over the next two to seven years. Best export prospects include certain air and gas pumps, water filtration and purification machinery, heat exchange pumps, and renewable energy equipment, including solar and wind technology components.

Machinery

Machinery accounted for over 9 percent of total U.S. industrial exports to Korea during the period 2008-2010, averaging $2.8 billion. Korea's applied tariffs on these products average 7.5 percent. As a result of the KORUS, over 86 percent of this trade will enter Korea duty-free within three years of entry into force of the KORUS. The remaining tariffs will be phased out over the next two to seven years. Best export prospects include pumps, compressors, valves, machine tools, mining machinery, piston engines and engine parts, and machinery for the production of textiles, chemicals, rubber, and plastics.

Medical Equipment

During the period 2008-2010, U.S. exports of medical equipment to Korea averaged over $1.1 billion. As a result of the KORUS, over 90 percent of U.S. exports of medical equipment will enter Korea duty-free within three years of entry into force of the KORUS. The remaining tariffs will be phased out over the next two to seven years. Best export prospects for products include surgical instruments, diagnostic equipment, artificial joints and parts, lab reagents, and medical appliances.

Remanufactured Equipment

Remanufacturing is a process where a recovered good, or core, is transformed through cleaning, testing, and other operations into a product that is improved to sound working condition and has a life expectancy and warranty similar to that of a new product. As part of the KORUS, Korea has affirmed that the general obligation not to prohibit or restrict trade in goods applies to remanufactured goods. Special rules of origin facilitate development of remanufacturing between Korea and the United States. This will provide significant export and investment opportunities for U.S. firms involved in remanufactured products such as medical equipment, machinery, and auto parts.

AUTOS

The Korean market, while large in size, has remained one of the most closed automotive markets in the world. The KORUS, together with the commitments contained in a February 10, 2011 exchange of letters between the United States and the Government of Korea ("February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters"), as well as Agreed Minutes on Korean greenhouse gas emissions and fuel economy regulations, signed on February 10, 2011, will offer new opportunities to U.S. automotive exporters by removing tariff barriers and creating mechanisms for dealing with any future non-tariff barriers.

Tariffs:

- Duties on U.S. cars exported to Korea will be immediately reduced by half, to 4 percent, upon entry into force of the KORUS. These duties will be eliminated by year five.
- Duties on U.S. trucks will be eliminated immediately upon entry into force of the KORUS.
- Korea's current tariff of 8 percent on electric cars will be reduced to 4 percent upon entry into force, and then will be eliminated in linear cuts by year five.

Non-Tariff Barriers:

- Automotive Safety Standards: Any originating vehicle sold in Korea by a manufacturer that has sold 25,000 or fewer U.S.-origin motor vehicles in Korea in the previous year will be considered as complying with Korean safety regulations provided the manufacturer certifies that it meets U.S. Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards.
- Automotive Environmental Standards: Vehicles sold in Korea by a manufacturer that sold up to 4,500 motor vehicles in Korea in calendar year 2009 will be considered as complying with new Korean environmental standards from 2012 to 2015 if the vehicles achieve average fuel economy or carbon dioxide emission targets within 19 percent of those included in the new Korean regulations.
- Taxes: Korea will reduce tax rates for American cars and streamline current taxes based on engine size, which have disproportionately raised the cost of larger American vehicles. Korea will not adopt new taxes based on engine displacement, and will adhere to additional transparency requirements, if it adopts new taxes based on fuel economy or greenhouse gas emissions.
- Transparency: The KORUS will prohibit Korea from adopting new automotive regulations that create unnecessary barriers to trade and establish an early warning system for potential trade barriers. The additional agreements also provide: (1) that Korea provide a 12-month period between the time a final technical regulation or conformity assessment procedure requiring a substantial change in motor vehicle design or technology is published and the time auto companies must comply with it, giving companies sufficient time to adjust, and (2) that Korea develop a review system within 24 months of entry into force of the KORUS to make sure that existing significant auto regulations accomplish their objectives in the least burdensome manner possible.
- Special Motor Vehicle Safeguard: Korea has agreed to a special safeguard for motor vehicles to ensure that the American auto industry does not suffer from any harmful surges in Korean auto imports due to the KORUS. This safeguard: (1) will be available for ten years beyond full elimination of tariffs for each Korean auto product; (2) does not subject the United States to retaliation for up to two years after it is applied if the United States fails to agree on tariff reductions or other compensation; (3) can be applied more than once per particular auto product if more than one surge causes serious injury to U.S. production of that product (and the higher tariffs could be applied to a particular product for as long as four years); (4) will not require the United States to progressively re-lower tariffs while the special motor vehicle safeguard is applied; and (5) will require fewer procedural steps to speed up the application of the safeguard when U.S. workers need relief more quickly.

- Snap-Back Remedy: The KORUS will create a tough remedy, allowing the United States to re-impose its tariff (i.e., “snapping back” to pre-agreement tariff levels) on Korean passenger cars if Korea violates or nullifies or impairs a commitment in the KORUS and U.S. auto business in Korea is materially affected as a result. The February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters contains a number of other obligations that are subject to this strong enforcement mechanism.

TEXTILES

The KORUS represents the Administration’s continued efforts to promote economic growth and expand trade with Korea, and to create opportunities for U.S. yarn and fabric exports.

Under the KORUS, Korean tariffs on qualifying U.S. yarns and fabrics will be eliminated, further improving market access for U.S. exporters. Similarly, due to the favorable conditions created by the KORUS, investment in the apparel sector in Korea is expected to grow, promoting sales of U.S. yarns and fabrics to Korea.

Key benefits to the U.S. textile and apparel industry include:

- Yarn-Forward Rule of Origin – The KORUS adheres to a yarn-forward rule of origin, with limited exceptions, meaning that in order to qualify for preferential treatment, textile and apparel products must be made using U.S. or Korean yarns and fabrics.
- Duty Elimination – The KORUS provides export opportunities for U.S. producers. Upon implementation, 98 percent of Korea’s tariff lines will be duty-free immediately, and all tariff lines will be duty-free within five years of entry into force of the KORUS.
- Elastomeric Yarn Requirement – The KORUS requires elastomeric yarns to be sourced from the United States or Korea for textile and apparel products to qualify for preferential treatment.

- Customs Procedures – The KORUS includes specific textile customs cooperation provisions to help prevent transshipment and circumvention of its rules of origin.
- Streamlined Processes to Address Commercial Availability – The KORUS includes a unique transitional streamlined commercial availability determination process that will allow fibers, yarns, or fabrics that are deemed not commercially available in the United States to be used in the production of articles that still qualify for preferential treatment, subject to a quantitative limit.
- Textile Specific Safeguard – The KORUS includes a special textile safeguard mechanism to provide for temporary re-application of normal trade relations/most favored nation (NTR/MFN) tariffs, if a surge in imports under the agreement is shown to be causing or threatening to cause serious damage to domestic industry.

AGRICULTURE

The KORUS will provide America’s farmers, ranchers, food processors, and the businesses they support with improved access to Korea’s $1 trillion economy and 49 million consumers.

The United States is already Korea’s top supplier of a broad variety of farm products including almonds, fresh cherries, hides and skins, poultry, soybeans, corn and wheat. In 2010, U.S. agricultural exports to Korea totaled $5.3 billion, making Korea the fifth largest export market for U.S. farm products. The KORUS is expected to expand those sales even further, as the U.S. ITC estimates that once the KORUS is fully implemented, U.S. sales of agricultural products will increase by $1.9 billion to $3.8 billion.

Lower tariffs will benefit both U.S. suppliers and Korea’s consumers. The KORUS will help the United States compete against Korea’s other major agriculture suppliers and help keep the United States on a level playing field with Korea’s current and future trade partners. The tariff reductions will help the United States compete, for example, against China and Australia, which have increased their presence in Korea’s $15 billion agriculture market in recent years.

Under the KORUS, almost two-thirds of Korean imports of U.S. farm products will become duty-free immediately. These include wheat, corn, soybeans for crushing, whey for feed use, hides and skins, cotton, cherries, pistachios, almonds, orange juice, grape juice, and wine. Other farm products that will benefit from immediate duty-free access within new tariff-rate quotas (TRQs) and safeguards include skim and whole milk powder, whey for food use, cheese, dextrans and modified starches, barley, popcorn, soybeans for food use, dehydrated and table potatoes, honey, and hay.

U.S. farm products benefiting from expanded market opportunities with five year tariff phase-outs include grapefruit, a broad range of processed food products, chocolate and chocolate confectionery, sweet corn, sauces and preparations, alfalfa, breads and pastry, dried mushrooms, sausage, and cucumbers. Market access for beef and pork will be improved with tariffs for the most important pork products phased out by 2016, and those for beef products, by year 15 of the KORUS.

Key Agricultural Market Access Elements of the Agreement

Liberalization of Korea's market for agricultural products will occur through a combination of tariff phase-outs, TRQs, and safeguards applied immediately for a period of up to 23 years. While there is no additional market access for rice in the KORUS, rice exporters currently benefit from the WTO rice agreement that the United States and other WTO members negotiated with Korea in 2004.

Korea currently applies a complex hierarchy of tariffs and TRQs on agricultural products. These include NTR/MFN tariffs, WTO TRQs agreed to during the Uruguay Round, and autonomous TRQs (annual adjustment tariffs and TRQ rates that are less than the WTO-bound rates). After entry into force of the KORUS, preferential KORUS tariff rates and TRQs will be applied to U.S. products.

Tariff Elimination – Under the KORUS, nearly all tariffs for U.S. agricultural products will be eliminated. About $3.0 billion, or nearly two-thirds, of Korea's imports from the United States will be immediately duty-free. These include wheat, corn, soybeans for crushing, whey for feed use, hides and skins, cotton, cherries, pistachios, almonds, orange juice, grape juice, and wine. Virtually all other tariffs will be reduced in equal annual increments over a phase-out period, with the first tariff cut made upon entry into force of the KORUS.

TRQs – For some products with tariff phase-outs, immediate duty-free market access will be provided through the creation and annual expansion of TRQs, providing duty-free access for a specified quantity of imports. Annual TRQ growth is on a compound basis for most TRQs. Products that will benefit from immediate duty-free access within new TRQs and safeguards include skim and whole milk powder, whey for food use, cheese, dextrins and modified starches, barley, popcorn, soybeans for food use, dehydrated and table potatoes, honey, and hay.

Safeguards – The KORUS safeguards have an annual trigger based on import volume of U.S. products. When the import quantity from the United States reaches the trigger level, the over-safeguard tariff comes into effect. KORUS safeguards for several products include duty-free quantities under the trigger level. Those products are barley, malt and malting barley, corn starch, dextrins, beans, sweet potatoes, dehydrated potatoes, popcorn, buckwheat, corn for industrial use, cereal and groats, and miscellaneous starches. Generally, the duty-free volumes and the safeguard trigger levels increase over time. The over-safeguard tariff decreases over time.

Sanitary and Phytosanitary (SPS) Measures – The United States and Korea affirmed their rights and obligations under the WTO SPS Agreement and also agreed to establish an SPS Committee under the KORUS to enhance cooperation and consultation on sanitary and phytosanitary matters. The objectives of the Committee are to enhance implementation of the WTO SPS Agreement; protect human, animal, or plant life or health; enhance cooperation and consultation on sanitary and phytosanitary matters; and facilitate trade between the United States and Korea.

Livestock Products

Chilled and Frozen Beef and Beef Offal – Korea’s tariffs on imports of beef muscle cuts will decline from the current 40 percent to zero in 15 equal annual reductions. The KORUS includes a quantity safeguard of 270,000 metric tons for beef muscle cuts, growing at a compound 2 percent annual rate to a final safeguard level of 354,000 tons in 15 years. In year 16 and beyond, tariffs will be zero and the safeguard will no longer apply. Korean tariffs on beef offal also decline in 15 equal annual reductions from their current 18 and 27 percent levels. Offal trade is not subject to an agriculture safeguard provision.

Pork – Korean tariffs on imports of more than 90 percent of U.S. pork products will become duty-free by 2016. This is a reduction from current applied rates of 22.5 and 25 percent and applies to all frozen and processed pork products. Duties on fresh pork bellies and other miscellaneous fresh cuts will be phased down over 10 years leading to unlimited duty-free access in year 11. A transparent first-come, first-served safeguard quota for fresh pork bellies and other miscellaneous fresh cuts starting at 8,250 tons, nearly twice current trade volume, will increase at a rate of 6 percent compounded annually. The over-safeguard duty rate will be phased out at the end of year 10.

Poultry Meat and Egg Products – Korean tariffs on imports of chicken cuts, including the U.S. frozen leg import category which the United States dominates, will decline from the current 20 percent to zero in 10 equal annual reductions with the exception of frozen breast and wings, which will decline in 12 equal annual reductions. Korean tariffs on frozen turkey cuts will decline from the current 18 percent to zero in seven equal annual reductions. Korean tariffs on egg products (egg yolks are the key import item) will decline from the current 27 percent to zero in 12 equal annual reductions.

Dairy – The KORUS creates TRQs that double the amount of current access for dairy products. The TRQ established for cheese, with an initial duty-free quantity of 7,000 tons, grows 3 percent annually. Over-quota tariffs on cheddar cheese are eliminated over a 10 year period, and over-quota tariffs on all other cheeses are eliminated over a 15 year period. The TRQ for skim milk powder, whole milk powder, and evaporated milk has an initial duty-free quantity of 5,000 tons, growing 3 percent annually in perpetuity. The over-quota tariffs on these milk products remain at the current MFN rates, ranging from 89 to 176 percent. The TRQ for food-grade whey has an initial duty-free quantity of 3,000 tons and will grow 3 percent annually. The over-quota tariff for food-grade whey will be reduced from the current 49.5 percent to 20 percent upon entry into force of the KORUS and is phased out over 10 annual reductions. The KORUS establishes a TRQ of 200 tons for butter and a TRQ of 700 tons for infant foods, with both of these quotas growing at 3 percent, and becoming duty-free in 10 years. The 36 percent tariff on whey blends is phased out through 10 annual reductions. Feed-grade whey becomes duty-free immediately.

Horticulture

Citrus Fruit and Orange Juice – When the KORUS enters into force, Korea’s current 30 percent tariff on lemons and grapefruit will be eliminated in two years for lemons and five years for grapefruit in equal annual installments. Korean tariffs on oranges imported during the out-of-season period (March 1 – August 31) will be reduced from the current 50 percent to 30 percent immediately and then will be eliminated in six equal annual reductions. The out-of-season tariff reduction will apply to an estimated 70 percent of current U.S. orange exports to Korea. In addition, during the in-season period (September 1 – end of February), a duty-free quota will be established with an initial quantity of 2,500 tons, with 3 percent annual compound growth in perpetuity. The over-quota tariff will remain at the current NTR/MFN rate of 50 percent. Korea will reduce its current tariff of 54 percent on U.S. frozen orange juice to zero immediately.

Grapes, Raisins, Grape Juice, and Wine – Korean tariffs on U.S. table grapes during the out-of-season period (October 16 – April 30) will be reduced from 45 to 24 percent immediately and will be eliminated in four equal annual reductions. This out-of-season tariff reduction benefits an estimated 70 percent of current U.S. table grape exports to Korea. In addition, the in-season (May 1 – October 15) tariff covering the remaining 30 percent of U.S. fresh table grape exports will be phased out in 17 years in equal annual installments. Korean import tariffs on raisins, grape juice, and wine of 21, 45, and 15 percent, respectively will be eliminated immediately on entry into force of the KORUS.

Cherries, Apples, and Pears – Korean tariffs of 24 percent on U.S. fresh cherries will be eliminated immediately on entry into force of the KORUS. Import tariffs of 45 percent on U.S. apples, other than the Fuji variety, will have a 10-year phase out and tariffs on Fuji apples will have a 20-year phase out. The KORUS also includes an initial quantity safeguard of 9,000 tons that increases in year 5 to 12,000 tons, growing 3 percent annually thereafter to 20,429 tons in year 23 after which the agriculture safeguard no longer applies. Beginning in year 11, the safeguard only applies to Fuji apples. Korean tariffs on non-Asian pear varieties will be eliminated in ten years, and in 20 years for Asian pear varieties. (Note: SPS restrictions currently prevent imports of U.S. apples and pears.)

Vegetables and Pulses – The U.S. share of Korea’s growing import market for these products can be expected to expand with the KORUS tariff cuts. Tariffs on vegetables are eliminated in a range from immediately duty-free to a phase-out period of 18 years. In some cases access is enhanced through the use of duty-free TRQs and safeguards that allow varying levels of duty-free access. These tariff cuts should make the United States more competitive in this market. For example, fresh asparagus will be duty-free upon entry into force of the KORUS. In another example, the current 30 percent tariff on frozen sweet corn, carrots, and dried mushrooms will be eliminated within five years. The current 27 percent tariff on most pulses (peas, beans, and other legumes) will be eliminated within five years while the tariff for lentils will be removed within ten years.

Potatoes and Potato Products – Frozen potatoes (French fries) will enter duty-free immediately, eliminating the current 18 percent tariff on imports worth an average of $41 million per year. Dehydrated potatoes (flakes and powder) will enter under a 10 year safeguard with an initial duty-free quantity of 5,000 tons that grows 3 percent compounded annually. Korea has imported very little pure dehydrated product in the past. This significant access will allow U.S. exporters to expand the market and uses for this product. Potatoes for chipping will receive seasonal treatment, with the current 30-percent applied tariff ultimately phased out over 15 years for all seasons. All quantities will immediately enter duty-free during the out-of-season period (December 1 – April 30), currently the period when the majority of U.S. chipping potatoes enter Korea. During the in-season period (May 1 – November 30), the tariff will be phased out over 15 years. Fresh potatoes for table use will enter under a new TRQ starting with a duty-free quantity of 3,000 tons that will grow 3 percent compounded annually in perpetuity. The over-quota tariff will remain at the current NTR/MFN tariff rate of 304 percent. This represents access that U.S. fresh potatoes currently do not enjoy.

Tree Nuts (Walnuts, Almonds, and Pistachios) – Both shelled and in-shell almonds (current tariffs of 8 percent) will become duty-free upon entry into force of the KORUS. Pistachios (current tariff of 30 percent) also will enter duty-free immediately. Shelled walnuts (current tariff of 30 percent) will be duty-free within six years. In-shell walnuts (current tariff of 45 percent) will be duty-free within 15 years.

Grains, Oilseeds, and Products

Corn – Korea’s imports of U.S. corn for feed will enter duty-free immediately. Although Korea currently imports large quantities of feed corn at zero tariff under its autonomous quota, Korea can legally discontinue this zero tariff at any time and revert back to the WTO tariff of 5 percent for the first 6.1 million tons, and 328 percent for any imports above this quantity. Under the KORUS, the tariff for U.S. corn will be fixed at zero.

Wheat – U.S. wheat for milling will enter Korea duty-free immediately. Korea’s imports of U.S. wheat will no longer be subject to the 1.8 percent WTO tariff or 1 percent in-quota tariff under Korea’s autonomous TRQ. Although this tariff differential may be small, it could provide some additional advantage when competing against imports from Canada and Australia.

Rice – Under the KORUS, the United States does not gain additional access for rice. However, access for U.S. rice was significantly enhanced in 2004 as a result of Korea’s WTO minimum market access (MMA) agreement negotiation to extend special treatment for rice. With the extended WTO MMA, Korea agreed to purchase at least 50,076 tons of U.S. rice each year until 2014 under a country-specific quota. In addition, U.S. rice exporters can compete for a portion of the global quota that is part of the agreement. The United States will continue to push for additional market access through the WTO Doha Round negotiations.

Soybeans and Products – The greatest potential benefit for the soybean sector is likely to come from improved access to Korea’s 300,000 ton market for food quality soybeans.

Korea has agreed to eliminate immediately its 5 percent tariff on food use soybeans. In addition, Korea will also establish a TRQ for “identity-preserved” soybeans for food use (i.e., the production of soybean curd). This quota will operate outside Korea’s current state trading entity, which has charged a reported $250 per ton markup on soybean imports supplied to soybean curd processors. The TRQ will be operated by an association of food-grade soybean processors. Korean tariffs on soybeans for crushing will decline from the current 1 percent applied tariff to zero upon entry into force of the KORUS. Korean tariffs on imports of crude soybean oil (the majority of Korea’s soybean oil imports) will decline from the current 5.4 percent WTO tariff in ten equal annual reductions. Refined oil tariff rates will decline from the current 5.4 percent in five equal annual reductions. Korea’s 3 percent tariff on soybean flour and meal will immediately go to zero.

Barley – The KORUS will give U.S. barley a tariff advantage over its competitors. The agreement creates a 2,500 ton duty-free quota for U.S. unhulled and naked barley (excludes malting barley), which increases 2 percent per year while the tariffs are phased out over 15 years. Outside the KORUS, Korea has an autonomous TRQ for unhulled barley of 50,000 tons at a 2 percent tariff and a WTO 23,582-ton TRQ that covers both unhulled and naked barley at 5 percent with over-quota tariffs of 324 and 300 percent, respectively.

Malt and Malting Barley – In the first year of the KORUS, duty-free treatment will be available for U.S. exports of 9,000 tons of unroasted malt and malting barley, combined. This 9,000-ton duty-free quota grows 2 percent each year through year 15, at which time all U.S. shipments of malt and malting barley will enter duty-free. This provides the United States a 10 percent tariff advantage over our competitors for malt and 20 percent for malting barley.

Livestock Feed

Fodder – When the KORUS enters into force, 200,000 tons of U.S. hay (excluding alfalfa) qualify for duty-free treatment annually through year 15, while the current tariff of 100.5 percent is phased out. In recent years, Korea imported about $145 million (575,000 tons) of this product from the United States. Although Korea has an autonomous quota for 600,000 tons at 2 percent tariff covering this and other fodder tariff lines, the WTO bound tariff is 20 percent for 32,133 tons, and the over-quota tariff is 100.5 percent. Korea can discontinue its autonomous TRQ at any time. The KORUS locks in the zero tariff rate for a substantial amount of U.S. historical shipments for 15 years, and after that, for an unlimited volume of exports.

Alfalfa Hay Products – When the KORUS enters into force the tariff for U.S. alfalfa hay, cubes, and pellets will be phased out within five years. Korea is currently importing about $43 million of alfalfa hay and cubes from the United States under an autonomous TRQ with a duty of 1 percent.

Feed Supplements – Under the KORUS, the United States could increase its current 20 percent share of Korea’s supplementary animal feed imports. Korea imports about $11 million (11,000 tons) of supplementary feeds from the United States annually. The KORUS creates a 5,500 ton duty-free quota for U.S. supplementary animal feeds, which increases 3 percent each year, while the over-quota duty is phased out in 12 years. This provides the United States with a relative tariff advantage over its competitors. Korea’s WTO TRQ for supplementary animal feeds is 4,171 tons at a 5 percent tariff. The over-quota rate is 50.6 percent.

Other Agricultural Products

Dextrins – During the first year the KORUS is in effect, 14,000 tons of U.S. dextrin qualify for duty-free treatment. This is about 10 times the current volume of Korea’s imports of dextrins from the United States. The TRQ will grow 3 percent annually through year 12, when all U.S. dextrin exports will enter duty-free. Korea charges an 8 percent tariff under its WTO 46,000-ton TRQ for dextrin and a 386 percent tariff on dextrin imports above the WTO quota level.

Corn Starch – When the KORUS enters into force, the United States will have an opportunity to establish a foothold in Korea’s corn starch market. During the first year of the agreement, 10,000 tons of U.S. corn starch will qualify for duty-free treatment. This 10,000 ton quota will grow 3 percent each year through the beginning of year 15, when all U.S. corn starch will enter duty-free. Currently Korea imports practically no corn starch from the United States as almost all of its 6.1 million ton WTO TRQ is used to import feed corn and corn for starch manufacturing. Korea’s over-quota tariff on corn starch is 226 percent.

Honey – Access for U.S. honey will be enhanced through a TRQ that begins with a duty-free quantity of 200 tons growing 3 percent annually in perpetuity. The over-quota tariff remains at the current NTR/MFN rate of 243 percent. U.S. suppliers will also continue to have access to the WTO TRQ of 420 tons with an in-quota tariff of 20 percent.

Cotton – Duty-free access being enjoyed by U.S. cotton exports will become permanent upon entry into force of the KORUS. This permanent access will continue to allow U.S. cotton exports to compete on a level playing field with Korea’s other trading partners. Korea is the eighth largest market for U.S. cotton exports.

Animal Hides and Skins – U.S. exports of nearly all animal hides and skins, including furskins, will receive immediate duty-free access upon entry into force of the KORUS. This is a reduction from current applied rates of 5 percent or less. Korea is the United States’ second largest market for cattle hides and fourth largest market for mink furskins.

Processed Products and Beverages – Tariffs on sauces and condiments – including soy and pepper sauces, bean paste, ketchup and other tomato sauces (including salsas), mayonnaise, mixed condiments (including salad dressing), curry, and other mixed seasonings – will be eliminated within five to ten years. While the average current tariff for these products is 8 percent, they have also been subject to annual adjustment tariffs as high as 45 percent. These items were among the high priority items for the U.S. processed food industry. Tariffs on distilled spirits currently set at 15, 20, and 30 percent will be eliminated within five to ten years. The current 5 percent tariff on U.S. pet foods will be immediately eliminated. This tariff elimination will help the United States maintain its current 50 percent share of the Korean pet food market.

SERVICES

With the entry into force of the KORUS, U.S. service providers will gain improved access to the Korean market. Korea has made very substantial commitments to liberalize services trade, including telecommunications and financial services. These commitments significantly improve on Korea's WTO commitments in terms of sectors covered and elimination of restrictions. The KORUS establishes a solid framework for trade in services by providing for the elimination of obstacles in most services sectors and for improved regulatory transparency.

Why are Services Commitments Important?

The services sector accounts for the majority of jobs in the United States — over 89 million U.S. jobs in 2010, or roughly 83 percent of private non-farm employment. U.S. services exports are a vital part of this picture and U.S. exports continue to grow. In 2010, services exports of nearly $546 billion accounted for 30 percent of total U.S. exports, generating a services trade surplus of $151 billion. This helped offset the 2010 U.S. merchandise goods trade deficit of $647 billion. In addition, in recent years foreign affiliate trade in services has been approximately twice that of cross-border services.

U.S. services firms are well-positioned relative to their counterparts abroad to take advantage of access to the Korean market. The intensity and vigor of the U.S. market gives rise to extremely competitive companies prepared to meet stringent demands at home and compete abroad. Consumers in Korea value services that help boost their own productivity and enhance their lives and look to the United States as a model in terms of providing high-quality and cutting-edge services and technologies.

The KORUS Allows Service Providers to Choose Whether to Set Up an Office in Korea or Use Other Means to Provide Services – a Key Provision for SMEs.

Korea's commitments in services cover both the supply of services across the border (such as using electronic means to supply the service cross-border, or through the travel of nationals), as well as the supply of services through investment and a local presence. With limited exceptions, a U.S. company will not be required to incorporate or to make any form of local investment in order to supply services in Korea. This is a benefit to all U.S. service providers, especially SMEs, who may not have the resources or the volume of business to maintain a commercial presence in Korea.

The freedom for service providers to choose how to supply a service becomes increasingly important as technology reduces the role of distance as a services barrier. For example, providing education services through distance learning has undergone rapid development due to the Internet. Satellites and the Internet are transforming the world into a borderless educational arena, benefiting both previously under-served potential students and education enterprises. Korea is among Asia's leaders in Internet use, which combined with a strong interest in university education in the United States, should offer U.S. suppliers of higher education services to Korean students over the Internet.

Barriers to Foreign Services Suppliers Removed

The KORUS addresses a number of Korean barriers that were identified by U.S. services suppliers as problematic. Removal of these barriers will improve market access and allow U.S. companies to streamline their operations.

Sector-Specific Benefits for the Service Supplier

In the KORUS, Korea is greatly improving upon its WTO commitments in services, providing meaningful market access commitments that extend across virtually all major service sectors and include services supplied both cross-border (such as through electronic means) as well as through a commercial presence. One reason is that, as in all our trade agreements, the KORUS uses a "negative list" approach, which is more inclusive than the "positive list" approach used in the GATS. Thus, under the KORUS every sector is completely covered, unless an exception is listed and trade disciplines are automatically extended to services that have yet to be created and brought to market.

U.S. service providers should benefit from KORUS commitments in a number of key areas. Some specific examples are provided below.

Express Delivery Services

Significant progress was made in the area of express delivery services, where Korea will provide greater and more secure access to international delivery services and has charted a course for future reform of domestic services.

Entertainment (Audiovisual and Broadcasting)

Korea will improve market access for broadcasting and audiovisual services, including through a commitment to phase in over three years 100 percent foreign ownership of program providers for U.S. firms that establish a Korean subsidiary. Korea will also lock in all other content requirements at the lowest level allowed under current law, including the motion picture screen quota. Other commitments cover reducing content quotas and allowing expanded U.S. investment in these activities.

Legal Services

Korea will open its market to foreign legal consultants and will phase in additional liberalization that will permit foreign lawyers to associate more freely with Korean lawyers and offer a broader range of services. Similar steps will be taken in accounting services.

Health care and Education Services

Korea will guarantee that current health care reforms in special economic zones will be maintained and will extend new market access commitments in the areas of higher education and adult distance education.

Business and Professional Services

The United States was able to meet the reasonable needs of Korean businesses for transparency concerning the U.S. certification and regulatory system for business and professional services, while preserving the authority of the States to certify and regulate business and professional service providers. This is important because U.S. States play a crucial role in certifying and regulating providers of business and professional services doing business in their territory.

Insurance

U.S. insurance companies have long complained of the competitive advantage that Korea Post (KP) and the sectoral cooperatives selling insurance receive. The financial services chapter of the KORUS covers KP and subjects it to meaningful obligations, which ensure that KP is subject to many of the same requirements as the private sector in its sales of insurance products. In addition, KP is prohibited from issuing new products. Under the KORUS, the four largest insurance cooperatives (National Agricultural Cooperative Federation, the National Federation of Fisheries Cooperatives, the Korea Federation of Community Credit Cooperatives, and the National Credit Union Federation) will be subject to regulatory oversight by the insurance regulator starting three years after entry into force of the agreement. The KORUS also creates an obligation for the Financial Supervisory Commission to follow the notice and comment provisions of Korea's Administrative Procedure Act and provides for a special Insurance Working Group which will meet annually.

Financial Services

Korea will allow U.S. providers to have full rights to establish subsidiaries or branches for banks or insurance providers. U.S.-based firms will be able to supply insurance on a cross-border basis, including through electronic means for key markets including reinsurance and reinsurance brokerage; marine, aviation and transport insurance; and brokerage and services auxiliary to insurance such as consultancy, risk assessment, claims settlement and actuarial services. U.S.-based banking and other non-insurance firms will be able to offer services cross-border in areas such as provision, transfer, and processing of financial data and information; related software; and the provision of advisory and other auxiliary financial services, excluding intermediation. U.S.-based asset managers, including insurance companies, will be able to provide investment advice and other portfolio management services to mutual funds and pension funds, including funds that manage the portfolios of collective investment schemes established in Korea.

The KORUS also includes a number of key commitments which will remove many of the discriminatory practices that have caused problems for U.S. financial services firms in Korea. In particular, under the KORUS, U.S.-based financial services firms can do cross-border data processing of client accounts within two years of entry into force. In addition, the Korea Development Institute, Korea's insurance rating agency, the Korean Non-Life Insurance Association, and the Korean Life Insurance Association will treat U.S. firms no less favorably than Korean firms or firms from any other country when they are exercising regulatory authority.

INVESTMENT

The KORUS establishes a secure, predictable legal framework for U.S. investors in Korea. Entry into force of the KORUS's obligations will address key concerns about the investment climate in Korea by improving transparency, reducing barriers to investment, and increasing access to international dispute settlement.

The KORUS includes the core principles that govern the treatment of foreign investment in the United States and which the United States considers to be necessary elements of a pro-investment climate. Entry into force of the KORUS will secure the following for U.S. investors: treatment no less favorable than that which Korea provides to its own investors or to the investors of any other country; the application to U.S. investors of a minimum standard of treatment under international law; assurance that expropriation must be done only for a public purpose, carried out in a non-discriminatory manner, and accompanied by prompt, adequate, and effective compensation; prohibition of most performance requirements; improved transparency in the regulatory system; access by the investor to binding international arbitration; and the right to make transfers relating to a covered investment in a freely usable currency.

Under the KORUS, U.S. investors will have access to transparent, binding international arbitration for breaches by the Korean government of certain agreements between the Korean government or a Korean national authority, such as infrastructure-related contracts to construct roads, bridges, canals, dams, or pipelines.

The KORUS draws from U.S. legal principles and practices to provide U.S. investors in Korea a basic set of substantive protections that Korean investors currently enjoy under the U.S. legal system.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Although Korea's highly advanced telecommunications services and equipment are impressive, Korea has always been a difficult market for foreign telecommunications companies to penetrate. Historically, Korea has protected and fostered the growth of the telecommunications industry through strict regulation of equipment type approval procedures, setting standards that are unique to Korea, and limiting foreign direct investment in the services sector. The KORUS addresses these specific trade barriers and creates market access opportunities for U.S. companies that want to provide service in Korea. For example:

- The KORUS includes significant improvements over previous trade agreements, with strengthened provisions relating to transparency, independent regulator, submarine cables systems, and technology choice. Under the KORUS, Korea may not mandate a telecommunications standard unless it has a legitimate public policy objective, will be prohibited from using domestic protection as such an objective, and may restrict wireless technologies only in limited circumstances. The Ministry of Information and Communication will conduct a public rulemaking, in which interested parties, including equipment manufacturers, will be given the opportunity to demonstrate that an alternative standard should be brought into the market.
- Under the KORUS, Korea will take steps to implement a Mutual Recognition Agreement for conformity assessment of telecommunications equipment (i.e., privatizing its equipment certification process, now a governmental function), which will make type approvals faster and more efficient.
- In the KORUS, Korea commits to allow 100 percent indirect investment in facilities-based telecom service providers within two years of entry into force of the agreement. Suppliers from the United States will be able to set up wholly-owned subsidiaries in Korea and compete on the same footing as existing Korean facilities-based providers. As a ripple effect, multinational corporations with offices in Korea will benefit from the resulting competition in telecommunications services to support their global networks.

ELECTRONIC COMMERCE

The United States and Korea are global leaders in technology and communications innovation. Both nations compete in the digital economy, and commitments related to e-commerce in the KORUS are significant. Two important policy achievements of the KORUS are provisions that will ensure the integrity of electronic transmissions and provisions encouraging the free flow of information across borders.

Consistent with the U.S. innovation agenda and to encourage new technology developments, a general rule will be established allowing any authentication method to be used in electronic transactions without discrimination. This provision is key to ensuring technology neutrality for the general use of authentication methods, and avoiding the use of a mandatory authentication schema. Requirements mandating a certain authentication method, if implemented, could have presented a major trade barrier for the industry, stifled innovation, and prevented e-commerce within Korea and between our two countries.

The KORUS is the first U.S. bilateral trade agreement to include an article on cross-border information flows. This article encourages the parties to allow the free flow of information across borders and discourages the imposition of unnecessary barriers. In a separate exchange of letters, the United States and Korea agreed as a matter of principle that they should avoid unnecessary barriers to cross-border information flows. Similarly, data transfer principles in the financial services chapter encourage the flow of regular business data for that industry. Without these commitments, U.S. businesses and government could be prevented from conducting normal business transactions online, thereby disrupting routine and critically important e-commerce transactions.

Some of the commitments on e-commerce are forward-looking in nature, such as customs valuation for digital products, electronic supply of services, network access and video on demand. These commitments take into consideration the future convergence of technologies and applications, and seek to avoid barriers to the use of the next generation of digital communication devices and a changing future Internet. Significant obligations benefitting the U.S. audiovisual industry include the provision on non-discrimination with respect to digital products, and elimination of duties on carrier media with digital products fixed on them, or on digital products that are transmitted digitally.

PHARMACEUTICALS AND MEDICAL EQUIPMENT

In addition to tariff elimination and improved intellectual property rights protection, the pharmaceuticals and medical equipment sectors will derive several notable benefits from the KORUS. For example, the KORUS will improve transparency requirements for Korean rulemaking and reimbursement processes for pharmaceutical products and medical devices. To this end, Korea will be obligated to release detailed written information to applicants explaining the basis for its pricing and reimbursement decisions. Also, U.S. companies will now have a meaningful opportunity to comment on these decisions within a reasonable time period. In addition, the Korean government will create a review body, independent of central government health care officials that will allow U.S. manufacturers to appeal pricing and reimbursement decisions for pharmaceutical products and medical devices. The review body will be obligated to reach decisions within a reasonable period of time.

The KORUS will also create an ongoing consultation mechanism, the Medicines and Medical Devices Committee, to oversee the implementation of the provisions in the KORUS related to pharmaceuticals products and medical devices and will provide a venue to discuss areas for further cooperation. The Committee will include both health and trade officials of each Party, and will allow for discussion of issues not dealt with in the KORUS if there is mutual agreement to do so.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

The KORUS requires a high level of intellectual property protection, consistent with U.S. standards of protection, and will support the growth of trade in digital and other intellectual property-based products. Implementation of the commitments made under the KORUS will reinforce Korea's domestic efforts to strengthen intellectual property law enforcement. Like other U.S. trade agreements, the KORUS takes into account significant legal and technological developments that have taken place since WTO, TRIPS, and NAFTA were negotiated. The Industry Trade Advisory Committee on Intellectual Property Rights' report to the U.S. Trade Representative states that, "taken as a whole, this Agreement is very strong and [the Committee] commends U.S. negotiators. Accordingly, ITAC-15 strongly supports the chapter on intellectual property and notes that it restores key provisions that had not been included in recent TPAs or FTAs." The Committee "strongly supports Congressional approval of this Agreement."

Why Stronger Protection of Intellectual Property Matters:

- Copyright-based industries are among the fastest growing and most productive of any sector of the U.S. economy. They employ new workers in higher-paying jobs at over three times the rate of the rest of the economy; create new revenue at over two times that rate; and contribute close to $90 billion to the U.S. economy each year through foreign sales and exports. The principal barrier to trade for these industries is the lack of effective protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights.
- Innovation has historically been a driving force in U.S. industry. Competitive advantage based on innovation needs to be protected and defended. U.S. companies need access to legal tools in all markets across the globe.
- The high level of enforcement required by the KORUS will benefit industry and set a precedent throughout the region.

Trademarks

The KORUS helps innovative U.S. companies by providing trademark protection for sound and scent marks, as well as certification marks. It also requires a system to resolve disputes about trademarks used in Internet domain names, which benefits U.S. companies with a presence on the web by preventing "cyber-squatting" with respect to high-value domain names.

The KORUS applies the principle of "first-in-time, first-in-right" to trademarks and geographical indications, so that the first person who acquires a right to a trademark or geographical indication is the person who has the right to use it. It also provides for an on-line system for the registration and maintenance of trademarks, as well as a searchable database and requires transparent procedures for the registration of trademarks, including geographical indications. In an effort to clear bureaucratic hurdles to the protection of valuable trademarks, the KORUS precludes requiring recordation of a license to establish the validity of that license.

Copyright

The International Intellectual Property Alliance estimates that U.S. companies lost over $600 million in Korea in 2006 due to piracy of motion pictures, records and music, business application software, videogames, and books. Korea also has extremely high rates of broadband Internet access, and Internet-based copyright piracy has been rampant. In 2009, the IIPA reported that the online piracy rate for sound recordings in Korea is approximately 70 percent. The KORUS includes many important provisions for stemming these losses and otherwise benefiting U.S. copyright industries. One of the more important provisions is the prohibition on the circumvention of technological protection measures (TPMs) that authors, performers, and producers of phonograms use in the exercise of their rights to prohibit or restrict unauthorized acts (e.g., unauthorized access to a work or illegal copying). Defined and limited exceptions to the prohibition on the circumvention of TPMs will provide further certainty that copyrighted works are protected and that the prohibition on circumvention of TPMs is an effective tool for addressing enforcement challenges presented in the digital environment.

The protection of encrypted program-carrying satellite and cable signals was included as a direct response to the concerns of U.S. broadcasters and content providers. Korea has also committed to mandating that government agencies use computer software only as authorized by the right holder and to regulate actively the acquisition and management of the software for government use, a high priority for the U.S. software industry. In addition to addressing the challenges facing specific industries, Korea has also agreed to an increase in the term of protection for copyright, which will allow a broad range of right holders to continue to benefit from their intellectual property. Korea has also agreed to implement a system of statutory damages for copyright infringement, which should increase the efficacy of civil enforcement.

Data Protection

Korea is obligated to protect pharmaceutical test data for five years, the same period that applies in the United States. This enables pharmaceutical companies to introduce new medicines in Korea's market confident that their product will have both patent and data protections.

Patents and Regulated Products

The KORUS provides for the extension of patent term to compensate for unreasonable delays in granting the original patent, which will benefit innovative pharmaceutical and other U.S. companies.

The KORUS permits inventors to publish their inventions in journals and still have 12 months before that publication will prevent patenting the invention. It also protects against arbitrary revocation of patents and assures protection for newly developed plant varieties and animals.

The KORUS clarifies that test data submitted to a government for the purpose of product approval will be protected against unfair commercial use for a period of five years for pharmaceuticals and ten years for agricultural chemicals. Moreover, the KORUS requires measures to prevent the marketing approval of pharmaceutical products that would infringe a patent and to provide notice of the identity of an applicant seeking approval of a product during the term of a patent covering that product or its approved method of use. Under the additional agreements, Korea has three years to implement the obligation to adopt measures in its marketing approval system to prevent the marketing by others of patent-infringing pharmaceutical products.

Enforcement

Under the KORUS, Korea must make end-user piracy a criminal offense, providing a strong deterrent against copyright piracy. The KORUS requires Korea to authorize the seizure, forfeiture, and destruction of counterfeit and pirated goods and the equipment used to produce them. In addition, the KORUS provides for customs enforcement against goods-in-transit and merchandise in a free trade zone, to deter violators from using ports or free trade zones to traffic in pirated products; streamlines customs procedures to increase efficiency of enforcement; and permits customs officials and prosecutors to bring an IPR enforcement action without having to wait for a formal complaint from the right holders, providing for more effective enforcement of laws that benefit innovative U.S. companies.

GOVERNMENT PROCUREMENT

Building on the strong disciplines and market access afforded by the WTO Agreement on Government Procurement (GPA), to which the United States and Korea are Parties, Korea has agreed to ensure non-discriminatory access to more procurement of many central government entities in Korea. Specifically, the KORUS expands U.S. suppliers' market access opportunities both in breadth and depth over that previously provided for under the GPA at the central government level (more Korean procuring entities are covered and the threshold for coverage of goods and services is significantly lowered).

The KORUS grants U.S. suppliers rights to bid on the procurements of more than 50 Korean central government entities, nine more than are covered under the GPA. It also expands procurements to which U.S. suppliers will have access by reducing by over one-half the threshold applied under the GPA ($203,000) to a level of $100,000. Government procurement generally represents 10 to 15 percent of a country's GDP. Korea's total GDP in 2009 was over $833 billion; thus total procurement is estimated to be between $83 billion and $125 billion.

Procurements covered by the KORUS include those in areas where U.S. goods and services firms are very competitive, such as aerospace, energy, health care (including pharmaceuticals), construction, environmental technology, and information communication technology.

The KORUS incorporates and expands on the disciplines of the GPA. Concrete benefits to suppliers in central government procurements covered by the KORUS include:

- Non-discriminatory access to Korea's procurement market for U.S. suppliers and treatment equal to that of Korean suppliers.
- A requirement of fair, transparent and predictable procedures in all aspects of the procurement process.
- Strong disciplines on tendering procedures, such as requiring transparency of procurement laws and regulations, specifying advance public notice of purchases and mandating provision of relevant information for all phases of covered procurements. The KORUS also provides predictable time periods for tendering and limits the use of limited tendering procedures.
- Coverage of build-operate-transfer public concession contracts. Such contracts act as vehicles for large-scale construction projects and the building or rehabilitation of public work facilities.
- Impartial domestic review procedures to address supplier complaints concerning any aspect of the tendering process.
- Reduction of the tendering period where procurement notices and other procurement information are made available electronically, and for the purchase of commercial goods and services.

CUSTOMS ADMINISTRATION AND RULES OF ORIGIN

The KORUS requires implementation of specific and cutting-edge customs obligations that will maximize the gains that U.S. and Korean exporters and importers will realize once the customs administration and rules of origin provisions enter into effect. At the same time, the KORUS also includes strong enforcement provisions to help prevent transshipment and ensure that the benefits of the agreement go to Korea and the United States, not third countries.

The KORUS reflects the United States and Korea's shared commitment to further enhance their respective customs procedures and practices through increased transparency. The KORUS requires that all customs rules and regulations be published, including on the Internet, and that Korea endeavor to notify the United States of any changes to its customs laws and regulations that affect the operation of the KORUS. The KORUS also reinforces Korea's streamlined, expedited and transparent procedures for release of goods, generally within 48 hours after the goods arrive. In addition, Korea will allow for the release of goods pending the final determination of duties, taxes and fees.

Improved Customs Procedures and Strong Rules of Origin

- Comprehensive Product-Specific Rules – Product-specific rules specify which goods qualify as originating goods and are eligible for preferential tariff treatment under the KORUS. The product-specific rules are designed to be clear, concise and transparent, all of which help private-sector stakeholders in the United States obtain access to the Korean market.
- Strong Enforcement Provisions – Under the KORUS, U.S. and Korean customs authorities will work together to verify the accuracy of claims for preferential treatment, to prevent circumvention, and to ensure that importers, exporters, and producers are complying with all applicable customs requirements. The KORUS permits customs officials to deny preferential treatment to goods whose origin cannot be verified and to take further action in certain circumstances, such as the denial of preferential treatment to any textile good exported or produced by an entity found to be engaging in unlawful activity.
- Treatment of Remanufactured Goods – The KORUS recognizes the importance of remanufacturing to the industrial sectors of Korea and the United States, and supports both countries’ commitment to conservation and environmentally friendly economic policies. In furtherance of these shared objectives, the KORUS defines goods used in the production of remanufactured industrial goods as originating goods.
- Enhanced Transparency – The KORUS requires transparency and efficiency in administering customs procedures. The United States and Korea commit to publish, including on the Internet, their custom laws, regulations and general administrative procedures.
- Heightened Predictability – The KORUS will allow importers to obtain binding advance rulings on tariff classification, origin of goods and other matters. This important provision will provide exporters predictability and certainty, and will minimize delays at the port of entry.
- Greater Accountability – Under the KORUS, companies will have the right to independent administrative and judicial review of customs decisions.
- Greater Customs Efficiency through Technology – The KORUS promotes the use of technology, including the electronic submission and retention of information. This will help the release of goods and customs verifications, thereby saving companies time and money.
- Improved Express Delivery Service – Demand for express-delivery services is increasing rapidly due to the growth of electronic commerce, the internationalization of business, and explosive demand for “just-in-time” delivery of goods. The KORUS responds to that demand by requiring that Korea provide separate, expedited customs procedures for express shipments.

CONCLUSION

Approving and implementing the KORUS is in the best interest of United States commerce. This comprehensive agreement not only eliminates tariffs, but also reduces barriers for services, provides for leading edge protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights, keeps pace with new technologies, ensures regulatory transparency and requires enforcement of domestic labor and environmental laws. Once the KORUS is in effect, doing business in Korea will be easier, less restricted, more cost-effective and more transparent for U.S. companies.

THE UNITED STATES – KOREA FREE TRADE AGREEMENT

Summary of the Agreement

This summary briefly describes key provisions of the United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement (“Agreement”) that the United States has concluded with the Republic of Korea (“Korea”) and represents an authoritative expression of Administration views regarding the interpretation of the Agreement both for purposes of U.S. international obligations and domestic law.

The Agreement was signed on June 30, 2007. On December 3, 2010, Korea and the United States resolved outstanding issues related to the Agreement. As part of this resolution, the United States negotiated important new commitments on tariffs, nontariff barriers such as Korea’s automotive safety standards, transparency, and a special automotive safeguard to protect U.S. workers from potential import surges. Where relevant, these new commitments, which are principally embodied in an exchange of letters between Korea and the United States dated February 10, 2011 (“February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters”), are discussed further below.

Preamble

The Preamble to the Agreement provides the Parties’ underlying objectives in entering into the Agreement and provides context for the provisions that follow. It includes the following statement:

“Agreeing that foreign investors are not hereby accorded greater substantive rights with respect to investment protections than domestic investors under domestic law where, as in the United States, protections of investor rights under domestic law equal or exceed those set forth in this Agreement.”

This statement clarifies that, as provided in the Bipartisan Trade Promotion Authority Act of 2002, under the Agreement foreign investors in the United States are not to be accorded greater substantive rights with respect to investment protections than U.S. investors in the United States.

Chapter One: Initial Provisions and Definitions

Section A of Chapter One sets out provisions establishing a free trade area and affirming the Parties’ existing rights and obligations with respect to each other under the Marrakesh Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization (WTO) and other agreements to which they are party.

Section B defines certain terms that recur in various chapters of the Agreement.

Chapter Two: National Treatment and Market Access for Goods

Chapter Two and its relevant annexes and appendices set out the Agreement's principal rules governing trade in goods. Each Party must treat products from the other Party in a non-discriminatory manner, provide for the phase-out and elimination of tariffs on "originating" goods (as defined in Chapter Six) traded between the Parties, and eliminate a wide variety of non-tariff trade barriers that restrict or distort trade flows.

Tariff Elimination. Chapter Two provides for the elimination of customs duties on originating goods traded between the Parties. Duties on most trade in industrial and consumer goods will be eliminated within five years after the Agreement enters into force. Duties on almost all other goods will be phased out within 10 years. Some footwear, fishery, and agricultural goods will have longer periods for elimination of duties or be subject to other provisions, including, in some cases, the application of preferential tariff-rate quotas (TRQs). Annex 2-B and the General Notes to the U.S. and Korean Schedules to Annex 2-B include detailed provisions on staging of tariff reductions and application of TRQs for certain fishery products and agricultural goods. The chapter provides that the Parties may agree to speed up tariff phase-outs on a product-by-product basis after the Agreement takes effect.

Pursuant to the February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters, the United States will maintain its tariff on Korean cars until the fifth year after the Agreement enters into force, while Korea will reduce its tariff on U.S. cars by one half on the date that the Agreement enters into force and eliminate it at the same time the U.S. auto tariff is eliminated. Korea and the United States will accelerate the elimination of tariffs on electric cars, phasing them out in equal annual increments until they are eliminated in the fifth year (with Korea reducing its tariff by one half on the date that the Agreement enters into force). The United States will maintain its 25 percent U.S. truck tariff until the eighth year and then phase it out in three equal increments until it is eliminated in year ten. (Korea will eliminate its tariff on trucks immediately as agreed in 2007.) In addition, Korea will delay for two years, until January 1, 2016, the elimination of its tariffs on U.S. pork classified in one tariff line.

Waiver of Customs Duties. The Parties may not adopt new duty waivers or expand existing duty waivers conditioned on the fulfillment of a performance requirement. Chapter Two defines the term "performance requirements" so as not to restrict a Party's ability to provide duty drawback on goods imported from the other Party.

Temporary Admission. The Parties will provide duty-free temporary admission for certain products. Such items include professional equipment, goods for display or demonstration, and commercial samples. Chapter Two also includes specific provisions on transit of containers used in international traffic.

Import/Export Restrictions, Fees, and Formalities. The chapter clarifies that restrictions prohibited under the Agreement and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) 1994 include export and import price requirements (except under antidumping and countervailing duty orders and undertakings) and import licensing conditioned on the fulfillment of a performance requirement. In addition, a Party must limit all fees and charges imposed on or in connection with importation or exportation to the approximate cost of services rendered. Neither Party may apply a merchandise processing fee on imports of “originating” goods. In addition, Korea will amend its Special Consumption Tax and Annual Vehicle Tax on motor vehicles to reduce overall tax rates and decrease the tax disparity between different categories of motor vehicles. In the February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters, Korea agreed to adhere to additional transparency obligations in the event that it adopts new automotive taxes based on greenhouse gas emissions or fuel economy.

Distinctive Products. Korea will recognize Bourbon Whiskey and Tennessee Whiskey as “distinctive products” of the United States, meaning that Korea will not permit the sale of any product as Bourbon Whiskey or Tennessee Whiskey unless it was manufactured in the United States in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. Similarly, the United States will recognize Andong Soju and Gyeongju Beopju as “distinctive products” of Korea.

Committee on Trade in Goods. The Parties will establish a Committee on Trade in Goods to consider matters arising under Chapters Two, Six (Rules of Origin and Origin Procedures), and Seven (Customs Administration and Trade Facilitation). The committee’s functions include promoting trade in goods and addressing barriers to trade in goods between the Parties.

Chapter Three: Agriculture

Chapter Three contains special provisions covering trade in agricultural goods.

TRQs. Under Chapter Three each government must administer its tariff-rate quotas in a manner that is transparent, non-discriminatory, responsive to market conditions, and minimally burdensome on trade. The chapter requires the Parties to make every effort to administer TRQs in a manner that allows importers to fully utilize import quotas. In addition, the chapter provides that the Parties may not condition application for, or utilization of, quota allocations on the re-export of a good.

Safeguards. Chapter Three also sets out a safeguard mechanism that will permit Korea to impose an additional duty on specified agricultural products if imports of those products from the United States exceed an established volume “trigger.” The list of products as well as trigger volumes and duty rates are set out in Annex 3-A of the Agreement. A safeguard measure will remain in force until the end of the year in which the measure applies. Korea may not apply an agricultural safeguard on a good after the period specified for that product in Annex 3-A.

Korea may not apply a safeguard measure on a good that is already the subject of a safeguard measure under either Chapter Ten (Trade Remedies) of the Agreement or the WTO Agreement on Safeguards. All agricultural safeguard measures must be implemented in a transparent manner and, on request, Korea must consult with the United States regarding any measure it applies.

Chapter Three prohibits both Parties from imposing safeguard duties pursuant to the WTO Agreement on Agriculture on “originating” goods.

Additional Provisions. Chapter Three provides for the creation of a Committee on Agricultural Trade. The committee will be established within 90 days after the Agreement enters into force and will provide a forum for promoting cooperation in the implementation and administration of the chapter as well as for consultations on agricultural trade.

Chapter Four: Textiles and Apparel

Chapter Four contains special provisions covering trade in “originating” textile and apparel goods.

Safeguards. The chapter establishes a transitional safeguard procedure for textile and apparel goods, under which the importing Party may temporarily impose additional duties up to the level of the normal trade relations most-favored-nation (NTR/MFN) duty rates on imports of textile or apparel goods that cause, or threaten to cause, serious damage to a domestic industry as a result of the elimination or reduction of duties under the Agreement. An importing Party may impose a textile safeguard measure only once on the same textile or apparel good. The measure may not be in place for more than two years, or four years if the measure is extended. A Party may not take or maintain a textile safeguard against a good beyond ten years after the date the Party must eliminate its customs duties on the good pursuant to the Agreement. A Party may not apply a textile safeguard measure to a good while the good is subject to a safeguard measure under (i) Chapter Ten (Trade Remedies) or (ii) Article XIX of the GATT 1994 and the WTO Agreement on Safeguards.

A Party imposing a safeguard measure under Chapter Four must provide the exporting Party with mutually agreed compensation in the form of trade concessions for textile or apparel goods that have substantially equivalent trade effects or that are equivalent to the increased duties resulting from application of the safeguard measure. If the Parties cannot agree on compensation, the exporting Party may raise duties on any goods from the importing Party in an amount that has a value substantially equivalent to the increased duties resulting from application of the safeguard measure.

Rules of Origin and Related Matters. A textile or apparel good will generally qualify as an “originating” good eligible to receive preferential treatment under the Agreement only if all processing from the yarn stage to the final product (e.g., yarn-spinning, fabric production, cutting, and assembly) takes place in the United States, Korea, or both, or if there is an applicable change in tariff classification under the specific rules of origin contained in Annex 4-A of the Agreement.

Chapter Four sets out special rules for determining whether a textile or apparel good is an “originating” good, including a de minimis exception for non-originating yarns or fibers, a process for designating inputs not available in commercial quantities, a rule for treatment of sets, and consultation provisions.

The de minimis rule applies to goods that ordinarily would not be considered “originating” goods because certain of their fibers or yarns do not undergo an applicable change in tariff classification. Under the rule, the Parties will consider a good to be “originating” if those fibers or yarns constitute seven percent or less of the total weight of the component of the good that determines the classification. This special rule does not apply to goods containing elastomeric yarns in the component of the good that determines the classification.

Annex 4-B of the Agreement sets out a process for creating a list of fabrics, yarns, and fibers that a Party determines are not available in commercial quantities in a timely manner from producers in its territory. A textile or apparel good that includes the fabrics, yarns, or fibers included in this list will be treated as if it is “originating” for purposes of the specific rules of origin in Annex 4-A of the Agreement. A Party may remove a fabric, yarn, or fiber from the list if it determines that the fabric, yarn, or fiber has become available in commercial quantities.

Customs Cooperation. Chapter Four commits the Parties to cooperate in enforcing their laws affecting trade in textile and apparel goods, to ensure the accuracy of claims of origin, and to prevent circumvention of international agreements affecting trade in textile and apparel goods. The chapter also requires Korea to provide the United States specified information concerning entities engaged in the production of textile or apparel goods in its territory, including any potential circumvention.

Chapter Four provides that, at the request of the importing Party, the exporting Party must conduct a verification to determine that a claim of origin for a textile or apparel product is accurate. In addition, the chapter provides that under certain circumstances the exporting Party must conduct a verification of an enterprise in its territory to determine whether it is complying with the Parties’ customs laws applicable to textile trade. A verification may include visits to the premises of the exporter or producer of the goods in question. If there is insufficient information to make the relevant determination, or if an enterprise provides incorrect information, the importing Party may take appropriate action, which may include denying application of preferential tariff treatment to the goods in question or to similar textile or apparel goods exported or produced by the person subject to the verification.

Chapter Four also establishes a Committee on Textile and Apparel Trade Matters to consider issues arising under the chapter.

Chapter Five: Pharmaceutical Products and Medical Devices

Chapter Five sets out provisions related to the pricing and reimbursement of pharmaceutical products and medical devices. The chapter recognizes the Parties’ shared commitment to promoting and facilitating access to high-quality patented and generic pharmaceutical products and medical devices, and affirms the importance of several key principles in pursuing these objectives.

Access to Innovation: Chapter Five calls for the Parties to apply fair, reasonable, and non-discriminatory procedures when they operate national-level listing and reimbursement regimes for pharmaceutical products and medical devices. In operating such a system, a Party must base reimbursement determinations on market prices or appropriately recognize the value of patented products and devices. A Party must also permit manufacturers to apply for increased reimbursement amounts, including for additional medical indications, based on evidence of a product's or device's safety or efficacy.

Transparency: The chapter also commits each Party to ensure that its measures governing pricing and reimbursement for pharmaceutical products and medical devices are transparent and predictable. An exchange of letters appended to the Agreement calls for Korea to establish and maintain an independent body to review pricing and reimbursement decisions on pharmaceutical products and medical devices.

Dissemination of Information: Each Party must allow pharmaceutical manufacturers to publish certain information regarding their approved products on the Internet.

Ethical Business Practices: Chapter Five also calls for the Parties to maintain and enforce measures to prohibit manufacturers and suppliers from providing improper inducements to health care professionals or institutions for listing, purchasing, or prescribing their devices or products.

Cooperation: Chapter Five establishes a Medicines and Medical Devices Committee, co-chaired by health and trade officials from each Party, to monitor and support implementation of the chapter and to provide for continued dialogue between the Parties on emerging health care policy issues. The chapter also calls for each Party to facilitate consideration of requests from manufacturers to recognize the results of conformity assessment procedures that bodies in the other Party's territory have conducted.

Chapter Six: Rules of Origin and Origin Procedures

To benefit from various trade preferences provided under the Agreement, including reduced duties, a good must qualify as an "originating" good under the rules of origin set out in Chapter Six and Annex 6-A. These rules ensure that the preferential tariff treatment and other benefits of the Agreement accrue primarily to firms or individuals that produce or manufacture goods in the Parties' territories.

Key Concepts. Chapter Six provides general criteria under which a good may qualify as "originating:"

- When the good is wholly obtained or produced in Korea, the United States, or both (e.g., crops grown or minerals extracted in the United States); or

- When the good is produced entirely in the territory of Korea, the United States, or both and: (1) non-originating materials used in the production of the good undergo a specified change in tariff classification in Korea, the United States, or both; or (2) meets any applicable “regional value content” requirement (see below); and (3) satisfies all other requirements of Chapter Six, including Annex 6-A; or
- When the good is produced in Korea, the United States, or both, exclusively from “originating” materials.

De Minimis. Even if a good does not undergo a specified change in tariff classification, it will be treated as an originating good if the value of non-originating materials that have been used in the production of the good and do not undergo the required change in tariff classification does not exceed ten percent of the adjusted value of the good, and the good otherwise meets the chapter’s criteria. This de minimis exception does not apply to certain agricultural and fisheries goods, and the Agreement includes a separate de minimis exception for textile and apparel goods.

Regional Value Content. Some origin rules under the Agreement require that certain goods meet a “regional value content” test in order to qualify as “originating,” meaning that a specified percentage of the value of the good must be attributable to originating materials. In general, the Agreement provides two methods for calculating that percentage: (1) the “build-down method” (based on the value of non-originating materials used); and (2) the “build-up method” (based on the value of originating materials used). The regional value content of certain automotive goods may also be calculated on the basis of their net cost. Finally, standard accessories, spare parts, and tools delivered with a good are considered part of the material making up the good so long as these items are not separately classified or invoiced and their quantities and values are customary. The de minimis rule does not apply in calculating regional value content.

Claims for Preferential Treatment. Under Chapter Six, importers who wish to claim preferential tariff treatment for a particular good must be prepared to submit, on the request of the importing Party’s customs authority, a statement explaining why the good qualifies as an originating good. A Party may only deny a claim for preferential treatment through a written determination that the claim is invalid as a matter of fact or law. The chapter establishes a procedure for filing claims for preferential treatment for up to one year after a good is imported and for seeking a refund of any excess duties paid. The chapter also prohibits a Party from penalizing an importer if the importer promptly and voluntarily corrects an incorrect claim and pays any duties owed.

Verification. Each Party must ensure that its customs authority is empowered to conduct verifications for purposes of determining whether a good is an originating good. Where an importing Party determines through a verification that an importer, exporter, or producer has engaged in a pattern of conduct in providing false or unsupported statements, declarations, or certifications that a good is an originating good, the Party may suspend preferential tariff treatment to identical goods from that importer, exporter, or producer until the importing Party determines that the importer, exporter, or producer is in compliance with the rules set out in the chapter.

Additional Rules. Chapter Six provides specific rules with respect to the treatment of (1) packing materials and containers; (2) indirect materials; (3) fungible goods; and (4) sets of goods for purposes of determining origin. The chapter provides that a Party may not treat a good as originating if the good undergoes any operation in a third country other than being unloaded, reloaded, or preserved in good condition, or if it is shipped through a third country and does not remain under the control of customs authorities there. The chapter also provides that the Parties will meet to discuss whether to develop common guidelines for interpreting, applying, and administering Chapters Six and Seven.

Chapter Seven: Customs Administration and Trade Facilitation

Chapter Seven establishes rules designed to encourage transparency, predictability, and efficiency in the operation of each Party's customs procedures and to provide for cooperation between the Parties on customs matters.

General Principles. In Chapter Seven, each Party commits to observe certain transparency obligations. Each Party must publish its customs measures, including on the Internet, and, where possible, provide opportunity for comments from the public before amending its customs regulations. Each Party must also provide written advance rulings, on request, to its importers and to exporters and producers of the other Party, regarding whether a product qualifies as an "originating" good under the Agreement, as well as on other customs matters. In addition, each Party must ensure that importers have access to both administrative and judicial review of customs determinations. The Parties must adopt or maintain procedures to release goods from customs promptly and expeditiously clear express shipments.

Cooperation. Chapter Seven also is designed to enhance customs cooperation. The Parties are encouraged to give each other advance notice of customs developments likely to substantially affect the operation of the Agreement. The chapter calls for the Parties to cooperate in securing compliance with their respective customs measures related to the implementation and operation of the provisions of the Agreement governing importations and exportations. It includes specific provisions for sharing customs information where a Party has a reasonable suspicion of unlawful activity relating to its laws and regulations governing importations.

Chapter Eight: Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures

Chapter Eight defines the Parties' obligations to each other under the Agreement regarding sanitary and phytosanitary (SPS) measures. It reflects the Parties' understanding that implementation of existing obligations under the WTO Agreement on the Application of Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (SPS Agreement) is a shared objective. Nothing in the Agreement imposes new limitations on the United States in terms of maintaining high safety and inspection standards.

Key Concepts. SPS measures are laws or regulations that protect human, animal, or plant life or health from certain risks, including plant- and animal-borne pests and diseases, additives, contaminants, toxins, or disease-causing organisms in food and beverages.

Cooperation. The Parties will establish a Committee on SPS Matters to (i) enhance each Party's implementation of the WTO SPS Agreement; (ii) help protect human, animal, or plant life or health; (iii) enhance consultation and cooperation between the Parties on SPS matters; and (iv) facilitate bilateral trade.

Dispute Settlement. Neither Party may invoke the Agreement's dispute settlement procedures for a matter arising under Chapter Eight.

Chapter Nine: Technical Barriers to Trade

Chapter Nine builds on WTO rules related to technical barriers to trade in order to promote transparency, accountability, and cooperation between the Parties on regulatory issues.

Key Concepts. The term "technical barriers to trade" (TBT) refers to barriers that may arise in preparing, adopting, or applying voluntary product standards, technical regulations, and procedures used to determine whether a particular good meets a standard or technical regulation ("conformity assessment procedures").

International Standards. Chapter Nine requires the Parties to apply the principles articulated in the WTO TBT Committee's Decision on Principles for the Development of International Standards, Guides and Recommendations in determining what constitutes an "international standard" within the meaning of the WTO TBT Agreement. Those principles emphasize the need for openness and consensus in the development of international standards.

Conformity Assessment. Chapter Nine also provides for a dialogue between the Parties on ways to facilitate the acceptance of conformity assessment results. Each Party will recognize conformity assessment bodies in the territory of the other Party on terms no less favorable than it accords conformity assessment bodies in its own territory. The chapter also calls for the Parties to notify each other of the criteria they use to recognize conformity assessment bodies that perform conformity assessment procedures for cosmetics, household electrical appliances, and motor vehicles, and with respect to noise and emissions.

Transparency. Chapter Nine contains various transparency obligations, such as requiring each Party to: (i) allow persons of the other Party to participate in the development of technical regulations, standards, and conformity assessment procedures on terms no less favorable than those it accords to its own persons; (ii) transmit regulatory proposals notified under the WTO TBT Agreement directly to the other Party; (iii) describe in writing the objectives of and reasons for a proposed technical regulation or conformity assessment procedure; and (iv) consider comments on such proposals and respond in writing to significant comments it receives.

Cooperation. Chapter Nine establishes a Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade through which the Parties will cooperate to address technical barriers and improve market access. Annex 9-B establishes an Automotive Working Group to monitor and facilitate increased cooperation regarding the development, implementation, and enforcement of relevant standards, technical regulations, and conformity assessment procedures with respect to the regulation of motor vehicles.

Automotive Standards and Technical Regulations. Under Chapter Nine, each Party must ensure that technical regulations related to motor vehicles are not prepared, adopted, or applied with a view to or with the effect of creating unnecessary obstacles to international trade, to the extent provided in Article 2.2 of the WTO TBT Agreement. In an exchange of letters appended to the Agreement, Korea has also taken on specific commitments with respect to auto emission standards and regulations relating to self-certification of automotive safety standards. Furthermore, in the February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters, Korea committed to allow U.S. manufacturers that sell 25,000 or fewer “originating” vehicles in Korea to be considered as meeting all Korean safety regulations provided the vehicles are certified to U.S. safety standards. For all regulatory measures that would require a substantial change in motor vehicle design or technology, Korea also agreed to provide a period between the date a regulation is issued and the date manufacturers must comply with it that is usually not less than one year, and to conduct post-implementation reviews of existing significant regulations affecting motor vehicles to assess whether the regulations remain appropriate.

Chapter Ten: Trade Remedies

Safeguards. Section A of Chapter Ten establishes a safeguard procedure that will be available to aid domestic industries that sustain or are threatened with serious injury due to increased imports resulting from tariff reduction or elimination under the Agreement. As part of this process, each Party shall notify the other Party on initiation of an investigation and consult with the other Party as far in advance of a safeguard measure as practicable.

Chapter Ten authorizes a Party to impose temporary duties on an imported originating good if, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a duty under the Agreement, the good is being imported in such increased quantities and under such conditions as to constitute a substantial cause of serious injury, or threat of serious injury, to a domestic industry producing a “like” or “directly competitive” good.

Unless the exporting Party agrees otherwise, a safeguard measure may be applied on a good only during the Agreement's "transition period" (as defined in Article 10.6) for phasing out duties on the good. A safeguard measure may take one of two forms – a temporary increase in duties to NTR (MFN) levels or a temporary suspension of duty reductions called for under the Agreement. In "critical circumstances," the importing Party may, after 45 days have passed since initiation of the investigation, impose provisional relief for up to 200 days, based on a preliminary determination, while its investigation of the matter is underway. The Agreement provides an alternative form of safeguard measure for duties applied to a good on a seasonal basis.

A Party may not impose a safeguard measure under Chapter Ten more than once on any good. A safeguard measure may be in place for an initial period of up to two years. A Party may extend a measure for an additional year, if it determines that the industry is adjusting and the measure remains necessary to facilitate adjustment and prevent or remedy serious injury. If a measure lasts more than one year, the Party must scale it back at regular intervals.

If a Party imposes a safeguard measure, that Party must provide offsetting trade compensation to the other Party. No later than 30 days after it applies a safeguard measure, the respective Party shall afford an opportunity for consultations with the other Party regarding compensation. If the Parties cannot agree on the amount or nature of the compensation, the exporting Party may unilaterally suspend "substantially equivalent" trade concessions that it has made to the importing Party.

The February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters includes a special safeguard for goods of tariff heading 8703 or 8704 (i.e., cars and trucks). Under the special safeguard, a Party may apply a safeguard using the procedures set forth in Chapter Ten, with the following modifications: a safeguard may be applied on a good for an additional ten years after the "transition period" for phasing out duties on the good; a Party may impose a safeguard measure more than once on any good; the safeguard measure may be extended for an additional two years; there is no obligation to scale back a safeguard at regular intervals; there are fewer procedural requirements for critical circumstances; and the Party applying the safeguard is not subject to the suspension of trade concessions for up to two years after the safeguard is applied if it does not agree with the exporting Party on tariff reductions or other compensation.

Global Safeguards. Chapter Ten provides that each Party maintains its right to take action against imports from all sources under the WTO Agreement on Safeguards. A Party may exclude imports of an originating good from the other Party from a global safeguard measure if those imports are not a substantial cause of serious injury or do not create a threat of serious injury. A Party may not apply a safeguard measure under Chapter Ten at the same time that it applies a safeguard measure on the same good under the WTO Safeguards Agreement.

Antidumping and Countervailing Duties. Section B of Chapter Ten confirms that each Party retains its rights and obligations under the WTO Agreement with regard to the application of antidumping and countervailing duties. A Party must notify the other when it receives an antidumping or countervailing duty petition concerning imports from the other Party and afford the other Party a meeting or other similar opportunities regarding the application, consistent with the Party's law. With respect to anti-dumping cases, following a preliminary affirmative determination, the Party's competent authorities must provide exporters of the other Party due consideration and adequate opportunity for consultations regarding proposed price or quantity undertakings that could suspend the investigation. With respect to countervailing duty investigations, following a preliminary affirmative determination, the Party's competent authorities must provide the other Party and exporters of the other Party due consideration and adequate opportunity for consultations regarding proposed price or quantity undertakings that could suspend the investigation. Antidumping and countervailing duty measures may not be challenged under the Agreement's dispute settlement procedures.

Committee on Trade Remedies. Section C of the chapter creates a Committee on Trade Remedies whose functions include (i) enhancing each Party's understanding of the other's trade remedy laws, policies, and practices; (ii) improving cooperation on trade remedies matters; and (iii) discussing topics of mutual interest.

Chapter Eleven: Investment

Chapter Eleven establishes rules to protect investors from one Party against wrongful or discriminatory government actions when they invest or attempt to invest in the other Party's territory. The chapter's provisions reflect traditional standards incorporated in earlier U.S. bilateral investment treaties, previous free trade agreements, and customary international law.

Key Concepts. Under Chapter Eleven, the term "investment" covers all forms of investment, including enterprises, securities, debt, intellectual property rights, licenses, and contracts. Chapter Eleven covers both investments existing when the Agreement enters into force and future investments. The term "investor of a Party" encompasses U.S. and Korean nationals as well as firms (including branches) established in one of the Parties.

General Principles. Under the Agreement, investors enjoy six basic protections: (1) the right to non-discriminatory treatment relative both to domestic investors and investors of non-Parties; (2) limits on imposition by the host Party of "performance requirements;" (3) the right to free transfer of funds related to an investment; (4) the guarantee that expropriation will be done in accordance with customary international law standards; (5) the right to the minimum standard of treatment of aliens required by customary international law; and (6) the right to hire key managerial personnel without regard to nationality. (As to this last protection, a Party may require that a majority of the board of directors be of a particular nationality, as long as this does not prevent the investor from controlling its investment.)

Sectoral Coverage and Non-Conforming Measures. With the exception of investments in or by regulated financial institutions (which are treated in Chapter Thirteen), Chapter Eleven generally applies to all sectors, including service sectors. However, each Party has listed in Annexes I and II particular measures or sectors for which it negotiated an exemption from the chapter's obligations relating to national treatment, NTR (MFN), performance requirements, or senior management and boards of directors (“non-conforming measures”). Annex I contains each Party’s list of existing non-conforming measures at the central and regional levels of government. The United States has scheduled an exemption from all aforementioned obligations for all existing state measures. All existing local measures are exempted for both Parties without the need to be listed. If a Party liberalizes any of these non-conforming Annex I measures, it must thereafter maintain the measure at least at that level of openness. In Annex II, each Party has listed sectors or activities in which it reserves the right to maintain existing or adopt future non-conforming measures. (As described below, Annexes I and II also include exemptions from Chapter Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services).)

Investor-State Disputes. Chapter Eleven provides a mechanism for an investor of a Party to submit to binding international arbitration a claim for damages against the other Party. The investor may assert that the Party has breached a substantive obligation under the chapter or that the Party has breached an “investment agreement” with, or an “investment authorization” granted to, the investor or a covered investment that the investor owns or controls. “Investment agreements” and “investment authorizations” are arrangements between an investor and a host government based on contracts and authorizations, respectively. These terms are defined in the chapter.

Chapter Eleven affords public access to information on investor-State arbitrations conducted pursuant to the Agreement. For example arbitration hearings will generally be open to the public and key documents will be publicly available, with exceptions for confidential business information. The Parties also authorize arbitral tribunals to accept amicus submissions from the public. In addition, the chapter includes provisions similar to those used in U.S. courts to dispose quickly of claims a tribunal finds to be frivolous. Finally, within three years after the Agreement enters into force the Parties will consider whether to establish an appellate body, or similar mechanism, to review arbitral awards that tribunals render under the chapter.

Chapter Eleven confirms the Parties’ understanding that, “except in rare circumstances,” nondiscriminatory regulatory actions designed and applied to meet legitimate public welfare objectives, such as public health, safety, and the environment, are not indirect expropriations. The chapter also provides a list of factors to be considered in determining whether a taxation measure constitutes an expropriation.

The Agreement does not require the United States to give Korean investors greater substantive rights than U.S. companies already enjoy in the United States.

Chapter Twelve: Cross-Border Trade in Services

Chapter Twelve governs measures affecting cross-border trade in services between the Parties. Certain provisions also apply to measures affecting investments to supply services.

Key Concepts. Under the Agreement, cross-border trade in services covers supply of a service:

- from the territory of one Party into the territory of the other Party (e.g., electronic delivery of services from the United States to Korea);
- in the territory of a Party by a person of that Party to a person of the other Party (e.g., a Korean company provides services to U.S. visitors in Korea); and
- by a national of a Party in the territory of the other Party (e.g., a U.S. lawyer provides legal services in Korea).

Chapter Twelve should be read together with Chapter Eleven (Investment), which establishes rules pertaining to the treatment of service firms that choose to provide their services through a local presence, rather than cross-border. Chapter Twelve applies where, for example, a service supplier is temporarily present in a territory of a Party and does not operate through a local investment.

General Principles. Among Chapter Twelve's core obligations are requirements to provide national treatment and NTR (MFN) treatment to service suppliers of the other Party. Thus, each Party must treat service suppliers of the other Party no less favorably than its own suppliers or those of any other country. This commitment applies to state and local governments as well as the national government. The chapter's provisions apply to existing service suppliers as well as to those who seek to supply services. The Parties are prohibited from requiring firms to establish a local presence as a condition for supplying a service on a cross-border basis. In addition, certain types of market access restrictions on the supply of services (e.g., that limit the number of firms that may offer a particular service or that restrict or require specific types of legal structures or joint ventures with local companies in order to supply a service) are also barred. The chapter's market access rules apply both to services supplied on a cross-border basis and through a local investment.

Sectoral Coverage and Non-Conforming Measures. Chapter Twelve applies across virtually all services sectors. The chapter excludes financial services (which are addressed in Chapter Thirteen), except that certain provisions of Chapter Twelve apply to investments in financial services that are not regulated as financial institutions and are covered by Chapter Eleven (Investment). In addition, Chapter Twelve does not cover air transportation, although it does apply to specialty air services and aircraft repair and maintenance.

Each Party has listed in Annexes I and II measures or sectors for which it negotiated exemptions from Chapter Twelve's core obligations (national treatment, NTR (MFN), local presence, and market access). Annex I contains the list of existing non-conforming measures at the central and regional level of government. Our coverage under the market access discipline is the same as our commitments under the WTO General Agreement on Trade in Services, with the right to take measures not inconsistent with those commitments. The United States has scheduled an exemption from national treatment, NTR (MFN), and local presence for all existing state measures. All existing local measures are exempted for both Parties without the need to be listed. However, once a Party liberalizes any of these non-conforming Annex I measures, it must thereafter maintain the measure at least at that level of openness. Each Party has listed in Annex II sectors or activities in which it reserves the right to adopt or maintain future non-conforming measures.

Specific Commitments. Chapter Twelve includes a comprehensive definition of express delivery services under which each Party must provide national treatment, NTR (MFN) treatment, and additional benefits to express delivery services of the other Party. The chapter provides that the Parties will try to maintain the level of market openness for express delivery services they provided on the date the Agreement was signed, and a Party may request consultations with the other if it believes the other Party is not maintaining that level of access. The chapter also addresses the issue of postal monopolies directing revenues derived from monopoly postal services to confer an advantage on express delivery services. In an exchange of letters appended to the Agreement, Korea has committed to expand the current exceptions to the Korean Postal Authority's monopoly to include all international document delivery services. In a further letter signed along with the Agreement, Korea has expressed its intention to gradually increase the scope of permitted private delivery services in other areas as well.

Transparency and Domestic Regulation. Provisions on transparency and domestic regulation complement the core rules of Chapter Twelve. The transparency rules apply to the development and application of regulations governing services. The chapter's rules on domestic regulation govern the operation of approval and licensing systems for service suppliers. Like the chapter's market access rules, its provisions on transparency and domestic regulation cover services supplied both on a cross-border basis and through a local investment.

Exclusions. Chapter Twelve does not apply to any service supplied "in the exercise of governmental authority" — that is, a service that is provided on a non-commercial and non-competitive basis. Chapter Twelve also does not apply to government subsidies. In addition, the chapter makes clear that the Agreement does not impose any obligation on a Party with respect to its immigration measures, including admission or conditions of admission for temporary entry.

Chapter Thirteen: Financial Services

Chapter Thirteen provides rules governing each Party's treatment of: (1) financial institutions of the other Party; (2) investors of the other Party, and their investments, in financial institutions; and (3) cross-border trade in financial services.

Key Concepts. The chapter defines a "financial institution" as any financial intermediary or other institution authorized to do business and regulated or supervised as a financial institution under the law of the Party where it is located. A "financial service" is any service of a financial nature, including, insurance, banking, securities, asset management, financial information and data processing services, and financial advisory services.

General Principles. Chapter Thirteen’s core obligations parallel those in Chapters Eleven (Investment) and Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services). Specifically, Chapter Thirteen imposes rules requiring national treatment and NTR (MFN) treatment, prohibits certain quantitative restrictions on market access of financial institutions, and bars restrictions on the nationality of senior management. As appropriate, these rules apply to measures affecting financial institutions, investors and investments in financial institutions of another Party, and services companies that are currently supplying and that seek to supply financial services on a cross-border basis. The rules do not apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party relating to certain specified services and activities unless a Party allows its financial institutions to compete with a public entity or a financial institution to supply such services and activities. Chapter Thirteen includes broad flexibility and safeguards, including the prudential and monetary and exchange rate exceptions, to ensure that governments may continue to regulate the financial sector and take action to ensure the stability and integrity of the financial system in a financial crisis.

Non-Conforming Measures. Similar to Chapters Eleven and Twelve, each Party has listed in an annex (Annex III) particular measures for which it negotiated exemptions from the chapter’s core obligations. Existing non-conforming U.S. state and local laws and regulations are exempted from these obligations. Once a Party, including a state or local government, liberalizes one of these non-conforming measures, however, it must, in most cases, maintain the measure at least at that new level of openness.

Other Provisions. Chapter Thirteen also includes provisions on regulatory transparency, “new” financial services, self-regulatory organizations, and the expedited availability of insurance products.

Relationship to Other Chapters. Measures that a Party applies to financial services suppliers of the other Party, other than regulated financial institutions, that make or operate investments in the Party’s territory are covered principally by Chapter Eleven (Investment) and certain provisions of Chapter Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services). In particular, the core obligations of Chapter Eleven apply to such measures, as do the market access, transparency, and domestic regulation provisions of Chapter Twelve. Chapter Thirteen incorporates by reference certain provisions of Chapter Eleven, such as those relating to transfers and expropriation.

Additional Commitments. Pursuant to the chapter’s annexes and an exchange of letters appended to the Agreement, Korea has taken on specific commitments to establish a more transparent financial regulatory regime, ensure that a government-owned insurance supplier will not be provided competitive advantages, and allow U.S. financial institutions in Korea to transfer information out of Korea for data processing to take advantage of global economies of scale.

Chapter Fourteen: Telecommunications

Chapter Fourteen includes disciplines beyond those imposed under Chapters Eleven (Investment) and Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services) on regulatory measures affecting telecommunications trade and investment between the Parties. It is designed to ensure that service suppliers of each Party have non-discriminatory access to and use of public telecommunications networks and services in the territory of the other Party. In addition, each Party must regulate its major telecommunications suppliers in ways that will help ensure a level playing field for new entrants. Each Party also commits to ensure that its telecommunications regulations are set by independent regulators applying transparent procedures.

Key Concepts. Under Chapter Fourteen, a “public telecommunications service” is any telecommunications service that a Party requires to be offered to the public generally. The term includes voice and data transmission services, but does not include “value-added services” (e.g., services that enable users to create, store, or process information over a network). A “major supplier” is a company that, by virtue of its market position or control over certain facilities, can materially affect the terms of participation in the market.

Competition. Chapter Fourteen establishes rules promoting effective competition in telecommunications services. The chapter includes commitments by each Party to:

- ensure that all service suppliers of the other Party that seek to access or use a public telecommunications network in the Party’s territory can do so on reasonable and non-discriminatory terms (e.g., Korea must ensure that its public phone companies do not provide preferential access to Korean banks or Internet service providers, to the detriment of U.S. competitors);
- ensure that the other Party’s telecommunications suppliers have the right to interconnect their networks with public telecommunications networks in the Party’s territory;
- ensure that telecommunications suppliers of the other Party are permitted to connect leased lines with public telecommunications networks in the Party’s territory; and
- impose disciplines on the behavior of “major suppliers,” such as ensuring that major suppliers provide interconnection at cost-oriented rates and do not impose unreasonable or discriminatory conditions or limitations on the resale of their services.

Regulation. The chapter addresses key regulatory concerns that may create barriers to trade and investment in telecommunications services. In particular, each Party:

- will maintain or adopt procedures that will help ensure a transparent telecommunications regulatory regime, including requirements to publish interconnection agreements and service tariffs and provide meaningful opportunities for interested parties to participate in telecommunications rulemaking;
- will require its telecommunications regulator to resolve disputes between suppliers and provide foreign suppliers the right to seek judicial review of those decisions; and

- may elect to deregulate telecommunications services when competition emerges and certain standards are met.

Technological Choice. The chapter contains innovative provisions designed to ensure that the Parties avoid limiting the technologies telecommunications suppliers may chose to use to provide their services.

Chapter Fifteen: Electronic Commerce

Chapter Fifteen establishes rules designed to prohibit discriminatory regulation of electronic trade in digitally encoded products such as computer programs, video, images, and sound recordings. The provisions in this and other recent U.S. free trade agreements represent a major advance over previous international understandings on this subject.

Customs Duties. Chapter Fifteen provides that a Party may not impose customs duties on digital products of the other Party that are either transmitted electronically or fixed on a carrier medium.

Non-Discrimination. The Parties will apply the principles of national treatment and NTR (MFN) treatment to trade in electronically-transmitted digital products. Thus, a Party may not discriminate against digital products that have a nexus to the other Party's territory (e.g., creation, production, or first sale there) or to otherwise afford protection to products with a connection to its own territory. Nor may a Party provide less favorable treatment to digital products that have a nexus to the other Party than it gives to like products that have a link to a third country. These non-discrimination rules do not apply to non-conforming measures adopted under Chapter Eleven (Investment), Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services), or Thirteen (Financial Services).

Additional Provisions. Chapter Fifteen contains additional provisions relating to electronic authentication and electronic signatures, online consumer protection, and paperless trade administration. The chapter also establishes mutually agreed principles regarding the access to and use of the Internet for electronic commerce.

Chapter Sixteen: Competition-Related Matters

Chapter Sixteen addresses competition laws, government-designated monopolies, state enterprises, and consumer protection.

Competition Laws. Each Party must maintain laws prohibiting anticompetitive business conduct and take appropriate action with respect to such conduct. Each Party must also maintain an authority responsible for enforcing its national competition laws. The chapter affirms that the enforcement policy of each Party's national competition authority is to treat persons of the other Party no less favorably than their own nationals.

Chapter Sixteen obligates each Party to provide certain procedural protections in enforcement proceedings convened under its competition law. Specifically, each Party must ensure that any person that is subject to an administrative enforcement proceeding is provided a right to be heard, to present and rebut evidence, and to cross-examine witnesses. In addition, each Party must ensure that a person subjected to a sanction or remedy under the Party's competition law can ask a court to review it. The chapter also requires each Party to empower its national competition authorities to settle their administrative or civil enforcement actions by mutual agreement with the subject of the enforcement action.

Designated Monopolies. Chapter Sixteen sets specific rules that apply with respect to any monopoly owned or controlled by a Party's national government and any private business to which a Party provides monopoly rights after the Agreement takes effect. The Party must ensure that any such entity: (1) abides by the Party's obligations under the Agreement whenever it exercises governmental authority delegated to it by the Party in connection with the monopoly product; (2) purchases or sells the monopoly product in accordance with commercial considerations; (3) provides nondiscriminatory treatment to the other Party's investments, goods, and service suppliers in its purchase or sale of the monopoly product; and (4) does not use its monopoly position to engage in anticompetitive practices in markets outside its monopoly mandate that harm the other Party's investments.

State Enterprises. The chapter also establishes rules governing each Party's responsibility for non-monopoly enterprises it owns or controls. Each Party must ensure that its state enterprises accord non-discriminatory treatment in the sale of their products to the other Party's investments and abide by the Party's obligations under the Agreement in exercising any governmental authority that the Party has delegated to it.

Cross-Border Consumer Protection. Chapter Sixteen commits the Parties to cooperate, in appropriate cases of mutual concern, in the enforcement of their consumer protection laws. The chapter provides that the Parties will also work to strengthen cooperation between their consumer protection agencies.

Dispute Settlement. Some of the chapter's provisions are not subject to the Agreement's dispute settlement procedures, including provisions covering competition laws and consumer protection. The chapter's rules addressing designated monopolies and state enterprises, however, are subject to those procedures.

Chapter Seventeen: Government Procurement

Chapter Seventeen provides suppliers in each Party with additional access to the other Party's national government procurement market.

The chapter reaffirms each Party's rights and obligations under the WTO Agreement on Government Procurement (GPA), and confirms the Parties' intention to apply the APEC Non-Binding Principles on Government Procurement, as appropriate, to all government procurement not covered under the GPA and the Agreement.

Coverage and Thresholds. Chapter Seventeen applies to procurements by those government departments, agencies, and enterprises listed in each Party's schedule of goods and services valued above certain dollar thresholds. Specifically, the chapter applies to procurements by listed agencies of the "central government," which for the United States means the federal government, of goods and services valued at $100,000 or more and construction services valued at $7,407,000 or more. The threshold for goods and services is substantially lower than the threshold applied under the GPA – hence expanding market opportunities in both countries.

General Principles and Procurement Procedures. Chapter Seventeen incorporates a number of provisions from the GPA, including commitments to national treatment of persons of the other Party and requirements governing the conduct of procurements. The chapter expands on the GPA by incorporating important improvements that reflect emerging practices in procurement, such as reducing the tendering period in cases where procurement notices and other procurement information are made available electronically; reducing the tendering period for off-the-shelf goods and services; and encouraging use of electronic procurement. In addition, in procurements subject to the Agreement, a government agency may adopt or apply technical specifications that require suppliers to comply with generally applicable laws regarding fundamental principles and rights at work and acceptable conditions of work in the territory where the supplier makes the product or performs the service that the agency will purchase.

Chapter Eighteen: Intellectual Property Rights

Chapter Eighteen complements and enhances existing international standards for the protection of intellectual property and the enforcement of intellectual property rights, consistent with U.S. law.

General Provisions. Chapter Eighteen commits each Party to ratify or accede to several agreements on intellectual property rights by the date the Agreement enters into force, including the WIPO Copyright Treaty, the Convention Relating to the Distribution of Programme-Carrying Signals Transmitted by Satellite, the WIPO Performances and Phonograms Treaty, the International Convention for the Protection of New Varieties of Plants, the Trademark Law Treaty, and the Patent Cooperation Treaty. The United States is already a party to these agreements. With very limited exceptions, each Party commits to provide national treatment to the other Party's nationals with respect to the enjoyment and protection of the intellectual property rights covered by the chapter.

Trademarks and Geographical Indications. Each Party must protect trademarks and geographical indications, including by refusing protection or recognition of a geographical indication that is likely to cause confusion with a preexisting trademark. The chapter calls for trademarks to include certification marks, and for geographical indications to be eligible for protection as trademarks. Each Party must establish an electronic system for applying for, registering and maintaining trademarks, as well as an online database, with efficient and transparent procedures governing applications. Furthermore, each Party's Internet domain name management system must include a dispute resolution procedure to address trademark cyber-piracy.

Copyright and Related Rights. Under Chapter Eighteen, the Parties must provide broad protection for copyright and related rights, affirming and building on rights set out in several international agreements. For instance, each Party must provide copyright protection for the life of the author plus at least 70 years (for works measured by a person's life), or at least 70 years (for corporate works). The chapter clarifies that the right to reproduce literary and artistic works, phonograms, and performances encompasses temporary copies, an important principle in the digital realm. Each Party must also provide a right of communication to the public, which will further ensure that the right holder has the exclusive right to authorize making protected works available online. Each Party must also protect the rights of performers and producers of phonograms.

To curb copyright piracy, each Party must ensure that its government agencies use only legitimate computer software, setting an example for the private sector. The chapter also includes provisions on anti-circumvention, under which the Parties commit to prohibit tampering with technology used to protect copyrighted works. In addition, Chapter Eighteen sets out obligations with respect to the liability of Internet service providers in connection with copyright infringements that take place over their networks. Recognizing the importance of satellite broadcasts, Chapter Eighteen provides that each Party will protect encrypted program-carrying satellite signals. The chapter obligates the Parties to extend protection to the signals themselves, as well as to the content contained in the signals.

Patents. Chapter Eighteen also includes a variety of provisions for the protection of patents. Each Party is obligated to make patents available for any invention, subject to limited exclusions, and each Party confirms that patents will be available for any new uses or methods of using a known product. To guard against arbitrary revocation of patents, each Party must limit the grounds for revoking a patent to the grounds that would have justified a refusal to grant the patent. Under Chapter Eighteen, each Party shall adjust the term of a patent to compensate for unreasonable delays in granting the patent and, for certain pharmaceutical products, to compensate for unreasonable curtailment of the effective patent term as a result of the marketing approval process for such products.

Certain Regulated Products. Chapter Eighteen includes additional specific provisions relating to pharmaceuticals and agricultural chemicals. Among other things, the chapter provides for the protection of information concerning product safety or efficacy, including test data that a company submits in seeking marketing approval for such products, by precluding other firms from relying on the information. It provides specific periods for such protection — at least five years for pharmaceuticals and ten years for agricultural chemicals. This means, for example, that during the period of protection, safety and efficacy information that a company submits for approval of a new agricultural chemical product cannot be used without that company's consent in granting approval to another company to market a combination product. The chapter's rules protecting information concerning pharmaceutical product safety and efficacy are subject to a public health exception. Chapter Eighteen also requires the Parties to adopt measures to prevent the marketing of a competing pharmaceutical product during the term of a patent covering the original innovative product. The February 10, 2011 Exchange of Letters allows Korea three years from the date the Agreement enters into force to implement measures in its marketing approval process to prevent persons from marketing a patented product without the consent of the patent holder.

Public Health. Chapter Eighteen expresses the Parties' understanding that a Party's obligations under the chapter do not and should not prevent it from taking measures to protect public health by promoting access to medicines for all.

Enforcement Provisions. The chapter also imposes obligations with respect to the enforcement of intellectual property rights in civil proceedings, criminal proceedings, and at the border. For example, each Party must provide that, when determining damages in civil proceedings involving copyright infringement or trademark counterfeiting, its judicial authorities must be able to take into account the value of the legitimate goods as well as the infringer's profits. Each Party must also provide for damages based on a fixed range (i.e., "statutory damages") as an option that the right holder can elect instead of actual damages.

Chapter Eighteen further provides that each Party's law enforcement agencies must have the authority to seize suspected pirated and counterfeit goods and the equipment used to make or transmit them. Each Party must also give its courts authority to order the forfeiture and/or destruction of these items. Chapter Eighteen also provides that each Party must establish criminal procedures and penalties for certain cases of trademark counterfeiting and copyright and related rights piracy.

Each Party must also empower its law enforcement agencies to take enforcement action at the border against pirated or counterfeit goods without waiting for a right holder to file a formal complaint.

Chapter Nineteen: Labor

Chapter Nineteen sets out the Parties' commitments and undertakings regarding trade-related labor rights.

Fundamental Labor Rights. Each Party commits to adopt and maintain in its statutes, regulations, and practice certain enumerated labor rights, as stated in the 1998 ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow Up. Specifically, these are (1) freedom of association; (2) the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining; (3) the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labor; (4) the effective abolition of child labor and, for purposes of the Agreement, a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor; and (5) the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation. In order to establish a violation of this obligation, a Party must demonstrate that the other Party has failed to comply in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties. Neither Party may waive or otherwise derogate from its statutes or regulations implementing this obligation in a manner affecting bilateral trade or investment where the waiver or derogation would be inconsistent with one of the enumerated rights. For the United States, the Chapter's provisions regarding fundamental labor rights apply to federal law only.

Effective Enforcement. Each Party commits not to fail to effectively enforce its labor laws on a sustained or recurring basis in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties. The Chapter defines "labor laws" to include laws directly related to the ILO fundamental labor rights as well as laws providing for acceptable conditions of work with respect to minimum wages, hours of work, and occupational safety and health, and laws providing labor protections for children and minors, including a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor. For the United States, "labor laws" includes federal statutes and regulations addressing these areas, but does not cover state or local labor laws.

Procedural Guarantees. Each Party commits to afford procedural guarantees that ensure workers and employers have access to tribunals for the enforcement of its labor laws. To this end, each Party must ensure that proceedings before these tribunals are fair, equitable, and transparent and comply with due process of law. Decisions of such tribunals must be in writing, made available to the parties to the proceedings and the public, and based on information or evidence in respect of which the parties were offered the opportunity to be heard. In addition, hearings in such proceedings must be open to the public, except where the administration of justice otherwise requires. Each Party also commits to make remedies available to ensure the enforcement of its labor laws. Such remedies might include orders, fines, penalties, or temporary workplace closures.

Dispute Settlement. Chapter Nineteen provides for cooperative consultations as a first step if a Party considers that the other Party is not complying with its obligations under the chapter. The complaining Party may, after an initial 60-day consultation period under Chapter Nineteen, invoke the Agreement's general dispute settlement mechanism by requesting additional consultations or a meeting of the Agreement's cabinet-level Joint Committee under Chapter Twenty-Two (Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement). If the Committee is unable to resolve the dispute, the matter may be referred to a dispute settlement panel.

Institutional Arrangements and Cooperation. Chapter Nineteen establishes a senior-level Labor Affairs Council to oversee the chapter's implementation and to provide a forum for consultations and cooperation on labor matters. Each Party must designate an office to serve as contact point for communications with the other Party and the public regarding the chapter. Each Party's contact point must provide transparent procedures for the submission, receipt, and consideration of communications from the public relating to the chapter.

The chapter also creates a cooperation mechanism through which the Parties will collaborate to address labor matters of common interest. In particular, the mechanism will assist the Parties to establish priorities for, and carry out, cooperative activities relating to such topics as: fundamental rights and their effective application; social safety net programs; and labor-management relations.

Chapter Twenty: Environment

Chapter Twenty sets out the Parties' commitments and undertakings regarding environmental protection.

General Principles. Each Party must strive to ensure that its environmental laws provide for and encourage high levels of environmental protection and continue to improve its respective levels of environmental protection. Each Party also commits not to waive or otherwise derogate from its environmental laws to weaken or reduce the levels of environmental protection in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties other than pursuant to any provision in its environmental law providing for waivers or derogations. Chapter Twenty further includes commitments to enhance cooperation between the Parties in environmental matters and encourages the Parties to develop voluntary, market-based mechanisms as one means for achieving and sustaining high levels of environmental protection.

Multilateral Environmental Agreements. The chapter recognizes that certain multilateral environment agreements (MEAs) play an important role globally and domestically in protecting the environment. The chapter includes a provision requiring each Party to adopt, maintain, and implement laws, regulations, and all other measures to fulfill its obligations under certain MEAs to which both governments are parties ("covered agreements"). To establish a violation of this obligation a Party must demonstrate that the other Party has failed to comply in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties.

Chapter Twenty provides that in the event of any inconsistency between a Party's obligations under the Agreement and a covered agreement, the Party must seek to balance its obligation under both agreements, but this will not preclude a Party from taking measures to comply with the covered agreement as long as the measure's primary purpose is not to impose a disguised restriction on trade.

Effective Enforcement. The chapter commits each Party not to fail to effectively enforce its environmental laws, and its laws, regulations, and other measures to fulfill its obligations under the covered agreements, on a sustained or recurring basis in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties. For the United States, "environmental laws" comprise federal environmental statutes and regulations promulgated under those statutes that are enforceable by action of the federal government.

Procedural Matters. The chapter requires each Party to make judicial, quasi-judicial, or administrative proceedings available to sanction or remedy violations of its environmental laws. Each Party must ensure that these proceedings are fair, equitable, and transparent, and, to this end, comply with due process of law and are open to the public, except where the administration of justice otherwise requires. Each Party must also ensure that interested persons may request the Party's competent authorities to investigate alleged violations of its environmental laws and that those authorities duly consider such requests. Each Party must also make appropriate and effective remedies available for violations of its environmental laws. These remedies may include, for example, fines, injunctions, or requirements to take remedial action or pay for the cost of containing or cleaning up pollution.

Environmental Performance. Each Party will encourage the development and use of flexible, voluntary, and incentive-based mechanisms for environmental protection and will also encourage the development and improvement of goals and indicators for measuring environmental performance as well as flexible means for achieving performance goals.

Institutional Arrangements and Cooperation. Chapter Twenty establishes a senior-level Environment Affairs Council to oversee implementation of the chapter. The Council will provide for the public to participate in its work, including by affording an opportunity at each Council meeting, unless the Parties otherwise agree, for the public to express views on how the chapter is being implemented. The Council must also provide appropriate opportunities for the public to participate in the development and implementation of joint environmental activities, including those developed under a separate bilateral environmental cooperation agreement that the Parties have signed.

Public Participation and Submissions. Each Party must provide for the receipt and consideration of submissions from persons of a Party on matters related to implementation of the chapter. Each Party will also convene a national advisory committee to solicit views on those matters and to submit to the Joint Committee a written report on the implementation of the chapter's public participation provisions within 180 days after the Agreement enters into force.

Dispute Settlement. Chapter Twenty provides for cooperative consultations as a first step if a Party considers that the other Party is not complying with its obligations under the chapter. The complaining Party may, after an initial 60-day consultation period, invoke the Agreement's general dispute settlement mechanism by requesting additional consultations or a meeting of the Joint Committee under Chapter Twenty-Two (Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement). If the Joint Committee is unable to resolve the dispute, the matter may be referred to a dispute settlement panel.

Chapter Twenty-One: Transparency

Chapter Twenty-One sets out requirements designed to foster openness, transparency, and fairness in the adoption and application of measures respecting matters covered by the Agreement. Each Party must promptly publish all laws, regulations, procedures, and administrative rulings of general application concerning matters covered by the Agreement, or otherwise make them publicly available. To the extent possible, the Parties must publish proposed regulations in advance and give interested persons a reasonable opportunity to comment. The chapter further provides that proposed regulations published by the central level of government must be published in a single official journal of national circulation and include an explanation of their purpose and rationale.

Wherever possible, each Party must provide reasonable notice to the other Party's nationals and enterprises that are directly affected by an administrative proceeding, such as an adjudication, rulemaking, licensing, determination, or approval process. A Party must afford such persons a reasonable opportunity to present facts and arguments before taking any final action, when time, the nature of the process, and the public interest permit.

Chapter Twenty-One also provides for independent review and appeal of final administrative actions. Appeal rights must include a reasonable opportunity to present arguments and to obtain a decision based on evidence in the administrative record.

Chapter Twenty-One reaffirms the Parties' resolve to eliminate bribery and corruption in international trade and investment. To this end, each Party is obligated to make it a criminal offense for their public officials to solicit or accept a bribe, and for any person to bribe a public official in exchange for favorable government action in matters affecting international trade or investment. Each Party must also adopt measures to protect persons who, in good faith, report acts of bribery or corruption. The Parties will also endeavor to work together to encourage and support initiatives in relevant international fora to prevent bribery and corruption.

Chapter Twenty-Two: Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement

Section A of Chapter Twenty-Two creates a Joint Committee, to be co-chaired by the Parties' trade ministers. The committee will be charged with supervising the implementation and overall operation of the Agreement. The committee may, among other things, issue interpretations of the Agreement's provisions and consider accelerating the elimination of duties on particular products or adjusting the Agreement's product-specific rules of origin. The Joint Committee will also assist in the resolution of any disputes that may arise under the Agreement and supervise the work of the various expert committees and other bodies established under the Agreement.

Chapter Twenty-Two also establishes two committees. One committee, established in Annex 22-B, will review and make recommendations to the Parties on whether conditions on the Korean Peninsula are appropriate for the development of outward processing zones. A second committee, to be convened under Annex 22-C, will promote bilateral cooperation on fisheries matters.

Section B of Chapter Twenty-Two sets out detailed procedures for the resolution of disputes between the Parties regarding the interpretation or application of the Agreement. These procedures emphasize amicable settlements, relying wherever possible on bilateral cooperation and consultations. When disputes arise under provisions common to the Agreement and other agreements (e.g., the WTO agreements), the complaining government may choose a forum for resolving the matter that is set forth in any valid agreement between the Parties. The selected forum will be the exclusive venue for resolving that dispute.

Consultations. A Party may request consultations with the other Party on any matter that it believes might affect the operation of the Agreement. If the Parties cannot resolve the matter through consultations within a specified period (normally 60 days), either Party may refer the matter to the Joint Committee, which will attempt to resolve the dispute.

Panel Procedures. If the Joint Committee cannot resolve the dispute within a specified period (normally 60 days), the complaining Party may refer the matter to a panel comprising independent experts that the Parties select. The Parties will set rules to protect confidential information, provide for open hearings and public release of submissions, and allow an opportunity for the panel to accept submissions from non-governmental entities in the Parties' territories.

Unless the Parties agree otherwise, a panel is to present its initial report within 180 days after the panel chair is appointed. Once the panel presents its initial report containing findings of fact and a determination on whether a Party has met its obligations, the Parties will have the opportunity to provide written comments to the panel. When the panel receives these comments, it may modify its report and make any further examination that it considers appropriate. Within 45 days after it presents its initial report, the panel will submit its final report. The Parties will then seek to agree on how to resolve the dispute, normally in a way that conforms to the panel's determinations and recommendations. Subject to protection of confidential information, the panel's final report will be made available to the public 15 days after the Parties receive it.

Suspension of Benefits. If the Parties cannot resolve the dispute after they receive the panel's final report, the Parties will seek to agree on acceptable trade compensation. If they cannot agree on compensation, or if the complaining Party believes the defending Party has failed to implement an agreed resolution, the complaining Party may provide notice that it intends to suspend trade benefits equivalent in effect to those it considers were impaired, or may be impaired, as a result of the disputed measure.

If the defending Party considers that the proposed level of benefits to be suspended is "manifestly excessive," or believes that it has modified the disputed measure to make it conform to the Agreement, it may request the panel to reconvene and decide the matter. The panel must issue its determination no later than 90 days after the request is made (or 120 days if the panel is reviewing both the level of the proposed suspension and a modification of the measure).

The complaining Party may suspend trade benefits up to the level that the panel sets or, if the panel has not been asked to determine the level, up to the amount that the complaining Party has proposed. The complaining Party cannot suspend benefits, however, if the defending Party provides notice that it will pay an annual monetary assessment to the other Party. The amount of the assessment will be established by agreement of the Parties or, failing that, will be set at 50 percent of the level of trade concessions the complaining Party was authorized to suspend.

Compliance Review Mechanism. If, at any time, the defending Party believes it has made changes in its laws or regulations sufficient to comply with its obligations under the Agreement, it may refer the matter to the panel. If the panel agrees, the dispute ends and the complaining Party must withdraw any offsetting measures it has put in place. Concurrently, the defending government will be relieved of any obligation to pay a monetary assessment.

Special Provisions for Disputes relating to Motor Vehicles. Annex 22-A establishes an expedited dispute settlement mechanism for disputes concerning motor vehicles. The annex provides a shortened schedule for selecting panelists and for panel proceedings. If a panel determines that a Party has not met its obligations under the Agreement in a matter that relates to motor vehicles and, as a result, has materially affected their sale or distribution, the other Party may increase its tariff with respect to passenger vehicles (i.e., vehicles classified under heading 87.03 of the Harmonized Commodity Description and Coding System) up to its prevailing NTR (MFN) applied tariff rate until the violation is remedied.

Settlement of Private Disputes. Section C of Chapter Twenty-Two calls for the Parties to encourage the use of arbitration and other alternative dispute resolution mechanisms to settle international commercial disputes between private parties. Each Party must provide appropriate procedures for the recognition and enforcement of arbitral awards, for example by complying with the 1958 United Nations Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards.

Chapter Twenty-Three: Exceptions

Chapter Twenty-Three sets out provisions that generally apply to the entire Agreement. The chapter makes Article XX of the GATT 1994 and its interpretive notes part of the Agreement, mutatis mutandis, for purposes of those chapters related to treatment of goods. Likewise, Article XIV of the WTO General Agreement on Trade in Services is made part of the Agreement for purposes of Chapters Twelve (Cross-Border Trade in Services), Fourteen (Telecommunications), and Fifteen (Electronic Commerce). For both goods and services, the Parties understand that these exceptions include environmental measures necessary to protect human, animal, or plant life or health and measures relating to the conservation of living and non-living exhaustible natural resources.

Essential Security. Chapter Twenty-Three makes clear that nothing in the Agreement prevents a Party from taking actions it considers necessary to protect its essential security interests, and specifically provides that an arbitration panel must apply the essential security exception if a Party invokes it. United States Annex II clarifies that non-conforming measures relating to the landside aspects of port activities are subject to the Agreement's essential security exception.

Taxation. A general exception set out in the chapter provides that only certain provisions of the Agreement apply to taxation measures. For example, the exception generally provides that the Agreement does not affect a Party's rights or obligations under any tax convention. The exception specifies that certain rules established under the Agreement do apply to certain tax measures, namely: (1) national treatment for goods; (2) national treatment and NTR (MFN) for services; (3) prohibitions on performance requirements; and (4) expropriation rules.

Disclosure of Information. The chapter provides that a Party may withhold information from the other Party if disclosing the information would be contrary to the public interest or prejudice the legitimate commercial interests of particular enterprises.

Chapter Twenty-Four: Final Provisions

Chapter Twenty-Four provides that (i) the annexes, appendices, and footnotes to the Agreement are an integral part of the Agreement; (ii) the Parties may amend the Agreement, subject to the each Party's legal requirements; and (iii) the English and Korean language texts of the Agreement are both authentic. The chapter also provides for the Parties to consult if any provision of the WTO Agreement that the Parties have incorporated into the Agreement is amended.

Finally, Chapter Twenty-Four establishes procedures for the Agreement to enter into force and terminate.

EFFECT OF THE UNITED STATES – KOREA FREE TRADE AGREEMENT ON STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

I. Introduction

The United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS) will eliminate tariffs and other trade barriers and expand opportunities for workers, manufacturers, consumers, farmers, ranchers, and service providers in the United States and the Republic of Korea (“Korea”). In 2010, U.S. goods exports to Korea were $39 billion.

The KORUS opens Korea’s markets to manufactured goods, services, and agricultural products from the United States. For both industrial and agricultural products, Korea maintains a much higher average applied tariff rate than the United States. For example, Korea maintains an average applied tariff rate of 6.2 percent on industrial goods, more than twice the average applied rate of 2.8 percent for the United States. Likewise, on agricultural products, Korea maintains an average applied tariff rate of 54 percent, six times the U.S. average applied rate of 9 percent. The KORUS will reduce and eventually eliminate Korea’s tariffs on virtually all products, which will provide significant benefit to U.S. businesses and workers across the fifty states.

Over 95 percent of U.S. exports of consumer and industrial products will become duty-free within five years of entry into force, including many key U.S. exports such as industrial and consumer electronic machinery and parts, auto parts, power generation equipment, the majority of chemicals, medical and scientific equipment, motorcycles, and certain wood products. Most remaining tariffs will be eliminated within ten years. The KORUS, together with the exchange of letters signed on February 10, 2011, includes a broad and unprecedented range of specific provisions designed to open Korea’s auto market to U.S. vehicles and ensure that U.S. automakers have a fair opportunity to compete in Korea.

The KORUS will also benefit U.S. agricultural producers and create new opportunities for U.S. farmers in a major export market. Reducing Korea’s average applied tariff of 54 percent on agriculture products will be of significant benefit to farmers, ranchers and processors across the United States. About $3.0 billion, or nearly two-thirds, of current U.S. agricultural exports to Korea will become duty-free immediately, including exports of wheat, feed corn, soybeans for crushing, hides and skins, and cotton, plus a broad range of high value agricultural products such as almonds, pistachios, bourbon whiskey, wine, raisins, grape juice, fresh cherries, frozen french fries, orange juice and orange juice concentrate, and pet food.

Korea will significantly improve upon its WTO commitments in services, providing meaningful market access commitments that extend across virtually all major service sectors. Korea’s commitments will apply to services supplied both cross-border (such as through electronic means) as well as through a commercial presence in Korea. These commitments will provide U.S. service suppliers with new opportunities and greater assurance of their rights in the robust Korean market.

The KORUS also includes strong transparency obligations, including commitments that the national governments of the United States and Korea will publish proposed regulations in advance, allow a reasonable opportunity to comment on the proposed regulations, address significant substantive comments received, and publish final regulations in an official journal of national circulation. Additional transparency provisions apply in the areas of customs administration, pharmaceutical and medical device pricing and reimbursement, technical regulations, services, financial services, and telecommunications.

The Intergovernmental Policy Advisory Committee (IGPAC), one of the statutory advisory committees to the U.S. Trade Representative (USTR), is composed of representatives and associations representing executive, legislative, and judicial branches of sub-federal government, as well as states, counties, and cities. Among the organizations represented on the IGPAC are: the Council of State Governments, the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL), the National League of Cities, the National Governors Association, and the National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG). In recent years, USTR has revitalized and significantly expanded membership and geographic representation on the IGPAC to include state points of contact designated by the Governors' offices, as well as state legislators and attorneys general nominated by NCSL and NAAG, respectively.

Pursuant to the Trade Act of 1974, the IGPAC, along with USTR's other statutory advisory committees, is required to produce a report on the KORUS. The IGPAC report assesses the impact of the Agreement from the perspective of U.S. state and local governments. In its report (available in full at www.ustr.gov), the IGPAC recognizes that:

“This agreement with Korea, a critically important strategic ally of the US and a significant trading partner, should foster trade ties and deepen Asian regional economic integration. The US-Korea FTA should substantially improve mutually beneficial economic and industrial development objectives, while increasing trade and investment opportunities. US economic interests, entrepreneurs and employees would benefit from improved market access for goods, services, agricultural products, and from better access to central government procurement opportunities. IGPAC members note that the US and Korea are poised to benefit, both from expanded market access, and from greater strategic regional integration amongst smaller and larger nations in Asia.”

Based in part on the IGPAC's report, this Report addresses three main areas of interest to states and localities in the KORUS: (i) government procurement; (ii) investment; and (iii) services. Additionally, USTR has also taken into account the overall interest of states and localities in preserving sub-federal regulatory abilities and prerogatives.

II. Government Procurement

According to the IGPAC report:

“This FTA's procurement chapter does not reference U.S. States, the USTR's announced reciprocity policy on government procurement, or additional sub-federal procurement coverage, since Korea and the U.S. have already covered sub-federal procurement through the pre-existing WTO Government Procurement Agreement (GPA).”

U.S. States have not undertaken any commitments with respect to government procurement in the KORUS. Thirty-seven states are currently covered by the GPA, with applicable procurement thresholds of $554,000 for goods and services and $7.8 million for construction services.

III. Investment

Chapter Eleven of the KORUS contains important protections for investment, and updates and clarifies those protections as compared to similar provisions contained in prior U.S. bilateral investment treaties and trade agreements. In accordance with the objectives set out by Congress in the Trade Act of 2002, the investment provisions of the KORUS are designed to reduce barriers to foreign investment and to secure important protections for U.S. investors in Korea, while ensuring that Korean investors in the United States do not receive greater substantive rights than U.S. investors in the United States.

As with other trade agreements to which the United States is a party, the investment provisions of the KORUS protect the regulatory authorities of state and local governments. First, while state and local measures will generally be subject to the chapter’s disciplines, the United States will be exempt from the national treatment, most-favored nation treatment, performance requirements, and senior management and obligations on boards of directors for all state and local government measures existing on the date of entry into force of the KORUS. State and local measures adopted after this date, however, will generally not be exempt from these obligations.

Second, the investment provisions of the KORUS reflect U.S. legal principles and practice. For example, consistent with U.S. takings and due process protections, the KORUS clarifies that only property rights in an investment are entitled to protection against unlawful expropriation. The KORUS also incorporates standards that reflect U.S. Supreme Court jurisprudence for determining when a regulatory measure rises to the level of an expropriation.

Third, Chapter Eleven of the KORUS includes provisions to ensure that investor-State arbitration tribunals interpret the KORUS in accordance with the intent of the Parties. The Parties will have the authority to issue interpretations of the investment provisions that are binding on arbitration tribunals. The non-disputing Party will have the right to make submissions to the tribunal regarding the interpretation of the Agreement, and the disputing parties will have the opportunity to review draft awards. The Parties have also committed, within three years after the date of entry into force, to consider whether to establish an appellate body or similar mechanism to review arbitral awards rendered in arbitrations commenced after the establishment of such a mechanism.

Fourth, the KORUS refines the investor-State dispute settlement process to improve its efficiency and to help deter frivolous claims. The KORUS includes expedited procedures to dismiss frivolous claims (similar to Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure) and handle jurisdictional objections. To further deter frivolous claims, the Agreement expressly authorizes tribunals to award attorneys' fees and costs after deciding whether a claimant has raised a frivolous claim.

Finally, the KORUS includes provisions to enhance transparency and public involvement in the investor-State dispute settlement process. Submissions to investor-State arbitral tribunals will be made public, and hearings will generally be open to the public. Tribunals will also be authorized to accept amicus curiae submissions from non-disputing parties.

The IGPAC report acknowledges the transparency provisions included in the KORUS, noting the following:

“IGPAC members welcome those Section B investor-state dispute settlement provisions that seek to provide greater transparency, allow non-party and amicus curiae submissions, and to consider whether claims or objections may be frivolous.”

On the other hand, some IGPAC members expressed some reservations about the investor-State dispute settlement mechanism. In particular, the IGPAC noted:

“Given that the Republic of Korea has a well-developed legal system, some IGPAC members question the need for including any special investor-state dispute resolution provisions in this agreement, and would prefer, like the U.S.-Australia FTA, resolution of these types of disputes be left to the courts.”

Investor-State dispute settlement provides a neutral, transparent, and binding mechanism to settle disputes that arise under the Chapter.

IV. Cross-Border Trade in Services

Chapter Twelve of the KORUS covers the supply of services on a cross-border basis. The cross-border supply of services includes services supplied from the United States into Korea or vice versa (including by electronic means); services supplied by a national of one Party in the territory of the other Party; and services supplied in the territory of one Party to a consumer of the other Party. Services supplied through local investment are primarily covered by the Investment Chapter, but also enjoy the protection of certain provisions in the Cross-Border Trade in Services Chapter. While state and local measures will generally be subject to the disciplines set out in Chapter Twelve, the United States will be exempt from the national treatment, most-favored nation treatment, local presence, and market access obligations for all state and local measures existing on the date on which the KORUS enters into force. State and local measures adopted after that date, however, will generally not be exempt from these obligations.

Nothing in Chapter Twelve or any other provision of the KORUS requires the privatization or deregulation of any government services, including water supply or distribution services, education services, or health services. Services supplied in the exercise of governmental authority are expressly excluded from the scope of the chapter.

The implementation of Chapter Twelve should not require an additional commitment of resources by state or local governments.

The IGPAC report comments:

“Given the growing importance of services industries to the U.S. economy, state and local governments generally support objectives of Free Trade Agreements to liberalize trade in services industries as a means of increasing market access for U.S. firms and for reaching trade development objectives. IGPAC members equally assert that the independent exercise of state and local legislative and regulatory power is critical to protecting citizens’ interests and safeguarding the federal system.”

V. Financial Services

Chapter Thirteen of the KORUS covers measures relating to the supply of financial services. The chapter covers investment in regulated financial institutions in the United States and Korea as well as certain cross-border trade in financial services, including via electronic means, such as insurance related to international transport, reinsurance and advisory services other than intermediation. The chapter does not apply to measures relating to public retirement plans or social security systems when managed by a government or private sector monopoly. Provisions such as the prudential and monetary and exchange rate exceptions ensure that governments may continue to regulate the financial sector and to take action to ensure the stability and integrity of the financial system in a financial crisis. While state and local measures will generally be subject to the disciplines of Chapter Thirteen, the United States will be exempt from the national treatment, most-favored nation treatment, market access for financial institutions, and senior management and boards of directors obligations for all state and local measures existing on the date on which the Agreement enters into force, including those with respect to insurance. State and local measures adopted after that date, however, will generally be subject to these obligations.

VI. Regulatory Interests

The KORUS does not prevent the United States or state and local governments from enacting, modifying, or fully enforcing domestic laws protecting consumers, health, safety, or the environment.

VII. Conclusion

States and localities are poised to benefit greatly under the Agreement. Korea is a trillion dollar economy and is the United States’ seventh largest trading partner. In 2010, each state in the United States plus Puerto Rico exported at least $10 million in goods to Korea, with 43 states recording at least $50 million in exports. Forty states each exported at least $100 million in goods to Korea, and goods exports from six states exceeded $1 billion.

Tariff elimination on these products will make U.S. producers even more competitive by eliminating Korea's significantly higher tariffs on U.S. exports and making U.S. goods more price-competitive. The KORUS will also provide improved market access in virtually all major service sectors. Additionally, the KORUS will foster transparency, regulatory openness, and fairness for U.S. producers and service providers in the Korean market.

USTR does not believe that state or local governments will need additional resources to deal with the effects of increased trade under the KORUS.

Executive Summary

This U.S. employment impact report was prepared pursuant to section 2102(c)(5) of the Trade Act of 2002. Section 2102(c)(5) requires the President to review and report to the Congress on the impact of future trade agreements on U.S. employment and labor markets. This report describes the relevant provisions of the United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS), including a summary of the labor provisions, and assesses the potential employment effects of the KORUS.

Although the KORUS is expected to improve the competitiveness of U.S. exports to the Republic of Korea (Korea) when tariffs are removed on a wide range of products, the major finding of this report is that the agreement is not expected to have a significant effect on aggregate employment in the United States. General equilibrium simulations of the agreement find an overall employment impact ranging from negligible to an increase of 280,000 jobs, depending on whether the U.S. labor market is assumed to be at full employment (no net gain in jobs) or high unemployment (potential net gain). The limited impact on the U.S. labor market is attributable to: (i) the large size of the U.S. economy relative to the economy of Korea; (ii) the relatively small share of U.S. trade with Korea relative to U.S. global trade; (iii) the fact that possible employment losses in some industries are likely to be offset by employment increases in other industries; (iv) provisions in the KORUS for the gradual removal of U.S. tariffs on import-sensitive goods from Korea over an extended period; and (v) safeguards contained in the KORUS to attenuate the effects of certain increases in imports.

I. Introduction: Overview of the U.S. Employment Impact Report

A. Scope, Outline, and Data Sources of this Report

This employment impact report provides background and context for the United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS), including the bilateral economic setting, current barriers to bilateral trade, and the major elements of the KORUS (found in Part II). The report then considers the potential employment effects of the KORUS on the United States (Part III). Finally, the report briefly describes the Labor Chapter of the KORUS (Part IV).

Unless otherwise specified, the value of U.S. imports and exports used in this report are based on compilations of official statistics gathered by the U.S. Department of Commerce and are extracted from the U.S. International Trade Commission’s (USITC) Interactive Tariff and Trade Dataweb.¹ Data on the U.S. labor market are drawn from various data-gathering programs of the U.S. Department of Labor’s Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). Information about the U.S. labor force is from the BLS Current Population Survey.² Industry-level employment and average hourly earnings are from the BLS Current Employment Statistics program.³ All of the referenced data tables appear at the end of this report.

B. Legislative Mandate

This report on the U.S. employment impact of the KORUS is prepared pursuant to section 2102(c)(5) of the Trade Act of 2002 (“Trade Act”) (Pub. L. No. 107-210). Section 2102(c)(5) provides that the President shall review the impact of future trade agreements on United States employment, including labor markets, modeled after Executive Order 13141 to the extent appropriate in establishing procedures and criteria. The report is prepared for the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate and is made available to the public.

The President, by Executive Order 13277 (67 Fed. Reg. 70305 (Nov. 21, 2002)), assigned the responsibility for conducting reviews under section 2102(c)(5) to the United States Trade Representative (USTR). USTR delegated its responsibility to the Secretary of ¹ The USITC Interactive Tariff and Trade Dataweb is available at <http://dataweb.usitc.gov/>. All trade data are in nominal (current dollar) terms. The value of U.S. imports is the customs value (the appraised value of the merchandise, exclusive of import duties, freight, insurance, and other charges incurred in placing the merchandise alongside the carrier at the port of exportation) of U.S. merchandise imports for consumption (the amount that immediately enters U.S. consumption channels, but not bonded warehouses or Foreign Trade Zones). The value of U.S. exports is the free alongside ship (FAS) value of domestic U.S. merchandise exports (goods that are grown, mined, produced, or manufactured in the United States and sent to foreign countries).

³ Data from the Current Employment Statistics program are available at www.bls.gov/ces.

Labor with the requirement that reviews be coordinated through the Trade Policy Staff Committee (67 Fed. Reg. 71606 (Dec. 2, 2002)).

The employment impact report is modeled, to the extent appropriate, on the environmental review of trade agreements mandated by Executive Order 13141 (64 Fed. Reg. 63169 (Nov. 18, 1999)); the guidelines developed for the implementation of that order have been adapted for use in this employment impact report.

C. Public Outreach and Comments

1. Responses to Federal Register Notice

The U.S. Department of Labor (USDOL) and USTR jointly published a notice on March 3, 2006, in the Federal Register announcing the initiation of a review of the potential impact on U.S. employment and effects on domestic labor markets of the proposed KORUS. The notice requested written comments from the public on potentially significant sectoral or regional employment impacts (both positive and negative) in the United States, as well as other likely labor market effects of the Agreement.⁴

The American Dehydrated Onion and Garlic Association (ADOGA) was the only entity that submitted written comments in response to the notice. It opposed any tariff reduction on U.S. imports of dehydrated onion and garlic under the agreement, fearing increased imports from the Republic of Korea (Korea) and the potential for transshipments of products from China. It argued that duty-free treatment of dehydrated onion and garlic from Korea would have a negative impact on its industry, its 3,700 employees, their families, and the economically distressed small rural Western communities. It noted a lack of alternative employment opportunities in these communities. The ADOGA raised the same concerns in submissions on the U.S. employment impact of previous free trade agreements.

2. Reports of the Labor Advisory Committee for Trade Negotiations and Trade Policy and Other Advisory Committees

Section 2104(e) of the Trade Act requires that trade advisory committees provide the President, USTR, and Congress with reports under section 135(e)(1) of the Trade Act of 1974, as amended, not later than 30 days after the President notifies Congress of his intent to enter into an agreement. All of the advisory committee reports were submitted by April 27, 2007, and are available on the USTR Web site.⁵

The Advisory Committee on Trade Policy and Negotiations (ACTPN) and nearly all of the other trade advisory committees expressed the view that the KORUS is in the economic interest of the United States and stated their support for it. The ACTPN found the KORUS “to be strongly in the best economic interest of the United States” and that it “should be enacted into law as soon as possible.”

The Labor Advisory Committee for Trade Negotiations and Trade Policy (LAC) argued that the agreement would not promote the economic interests of the United States and contended that the KORUS is “the most economically problematic trade agreement negotiated since [the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA)]” and that the KORUS “presents the potential for significant negative economic impact on the United States, particularly on jobs and wages.” Further, the LAC argued that the agreement would not protect the fundamental human rights of workers in either country. Regarding concerns expressed by the LAC about the labor law obligations of the agreement and the treatment of violations of the Labor Chapter in dispute settlement, it is important to note that the Labor Chapter was subsequently modified in May 2007.⁶

The LAC also detailed specific concerns about automotives and steel, two industries in which the U.S. trade deficit with Korea is highly concentrated. The LAC strongly opposed provisions of the KORUS that call for an immediate reduction in U.S. and Korean tariffs on most autos and also noted concerns with the KORUS’s process for addressing non-tariff barriers in the auto sector. They suggested that tariffs should not be reduced until it can be verified that the Korean auto market has opened significantly. An accompanying agreement to the KORUS includes adjustments to the tariff elimination schedule for cars and trucks, a special automotive safeguard, and provisions to address certain non-tariff measures. This agreement seeks to address some of the concerns expressed by the LAC.⁷ The LAC also expressed concerns about the treatment of steel in the agreement. In its view, the KORUS’s rules of origin could allow Chinese steel to be minimally processed in Korea and then receive duty-free access to the U.S. market (allowing China to circumvent existing rules on antidumping and countervailing duty orders).

On January 26, 2011, USTR provided the Advisory Committees with an opportunity to comment on new agreements reached in December 2010 to resolve outstanding issues related to the KORUS by submitting an addendum to their earlier reports by February 18, ⁶ Relative to FTAs approved prior to May 2007, the obligations of the Labor Chapter have been strengthened in two ways. First, the Parties commit to adopt and maintain, and to enforce in practice, labor laws that protect the fundamental rights stated in the 1998 International Labor Organization (ILO) Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-up. In FTAs prior to May 2007, and the Labor Chapter as originally negotiated in the KORUS, the obligation was to strive to enforce existing national labor laws and internationally recognized labor rights. Second, disputes arising under the Labor Chapter will be handled according to the same procedures as commercial disputes arising under other chapters, rather than according to procedures specific to labor disputes.

⁷ Under the new agreements, tariffs on U.S. imports of Korean autos will not be eliminated until the fifth year after the KORUS enters into force. Reductions in tariffs on U.S. imports of Korean trucks are also delayed. The agreement also addresses numerous non-tariff barriers in the auto sector and provides for an auto-specific safeguard to protect against potential surges of Korean cars and trucks once the tariffs are eliminated. Details on these new auto-related provisions are available at http://www.whitehouse.gov/sites/default/files/fact_sheet_increasing_us_auto_exports_us_korea_free_trade_agreement_v2_0.pdf.

2011. As of this writing, five advisory committees, including the LAC, have submitted addendums to their reports, and these are posted on the USTR Web site.⁸

In its addendum, the LAC expressed its view that the new agreements “will provide additional protections for the U.S. auto industry and its workers, especially in the short term” and “may also lead to increased market access for U.S.-produced automobiles.” However, the LAC expressed concern about how the agreement might impact workers in the auto parts and supply industry. The LAC remained concerned about many provisions of the KORUS.

II. Background and Contents of the KORUS

A. Bilateral Economic Setting

1. Population and the Economy

Korea’s population in 2009 was 48.7 million, 15.9 percent that of the United States.⁹ Korea has a land area slightly larger than the State of Indiana. Measured using the Atlas method for making cross-country comparisons, Korea’s gross national income (GNI) was $966.6 billion in 2009, approximately 6.8 percent of U.S. GNI of $14.2 trillion. Using this measure, Korea’s GNI per capita was $19,830, approximately 42.8 percent of U.S. per capita GNI of $46,360. Alternatively, on a Purchasing Power Parity (PPP) basis, Korea’s GNI was $1.3 trillion in 2009, approximately 9.5 percent of U.S. GNI of $14.0 trillion. Using this measure, Korea’s GNI per capita was $27,240, approximately 59.7 percent of U.S. GNI per capita of $45,640.

2. Labor Force

a. U.S. Labor Force

In 2010, the U.S. civilian labor force totaled 153.9 million workers, of which 46.7 percent (71.9 million) was female.¹⁰ The U.S. civilian labor force consists of employed and unemployed persons¹¹ in the civilian non-institutional population age 16 and older. A

⁸ See <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-agreements/free-trade-agreements/korus-fta/advisory-group-reports-korus-fta>.

¹⁰ All data on the U.S. labor force are from the Current Population Survey and are available on the Bureau of Labor Statistics’ Web site at <http://www.bls.gov/cps/>.

total of 139.1 million workers were employed in the United States in 2010.¹² The service sector accounted for about four-fifths (81.2 percent) of U.S. employment.¹³ Industry accounted for 17.2 percent of U.S. employment, and agriculture made up 1.6 percent. The unemployment rate in the United States was 9.6 percent in 2010.

b. Korea's Labor Force

In 2009, the civilian labor force in Korea totaled 24.4 million workers, of which 41.3 percent (10.1 million) was female.¹⁴ The Korean civilian labor force consists of employed and unemployed persons in the civilian non-institutional population age 15 and older. A total of 23.5 million workers were employed in Korea in 2009. The service sector accounted for 68.5 percent of employment. Industry accounted for 24.4 percent of employment, and agriculture made up 7.0 percent.¹⁵ The unemployment rate in Korea was 3.6 percent in 2009.

3. International Merchandise Trade

a. Global Merchandise Trade

Based on available statistics from the World Trade Organization (WTO), total U.S. merchandise trade with the world amounted to $2.7 trillion ($1.1 trillion in merchandise exports and $1.6 trillion in merchandise imports) in 2009.¹⁶ The United States was the world's third largest merchandise exporter (behind China and Germany) and the number one merchandise importer.

Korea's total merchandise trade with the world amounted to $686.6 billion ($363.5 billion in merchandise exports and $323.1 billion in merchandise imports) in 2009. Korea was ranked the ninth largest merchandise exporter and the twelfth largest merchandise importer in the world.

¹² Employment and unemployment data refer to the civilian labor force.

¹³ U.S. employment data broken out by sector (i.e., services, industry, and agriculture) are classified according to the North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) in the Current Population Survey. Therefore, they are not strictly comparable with other countries' data, including Korea, which uses the Korean Standard Industry Classification.

¹⁴ All data presented in this section on the Korean labor force are from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development Annual Labor Force Statistics - Summary Tables; available from <http://stats.oecd.org/index.aspx>.

¹⁵ Due to rounding, percent of total civilian employment in services, industry and agriculture do not sum to 100 percent.

¹⁶ Data for this and the next paragraph are from the WTO and are based on total merchandise trade. WTO Trade Profiles (March 2011) by country are available at <http://stat.wto.org/CountryProfile/WSDBCountryPFHome.aspx?Language=E>.

Merchandise trade as a percent of gross domestic product (GDP) is an indicator of the relative importance of merchandise trade to an economy. In 2009, merchandise trade was equivalent to 19 percent of GDP for the United States and 82 percent for Korea.¹⁷

b. Bilateral Merchandise Trade

Korea's share of U.S. exports rose to 3.3 percent in 2010 from 2.9 percent in 2009.¹⁸ In 2010, Korea was the United States' seventh largest merchandise export market (behind Canada, Mexico, China, Japan, Germany, and the United Kingdom). U.S. merchandise exports to Korea recorded a five-year high of $36.8 billion in 2010. This was up 36.1 percent from the five-year low of $27.1 billion recorded in 2009. Due to weak economic conditions globally, total U.S. exports to all countries fell significantly in 2009 before starting to rebound in 2010. While U.S. exports to Korea fully rebounded past their previous high, U.S. exports to all countries in 2010 were still 4.1 percent below their 2008 levels.

Korea's share of total U.S. merchandise imports was 2.5 percent in 2010, the same as in 2009. In 2010, Korea was the United States' seventh largest source for merchandise imports (behind China, Canada, Mexico, Japan, Germany, and the United Kingdom). U.S. merchandise imports from Korea recorded a five-year high of $47.9 billion in 2010. This was up 23.6 percent from a five-year low of $38.8 billion in 2009. Due to weak economic conditions globally, total U.S. imports from all countries fell significantly in 2009 before starting to rebound in 2010. While U.S. imports from Korea fully rebounded past their previous high, U.S. imports from all countries in 2010 were still 9.2 percent below their 2008 levels.

4. International Trade in Services

The United States was the world's number one commercial services exporter ($476.0 billion) and number one commercial services importer ($334.3 billion) in 2009, based on data from the WTO.¹⁹ By comparison, Korea's exports of commercial services to the world amounted to $72.5 billion (ranked 15th) and its imports of commercial services from the world totaled $79.5 billion in 2009 (ranked 12th).

¹⁷ Data are from the World Bank, World Development Indicators. Merchandise trade as a share of GDP is the sum of merchandise exports and imports divided by the value of GDP, all in current U.S. dollars. The indicator does not give the share of GDP generated by imports and exports, but indicates that the value of imports and exports is equivalent to the resulting percentage of GDP.

¹⁸ As noted in section I.A of this report, trade data, unless otherwise noted, are from the USITC Dataweb. All trade data are in nominal (current dollar) terms. Imports are the custom value of imports for consumption. Exports are the FAS value of domestic exports.

¹⁹ WTO statistics and rankings refer to commercial services, which exclude trade in government services not included elsewhere. See WTO Trade Profiles (March 2011).

According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, in 2009, U.S. exports of private services to Korea were $12.6 billion, and U.S. imports of private services from Korea were $6.4 billion.²⁰

5. Foreign Direct Investment

U.S. foreign direct investment (FDI) in Korea was $27.0 billion (on a historical-cost basis) in 2009, up from $22.4 billion in 2008. Korean FDI in the United States was $12.0 billion (on a historical-cost basis), down slightly from $12.1 billion in 2008.²¹

In 2009, Korea's global inward stock of FDI was estimated to be $110.8 billion, and its global outward stock of FDI was estimated to be $115.6 billion.²²

6. Summary and Conclusions

The United States imports more merchandise from Korea than it exports to the country ($47.9 billion compared to $36.8 billion), while in services, the U.S. exports roughly twice as much as it imports from Korea ($12.6 billion compared to $6.4 billion). U.S. global trade is dominated by other large economies, including Mexico and Canada. Korea's population, economy, and labor force are substantially smaller than those of the United States. The size of Korea relative to the United States and the dominance of other partners in U.S. trade limit the effect that the KORUS can have on aggregate levels of U.S. employment.

B. Barriers to Bilateral Trade Prior to the KORUS

1. Merchandise Trade

The United States and Korea are members of the WTO. The WTO Agreement obligates Members to accord "most favored nation/normal trade relations" (MFN/NTR)²³ tariff treatment to the goods of other WTO members. Under MFN, with certain exceptions, if a

²⁰ Private services exclude services transactions by the U.S. government (including the military). The U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis publishes detailed annual statistics on cross-border trade in services. ²¹ See Survey of Current Business (July 2010), pp. 32-35. This source defines foreign direct investment position in the United States as the value of foreign direct investors' equity in, and net outstanding loans to, their U.S. affiliates. tariff is applied to a good from one Member country, the same tariff must be applied to the same good from all Member countries.²⁴

According to the WTO, Korea's simple average MFN applied tariff rate was 12.1 percent for all products in 2009.²⁵ The average was 48.6 percent for agricultural goods (WTO definition) and 6.6 percent for non-agricultural goods. Korea maintains tariff rate quotas (TRQs) for various products that are intended to provide minimum access to previously closed markets or to maintain pre-Uruguay Round access.²⁶ While the tariff rates applied to imports of a commodity up to the level of the quota may be minimal, tariffs on quantities exceeding the quota, particularly for agricultural and fishery products, are often prohibitive. Korea also uses "adjustment tariffs" to increase applied tariff rates to protect domestic agricultural, fishery, and plywood producers. In addition, Korea maintains certain burdensome standards, technical regulations, and conformity assessment regulations and other non-tariff barriers to trade.²⁷

The United States maintains a transparent and largely open trade regime, although it maintains some non-tariff barriers to trade. According to the WTO, the United States' simple average MFN applied tariff rate was 3.5 percent for all products. The average was 4.7 percent for agricultural products (based on the WTO definition) and 3.3 percent for non-agricultural goods.²⁸ As part of the WTO Trade Policy Review of the United States, the WTO Secretariat recently noted that "the U.S. trade and investment regimes are among the most open in the world, and have remained so throughout the period under review."²⁹ Most imports either enter the United States duty-free or at low tariffs, although the United States maintains some relatively high tariffs on sensitive products, including tobacco, certain dairy products, sugar, textiles and apparel, and footwear.³⁰

2. Trade in Services

²⁴ Among the allowable exceptions to MFN are bilateral free trade agreements. Any removal of tariffs agreed between the United States and Korea in the KORUS does not have to be extended to other countries. See Paul R. Krugman and Maurice Obstfeld, International Economics (Boston, MA: Addison-Wesley, 2009), p. 239. Korea maintains restrictions in services and investments in certain service sectors.³¹ For example, the advertising market is highly restricted and all broadcast advertising time must be purchased through a state-sponsored agency. Korea restricts foreign participation in broadcast and cable television by limiting the amount of airtime allowed for foreign programs. Other sectors where Korea restricts foreign investment include maritime and air transportation. Regulatory oversight and transparency are concerns in the financial sector.

The U.S. services and investment regimes are generally open,³² with some exceptions. For example, in the maritime sector, cabotage laws reserve domestic routes to U.S. operators and provide government support for U.S.-flag vessels. Similarly, the United States restricts foreign ownership and control of U.S. air transport carriers, and the provision of domestic air service is restricted to U.S. carriers.

C. Major Elements of the KORUS

The KORUS consists of a Preamble, twenty-four chapters and various annexes. The chapters are: Initial Provisions and Definitions; National Treatment and Market Access for Goods; Agriculture; Textiles and Apparel; Pharmaceuticals and Medical Devices; Rules of Origin and Origin Procedures; Customs Administration and Trade Facilitation; Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures; Technical Barriers to Trade; Trade Remedies; Investment; Cross-Border Trade in Services; Financial Services; Telecommunications; Electronic Commerce; Competition-Related Matters; Government Procurement; Intellectual Property Rights; Labor; Environment; Transparency; Institutional Provisions and Dispute Settlement; Exceptions; and Final Provisions. There are three annexes that specify non-conforming measures in services, investment, and financial services. New agreements signed on February 10, 2011, contain additional commitments, principally with respect to autos. The complete text of the KORUS, the new agreements, and summary fact sheets are available on USTR's Web site.³³

III. Potential Employment Effects of the KORUS

The focus of this report is on the potential impact of the KORUS on U.S. employment and labor markets. The background and context presented in Part II suggests that the agreement is likely to have a limited aggregate employment impact. In this Part, the report explores possible impacts on the industrial composition of U.S. employment. It does so in five steps. First, the current industrial structure of U.S.-Korea trade is presented. The next section gives an overview of the tariff changes resulting from the KORUS and a qualitative assessment of their impact. This is followed by a review of publicly available computable general equilibrium modeling exercises that attempt to simulate the effects of liberalization of trade between the United States and Korea. The fourth step considers impacts in specific industries where U.S. imports from Korea were subject to substantial tariffs in 2009. Finally, there is a discussion of mechanisms within the KORUS available to ease economic adjustments that the U.S. and Korean economies may face as the KORUS takes effect. This Part suggests a tendency for offsetting increases and decreases in output and employment across industries, and for other offsetting factors within industries.

A. The Current Volume and Industrial Structure of U.S.-Korea Trade

Over the past five years, U.S. merchandise exports to Korea have averaged about 3.1 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to the world, or $32.2 billion a year. U.S. merchandise exports to Korea have been concentrated in a few industrial subsectors (based on the North American Industry Classification System, NAICS): machinery, except electrical; chemicals; computer and electronic products; transportation equipment; agricultural products; food manufacturing; and waste and scrap (see Table III.1).³⁴

Over the past five years, U.S. merchandise imports from Korea have averaged about 2.4 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from the world, or $44.7 billion a year. U.S. merchandise imports from Korea have been concentrated in the following NAICS-based subsectors: computer and electronic products; transportation equipment; electrical equipment, appliances, and components; machinery, except electrical; petroleum and coal products; primary metal manufacturing; plastics and rubber products; and chemicals (see Table III.2).

In 2010, 55.6 percent of all merchandise imports from Korea entered the United States duty-free, mainly due to MFN duty-free treatment,³⁵ while the remaining 44.4 percent was subject to an average 3.1 percent rate of duty. In 2010, U.S. imports from Korea in the following NAICS-based subsectors were subject to the highest amount of duties (see Table III.3):

- transportation equipment (total duties, $243.2 million; average rate of duty on dutiable goods, 2.5 percent);³⁶

³⁶ The average rate of duty is the ratio of calculated duties over the dutiable value of imports in the subsector. The dutiable value represents the customs value of items imported into to the United States that

- plastics and rubber products ($78.8 million; 4.2 percent);
- chemicals ($56.0 million; 5.6 percent);
- electrical equipment, appliances, and components ($46.6 million; 2.1 percent);
- textiles and fabrics ($41.4 million; 9.6 percent);
- apparel and accessories ($40.8 million; 15.1 percent);
- machinery, except electrical ($39.9 million; 3.2 percent); and
- fabricated metal products ($32.9 million; 3.9 percent).

In 2010, the ten leading U.S. merchandise imports (on an eight-digit Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) tariff line basis) accounted for 46.5 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from Korea and about one-third (32.4 percent) of all calculated duties. The following six of these ten leading merchandise imports received MFN duty-free treatment:

- telephones for cellular or other wireless networks (total imports, $7.5 billion);
- printed circuit assemblies ($2.4 billion);
- electronic integrated circuits ($1.5 billion);
- combined electric refrigerator-freezers ($863.3 million);
- memories ($837.9 million); and
- U.S. goods returned without having been advanced in value or improved in condition while abroad ($651.4 million).

The remaining four items were subject to modest tariffs:

- passenger motor cars and other vehicles for cylinder capacity exceeding 1500cc but not exceeding 3000cc (total imports, $5.6 billion; tariff rate, 2.5 percent);
- passenger motor cars and other vehicles for cylinder capacity exceeding 3000cc ($1.3 billion; 2.5 percent);
- new pneumatic rubber radial tires used on motor cars ($943.9 million; 4.0 percent); and
- kerosene-type jet fuel from petroleum oils ($647.8 million; 52.2 cents per barrel, or 0.6 percent).

B. The Potential Effects of Removing Current Barriers to Trade

The immediate effects of the KORUS will come from the removal of tariffs on bilateral merchandise trade and the provision of expanded market access (through preferential tariff rate quotas) on specific sensitive goods (mainly agricultural items). According to the WTO, in 2009, Korea's simple average applied import tariff was 12.1 percent, in contrast to the U.S. simple average applied tariff of just 3.5 percent.³⁷ Prior to the is subject to duty. The total imports and dutiable value for each of these subsectors are presented in Table III.3.

³⁷ See WTO Tariff Profiles for the Republic of Korea and the United States, available online at <http://stat.wto.org/TariffProfile/WSDBTariffPFHome.aspx?Language=E>

KORUS, 37.5 percent of U.S. tariff lines were MFN duty-free, while only 13.3 percent of Korean tariff lines were MFN duty-free.³⁸ When the KORUS enters into force, 82.2 percent of U.S. tariff lines and 79.9 percent of Korean tariff lines will be duty-free immediately. Duties on other sensitive originating goods will be phased out over varying transition periods ranging from two to twenty years. Within five years, 92.7 percent of U.S. tariff lines and 91.8 percent of Korean tariff lines will be duty-free.

Since the initial tariff barriers in Korea are much higher than those in the United States, the removal of these barriers means that it is likely that the price paid by Korean consumers for U.S. goods will fall more than the price paid by U.S. consumers for Korean goods. Accordingly, it is reasonable to expect that the lowering of the barriers through the KORUS will have a greater impact on increasing U.S. exports to Korea than increasing Korean exports to the United States.

The removal of Korean tariffs on many U.S. products in key export sectors, such as industrial and consumer electronic machinery and parts, auto parts, power generation equipment, the majority of chemicals, medical and scientific equipment, motorcycles, and certain wood products is likely to make those products more competitive in Korean markets.

The KORUS will also open Korea's approximately $500 billion services market³⁹ more fully to U.S. service providers. Under the KORUS, Korea will commit to provide meaningful market access across virtually all major service sectors, including express delivery services. The KORUS would likely not have as large effect on U.S. imports of services from Korea, as the U.S. services market is already very open (see section II.B.2 of this report).

In the long term, the KORUS may also lead to increased FDI between Korea and the United States as a result of the more stable legal framework the KORUS creates for investors. All forms of investment are protected under the agreement. The United States already affords equal treatment to investors. U.S. investors in Korea will enjoy the right to establish, acquire, and operate investments on an equal footing with local investors in almost all sectors. Investor protections will be backed by an impartial and transparent dispute settlement mechanism.

³⁹ The size of the Korean service sector is based on “Services, etc., value added (current U.S. $)” from the World Bank, World Development Indicators. Value added is the net output of a sector.

C. Effects as Determined by Computable General Equilibrium Studies

This section summarizes seven publicly available computable general equilibrium (CGE) studies which use different methodologies and assumptions to assess the impact of various simulations of trade liberalization between the U.S. and Korean economies.⁴⁰ These simulations are not necessarily consistent with the terms of the actual agreement; nevertheless, the studies may give insights as to the magnitude or direction of changes that might accompany the KORUS.

Most of the studies used a CGE model known as the Global Trade Analysis Project (GTAP) model to simulate the possible impact of the removal of tariff and quota restraints on bilateral merchandise trade. The GTAP global database contains historical information on bilateral trade patterns, production, consumption, and the intermediate use of commodities and services. The database also contains information on tariffs, some non-tariff barriers, and other taxes.

The standard GTAP model is a multi-region, multi-sector model with perfect competition and constant returns to scale. Bilateral trade is handled using the Armington assumption that internationally traded goods are differentiated by country of origin (that is, imports are imperfect substitutes for domestic products). The simulations use expected KORUS-induced consumer and producer price changes to predict changes in the volume of trade of goods between the United States and Korea.

The results of the simulations vary, even among studies done with the same GTAP model. These variations arise from differences in policy assumptions, the age of the data used, the level of aggregation employed, and technical assumptions about the type of competition firms face when engaged in international trade. The simulations cannot predict what may happen to goods that historically have not been traded between the partners. Because of difficulty in quantifying services liberalization, liberalization of trade in services is generally not modeled.⁴¹

CGE simulations generally are based on an assumption that there is full employment in the economies studied. Most simulations discussed below make this assumption. As a logical consequence, economy-wide employment levels remain constant. Increased employment in some sectors is fully counterbalanced by decreases in others, as sectoral wages adjust to draw workers away from contracting and toward expanding sectors. Adjustments to aggregate employment can be accommodated in CGE simulations, if unemployment is assumed and wages are not allowed to adjust in response to sectoral reallocation of workers. One CGE simulation of the KORUS pursues this strategy. It produces the largest available estimate of aggregate employment change from the KORUS: an increase of 280,000, which is less than one-fifth of one percent of total U.S.

⁴⁰ Only publicly available computable general equilibrium studies that calculated the effects of a potential FTA between the United States and Korea on the U.S. economy were included in this literature review.

⁴¹ Among the KORUS models considered below, only the one developed by Kiyota and Stern for the Korea Economic Institute incorporates liberalization in trade in services.

employment. The direction and magnitude of this result is consistent with projections for other economic indicators. For example, the studies of merchandise trade liberalization between the United States and Korea that consider overall effects on welfare find a small positive impact on U.S. welfare. The studies find U.S. welfare gains in the range of 0.05 percent to 0.2 percent (that is, less than one-fifth of one percent) of U.S. GDP, with gains ranging from $0.8 billion to $25.1 billion.

Further detail on the available studies follows below.

1. U.S. International Trade Commission (2011, 2007, and 2001)^{42,43,44}

The U.S. International Trade Commission (USITC) has published three official reports regarding a free trade agreement between the United States and Korea. Both the 2007 and 2001 reports examine the economic impact of bilateral trade liberalization on the U.S. economy as a whole.⁴⁵ The 2011 report is an update that focuses solely on the passenger vehicle sector.

The USITC 2007 study uses the GTAP model and database⁴⁶ to analyze goods-related provisions of the KORUS. It estimates the effects of tariff and TRQ-related changes negotiated in the agreement.⁴⁷ The model assumes that all provisions of the KORUS are fully phased in on January 1, 2008, rather than phased in over the periods specified in the agreement. Overall, the USITC estimates that U.S. GDP would increase by 0.1 percent ($10.1-11.9 billion). U.S. welfare would increase by $1.8 - $2.1 billion (less than 0.05 percent of projected U.S. GDP).

The study finds “the FTA would likely result in a small to negligible impact on output or employment for most sectors of the U.S. economy, as expected losses in output and employment in contracting sectors are expected to be offset by gains in expanding sectors.”⁴⁸ The model finds the largest percent increases in output (measured as quantity or revenue) in cattle, sheep, goats, and horses (0.7 to 2.0 percent), bovine meat products (0.7 to 2.0 percent), other meat products (0.5 to 0.9 percent), and other animal products (0.4 to 0.8 percent). The largest percent decreases would be in textiles (-0.8 to -0.7 percent), wheat (-0.7 to 0.0 percent), wearing apparel (-0.5 to -0.4 percent), paddy and processed rice (-0.5 to 0.2 percent), electronic equipment (-0.4 to -0.2 percent), and plant-based fibers (-0.4 to 0.1 percent).

⁴⁵ The 2001 report considers a possible free trade agreement, while the 2007 report considers the agreement signed in 2007.

⁴⁷ The model and database simulate liberalized trade in all goods subject to liberalization under the KORUS, except for the sector “vegetables, fruits, and nuts.” This sector is subject to partial liberalization as a result of permanent, increasing TRQs. They also attempt to reflect changes in the excise tax on automobiles, tariff elimination on U.S. beef exports, the unchanged treatment of rice, and the differential treatment of food-grade soy beans. For a full discussion, please see Appendix F of USITC (2007).

Estimates of the effects on employment show the same trends, with similar percent changes. The largest percent increases in employment are found in sectors producing cattle, sheep, goats, and horses (0.7 to 1.8 percent), bovine meat products (0.7 to 1.8 percent), other meat products (0.5 to 0.8 percent), other animal products (0.5 to 0.7 percent), and other cereals and grains (0.2 to 0.5 percent). The largest percent decreases in employment are found in sectors producing textiles (-0.8 to -0.7 percent), wheat (-0.7 to -0.1 percent), wearing apparel (-0.5 to -0.4 percent), and paddy and processed rice (-0.5 to 0.1 percent).

The USITC 2011 study examines the effects of the passenger vehicle provisions of the new agreements signed on February 10, 2011. The study includes two separate general equilibrium simulations. The first assumes the removal of all Korean non-tariff measures in the auto sector, but does not consider the effects of tariff changes associated with the KORUS. This simulation uses a model similar to the GTAP model that includes detailed industry differentiated demand information for Korean consumers.⁴⁹ Under this scenario, the USITC reports that the potential increase in U.S. exports of certain passenger cars to Korea associated with the removal on non-tariff measures could range from 41 to 56 percent ($48 million to $66 million).⁵⁰ Estimates of changes to sector output, employment, and U.S. imports are not reported.

The second simulation updates the 2007 GTAP simulation for the “motor vehicles and parts” sector using 2009 data. Like the 2007 GTAP simulation, this updated simulation considers only the removal of tariffs, and does not model the removal of non-tariff measures. For the updated simulation, the USITC reports that U.S. exports to Korea in the “motor vehicles and parts” sector could increase by 54 percent ($194 million), and U.S imports from Korea could increase by 11 percent ($907 million). These results are similar to those reported from the 2007 simulation, which showed U.S. exports increasing between 46 to 59 percent and U.S. imports increasing between 9 and 12 percent.

⁴⁹ The standard GTAP model differentiates internationally traded goods only by country of origin, not by specific industries.

Estimates of changes to sector output and employment from the updated simulation are not reported.⁵¹

The earlier USITC 2001 study uses the GTAP model and an earlier GTAP database⁵² to simulate the possible impact of the elimination of all tariffs and some non-tariff border measures between Korea and the United States with no gradual phase-in provisions. The simulation assumes that the trade liberalization would be implemented in 2001, and analyzes the effects of the trade liberalization in 2005, four years after implementation.⁵³ The study finds that changes in aggregate U.S. output and employment would likely be negligible, due primarily to the size of the U.S. economy relative to that of the Korean economy. Overall, the USITC estimates that U.S. GDP would increase by 0.2 percent ($20 billion). Estimates of the effects on sectoral employment are similar to those in the 2007 study with, for example, increases in agriculture (0.8 percent) and decreases in textiles and apparel (-1.4 percent).

*2. Memorandum from the Majority Staff of the Senate Committee on Finance Subcommittee on Trade (2011)*⁵⁴

The majority staff of the Senate Committee on Finance Subcommittee on Trade released a memo containing their analysis of technical work undertaken by the staff of the USITC.⁵⁵ The analysis updates and extends the work done in USITC (2007). The majority staff considers two scenarios. Scenario A uses 2009 trade and employment data to update the scenario employed in USITC (2007); e.g., the size of the labor force and the capital stock are held constant, and wages and the cost of capital adjust. The findings are generally the same as those published in USITC (2007).⁵⁶

Scenario B extends this work by changing the assumptions about the labor force and capital stock to reflect weaker economic conditions that the majority staff authors note “more closely approximates current U.S. economic conditions”⁵⁷ (a period of high unemployment and underused capacity). In this scenario, the size of aggregate employment and the capital stock in the U.S. economy are allowed to adjust, and the real ⁵¹ The comparable percentage impacts on exports and imports between the two simulations discussed in the paragraph may suggest that the updated simulation would yield impacts in motor vehicles and parts output and employment that are similar to the 2007 simulation. There, changes in both ranged from -0.2 to -0.1 percent. As the discussion earlier in this section shows, these were not among the largest estimated sectoral changes in output or employment.

⁵² The USITC uses the GTAP version 4 database with a base year of 1995.

⁵⁴ Available online at <http://wyden.senate.gov/download/?id=d0b7cd8b-268c-4eff-98f3-aa085f45bd69>.

⁵⁵ The memo notes that this technical assistance was provided at the request of the Subcommittee, that the memo is not an official Commission document, and that it should be referenced as “work of the staff of the USITC: not a Commission-approved document.”

⁵⁶ The updated Simulation A finds U.S. GDP would increase by 0.1 percent ($10.4 billion), and U.S. welfare would increase by 0.0 percent ($1.8 billion). Sectoral output and employment changes are also very similar to the 2007 findings.

⁵⁷ Majority staff (2011), p. 4.

wages and cost of capital in the United States are fixed. This scenario finds that U.S. GDP would increase by 0.2 percent ($27.3 billion), and U.S. welfare would increase by 0.1 percent ($20.7 billion). U.S. employment would increase by 280,000 (0.2 percent). The sectors that would show the largest percent increases in employment are similar to those in USITC (2007): cattle, sheep, goats, and horses (1.4 percent); bovine meat products (1.3 percent); other meat products (0.7 percent); and other animal products (0.7 percent). The only sectors showing decreases in employment are wheat (-0.5 percent); textiles (-0.4 to -0.3 percent); electronic equipment (-0.1 percent), and plant-based fibers (-0.1 percent). Percent changes in output, both in terms of quantity and revenue, are similar to the percent changes in employment.

3. *Institute for International Economics: Schott, Bradford, and Moll (2006)*⁵⁸ and *Choi and Schott (2001)*⁵⁹

The 2006 study by Schott, Bradford, and Moll updates an earlier exercise by Choi and Schott (2001) using a newer GTAP model⁶⁰ and an updated version of the GTAP database.⁶¹ The authors examine two scenarios: (1) complete free trade and (2) complete free trade in everything except rice. Both scenarios are considered in the medium and long term. For full liberalization, the simulation estimates that U.S. welfare would increase by $766 million (0.01 percent of GDP) in the medium term and $8.8 billion (0.07 percent of GDP) in the long term. For Korea, the model estimates increases of $27.6 billion (3.5 percent of GDP) and $51.8 billion (6.6 percent of GDP) respectively. With rice excluded, U.S. welfare would increase by $6.3 billion (0.05 percent of GDP) in the medium term and $13.7 billion (0.1 percent of GDP) in the long term. For Korea, the model estimates increases of $20.2 billion (2.6 percent of GDP) and $40.9 billion (5.2 percent of GDP) respectively.

The model estimates small changes in the sectoral composition of U.S. production. In the medium term under the full liberalization scenario, the authors find a large percentage increase in U.S. production of paddy rice; however, the increase is from a very small level.⁶² Other increases would be in other primary products (6.5 percent) and other food products (0.3 percent). The model predicts declines or no change in all other sectors, including in processed rice (-21.1 percent), wheat (-12.0 percent), textiles (-1.4 percent), and leather products (-1.3 percent). In the estimates for the long term in the scenario where rice is excluded from the liberalization (which is closer to the case of the actual KORUS), the percent change in U.S. output is generally small. The largest declines would be in wheat (-6.1 percent), paddy rice (-3.1 percent), textiles (-1.4 percent), and leather products (-1.3 percent). The results show increases in other primary products (6.5 percent) and other food products (0.3 percent).

Information on sectoral labor market effects in the United States is not included. By skill levels, the authors find little change in the long run real factor prices for labor. Under the complete free trade simulation, the price for unskilled labor increases by about 0.1 percent and the change for skilled labor is even less. The model predicts large shifts in the industrial composition of Korean employment but little effect on the overall size of the labor market.

The 2001 study by Choi and Schott uses an earlier GTAP model and the 1995 GTAP database to simulate a variety of scenarios. For complete trade liberalization (removal of all tariffs that Korea and the U.S. impose on each other), the simulations project that U.S. welfare would increase by $3.8 billion (0.05 percent of GDP) in the medium term and $8.9 billion (0.13 percent of GDP) in the long term. The authors find “very small structural effects on the U.S. economy.”⁶³ In the medium term, they find the largest increase in output in agriculture (1.6 percent) and the largest declines in output in textile and apparel (-1.2 percent) and transportation equipment (-0.3 percent).

4. Korea Economic Institute: Kiyota and Stern (2007)

In this study, the authors use the Michigan Model of World Production and Trade (Michigan Model)⁶⁴ – a multi-country CGE model – to evaluate the economic effects of the proposed KORUS. The Michigan Model varies from the standard GTAP model in that it incorporates some aspects of imperfect competition, increasing returns to scale, and product differentiation at the firm level. While the GTAP models rely on the Armington assumption, the Michigan model allows for differentiated products supplied by monopolistically competitive firms and imports from other countries to compete more directly with domestic products. The main data source is the GTAP version 6.0 database which has a reference year of 2001. This study also differs from those discussed above in that it includes estimates of liberalized trade in services.

The authors estimate that, with the bilateral elimination of tariffs and export subsidies in agriculture, manufactures, and services, U.S. welfare would increase by $25.1 billion (0.14 percent of GDP) and Korean welfare would increase by $9.3 billion (1.26 percent of GDP).⁶⁵

The model predicts small changes in U.S. domestic industrial composition. The model finds the largest percent increases in the production of oil seeds (1.7 percent), other grains (1.6 percent), and rice (1.1 percent), and the largest declines in wearing apparel (-0.5 percent) and textiles (-0.4 percent). Estimates of the effects on employment show the same trends, with similar percent changes. The largest percent increases in employment are found in oil seeds (1.7 percent), other grains (1.6 percent), and rice (1.1 percent). The largest percent decreases in employment are found in wearing apparel (-0.6 percent) and textiles (-0.5 percent).

D. Bilateral Trade and Domestic Employment Trends in Selected Industries

As the review of CGE studies illustrates, there are likely to be output and employment losses in some industries and new opportunities in others as output and employment adjust to the KORUS. For the following analysis, two sets of industries were reviewed to determine likely employment effects: (1) industries that already have a large volume of imports from Korea that face low tariff rates; and (2) industries that currently face high tariff rates that will be reduced or eliminated under the KORUS.

This section examines factors at play in six industries where the removal of current tariffs on U.S. imports from Korea will be notable.⁶⁶ The text table below identifies the six 5-digit NAICS-based industries where U.S. imports from Korea were subject to the highest amount of calculated duties in 2010. All are in the manufacturing sector.

Text Table: Customs Value, Dutiable Value, Calculated Duties, and Average Rate of Duty on U.S. Imports from Korea in Industries with Highest Calculated Duties in 2010

Industry	Customs Value	Dutiable Value	Calculated Duties	Average Rate of Duty
	(Millions)
33611 – Automobiles and Light Duty Motor Vehicles	6,938.6	6,917.9	172.9	2.5%
32621 – Tires	1,209.2	1,181.3	47.2	4.0%
33639 – Other Motor Vehicle Parts	1,278.8	1,074.2	26.5	2.5%
32521 – Resin and Synthetic Rubbers	522.4	346.7	21.8	6.3%
31321 – Broadwoven Fabrics	222.2	193.2	18.1	9.4%
31324 – Knit Fabrics and Lace	148.9	148.1	16.8	11.3%

The three identified auto-related industries (NAICS 33611, 32621, and 33639) are examples of industries that currently have a low tariff and a high volume of imports. The other three industries are examples of industries that currently face a relatively high tariff and imports are more modest.

The discussion below shows that in these industries changes in U.S. tariffs under the KORUS may tend to reduce U.S. employment; however, in some of these industries, changes in Korean tariffs may tend to increase U.S. employment.

1. Automobiles and light duty motor vehicles (NAICS 33611)

⁶⁶ Because trade with Korea will remain small as a proportion of all commerce in which the United States engages, it is not possible to give quantitative estimates at the detailed industry level of net changes.

a. U.S. Employment Trends before the KORUS

The chart below presents the trend in U.S. employment in the automobile and light duty motor vehicles industry (NAICS 33611) for the years 1990 to 2010. During this period, employment hit a peak in 1995 at 251,300 employees and has shown a general downward trend since that time, before increasing slightly in 2010. Employment was 127,500 in 2010, up from 123,400 in 2009. The average hourly earnings of production employees in the motor vehicles industry group⁶⁷ (NAICS 3361), which includes the automobile and light duty vehicles industry, were $29.04 in 2010.⁶⁸ This is approximately 1.6 times the average hourly earnings of production employees in the manufacturing sector as a whole, which were $18.61 in 2010.

b. Bilateral Trade Trends and Potential Impacts of the KORUS

U.S. imports of automobiles and light duty motor vehicles from Korea make up a substantial portion of all U.S. imports from Korea. In 2010, U.S. imports in this industry were $6.9 billion and accounted for 14.5 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from ⁶⁷ Employment and average hourly earnings data are annual averages reported at the industry (5-digit NAICS) level when available. When industry-level data are not available, data are reported at the industry group (4-digit NAICS) level. The level of aggregation at which employment and average hourly earnings data are estimated and published depends on several factors, including sample size, coverage, and response rates.

⁶⁸ All average hourly earnings are in nominal terms.

Korea. Imports from Korea represent 5.9 percent of all U.S. imports of automobiles and light duty motor vehicles from all sources. In 2010, Korea was the fifth largest supplier of U.S. imports in this industry behind Canada ($35.8 billion), Japan ($32.9 billion), Germany ($18.3 billion), and Mexico ($14.4 billion).

Two HTS 8-digit items account for nearly all (99.9 percent) of U.S. imports from Korea in this industry: passenger motor cars and other vehicles for cylinder capacity exceeding 1500cc but not exceeding 3000cc (HTS 8703.23.00) and passenger motor cars and other vehicles for cylinder capacity exceeding 3000cc (HTS 8703.24.00).

- Imports of HTS 8703.23.00 from Korea amounted to $5.6 billion in 2010 and accounted for 9.7 percent of U.S. imports of this item from all sources. This was the second leading HTS 8-digit item from all industries imported from Korea in 2010.
- Imports of HTS 8703.24.00 from Korea amounted to $1.3 billion in 2010 and accounted for 2.4 percent of U.S. imports of this item from all sources. This was the fifth leading HTS 8-digit item from all industries imported from Korea in 2010.

In 2010, U.S. imports of these items from Korea were subject to a calculated duty of $172.9 million, or 26.1 percent of all duties on items from Korea. The MFN tariff on each of these items is quite low, at 2.5 percent. Two of the leading suppliers of U.S. imports in this industry – Mexico and Canada – benefit from duty-free treatment of these items under the NAFTA. Under the KORUS, U.S. duties on HTS 8703.23.00 and HTS 8703.24.00 will be eliminated five years after the KORUS enters into force.

While U.S. imports of Korean autos are likely to increase after these tariffs are eliminated, U.S. exports of autos to Korea also have potential to grow. The KORUS contains a range of provisions that are designed to open the Korean auto market to U.S. manufacturers. For example, U.S. exports of most autos to Korea currently face an 8.0 percent tariff and other taxes increase the effective tariff rate even higher. Korea will reduce its tariff on U.S. auto imports to 4.0 percent on the date the KORUS enters into force and will fully eliminate the tariff within five years.

U.S. exports of automobiles and light duty motor vehicles to Korea in 2010 were $325.5 million and accounted for 0.9 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to Korea. This represents 0.9 percent of all U.S. exports of automobiles and light duty motor vehicles to all countries. Korea was the 17th largest export market for this industry. The five leading export markets for the United States were Canada ($10.7 billion), Germany ($3.9 billion), China ($3.1 billion), Saudi Arabia ($2.8 billion), and Mexico ($2.7 billion).

2. Tires (NAICS 32621)

a. U.S. Employment Trends before the KORUS

The chart below presents the trend in U.S. employment in the tire industry (NAICS 32621) for the years 1990 to 2010. Employment in this industry was fairly steady from 1990 to 2000, averaging around 87,000 employees. Since 2000, this industry has shown a downward trend. Employment in the industry was 52,100 in 2010. The average hourly earnings of production employees in the rubber products industry group (NAICS 3262), which includes the tires industry, were $16.64 in 2010.

b. Bilateral Trade Trends and Potential Impacts of the KORUS

U.S. imports of tires from Korea make up a small but growing portion of all U.S. imports from Korea. In 2010, U.S. imports in this industry from Korea were $1.2 billion and accounted for 2.5 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from Korea (up from $311.4 million and 0.8 percent in 2000). This represents 11.4 percent of all U.S. imports of tires from all sources (up from 6.6 percent in 2000). In 2010, Korea was the fourth largest supplier of U.S. imports in this industry behind China ($2.3 billion), Canada ($1.8 billion), and Japan ($1.6 billion).

Two HTS 8-digit items accounted for the vast majority (96.4 percent) of U.S. imports from Korea in this industry: new rubber pneumatic radial tires used on motor cars (HTS 4011.10.10) and new rubber pneumatic radial tires used on buses or trucks (HTS 4011.20.10).

- Imports of HTS 4011.10.10 from Korea amounted to $943.9 million in 2010 and accounted for 16.9 percent of U.S. imports of this item from all sources. This item was the sixth leading HTS 8-digit item imported from Korea in 2010.
- Imports of HTS 4011.20.10 from Korea amounted to $221.5 million in 2010 and accounted for 7.2 percent of U.S. imports of this item from all sources.

In 2010, U.S. imports of these two items from Korea were subject to a calculated duty of $46.6 million which accounted for 7.0 percent of all duties on items from Korea. The MFN tariff on each of these two items is 4.0 percent. Under the KORUS, U.S. duties on HTS 4011.10.10 and HTS 4011.20.10 will be removed in five equal annual stages beginning on the date the KORUS enters into force and will be duty-free effective January 1 of year 5.

While U.S. imports of Korean tires may increase after the KORUS enters into force, U.S. exports of tires to Korea also have potential to grow. U.S. exports of tires to Korea currently face an 8.0 percent tariff and will become duty-free immediately on the date the KORUS enters into force.

In 2010, U.S. exports of tires to the world were $4.1 billion, with only $12.9 million (or 0.3 percent) being exported to Korea. This represents 0.03 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to Korea. Korea was the 27th largest market for U.S. exports of tires in 2010. The five leading export markets for the United States were Canada ($1.7 billion), Mexico ($869.6 million), Australia ($243.3 million), Chile ($103.0 million), and Brazil ($102.5 million).

3. Other Motor Vehicle Parts (NAICS 33639)

a. U.S. Employment Trends before the KORUS

The chart below presents the trend in U.S. employment in the other motor vehicle parts industry (NAICS 33639) for the years 1990 to 2010. During this period, employment hit a peak in 2000 at 201,500 employees and has shown a downward trend since that time, before increasing slightly in 2010. Employment was 114,300 in 2010, up from 113,300 in 2009. The average hourly earnings of production employees in the other motor vehicle parts industry were $16.82 in 2010.

b. Bilateral Trade Trends and Potential Impacts of the KORUS

U.S. imports of other motor vehicle parts from Korea make up a small but growing portion of all U.S. imports from Korea. In 2010, U.S. imports in this industry from Korea were $1.3 billion and accounted for 2.7 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from Korea (up from $325.5 million and 0.8 percent in 2000). This represents 5.7 percent of all U.S. imports of other motor vehicle parts from all sources (up from 2.2 percent in 2000). In 2010, Korea was the fifth largest supplier of U.S. imports in this industry behind Mexico ($6.7 billion), Canada ($4.9 billion), China ($3.2 billion), and Japan ($2.1 billion).

In 2010, U.S. imports of other motor vehicle parts from Korea were subject to a calculated duty of $26.5 million, or 4.0 percent of all duties on items from Korea.⁶⁹ The average rate of duty for these items was 2.5 percent. The U.S. MFN tariff and the planned tariff elimination schedule vary by HTS 8-digit item. The leading three HTS 8-digit items in the industry (which accounted for 69.1 percent of all imports from Korea in this industry in 2010) have MFN tariffs ranging from duty-free to 2.5 percent, and those with duties will be eliminated immediately when the KORUS enters into force.

⁶⁹ The other motor vehicle parts industry is comprised of many HTS 8-digit items. In 2010, U.S. imported 28 separate HTS 8-digit items from Korea that were mapped to this NAICS industry.

While U.S. imports of other motor vehicle parts from Korea may increase after the KORUS enters into force, U.S. exports of other motor vehicle parts to Korea also have potential to grow. U.S. exports of other motor vehicle parts to Korea currently face a 10.0 percent tariff and will become duty-free immediately on the date the KORUS enters into force. U.S. exports of other motor vehicle parts to all countries amounted to $21.9 billion in 2010, or 1.9 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to the world. Of this, U.S. exports to Korea accounted for just 1.0 percent, or $229.3 million in 2010.

4. Resin and Synthetic Rubbers (NAICS 32521)

a. U.S. Employment Trends before the KORUS

The chart below presents the trend in U.S. employment in the resin, rubber, and artificial fibers industry group (NAICS 3252), which includes the resin and synthetic rubbers industry, for the years 1990 to 2010. Employment has shown a dramatic downward trend over this period, falling by 43.2 percent. Employment in this industry group was 89,700 in 2010. The average hourly earnings of production employees in this industry group were $21.11 in 2010.

Figure 4. U.S. Employment in Resin, Rubbers, and Artificial Fibers (NAICS 3252), 1990-2010 (annual average, in thousands)

Source: BLS, Current Employment Statistics

b. Bilateral Trade Trends and Potential Impacts of the KORUS

In 2010, U.S. imports of resin and synthetic rubbers from Korea were $522.4 million and accounted for 1.1 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from Korea. This represents 4.4 percent of all U.S. imports of resin and synthetic rubbers from all sources. In 2010, Korea was the fifth largest supplier of U.S. imports in this industry behind Canada ($4.3 billion), Japan ($1.2 billion), Germany ($1.1 billion), and Mexico ($941.9 million).

In 2010, U.S. imports of resin and synthetic rubbers from Korea were subject to a calculated duty of $21.8 million, or 3.3 percent of all duties on items from Korea.⁷⁰ The average rate of duty for these items was 6.3 percent. The U.S. MFN tariff and the planned tariff elimination schedule vary by HTS 8-digit item. The leading five HTS 8-digit items in the industry (which accounted for 54.2 percent of all imports from Korea in this industry in 2010) have MFN tariffs ranging from duty-free to 6.5 percent. Of those items that currently face duties, some will be eliminated immediately when the Agreement enters into force and others will be phased out over a ten year period.

While U.S. imports of Korean resin and synthetic rubbers may increase after the KORUS enters into force, U.S. exports of resin and synthetic rubbers to Korea also have potential to grow. U.S. exports of resin and synthetic rubbers to Korea currently face tariffs ranging between 5.0 and 8.0 percent. Some items will become duty-free immediately on the date the KORUS enters into force, while others will be phased in over a period of three years. U.S. exports of resin and synthetic rubbers to all countries amounted to $32.6 billion in 2010, or 2.9 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to the world. Of this, U.S. exports to Korea accounted for just 2.6 percent or $852.6 million in 2010.

5. Broadwoven Fabrics (NAICS 31321)

a. U.S. Employment Trends before the KORUS

The chart below presents the trend in U.S. employment in the broadwoven fabrics industry (NAICS 31321), for the years 1990 to 2010. Employment has shown a dramatic downward trend over this period, falling by 85.2 percent. Employment in this industry was 26,200 in 2010. The average hourly earnings of production employees in the broadwoven fabrics industry were $15.29 in 2010.

⁷⁰ The resin and synthetic rubbers industry is comprised of many HTS 8-digit items. In 2010, U.S. imported 77 separate HTS 8-digit items from Korea that were mapped to this NAICS industry.

b. Bilateral Trade Trends and Potential Impacts of the KORUS

From 1974 through 1995, global trade in textiles and apparel was governed by the Multifiber Arrangement (MFA). The MFA formalized a framework of bilateral agreements and unilateral actions setting quotas that limited imports of textile and apparel products from developing countries into a developed country in order to protect domestic industries. On January 1, 1995, the MFA was replaced by the WTO Agreement on Textiles and Clothing (ATC), which established a transitional process for the ultimate removal of these quotas over a ten year period.⁷¹ The phase-out was completed and the ATC expired on January 1, 2005. During the transition period and since the expiration of the ATC, global trade in the textile and apparel sector has become increasingly dominated by China and a number of other low-cost developing country producers.

Despite this trend, Korea has maintained its position as a major supplier of broadwoven fabrics to the United States. Over the past ten years, U.S. imports of broadwoven fabrics from Korea have accounted for an average of 8.0 percent of U.S. imports from all countries in this industry. In 2010, U.S. imports of broad-woven fabrics from Korea were $222.2 million and accounted for 8.7 percent of all U.S. imports of broad-woven fabrics from all sources. This represents 0.5 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from Korea. In 2010, Korea was the third largest supplier of U.S. imports in this industry behind China ($687.7 million) and Canada ($257.3 million).

⁷¹ For more details about the WTO Agreement on Textiles and Clothing, see the WTO Web site at http://www.wto.org/english/tratop_e/texti_e/textintro_e.htm.

In 2010, U.S. imports of broadwoven fabrics from Korea were subject to a calculated duty of $18.1 million, or 2.7 percent of all duties on items from Korea.⁷² The average rate of duty for these items was 9.4 percent. The U.S. MFN tariff and the planned tariff elimination schedule vary by HTS 8-digit item. The leading three HTS 8-digit items in the industry (which accounted for 61.3 percent of all imports from Korea in this industry in 2010) have MFN tariffs ranging from duty-free to 14.9 percent, and those with duties will be phased out over five years once the Agreement enters into force.

The broadwoven fabrics industry is not a large export industry for the United States. Such U.S. exports to all countries amounted to $1.7 billion in 2010, or just 0.2 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to the world. U.S. exports of broadwoven fabrics to Korea in 2010 were $8.3 million and accounted for 0.02 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to Korea. This represents 0.5 percent of all U.S. exports of broadwoven fabrics to all countries. Most U.S. exports of broadwoven fabrics to Korea currently face tariffs ranging from 8 to 10 percent tariff, and some will be eliminated immediately when the Agreement enters into force, while others will be phased out over a five year period.

6. Knit fabrics and lace (NAICS 31324)

a. U.S. Employment Trends before the KORUS

The chart below presents the trend in U.S. employment in the fabric mills industry group (NAICS 3132), which includes the knit fabrics and lace industry, for the years 1990 to 2010. Employment has shown a dramatic downward trend over this period, falling by about four-fifths (80.5 percent). Employment in this industry group was 52,700 in 2010. The average hourly earnings of production employees in this industry group were $14.67 in 2010.

⁷² The broad-woven fabrics industry is comprised of many HTS 8-digit items. In 2010, U.S. imported 244 separate HTS 8-digit items from Korea that were mapped to this NAICS industry.

(annual average, in thousands)

b. Bilateral Trade Trends and Potential Impacts of the KORUS

The phase-out of the MFA and ATC, described above, has had important effects on global patterns of trade throughout this industry. Korea continues to be a major supplier of knit fabrics and lace to the United States, although U.S. imports of these products from Korea have fallen each year since the expiration of the ATC. Korea had been the leading supplier of U.S. imports in this industry until 2009 when it was overtaken by China. In 2010, U.S. imports of knit fabrics and lace from Korea were $148.9 million and accounted for 19.8 percent of all U.S. imports of knit fabrics and lace from all sources (down from $274.4 million and 27.3 percent in 2004). This represents 0.3 percent of all U.S. merchandise imports from Korea (down from 0.6 percent in 2004). U.S. imports of knit fabrics and lace from China were $241.2 million in 2010 (up from $58.6 million in 2004).

In 2010, U.S. imports of knit fabrics and lace from Korea were subject to a calculated duty of $16.8 million, or 2.5 percent of all duties on items from Korea.⁷³ The average rate of duty for these items was 11.3 percent. The U.S. MFN tariff and the planned tariff elimination schedule vary by HTS 8-digit item. The leading three HTS 8-digit items in the industry (which accounted for 57.1 percent of all imports from Korea in this industry in 2010) have MFN tariffs ranging from 10.0 to 12.3 percent and will be phased out over a ten year period.

⁷³ The knit fabric and lace industry is comprised of many HTS 8-digit items. In 2010, U.S. imported 56 separate HTS 8-digit items from Korea that were mapped to this NAICS industry.

The knit fabrics and lace industry is not a large export industry for the United States. Such U.S. exports to all countries amounted to $1.1 billion in 2010, or just 0.1 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to the world. U.S. exports of knit fabric and lace to Korea in 2010 were $7.6 million and accounted for 0.02 percent of all U.S. merchandise exports to Korea. This represents 0.7 percent of all U.S. exports of knit fabric and lace to all countries. Most U.S. exports of knit fabric and lace to Korea currently face a 10 percent tariff and will become duty-free immediately on the date the KORUS enters into force.

7. Summary remarks

As discussed above, the removal of tariffs allows for growth in both U.S. imports and exports. While increased exports support U.S. employment in these industries, higher imports may displace jobs.

In each of these industries, the United States imports products from many countries. Any increase in imports from Korea as the result of tariff preferences given by the KORUS would likely be due in part to diversion from other trading partners. For example, the USITC estimates that approximately 91 percent of the estimated increase in apparel imports from Korea will be imports diverted from other trading partners and approximately 55 to 57 percent of the estimated increase in motor vehicles and parts from Korea will be imports diverted from other trading partners.⁷⁴

Ultimately, net employment effects will depend on a number of factors. The previous discussion of specific selected industries suggest that pre-existing employment trends, the change in the relative prices of Korean and U.S. goods as both countries remove tariffs, the possibility of trade diversion from other trading partners, and other policy changes may all play a role.⁷⁵ The effects on employment can move in offsetting directions, so that a prediction of the net impact in very specific industries is not possible.

E. Features in the KORUS that Affect the Adjustment Process

This section discusses features in the KORUS that affect the extent and speed of adjustments that the KORUS may necessitate and others that are available to help ease and facilitate the adjustment process in the United States as well as Korea. These include: (1) the rules of origin provisions of the KORUS, which determine what products can benefit from the preferential tariff treatment of the KORUS; (2) the gradual phase-out of U.S. tariffs on automobiles and parts and sensitive agricultural goods originating from Korea; and (3) mechanisms to address injurious increases, if they occur, in imports from Korea.

⁷⁴ See USTIC (2007), p. 2-12.

⁷⁵ A selection of other industries would likely reveal other factors, such as the proportion of domestic consumption accounted for by imported goods, price responsiveness, and the labor-content of production.

1. Rules of Origin Provisions

The KORUS's rules of origin are designed to ensure that the benefits of free trade accrue to Korea and the United States by ensuring that the products benefiting from preferential treatment under the KORUS originate from Korea or the United States and by preventing products from other countries from receiving preferential treatment under the KORUS. The KORUS contains strict rules of origin, including requirements that specify that items from outside the region must undergo substantial transformation within the United States or Korea to be eligible for benefits under the KORUS. Operationally, this means a change in HTS classification—either a change from one subheading (6-digit HTS) to another within or outside the group, a new heading (4-digit HTS), or a new chapter (2-digit HTS), and, for some items, meeting a specific regional content rule.

Textile and apparel goods produced or assembled by a Party generally must meet a “yarn forward” rule (i.e., be produced from yarns that originated in either Party) in order to be eligible for preferential treatment under the KORUS.

The KORUS contains a de minimis provision for material that is not originating. Generally, if the value of all non-originating materials used in the production of a good that does not undergo the required change in HTS classification does not exceed 10 percent of the adjusted value of the good, and the good otherwise meets all other applicable criteria, it qualifies as an originating good, although there are some exceptions to this general rule (e.g., 7 percent by weight for textiles).

2. Gradual Phase-in of the KORUS

Table III.4 summarizes the tariff removal phase-in schedule for U.S. import tariffs on goods originating from Korea and the phase-in schedule for Korean tariffs on goods originating in the United States under the KORUS. Prior to the KORUS, 37.5 percent of U.S. tariff lines were MFN duty-free, while only 13.3 percent of Korean tariff lines were MFN duty-free. When the KORUS enters into force, 82.2 percent of U.S. tariff lines and 79.9 percent of Korean tariff lines will be duty-free. Duties on other sensitive goods will be phased out over varying transition periods ranging from two to twenty years. Within five years, 92.7 percent of U.S. tariff lines and 91.8 percent of Korean tariff lines will be duty-free.

3. Safeguards and Other Special Procedures

The KORUS contains safeguard mechanisms, including a general bilateral safeguard, a textile and apparel emergency action safeguard, and an automobile safeguard, that provide additional means of dealing with potential adverse employment effects.

a. General Bilateral Safeguard

If, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a customs duty under the KORUS, an originating good of the other Party is imported into the territory of a Party in such increased quantities as to be a substantial cause or threat of serious injury to a domestic industry producing a like or directly competitive product, the Trade Remedies Chapter of the KORUS (Chapter 10) allows the importing Party to:

- suspend the further reduction of the rate of customs duty provided for that good under the KORUS;
- increase the rate of customs duty on the good to a level not to exceed the lesser of the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect at the time the action is taken or the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect on the day immediately preceding the date of entry into force of the KORUS; or
- in the case of a customs duty applied to a good on a seasonal basis, increase the rate of duty to a level not to exceed the lesser of the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect for the corresponding season immediately preceding the date of application of the safeguard measure, or the MFN applied rate of duty on the good in effect for the corresponding season immediately preceding the date of entry into force of the KORUS.

A safeguard action may be in place for up to two years, and may be extended by up to one year if the competent authorities determine the safeguard measure continues to be necessary. Neither Party may impose a bilateral safeguard measure more than once on the same good. The Party taking the action must provide appropriate trade liberalizing compensation in the form of concessions having substantially equivalent trade effects or equivalent to the value of the additional duties expected to result from the measure. Each Party retains its rights and obligations for global safeguard actions under Article XIX of GATT 1994 and the WTO Agreement on Safeguards.

b. Textile and Apparel Bilateral Emergency Action Safeguard

If, as a result of the reduction or elimination of a duty under the KORUS, a textile or apparel good benefiting from preferential tariff treatment under the KORUS is being imported into the territory of a Party in such increased quantities, in absolute terms or relative to the domestic market for that good, and under such conditions as to cause or threaten serious damage to a domestic industry producing a like or directly competitive good, the importing Party may suspend the further reduction of the duty rate on the good, or increase the rate of duty on the good to a level not to exceed the lesser of the MFN applied rate of duty in effect at the time the action is taken or the MFN applied rate of duty in effect on the date of entry into force of the KORUS, to the extent and for such time as necessary to prevent or remedy such damage and to facilitate adjustment by the domestic industry.⁷⁶

A bilateral emergency safeguard action may be in place for up to two years, and may be extended by up to two years. No emergency action against a good may be taken or maintained beyond the period ending ten years after duties on that good have been eliminated pursuant to the KORUS. No emergency action may be taken more than once by an importing Party against a particular good of the exporting Party. Upon termination of the emergency action, the rate of duty will be the rate that would have been in effect but for the emergency action. The Party taking the action must provide mutually agreed trade liberalizing compensation in the form of concessions having substantially equivalent trade effects or equivalent to the value of the additional duties expected to result from the emergency action. Such concessions are limited to textile or apparel goods, unless the Parties agree otherwise. Neither Party may take bilateral emergency safeguard action and a safeguard measure under Chapter Ten of the KORUS or a measure under Article XIX of GATT 1994 and the WTO Agreement on Safeguards with respect to the same good at the same time.

c. Motor Vehicle Safeguard

The new agreements include a special auto safeguard that is available for ten years following the full elimination of tariffs for each Korean auto product. A safeguard can be applied for two years, and can be extended for up to two years, with a maximum four year period of duration. The U.S. government is not subject to retaliation if there is no agreement with Korea on reductions or other compensation for up to two years after this special safeguard is applied. This safeguard can be applied more than once to the same product.

d. Alternative Procedures for Disputes Concerning Motor Vehicles

The KORUS contains an expedited dispute settlement process for disputes involving measures that relate to motor vehicles that violate, nullify, or impair a KORUS commitment (Annex 22-A: Alternative Procedures for Disputes Concerning Motor Vehicles). If the panel determines that a Party has failed to comply with its obligations or is causing nullification or impairment, under the KORUS, and is materially affecting the sale, offering for sale, purchase, transportation, distribution, or use of motor vehicles originating in the other Party, the complaining Party may suspend its tariff concessions on passenger cars and assess duties at a level not to exceed the prevailing MFN rate.

⁷⁶ Article 4.1 of the KORUS: Bilateral Emergency Actions.

IV. The Labor Chapter of the KORUS

The Labor Chapter of the KORUS⁷⁷ contains provisions that support protection of labor rights and enforcement of labor laws, thereby helping to preserve a level playing field for American workers. It satisfies the relevant provisions of the Trade Act of 2002 and reflects the May 10, 2007, Congressional-Executive Agreement on Trade.

Article 19.1 of the Chapter reaffirms the Parties' obligations as members of the International Labor Organization (ILO). Article 19.2.1 commits each Party to "adopt and maintain in its statutes and regulations, and practices thereunder," fundamental labor rights as stated in the 1998 ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work,⁷⁸ and includes a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor.⁷⁹ Article 19.2.2 further provides that "neither Party shall waive or otherwise derogate from, or offer to waive or otherwise derogate from, its statutes or regulations implementing" the obligation in Article 19.2.1 "in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties." Article 19.3 states that "neither Party shall fail to effectively enforce its labor laws,⁸⁰ including those it adopts or maintains in accordance with Article 19.2.1, through a sustained or recurring course of action or inaction, in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties." Article 19.4 obligates each Party to provide procedural guarantees for enforcement of its labor laws, including access to labor tribunals, proceedings that are transparent and comply with due process of law, and remedies to ensure enforcement of labor laws.

All obligations in the Chapter are subject to the same dispute settlement procedures and enforcement mechanisms as commercial obligations in the KORUS. The Chapter also establishes a labor cooperation and capacity building mechanism to improve labor standards and advance common commitments regarding labor matters.

⁷⁸ The ILO Declaration states that all ILO members have an obligation "to respect, to promote and to realize, in good faith and in accordance with the Constitution, the principles concerning the fundamental rights which are the subject of those Conventions, namely: (a) freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining; (b) the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labour; (c) the effective abolition of child labour; and (d) the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation." See <http://www.ilo.org/public/english/standards/relm/ilc/ilc86/com-dtxt.htm>.

⁷⁹ Establishing a Party's violation of Article 19.2.1 requires demonstration that the Party "has failed to adopt or maintain a statute, regulation, or practice in a manner affecting trade or investment between the parties [to the agreement]."

⁸⁰ Article 19.8 defines "labor laws" for the purposes of the Agreement as "a Party's statutes and regulations, or provisions thereof, that are directly related to the following internationally recognized labor rights: (a) freedom of association; (b) the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining; (c) the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labor; (d) the effective abolition of child labor, a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor, and other labor protections for children and minors; (e) the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation; and (f) acceptable conditions of work with respect to minimum wages, hours of work, and occupational safety and health."

Note: The NAICS-based industry structure presented in this table is based on the HTS-to-NAICS concordance developed by the U.S. Census Bureau, as extracted from the USITC Dataweb. The NAICS-based manufacturing sector includes many processed agricultural products that are often considered agricultural products. Under alternative aggregation schemes, including the WTO's definition of agricultural products, many of the products classified in NAICS-based subsectors 311 (Food Manufacturing) and 312 (Beverages and Tobacco Products), would be considered agricultural products. The value of U.S. exports is the free alongside ship (FAS) value of domestic U.S. merchandise exports at the U.S. port of export. Because of rounding, figures may not add to totals shown.

The customs value of U.S. merchandise imports is the appraised value of the merchandise, exclusive of import duties, freight, insurance, and other charges incurred in placing the merchandise alongside the carrier at the port of exportation. The dutiable value represents the customs value of the foreign merchandise imported into the United States that is subject to duty. The calculated duty represents the estimated import duties collected. Estimated duties are calculated based on the applicable rates of duty as shown in the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States Annotated for Statistical Reporting Purposes. Estimates of calculated duty do not necessarily reflect amounts of duty paid. The average rate of duty is the ratio of calculated duties over dutiable value, expressed in percentage terms. Final Environmental Review
United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement

Office of the U.S. Trade Representative
September 2011

Executive Summary

Pursuant to authority delegated by the President in Executive Order 13277 (67 Fed. Reg. 70305) and consistent with Executive Order 13141 (64 Fed. Reg. 63169) and its Guidelines (65 Fed. Reg. 79442), the Office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR) submits this Final Environmental Review of the United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS), in accordance with section 2102(c)(4) of the Trade Act of 2002 (Trade Act).

On February 2, 2006, in accordance with section 2104(a) of the Trade Act, U.S. Trade Representative Rob Portman notified the Congress of the President's intent to enter into negotiations for a free trade agreement with the Republic of Korea ("Korea"). The United States and Korea concluded negotiations on April 1, 2007, and U.S. Trade Representative Susan C. Schwab and Korean Trade Minister Kim Hyun-chong signed the KORUS on June 30, 2007.

The environmental review process examines possible environmental effects that may be associated with the KORUS. In identifying and examining these possible effects, the Administration drew on public comments submitted in response to notices in the Federal Register (71 Fed. Reg. 6820 (Feb. 9, 2006), 71 Fed. Reg. 10999 (March 3, 2006), and 71 Fed. Reg. 75281 (Dec. 14, 2006)) and a variety of sources of published information. The review also draws on the environmental and economic expertise of federal agencies. Consistent with Executive Order 13141 and its Guidelines, the focus of the review is on potential impacts in the United States. Additionally, this review includes consideration of global and transboundary effects.

Findings

1. In this Final Environmental Review, the Administration has concluded that changes in the pattern and magnitude of trade flows attributable to the KORUS will not have any significant environmental impacts in the United States. Although Korea is a major trading partner of the United States, exports to Korea currently account for only three percent of total U.S. exports and a very small portion of total U.S. production. Based on existing patterns of trade and changes likely to result from implementation of the KORUS, the impact of the KORUS on total U.S. production through changes in U.S. exports of goods appears likely to be small. As a result, the KORUS is not expected to have a significant impact on goods production in the United States and consequently is not expected to have significant direct effects on the U.S. environment.
2. This review examined two additional domestic environmental concerns related to the importation of goods: the potential for increased trade resulting from the KORUS to contribute to localized environmental impacts at selected U.S. maritime ports and the potential for increased risk of introduction of invasive alien species into the United States. For both concerns, the likelihood and magnitude of any effects of the KORUS are difficult to quantify. Taking into account decreases in U.S. imports from other countries in favor of an increase in imports from Korea that is likely to result from the elimination of tariffs, we estimate that the KORUS will have a very small net effect on the volume of total U.S. goods trade. Therefore, based on the information available, the Administration concludes that any incremental air and water pollution at U.S. ports resulting from increases in trade attributable to the KORUS is likely to be small. Because the net change in the volume of trade is likely to be small, change in the associated “commodity pathways” for invasive species also appears likely to be small. However, change in the volume of trade and, as a consequence, the number of possibly invasive species that may be transported is only one factor in a broad-scale assessment of the risk of introducing invasive species. The Environmental Cooperation Agreement between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the Republic of Korea (ECA), which was negotiated in conjunction with the KORUS, provides enhanced opportunities to cooperate to monitor and address the risk of the introduction of invasive species.

3. In considering whether provisions of the KORUS could affect, positively or negatively, the ability of U.S. federal, state, local or tribal governments to enact, enforce or maintain environmental laws and regulations, the Administration took into account the full range of KORUS obligations, including those related to services, sanitary and phytosanitary (SPS) measures and technical barriers to trade (TBT), as well as provisions of the KORUS Environment Chapter and related dispute settlement provisions. The Administration concluded that the KORUS will not adversely affect the ability of U.S. federal, state, local or tribal governments to regulate to protect the U.S. environment, and that these and related KORUS provisions should have positive implications for the enforcement of environmental laws and the furtherance of environmental protection in both the United States and Korea.
4. This review carefully examined the provisions of the investment chapter and their environmental implications. The Administration has not identified any concrete instances of U.S. environmental measures that would be inconsistent with the KORUS’s substantive investment obligations. The Administration does not expect the KORUS to result in an increased potential for a successful challenge to U.S. environmental measures.
5. This review examined a number of possible transboundary and global environmental effects of the KORUS, such as wildlife trade, marine fisheries and trade in environmental goods and services, but did not identify any specific, significant negative consequences for the U.S. environment. Nevertheless, the possibility of such effects requires ongoing monitoring. Monitoring of conditions in the U.S. environment will continue as an element of existing domestic environment programs. Among other things, the ECA will improve the ability of the United States and Korea jointly to monitor shared environmental concerns. The ECA establishes a comprehensive framework for developing cooperative activities. An Environmental Cooperation Commission, consisting of high-level officials with environmental responsibilities from each Party, will oversee implementation of the ECA. The United States and Korea have begun developing a work program that will identify specific areas of cooperation.

I. LEGAL AND POLICY FRAMEWORK

A. The Trade Act of 2002

The Trade Act of 2002 (Trade Act) establishes a number of negotiating objectives and other priorities relating to the environment. As relevant here, the Trade Act contains three sets of objectives: (i) overall trade negotiating objectives; (ii) principal trade negotiating objectives; and (iii) promotion of certain priorities, including associated requirements to report to Congress.

The Trade Act's "overall trade negotiating objectives" with respect to the environment include:

- (1) ensuring that trade and environmental policies are mutually supportive and seeking to protect and preserve the environment and enhance the international means of doing so, while optimizing the use of the world's resources (section 2102(a)(5)); and
- (2) seeking provisions in trade agreements under which parties to those agreements strive to ensure that they do not weaken or reduce the protections afforded in domestic environmental laws as an encouragement for trade (section 2102(a)(7)).

In addition, the Trade Act establishes the following environment-related "principal trade negotiating objectives":

- (1) ensuring that a party to a trade agreement with the United States does not fail to effectively enforce its environmental laws, through a sustained or recurring course of action or inaction, in a manner affecting trade between the parties, while recognizing a party's right to exercise discretion with respect to investigatory, prosecutorial, regulatory, and compliance matters and to prioritize allocation of resources for environmental law enforcement (sections 2102(b)(11)(A)&(B));
- (2) strengthening the capacity of U.S. trading partners to protect the environment through the promotion of sustainable development (section 2102(b)(11)(D));
- (3) reducing or eliminating government practices or policies that unduly threaten sustainable development (section 2102(b)(11)(E));
- (4) seeking market access, through the elimination of tariffs and non-tariff barriers, for U.S. environmental technologies, goods and services (section 2102(b)(11)(F)); and
- (5) ensuring that environmental, health or safety policies and practices of parties to trade agreements with the United States do not arbitrarily or unjustifiably discriminate against U.S. exports or serve as disguised barriers to trade (section 2102(b)(11)(G)).

The Trade Act also provides for the promotion of certain environment-related priorities and associated reporting requirements, including:

- (1) seeking to establish consultative mechanisms among parties to trade agreements to strengthen the capacity of U.S. trading partners to develop and implement standards for the protection of the environment and human health based on sound science, and reporting to the Committee on Ways and Means and the Committee on Finance (“Committees”) on the content and operation of such mechanisms (section 2102(c)(3));
- (2) conducting environmental reviews of future trade and investment agreements consistent with Executive Order 13141 and its relevant guidelines, and reporting to the Committees on the results of such reviews (section 2102(c)(4)); and
- (3) continuing to promote consideration of multilateral environmental agreements and consulting with parties to such agreements regarding the consistency of any such agreement that includes trade measures with existing exceptions under Article XX of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994 (GATT 1994) (section 2102(c)(10)).

B. The Environmental Review Process

The framework for conducting environmental reviews of trade agreements is provided by Executive Order 13141 – Environmental Review of Trade Agreements (64 Fed. Reg. 63169) and the associated Guidelines (65 Fed. Reg. 79442). The Order and Guidelines are available on USTR’s website at: <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-topics/environment/environmental-reviews>.

The purpose of environmental reviews is to ensure that policymakers and the public are informed about reasonably foreseeable environmental impacts of trade agreements (both positive and negative), identify complementarities between trade and environmental objectives and help shape appropriate responses if environmental impacts are identified. Section 5(b) of Executive Order 13141 provides that “as a general matter, the focus of environmental reviews will be impacts in the United States,” but “[a]s appropriate and prudent, reviews may also examine global and transboundary impacts.” Reviews are intended to be one tool, among others, for integrating environmental information and analysis into the fluid, dynamic process of trade negotiations. USTR and the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) jointly oversee implementation of the Order and Guidelines. USTR, through the Trade Policy Staff Committee (TPSC), is responsible for conducting the individual reviews.

The environmental review process provides opportunities for public involvement, including an early and open process for determining the scope of the environmental review (“scoping”). Through the scoping process, potentially significant issues are identified for in-depth analysis, while issues that have been adequately addressed in earlier reviews, or are less significant, are eliminated from detailed study.

The Guidelines recognize that the approach adopted in individual reviews will vary from case to case, given the wide variety of trade agreements and negotiating timetables. Generally, however, reviews address two types of questions: (i) the extent to which positive and negative environmental impacts may flow from economic changes estimated to result from the prospective agreement; and (ii) the extent to which proposed agreement provisions may affect

U.S. environmental laws and regulations (including, as appropriate, the ability of state, local and tribal authorities to regulate with respect to environmental matters).

II. BACKGROUND¹

Korea occupies the southern half of the Korean Peninsula, bordering the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. Korea is approximately the size of the State of Indiana (38,022 square miles). The Korean Strait, off the country's southeastern coast, is an important maritime passage in Eastern Asia. Korea has a largely temperate climate.

Korea is a developed country, with a population of approximately 49 million and one of the highest population densities in the world (483 persons per square kilometer, compared to 33 persons per square kilometer in the United States). Much of Korea's population is concentrated in urban areas: more than 40 percent of the population lives in cities of over one million residents.

A. Economy in Korea

Over the past 40 years, Korea has transformed itself from a relatively poor developing country into one of the world's leading economic powers using a development strategy based on the export of goods. Initially, Korea's exports were concentrated in labor-intensive light industries; later, exports from heavy industries and high technology industries became more important. Exports of goods account for approximately 47 percent of Korea's gross domestic product.²

For some time, the United States has been one of Korea's largest trading partners; exports to the United States currently account for about 11 percent of Korea's total exports. Korea's other major trading partners are China, the European Union, and Japan. Electrical machinery and transportation equipment (especially automobiles) currently account for nearly half of the value of Korean exports to the United States.

B. Environment in Korea³

Many of Korea's environmental concerns are directly related to pressure on the environment and natural resources resulting from high population density and the legacy of rapid economic development. Public awareness regarding the importance of environmental protection and resource conservation has increased along with an increase in per capita income and, as a consequence, environmental regulation has grown and matured as Korea has prospered.

Key Environmental Trends

Although Korea's rapid economic development led to air and water quality problems, ambient levels of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons have been decreasing in recent years. Nevertheless, air quality in major cities is often below World Health Organization standards. A major contributor to air pollution is the increasing number of motor vehicles. In spite of improvements in fuel quality and engine technology, rapid growth of the vehicle fleet and automobile use has resulted in increased emissions. Regional cooperation plays an important role in addressing air pollution in Korea because transboundary sources of pollution are as significant as domestic sources.⁴

Management of water resources and solid waste is also an important environmental issue for Korea. Extensive dams and water supply and sewage systems have been constructed to help mitigate the risks of flooding, improve the supply of clean water and assist in the disposal of waste water. Numerous coastal fisheries motivate efforts to properly manage water resources and waste disposal. Nevertheless, two-thirds of wastewater sludge is dumped offshore.

The need for proper solid waste management is heightened by Korea's high population density. Korea has begun to utilize more effective landfill technologies (including improved incinerators) and has high recycling rates. However, while Korea has been successful in decoupling economic growth from waste generation and improving municipal waste management, management of hazardous waste is a continuing challenge.

Korea became a party to the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) in 1993 and Korea's Law Concerning the Protection of Wildlife and Game, administered by the Ministry of Environment, was revised in 1994 to include legal provisions to control trade in CITES-listed fauna and flora. Traditional medicine, however, continues to be culturally important in Korea and presents an ongoing challenge for regulating the domestic use and import of CITES-listed species.

C. United States – Korea Goods Trade

Korea is the world's 12th largest economy and the United States' seventh largest goods trading partner.⁵ The value of Korea's trade in goods (exports and imports) is equivalent to 90 percent of its economy, whereas the value of trade in goods for the United States is equivalent to 22 percent of the U.S. economy.⁶ Two-way goods trade between the United States and Korea totaled $88 billion in 2010, with U.S. goods exports to Korea totaling $38.8 billion (up 115 percent from 1994) and goods imports from Korea at $48.9 billion (up 149 percent from 1994).⁷

Electrical machinery, machinery, and vehicles were the largest sectors of goods imported by the United States from Korea, accounting for $15.3 billion, $9.3 billion, and $9.3 billion of imports, respectively in 2010. Electric apparatus for telephone lines (accounting for $8.6 billion in imports), office machine parts ($2.7 billion), and passenger motor vehicles ($6.6 billion) were the largest subsets within these categories in 2010. U.S. exports to Korea were more evenly distributed among sectors, with machinery, electrical machinery, optic and medical instruments, and civilian aircraft occupying the top of the list in 2010. In 2010, Korea was the fifth largest export market for U.S. farm and ranch products and the fourth largest export market for U.S. fishery products.⁸

III. THE UNITED STATES – KOREA FREE TRADE AGREEMENT

A. Overview of the United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement

The KORUS is a comprehensive trade agreement addressing areas such as trade in goods and services, investment, trade-related aspects of intellectual property rights, government procurement and trade-related environmental and labor matters.

The KORUS consists of a preamble and the following 24 chapters and associated annexes: initial provisions and definitions; national treatment and market access for goods; agriculture; textiles and apparel; pharmaceutical products and medical devices; rules of origin and origin procedures; customs administration and trade facilitation; sanitary and phytosanitary measures; technical barriers to trade; trade remedies; investment; cross-border trade in services; financial services; telecommunications; electronic commerce; competition-related matters; government procurement; intellectual property rights; labor; environment; transparency; institutional provisions and dispute settlement; exceptions; and final provisions. The complete text of the KORUS, related annexes and side letters, and summary fact sheets are available on USTR's website at: <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-agreements/free-trade-agreements/korus-fta/final-text>.

On December 3, 2010, the United States and Korea reached agreement on a deal that resolved outstanding issues related to the KORUS. On February 10, 2011, Korea and the United States signed legal texts of the agreements reflecting the December 3, 2010 deal. These texts are available on USTR's website at: <http://www.ustr.gov/about-us/press-office/press-releases/2011/february/signed-legal-texts-related-us-korea-trade-agreeme>.

⁸ Data taken from <http://www.fas.usda.gov/gats/default.aspx>.

Based on the scoping process (see Section IV), public comments and developments since the Interim Review, the following is a summary of the KORUS provisions most relevant to this Final Environmental Review. The provisions of the Environment Chapter are described in Section III.B.

Market Access for Goods

The KORUS requires each Government to accord the other Government's goods national treatment, provides specific definitions, and includes related industrial goods provisions. Tariff commitments by the United States and Korea (the Parties) will provide immediate benefits for both countries. Over 95 percent of U.S. exports of consumer and industrial products to Korea will become duty free within five years after entry into force of the KORUS and virtually all remaining tariffs on consumer and industrial goods will be eliminated within ten years after the agreement enters into force. Korea's average tariff on these products is 6.2 percent, over two times greater than the U.S. average of 2.8 percent. With respect to agricultural products, nearly two-thirds of current U.S. farm exports to Korea will become duty free on the day that the agreement enters into force.

Customs Procedures and Rules of Origin

The KORUS includes commitments on customs administration and rules of origin and origin procedures that will make it easier for importers to utilize the benefits of the agreement. These commitments cover a variety of topics, such as transparency and publication of customs proposed rules, rules and decisions and the adoption of clear and comprehensive product-specific rules for determining which products benefit from preferential tariff treatment under the KORUS. The agreement also calls for each Party to adopt or maintain streamlined customs procedures that are designed to facilitate the timely and efficient release of goods. In addition, the KORUS establishes methods for calculating the regional value content of products to determine whether they qualify for preferential treatment. The agreement also calls for the United States and Korea to cooperate in achieving compliance with their respective customs laws and regulations.

Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures

Under the agreement, the United States and Korea reaffirm their commitments under the WTO Agreement on the Application of Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures. The KORUS also creates a process for enhanced cooperation and coordination between the Parties on SPS issues.

Technical Barriers to Trade

The agreement also reaffirms each Party's commitment to the WTO Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade and builds on those commitments by including further obligations in the area of transparency, the use of international standards and conformity assessment. The KORUS chapter on technical barriers to trade also creates a process for enhanced cooperation and coordination on technical regulations, standards and conformity assessment procedures. In addition, the chapter includes specific provisions for standards and technical regulations related to motor vehicles.

Intellectual Property Rights

The agreement's chapter on intellectual property rights (IPR) provides for strong protection of copyrights, patents, trademarks and trade secrets, including enhanced enforcement and non-discrimination obligations for all types of intellectual property. Through the copyright provisions, Parties will address the challenge of providing protection in the digital environment of the Internet and provide important protection for performers and producers of phonograms. Under the KORUS, the Parties will also provide strong protections for trademarks and limit the grounds for revoking a patent. The chapter provides for streamlined trademark filing processes and improved protection of trademark owners' rights.

Services

The KORUS will provide market access, national treatment and most-favored-nation (MFN) treatment to cross-border service suppliers, across the entire services sector with limited exceptions (based on the "negative list" approach.) The commitments that Korea has made under the agreement exceed those it has made through the WTO and will require Korea to dismantle significant services and investment barriers. This will result in increased access for U.S. service suppliers in Korea's market in a number of sectors, including express delivery services and environmental services. The KORUS also includes provisions that improve the transparency of the Party's respective licensing procedures and rulemaking processes.

Investment

The KORUS establishes a secure, predictable legal framework for U.S. investors operating in Korea. The KORUS imposes obligations pertaining to non-discrimination (national treatment and MFN treatment), expropriation, free transfers related to covered investments, prohibition of the use of certain performance requirements, minimum standard of treatment and limitations on requirements relating to senior managers. These investor protections are backed by a transparent, binding international arbitration mechanism, under which investors may, at their own initiative, bring claims against either government for an alleged breach of the provisions of the investment chapter.

The KORUS preamble states that the agreement does not provide foreign investors with greater substantive rights with respect to investment protections than domestic investors have under domestic law where, as in the United States, protections of investor rights under domestic law equal or exceed those set forth in the KORUS.

Government Procurement

The KORUS opens opportunities in Korea's government procurement market for U.S. suppliers that go beyond those Korea has provided under the WTO Agreement on Government Procurement, to which both the United States and Korea are parties. The agreement accomplishes this result by lowering significantly the dollar threshold for Korean procurements on which U.S. suppliers may bid and expanding the Korean agencies and other entities that will open their procurement to U.S. suppliers. The procurement chapter also incorporates important improvements that reflect emerging practices in procurement. In addition, the chapter clarifies that government agencies may include technical specifications to promote environmental protection or fundamental labor rights.

Transparency

The agreement's transparency chapter requires each Party to ensure that laws, regulations, procedures and administrative rulings of general application on matters covered by the KORUS are published or otherwise made available to the public. In addition, the chapter requires each Party, to the extent possible, to publish in advance any measure it proposes to adopt and provide a reasonable opportunity for interested parties to comment. With respect to regulations at the national level of government, each Party must include in the publication an explanation of the regulations' purpose and rationale and respond to significant substantive comments received during the comment period. The chapter also requires each government to establish and maintain procedures for review and appeal of administrative actions regarding matters covered by the agreement.

Trade Remedies

The KORUS includes provisions that permit each Party to impose bilateral safeguard measures in certain circumstances while providing that each government maintains its rights and obligations under the WTO Agreement on Safeguards. The KORUS also establishes specific procedures for safeguard measures on agricultural and textile goods.

Labor

The agreement's labor chapter reaffirms the Parties' obligations as members of the International Labor Organization (ILO) and commits them to adopt and maintain in their statutes, regulations and practice the fundamental labor rights, as stated in the 1998 ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-up, including for purposes of the labor chapter a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor. The chapter also commits each Party to effectively enforce its labor laws. Procedural guarantees set out in the chapter will ensure that workers and employers will continue to have fair, equitable and transparent access to labor tribunals. All obligations in the chapter are subject to the same general dispute settlement procedures and enforcement mechanisms as obligations in other chapters of the KORUS. The chapter also establishes a mechanism for further cooperation on labor matters.

Dispute Settlement

The agreement includes a government-to-government dispute settlement mechanism. The mechanism sets high standards of openness and transparency, requiring public hearings and the public release of Parties' legal submissions. It provides opportunities for interested third parties, such as non-governmental organizations, to submit views. The agreement provides that if a Party fails to conform with the determination of the arbitral panel convened under the chapter, and the Parties cannot reach a mutually acceptable solution, the complaining Party may have recourse to trade sanctions or, alternatively, the defending Party may pay a monetary assessment.

The agreement's dispute settlement chapter also includes an annex that establishes a Fisheries Committee to promote cooperation between the Parties on fisheries matters. The Committee will comprise representatives of each Party and will meet annually unless the Parties agree otherwise.

Exceptions

For certain chapters, the Parties have incorporated into the KORUS the exceptions provided for in Article XX of the GATT 1994 and Article XIV of the General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS). The KORUS states that the Parties understand that the measures referred to in Article XX(b) of the GATT 1994 include environmental measures necessary to protect human, animal, or plant life or health, and that Article XX(g) of the GATT 1994 applies to measures relating to the conservation of living and non-living exhaustible natural resources. The KORUS also states that the Parties understand that the measures referred to in Article XIV(b) of GATS include environmental measures necessary to protect human, animal, or plant life or health. The KORUS also includes a general exception for measures that a Party considers necessary for the protection of its essential security interests.

B. The Environment Chapter and Related Environmental Provisions

Following guidance in the Trade Act and the May 10, 2007 agreement between the Administration and the bipartisan leadership of Congress, the KORUS environment chapter requires each Party: (1) to strive to maintain high levels of environmental protection and to strive to improve those levels; (2) to adopt, maintain and implement laws and all other measures to fulfill its obligations under certain multilateral environmental agreements (MEAs) to which both Korea and the United States are party ("covered agreements");⁹¹⁰ and (3) not to waive or ⁹The chapter states that to establish a violation of this obligation, a Party must demonstrate that the other Party has failed to adopt, maintain or implement a measure in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties.

¹⁰The covered agreements are: (a) the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora, done at Washington, March 3, 1973, as amended; (b) the Montreal Protocol on Substances that Deplete the Ozone Layer, done at Montreal, September 16, 1987, as adjusted and amended; (c) the Protocol of 1978 Relating to the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution from Ships, 1973, done at London, February 17, 1978, as amended; (d) the Convention on Wetlands of International Importance Especially as Waterfowl Habitat, done at Ramsar, February 2, 1971, as amended; (e) the Convention on the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources, done at Canberra, May 20, 1980; (f) the International Convention for the Regulation of Whaling, done at otherwise derogate from environmental laws in order to attract trade or investment, except where the waiver or derogation is pursuant to a provision in the Party's law providing for waivers or derogations and is not inconsistent with the Party's obligations under a covered agreement. In addition, the chapter commits each Party not to fail to effectively enforce its environmental laws and its laws, regulations, and other measures to fulfill its obligations under covered agreements through a sustained or recurring course of action or inaction, in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties. All obligations in the chapter are subject to the same dispute settlement procedures and enforcement mechanisms applicable to obligations in other chapters of the agreement.

To assist in the administration and implementation of the environment chapter, the agreement establishes an Environmental Affairs Council to oversee the implementation of the chapter. The Council will comprise high-level government officials from each Party and will meet annually unless the Parties agree otherwise.

The environment chapter encourages a comprehensive approach to environmental protection. Provisions in the chapter on procedural guarantees promote good environmental governance by obliging each Party to provide appropriate and effective remedies for violations of its environmental laws and to ensure that environmental enforcement proceedings comply with due process and are open to the public, except where the administration of justice requires otherwise. These procedural guarantees are accompanied by provisions that encourage incentives and other voluntary mechanisms to protect the environment, including market-based incentives. Provisions in the chapter on the relationship between the KORUS and MEAs acknowledge the importance of effective domestic implementation of MEAs to which the United States and Korea are both parties and the contributions that the agreement's Environment Chapter and the ECA can make to achieve the goals of those MEAs. The chapter further provides that in the event of an inconsistency between a Party's obligations under the KORUS and a covered MEA the Party shall seek to balance its obligations under both agreements. The chapter also provides for the Parties to consult, as appropriate, with respect to environmental issues of mutual interest.

The KORUS also highlights the importance of public participation in the successful implementation of the agreement's environment chapter. Under the KORUS, any person of a Party may file a submission concerning the implementation of any provisions of the chapter. Each Party will respond to these submissions in a manner consistent with its domestic procedures. Parties will make these responses easily accessible to the public in a timely manner.

In addition, the Parties have agreed that the Environmental Affairs Council will review the operation of the Chapter's public participation provisions. Based upon this review the Council will prepare and submit a report on the status of the implementation of these provisions to the Joint Committee no more than 180 days after the first anniversary date of the entry into force of the agreement. This report will also be made public.

Washington, December 2, 1946; and (g) the Convention for the Establishment of an Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission, done at Washington, May 31, 1949.

IV. PUBLIC AND ADVISORY COMMITTEE COMMENTS

To determine the scope of this review, the Administration considered information provided by the public and solicited comments through notices in the Federal Register and at a public hearing. Section IV.A summarizes the public comments. In addition to providing guidance on the scope of the environmental review, information, analysis and insights available from these sources were taken into account throughout the negotiations and were considered in developing U.S. negotiating positions.

Pursuant to Trade Act requirements (section 2104(e)), advisory committees, including the Trade and Environment Policy Advisory Committee (TEPAC), submitted reports on the KORUS to the President, USTR and Congress within 30 days after the President notified Congress of his intent to enter into the agreement. The TEPAC report is summarized in section IV.B.

A. Public Comments

This review was formally initiated by publication of a notice in the Federal Register, which requested public comment on the scope of a review of the proposed free trade agreement with Korea (see 71 Fed. Reg. 10999 (March 3, 2006)). An earlier notice in the Federal Register requested public comments on the overall negotiation and announced a public hearing on the proposed free trade agreement (see 71 Fed. Reg. 6820 (Feb. 9, 2006)). Comments and testimony addressing environmental issues received in response to both notices were taken into account in the preparation of this Final Environmental Review. Further public comment was requested in response to an Interim Environmental Review of the proposed free trade agreement with Korea (see 71 Fed. Reg. 75281 (Dec. 14, 2006)).

Comments on the scope of the environmental review are summarized in the Interim Environmental Review. One commenter raised concerns with Korea's role in wildlife trade, particularly in connection with the use of CITES-protected species in the traditional medicine sector. These comments also drew attention to the incidental killing of whales as bycatch by Korean fishing vessels. Other commenters raised concerns regarding enforceable environmental protections, the existence and adequacy of environmental and labor regulations and the framework Korea applies to foreign corporations for the environmental control and registration of chemicals.

Public comments on the Interim Environmental Review generally confirmed that the scope of the review covered the relevant issues to be considered. These comments also emphasized that the final environmental review should identify the manner in which environmental cooperation between the United States and Korea will address issues identified in the environmental review process. These issues include the general enforcement of regulations to implement CITES, the use of CITES-protected species in traditional medicines, the use of fisheries subsidies, illegal, unreported and unregulated (IUU) fishing and the sale of whale meat bycatch from commercial fishing vessels. Further information on environmental cooperation associated with the KORUS can be found in Section VII.

B. Advisory Committee Report

Under Section 135(e) of the Trade Act of 1974, as amended, advisory committee reports must include advisory opinions as to whether and to what extent an agreement promotes the economic interests of the United States and achieves the applicable overall and principal negotiating objectives set forth in the Trade Act of 2002. The reports must also include advisory opinions as to whether an agreement provides for equity and reciprocity within the sectoral or functional area of the particular committee. The advisory committee reports are available at: <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-agreements/free-trade-agreements/korus-fta/advisory-group-reports-korus-fta>.

A majority of TEPAC members supported the conclusion that the KORUS provides adequate safeguards to ensure that Congressional environmental objectives will be met. The report reiterates TEPAC's view that public participation helps ensure that an agreement operates as intended, while guaranteeing more effective enforcement of environmental laws. The TEPAC majority also noted its pleasure at the inclusion of enhanced public participation mechanisms in the agreement.

A majority of TEPAC members expressed concerns about the expropriation language included in the investment chapter of the agreement and urged that Congress modify it. They believed that the language conflicts with language in the U.S. model Bilateral Investment Treaty and with U.S. Supreme Court precedent and that it could be used to "successful[ly] challenge attempts to implement more stringent bona fide environmental controls."¹¹ Other TEPAC members had different views. Some felt that the provisions provided strong protections for U.S. investors, while others thought that they weakened traditional protections for U.S. investors. Still others thought that these provisions should be included in a separate agreement.

A majority of the Committee's members were pleased that environmental issues were integrated into the drafting of the free trade agreement. This majority also expressed the view that trade agreements can create opportunities to enhance environmental protection. The TEPAC noted, however, that trade can create and amplify adverse externalities that require enhanced regulatory oversight.

A majority of TEPAC members expressed the view that the ECA provides a reasonable basis for meeting Congressional objectives concerning capacity building and sustainable development. The TEPAC was also pleased with the detailed draft work program that was negotiated in 2007 for implementation under the ECA. The Committee noted that a majority of its members was concerned about CITES implementation, and that it was pleased that the draft work program provided a framework for addressing the issue.¹² In addition, a majority of the TEPAC believes that the ECA would be improved if it were an integral part of the agreement and had available a dedicated source of funding.

¹¹ TEPAC report at 2.

¹² Regarding the work program, see Part VII below.

In addition, a majority of the TEPAC expressed the view that the KORUS would be improved if it included statements on biological diversity and promoting sound corporate stewardship. Finally, a majority of the TEPAC expressed concern that language in a side letter on environmental dispute resolution was unclear.

A minority of TEPAC members raised concerns, including that the agreement places excessive reliance on trade as a means of advancing environmental objectives and that the public participation provisions are too broad.

C. Public Outreach in Korea

In addition to providing opportunities for written comments and testimony in response to notices in the Federal Register, U.S. officials held meetings with environmental organizations, the private sector and representatives of other non-governmental organizations in Korea. These meetings were held in Seoul in March of 2006 and provided an opportunity for participants to raise questions, express concerns and share ideas. Participants in the meetings represented a variety of local, regional and international organizations. The Korean government worked to ensure that its civil society was actively consulted and engaged during the negotiation of the environment chapter of the KORUS and the associated ECA.

V. POTENTIAL ECONOMICALLY DRIVEN ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACTS

A. Potential Impacts in the United States

The impact of the KORUS on total U.S. production through changes in U.S. exports appears likely to be very small. Although Korea is a major trading partner of the United States, exports to Korea currently account for only three percent of total U.S. exports and a very small portion of total U.S. production. In its analysis of the potential economy-wide effects of the KORUS, the U.S. International Trade Commission (USITC) estimated that on full implementation of the agreement, U.S. exports to Korea may increase by $10 to $11 billion and U.S. GDP may increase by 0.1 percent from the impact of the tariff and tariff-rate quota related provisions of the KORUS.¹³ Although small changes in production and exports in environmentally-sensitive sectors could provide a basis for concern regarding the KORUS's direct environmental effects in the United States, no instances warranting such concerns were identified and none were raised in public comments or the reports of Advisory Committees (see Section IV). Increases in exports are expected to be in sectors and products whose production does not raise specific environmental concerns. Based on this information and analysis, the Administration has concluded that changes in the pattern and magnitude of trade flows and production attributable to the KORUS will not have any significant economically driven environmental impacts in the United States.

The Interim Environmental Review identified air and water pollution at U.S. ports as a possible concern. Air and water pollution at maritime ports result from the concentration and cumulative effects of emissions from ships, trucks, trains and goods-moving equipment associated with international trade.¹⁴ Increases in trade associated with the KORUS could exacerbate existing environmental concerns associated with trade-related goods movement, but the extent of any incremental increase in the volume of trade associated with the KORUS is difficult to quantify. The USITC provides estimates of the change in the value of bilateral trade which must be converted to a volume basis (for example, changes in numbers of containers or ships). The USITC's analytical approach also does not provide information needed to identify possible changes in the value of trade passing through specific U.S. ports. However, the USITC's report does provide information on the extent to which their estimates of changes in U.S. imports from Korea are accompanied by decreases in U.S. imports from other sources.¹⁵

The USITC estimates that total U.S. goods trade (exports and imports) with Korea may increase by $16-18 billion as a result of full implementation of the KORUS. This is about 0.6 percent of the value of all U.S. goods trade. Taking into account decreases in U.S. imports from other sources and the fact that changes in the volume of goods trade is likely to be smaller than changes in the value of goods trade, the Administration estimates that the KORUS will have a very small net effect on the volume of U.S. goods trade. Therefore, based on the information available, the Administration concludes that any incremental air and water pollution at U.S. ports resulting from increases in trade attributable to the KORUS is likely to be small.

The Interim Environmental Review also identified invasive species as a domestic environmental concern related to the KORUS.¹⁶ Goods trade can provide pathways for invasive species, and the introduction of invasive species can result in harmful effects on the environment and economy of the host country.¹⁷ The risk of introduction of invasive species varies across traded commodities and across trading partners.¹⁸

¹⁴ In addition to information in the Interim Environmental Review of the KORUS (note 11), this topic is discussed in detail in the Interim Environmental Review of the U.S.-Thailand Free Trade Agreement. That document is available at: <http://www.ustr.gov/sites/default/files/Thailand%20interim%20review.pdf>.

¹⁵ For example, more than 50 percent of the estimated increase in U.S. imports of Korean motor vehicles and parts, and more than 85 percent of the estimated increase in U.S. imports of textiles and apparel from Korea are expected to be diverted from other import sources.

¹⁶ The term "invasive species" refers to species not native to a particular ecosystem that are intentionally or unintentionally introduced as a result of human activities and cause, or are likely to cause, harm to ecosystems, economic systems or human health.

¹⁷ For the United States, Executive Order 13112 (February 3, 1999) established the National Invasive Species Council and commits federal agencies to conducting research on invasive species issues, taking reasonable actions to discourage the introduction of these species into the United States and elsewhere, and undertaking international cooperation aimed at addressing this issue.

The United States and Korea have a number of similar climatic zones, and this increases vulnerability to the establishment and spread of invasive species. This review identified a baseline risk that invasive species may move between Korea and the United States, but it is difficult to quantify the extent or the magnitude of the KORUS's likely effect on this risk. The net change in the volume of trade and the associated "commodity pathways" for invasive species appears likely to be small (see above). However, change in the volume of trade and, as a consequence, the number of possibly invasive species that may be transported is only one factor in a broad-scale assessment of the risk of introducing invasive species.

The KORUS does not alter either country's regulatory framework for managing risks associated with the introduction of invasive species. The KORUS also does not alter related regulations, such as those prohibiting or regulating agricultural and other trade for the purpose of protecting against the introduction of agricultural pests or diseases. In addition, through the agreement's cooperation mechanism, the KORUS and the associated ECA between the United States and Korea provide the opportunity for the two countries to enhance their efforts to cooperate to monitor and assess risks associated with invasive species. Control of invasive species has already been identified as an area of work (see section VII) under the ECA.

B. Transboundary and Global Issues

While the environmental impacts of expected economic changes in the United States attributable to the KORUS are expected to be minimal, the Administration examined a large number and wide variety of environmental issues with potential global and transboundary impacts in determining the scope of this review. These were provisionally identified through public comments in response to a notice in the Federal Register (see Section IV.A) and through an open-ended scoping process among agencies with environment, trade and economic expertise. The Administration subsequently eliminated topics from further and more detailed analysis when initial findings revealed that there was no identifiable link to the KORUS. The following topics warranted further consideration.

Economically Driven Environmental Effects in Korea

As compared to its effects in the United States, the KORUS may have relatively greater impacts on the economy of Korea and, through those impacts, effects on its environment. Although this review did not examine the possible effects of the KORUS on Korea, Korea conducted a review of the economically driven environmental effects of the KORUS in its territory. Using an analytical approach that is similar to that used by the USITC, Korea estimated that removal of all ¹⁸Trade-related pathways that involve a risk of invasive introductions include the movement of vehicles used in transporting commodities (e.g., ballast water in ships), or the transport of products and packaging that contain potentially invasive organisms (e.g., grains that contains weed seeds). Some invasive species are also introduced on ornamental plants, fruits, aquarium fish, and through other commonly traded products. Associated pests and pathogens may arrive as "hitch-hikers" in shipments of biological materials.

import duties by both countries would increase Korea's income by 0.35 percent.¹⁹ This estimate of change in Korea's economic activity was used to estimate changes in air and water pollution. Because changes in total production are estimated to be small and mixed (production decreasing slightly in some sectors), estimated changes in pollution are also mixed and small.²⁰

Wildlife Trade

Trade in a wide variety of wildlife products (animals and plants) has been conducted in Korea, including trade in both CITES-listed and non-CITES-listed species, with certain cases of illegal trade documented in the past,²¹ including Appendix I species. The import trade is primarily for the traditional medicine and food markets, although there are pet and manufactured products markets as well. Public comments raised concerns with illegal shipments of wildlife entering Korea in connection with traditional medicine. There are also concerns that Korean travelers returning from China may be illegally importing bear and tiger medicinal products which they purchase while vacationing or on business trips.

Currently, Korea is listed as a "Category 1" country by the CITES Secretariat's National Legislation Project, meaning that Korea has legislation in place that adequately implements the Convention's obligations. Nevertheless, Korean authorities face difficulties enforcing CITES trade controls, and illegal trade of endangered species continues, particularly in products used in traditional medicine.²² The illegal trade is not primarily associated with the United States, however. U.S. imports of CITES-listed species from Korea are limited.²³ In 2004, approximately 110 illegal medicinal products imported from Korea (primarily bear and horned mammal products) were seized on entry. In recent years a relatively low number of shipments (on the order of two to three dozen) have been refused clearance. In 2004, U.S. exports and re-exports of CITES-listed animal species to Korea comprised a variety of species, including American alligator, crocodile, lizard skin and coral products. All of this trade appears to have been conducted in accordance with CITES requirements.

¹⁹ Korea's estimate of the change in U.S. income is 0.1 percent.

²¹ For additional information, see Kang, S., and Phipps, M. (2003), A Question of Attitude: South Korea's Traditional Medicine Practitioners and Wildlife Conservation. TRAFFIC East Asia, Hong Kong. Document available at: <http://www.traffic.org/medicinal/>.

²³ Korea exports a significant volume of non-CITES-listed species to the United States, including live fish, butterflies, feather products, leather products and (farmed) turtles.

Current U.S. tariffs on wild plants and animals imported from Korea are already low or zero; therefore, the KORUS is not likely to contribute to an increase in trade of wildlife or endangered species. Instead, the KORUS and its associated ECA will offer opportunities for increased collaboration between the United States and Korea to address wildlife trade concerns, including efforts to reduce illegal trade in wildlife. Cooperation related to CITES-listed species and wildlife trade has been identified as one potential area for work under the ECA (see section VII).

Invasive Species

Just as species originating in Korea may raise environmental concerns in the United States, species originating in the United States may potentially have harmful effects in Korea. The Red-eared Slider, Black Bass, Bluegill and White Snakeroot are all examples of species indigenous to the United States that are invasive in Korea. As discussed above, the KORUS's potential incremental effect on these risks is difficult to quantify, although the change in the volume of trade and the associated "commodity pathways" for invasive species appear likely to be small. The KORUS does not alter either country's regulatory framework for managing risks associated with the introduction of invasive species. As noted above, the KORUS also does not alter related regulations, such as those prohibiting or regulating agricultural and other trade for the purpose of protecting against the introduction of agricultural pests or diseases. In addition, the United States and Korea will have the opportunity through the ECA to enhance their efforts to cooperate to monitor and assess risks associated with invasive species. Control of invasive species has already been identified as an area of work under the ECA (see section VII).

Environmental Goods and Services

Korea was the eighth largest export destination for U.S. environmental goods in 2005, with nearly $1.2 billion in imports from the United States. However, high tariffs on many environmental goods limit opportunities for U.S. exporters and restrict access in Korea to potentially beneficial technologies. Certain industrial sectors, including goods movement industries, are potential direct beneficiaries of increased trade in environmental goods and services. For example, in 2010 Korean shipyards were the top world producers of merchant cargo vessels, and the vast majority of vessels built in Korea are exported to foreign customers. While Korean production is at the vanguard of the industry, the complex design and construction of new vessels offers continual challenges requiring the adoption of more advanced and efficient technologies, which are often more environmentally benign.²⁴ The KORUS may provide opportunities to promote to Korean shipbuilders the use of advanced, more environmentally friendly technologies and operating strategies that are produced by U.S. companies. Similarly, the KORUS may provide opportunities to promote to Korean port authorities, terminal operators and others involved in international goods movement the use of more environmentally friendly technologies and operating strategies. Many American maritime ports and carriers, perhaps most notably the Ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach, are demonstrating real leadership in these technologies and strategies.

Marine Fisheries

Korea's fishing fleets are no longer able to meet domestic demand for fish and seafood, and as a consequence Korea has become a net importer of fish and seafood. In 2010, Korea was the fourth largest market for U.S. fishery product exports. Rising demand has also encouraged the expansion of domestic production through marine aquaculture, and the Korean government seeks to raise the production ratio of aquaculture to wild catch from 27 percent in 2000 to 45 percent in 2030. Although aquaculture may reduce pressure on wild stocks, production has also been associated with environmental damage such as nutrient loading and the loss of genetic diversity of natural fish stocks, resulting in a greater risk from diseases, parasites or invasive species. The United States had been collaborating closely with Korea on the development of less environmentally damaging and more productive off-shore aquaculture techniques.²⁵

Korea is a member of relevant regional fisheries management organizations with responsibility for waters where Korean vessels are fishing. In 2008, Korea acceded to the United Nations Agreement for the Implementation of the Provisions of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea of 10 December 1982 relating to the Conservation and Management of Straddling Fish Stocks and Highly Migratory Fish Stocks. Opportunities exist for further collaboration in the protection of wild fish stocks, for example through the International Network for the Cooperation and Coordination of Fisheries-Related Monitoring, Control, and Surveillance.

In addition, the Administration examined the issue of the sale of whale meat "bycatch" by Korean commercial fishing vessels, a concern raised in public comments. In Korea, accidental bycatch can be legally sold in the domestic market. A minke whale can command prices of $20,000-50,000 dollars. Public comments and publicly reported data indicate that the Korean bycatch of large whales per area of fishing waters is the largest in the world. All of the by-caught whales are of the "J" stock minke whales in North Pacific waters, the stock that the International Whaling Commission (IWC) Scientific Committee has determined is in decline. The J-stock is found in coastal waters around Japan and Korea, was highly depleted by commercial whaling prior to 1986 and is now subject to both bycatch and research whaling. The Scientific Committee has advised that the current annual removal level (including research whaling) is likely to adversely impact the already depleted status of this genetically distinct stock.

In January 2011, the Korean Ministry of Food, Agriculture, Forestry, and Fisheries announced stricter rules on whaling and the processing of whale meat. The new rules require fishermen to immediately report the discovery of by-caught or stranded whales. These whales are only allowed to be processed at state-designated facilities and only those with state permits will be allowed to trade whale meat. All by-caught or stranded whales will have DNA samples taken which will be provided to the IWC to allow the tracing of the origins of all whale meat in Korea. This is a change from the previous practice of fishermen processing the by-caught whales on board their vessels prior to arriving in port. However, the same legislation also outlines a procedure for permitting lethal scientific whaling.

The bycatch of minke whales and the sale of this meat is an important conservation issue in the IWC, and the United States will continue to work bilaterally with Korea on this issue. Most recently, a U.S. whale disentanglement panel expert participated in the International Symposium on the Marine Protected Species held in Korea in November 2010 and the United States hosted a Korean scientist in March 2011 to observe the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's protected species research and management activities in Hawaii.

The KORUS offers an opportunity to enhance cooperation and information exchange on bycatch minimization policies and techniques, better control of IUU fishing, and greater collaboration on improved aquaculture techniques. In addition to opportunities for cooperation under the ECA (see section VII), the KORUS establishes a Fisheries Committee to promote cooperation between the Parties regarding fisheries matters. The topics identified for discussion by the Fisheries Committee include each Party's policies on commercial activities within its Exclusive Economic Zones, cooperation on scientific research on fisheries matters of mutual concern, and global fisheries issues of mutual concern.

VI. Potential Regulatory Impacts

A. Regulatory Review

Consistent with Executive Order 13141 and its Guidelines, this review included consideration of the extent to which the KORUS might affect U.S. environmental laws, regulations, policies or international commitments. Within the range of KORUS obligations, those related to investment, services and TBT can have particular significance for domestic regulatory practices concerning the environment, health and safety. Previous environmental reviews, including the interim and final reviews for U.S. free trade agreements with Jordan, Chile, Singapore, Morocco, Australia, the Dominican Republic and Central American countries, Bahrain, Oman, Peru and Colombia, have considered potential impacts on the U.S. regulatory regime with respect to all of these obligations and have found that the respective trade agreements were not anticipated to have a negative impact on U.S. legal or regulatory authority or practices. Further, the reviews noted the potentially positive impact that the agreements could have on the U.S. environmental regulatory regime as a result of the agreements' commitments concerning effective enforcement of U.S. environmental laws, not waiving U.S. environmental laws to attract trade or investment, and providing for high levels of environmental protection in U.S. environmental laws and policies. As a result of the May 10, 2007 agreement between the Administration and the bipartisan Congressional leadership, the KORUS and other trade agreements pending at that time include strengthened environmental provisions.

Based on this previous analysis, and given that the core obligations in these areas are either similar to or stronger than those undertaken in the previous free trade agreements, the Administration concluded that the KORUS will not have a negative impact on the ability of U.S. government authorities to enforce or maintain U.S. environmental laws or regulations.

For a more in-depth analysis of general free trade agreement commitments and their potential regulatory impacts in the United States, see the previous reviews at: <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-topics/environment/environmental-reviews>.

B. Investment

Investment provisions in free trade agreements were a matter of intense debate during Congress' consideration of the Trade Act. The central question was the appropriate balance that should be struck between protecting the rights of U.S. investors abroad and preserving the ability of the federal government and state and local governments to regulate with respect to health, safety and the environment.

In the Trade Act, Congress recognized that securing a stable investment climate and a level playing field for U.S. investment abroad are important objectives of U.S. trade policy. By fostering economic growth and job creation, investment can bring important benefits, including potential benefits to the environment: as wealth grows and poverty decreases, more resources become available for environmental protection, with potential benefits for developing countries, particularly as they develop constituencies in favor of increased environmental protection. Congress, however, also gave weight to concerns that arbitral claims brought by investors against governments (through "investor-State" arbitration) could be used inappropriately to challenge U.S. domestic laws and regulations, including those concerning the environment. As the Conference Report accompanying the Trade Act states: "[I]t is a priority for negotiators to seek agreements protecting the rights of U.S. investors abroad and ensuring the existence of a neutral investor-State dispute settlement mechanism. At the same time, these protections must be balanced so that they do not come at the expense of making U.S. Federal, State, and local laws and regulations more vulnerable to successful challenges by foreign investors than by similarly situated U.S. investors."²⁶

The Trade Act strikes a balance between these two goals by prescribing U.S. trade negotiating objectives that clarify several substantive investment obligations of particular concern (notably, provisions on expropriation and "fair and equitable treatment"). The objectives seek to ensure that foreign investors in the United States are not accorded greater substantive rights than U.S. investors in the United States, while also securing for U.S. investors abroad core protections that are comparable to those that would be available to them under U.S. law. Other objectives in the Trade Act addressed concerns that investor-State arbitration be conducted efficiently and that arbitral tribunals interpret substantive obligations in a consistent and coherent manner. After enactment of the Trade Act, the Administration consulted extensively with Congress, the business community and environmental non-governmental organizations in order to clarify provisions, to develop new procedures, and to ensure that those provisions and procedures fully satisfied the Trade Act's objectives. These provisions and procedures were ultimately incorporated into each of the free trade agreements negotiated under the Trade Act.

Previous environmental reviews of free trade agreements have examined free trade agreement investment provisions in detail, particularly those clarifications and improvements included in free trade agreements negotiated after the Trade Act was enacted.²⁷ The Administration concluded that the investment provisions should not significantly affect the ability of the United States to regulate in the environmental area.²⁸ In this review, the Administration has re-examined that conclusion in light of public and advisory committee comments and the most recent experience.

Relevant KORUS Investment Provisions

The KORUS investment chapter includes the following post-Trade Act substantive clarifications and procedural innovations with relevance to the environment. These provisions were developed based on careful consideration of Trade Act guidance and consultations with interested constituencies:

- Expropriation. The agreement's expropriation provisions have been clarified in two annexes to ensure that they are consistent with U.S. legal principles and practice, including a clarification that non-discriminatory regulatory actions designed and applied to protect the public welfare (including to protect the environment) do not constitute indirect expropriation "except in rare circumstances." To determine whether an indirect expropriation has occurred, the annex directs tribunals to examine several factors, which derive from the analysis of the U.S. Supreme Court in Penn Central Transportation Co. v. New York City, 438 U.S. 104 (1978), the seminal case on regulatory expropriation. The annex also clarifies that only tangible or intangible property rights or interests in an investment are subject to the KORUS obligations with respect to expropriation.
- Minimum standard of treatment/fair and equitable treatment. The minimum standard of treatment obligation included in the agreement's investment chapter, including the obligation to provide "fair and equitable treatment" and "full protection and security," is subject to a clarification that these concepts do not require treatment in addition to or beyond that contained in customary international law, and do not create additional rights.

²⁷ See, for example, final reviews of the Singapore, Chile, Morocco, and CAFTA-DR free trade agreements, and the U.S.-Peru Trade Promotion Agreement, available at: <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-topics/environment/environmental-reviews>.

²⁸ The full text of the investment chapters included in U.S. free trade agreements currently in force can be accessed through: <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-agreements/free-trade-agreements>. Additional information can also be found in the interim and final environmental reviews available at: <http://www.ustr.gov/trade-topics/environment/environmental-reviews>.

Specifically, the chapter defines “fair and equitable treatment” to include the obligation not to “deny justice” in criminal, civil or administrative adjudicatory proceedings, in accordance with “due process” protections provided in the principal legal systems of the world, including that of the United States. An annex gives further guidance concerning the Parties’ understanding of the term “customary international law.”

- Increased transparency in the investor-State mechanism. The investment chapter of the KORUS provides that all substantive documents submitted to or issued by an arbitral tribunal shall promptly be made public and that hearings are open to the public, subject to provisions ensuring the protection of classified and business confidential information. It also expressly authorizes amicus curiae submissions, allowing the public to present views on issues in dispute.
- Elimination and deterrence of frivolous claims. The investment chapter includes an expedited procedure to allow for the dismissal of frivolous investor-State claims (based on Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, i.e., dismissal on the basis that the claimant has failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted) and for the dismissal of claims based on jurisdictional objections. The chapter also expressly authorizes awards of attorneys’ fees and costs after a tribunal decides, as a preliminary question, whether to dismiss a claim for lack of jurisdiction or for failure to state a claim on which relief may be granted.
- Promoting consistency and coherence of arbitral decisions. The agreement’s investment chapter allows interim review of draft tribunal decisions by litigants and by the non-litigating Party. The litigants may comment on the draft decision.

In addition to these improvements developed specifically in response to the Trade Act, the KORUS includes several provisions, similar to those in previous agreements, that accommodate the flexibility that environmental regulators need to do their job and demonstrate the Parties’ intent that the investment obligations should be interpreted in a manner consistent with each Party’s right to regulate in the environmental area:

- National treatment and MFN treatment for investors and their investments “in like circumstances.” As in earlier U.S. bilateral investment treaties (BITs) and in Chapter 11 of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), the national treatment and MFN obligations in the KORUS investment chapter apply to investors “in like circumstances.” This means that domestic regulation (including environmental regulation) may, in furtherance of non-discriminatory policy objectives, distinguish between domestic and foreign investors and their investments, as well as among investors of different countries and their investments, without necessarily violating the national treatment and MFN obligations. For example, regulators in appropriate circumstances may apply more stringent operating conditions to an investment located in a wetland, or in a more heavily polluted area, than to an investment located in a less environmentally sensitive area.

- Relationship to other provisions. The KORUS includes provisions making clear that in the event of any inconsistency between the agreement’s investment chapter and any other chapter (including the environment chapter), the other chapter will prevail to the extent of the inconsistency. While the Administration does not believe there to be any inconsistencies between the investment chapter and any other chapters, this provision clarifies the Parties’ intentions with respect to the relationship between different chapters. The investment chapter also provides that nothing in the chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from taking measures otherwise consistent with the investment chapter to ensure that investment activity in its territory is undertaken in a manner sensitive to environmental concerns. Furthermore, in the agreement’s environment chapter each Party commits not to waive or derogate from its environmental laws in a manner that weakens or reduces the protections afforded in those laws in a manner affecting trade or investment between the Parties, except where the waiver or derogation is provided for in its law.

Potential Environmental Regulatory Impacts

The Administration has been unable to identify any concrete instances of U.S. environmental measures that would be inconsistent with the KORUS’s substantive investment obligations, and none have been called to the Administration’s attention by commenters. No claims have ever been brought against the United States under the almost 40 BITs that are currently in effect or under any of our free trade agreements other than the NAFTA. In the 17 years that the NAFTA has been in effect, 15 cases have been brought against the United States by investors. The United States has prevailed in all of the cases that have been decided to date.

The Administration also considered the views of the TEPAC and other commenters on investment issues (see Section IV). The TEPAC majority was very concerned about the expropriation language included in the investment chapter of the agreement and urged that Congress modify it. They believed that the language conflicts with language in the U.S. model BIT and with U.S. Supreme Court precedent and that it could be used to “successful[ly] challenge attempts to implement more stringent bona fide environmental controls.” Other TEPAC members had different views. Some felt that the provisions provided strong protections for U.S. investors while others thought that they weakened traditional protections for U.S. investors. Still others thought that these provisions should be included in a separate agreement.

On the basis of the Trade Act, U.S. model investment chapters (and model BIT) reflect a carefully negotiated balance between providing U.S. investors protections abroad and ensuring that federal, state and local governments can regulate to protect the public welfare in such areas as the environment, public health and public safety. Many of the innovations developed as a result of the Trade Act – including in the areas of expropriation, the minimum standard of treatment, and performance requirements – serve as safeguards to ensure that legitimate public interest regulation is fully protected. As in virtually all U.S. investment negotiations, the challenge in the negotiation with Korea was to address Korea’s substantial concerns regarding investment in a manner that maintained this critical balance. While the final text differs from the U.S. model, the Administration strongly believes that the final text has maintained the balance that is at the heart of U.S. investment policy. A response to specific TEPAC concerns is set out below.

Tests for indirect expropriation. The TEPAC majority argues that Annex 11-B of the agreement allows investor-State arbitration tribunals to find a regulatory action to be an indirect expropriation if it is either “extremely severe” or “disproportionate in light of its purpose or effect.” First, the TEPAC majority argues that these concepts have no basis in U.S. or international law. Second, it asserts that these concepts provide excessive discretion to tribunals to strike down U.S. environmental, health and safety laws. Third, it argues that the concepts provide foreign investors greater rights than U.S. investors have under U.S. law because, “for example, the U.S. Supreme Court has never held that an expropriation or taking can be found simply because judges believe that the measure is disproportionate.” The Administration disagrees with these arguments.

In the Administration’s view, the new language in Annex 11-B is fully consistent with U.S. law and customary international law jurisprudence on indirect expropriation. Indeed, the concepts of both “severity” and “disproportionality” are expressly discussed in the seminal U.S. Supreme Court case on indirect expropriation, Penn Central, and in related cases as relevant aspects of the legal test for indirect expropriation. Moreover, that legal test is fundamentally about the “purposes” of government action and its “effects” on foreign investors, and thus those ideas flow directly from the jurisprudence as well. The legal test of this provision would not be applied any differently from the Penn Central analysis under U.S. law.

Missing first paragraph of Annex 11-B. The TEPAC majority expressed concern that the agreement omits model paragraph 1 of the Expropriation Annex, which states that “Article 6.1 is intended to reflect customary international law concerning the obligation of States with respect to expropriation.” The TEPAC majority believes that this omission is important because that language sets the context for the entire expropriation analysis, placing it firmly within customary international law and thus providing boundaries to the analysis and to arbitrators’ power to declare environmental, health and safety regulations to be expropriations requiring compensation.

For the following reasons, the Administration does not believe that this omission will have the effect the majority of the TEPAC asserts:

- First, the deleted language is not a rule of interpretation. While it clarifies one characteristic of model Article 6.1, its presence or absence does not change the fact that model Article 6.1 reflects customary international law or that the Annex reflects the customary international law test for an indirect expropriation. Nothing about how one analyzes whether an expropriation has occurred changes by the removal of paragraph 1.
- Second, the agreement’s investment chapter contains a footnote derived from the model text that states, “Article 11.6 shall be interpreted in accordance with Annexes 11-A and 11-B.” Thus, a tribunal will know that it is to analyze the question of whether an expropriation has occurred in light of Annex 11-A, which discusses customary international law, and Annex 11-B, which (in paragraph 3(a)) lays out the U.S. law and customary international law test for an indirect expropriation.

- Third, Article 11.22 (Governing Law) provides the same interpretive guidance to tribunals as that in the model text. In particular, Article 11.22.1 provides that a tribunal shall decide claims of a breach of the investment chapter “in accordance with this Agreement and applicable rules of international law,” which includes customary international law principles regarding expropriation.
- Finally, paragraph 1 of the model text is not designed to narrow or limit protections that exist in U.S. law. The language of Article 11.6.1 continues to reflect both customary international law and U.S. law.

Confirming letter on property rights. The TEPAC majority argues that the confirming letter on property rights appended to the agreement “provides that all contract rights are property rights and thus are eligible to be investments subject to arbitration.” The Administration disagrees with this interpretation. The letter neither states nor implies that all contract rights are “property rights” (and thus are investments capable of being expropriated and are subject to investor-State arbitration). The letter provides only that the term “tangible or intangible property right” includes rights under contract. It does not provide that all contract rights are “property rights.”

Based on the above considerations, and given that U.S. environmental measures can be challenged in U.S. courts under current law, the Administration does not expect the KORUS to result in an increased potential for a successful claim relating to such measures. The KORUS’s innovations (like those of all post-Trade Act U.S. free trade agreements) should further reduce the risk that arbitral tribunals will misapply the investment provisions of the KORUS. The Administration will continue to review the potential impact of investment provisions on environmental measures, however, as it implements the KORUS and other trade agreements with similar provisions.

VII. ENVIRONMENTAL COOPERATION

As discussed in Section I.A, the Trade Act establishes that a principal U.S. negotiating objective is to strengthen the capacity of U.S. trading partners to protect the environment through the promotion of sustainable development. In addition, the Trade Act calls for U.S. negotiators to seek to establish consultative mechanisms among parties to trade agreements to strengthen the capacity of U.S. trading partners to develop and implement standards for the protection of the environment and human health based on sound science. Korea has a well-developed system for the protection of its environment and natural resources.

In conjunction with the negotiation of the KORUS, the United States and Korea negotiated an ECA similar to those negotiated in parallel with other free trade agreements the United States has concluded in recent years. As previously noted, the ECA establishes a Commission to oversee the implementation of cooperative activities. The Commission will comprise government representatives with environmental responsibilities from the United States and Korea, and will be led by one high-level official each from the U.S. Department of State and Korea's Ministry of the Environment.

The United States and Korea share common concerns and similar responsibilities for protecting and conserving the environment and have a long history of cooperation in addressing environmental challenges. The United States and Korea also have a common interest in promoting global environmental improvement and protection and in using science and technology to address environmental challenges. In the ECA, the Parties acknowledge that they can play an important role both regionally and globally in promoting environmental protection and the sustainable management of resources.

As noted above, in 2007, the Parties negotiated a draft work program to guide cooperation under the ECA. The Commission will review, update, and finalize this draft work program as appropriate after entry into force of the ECA. It also will review and assess cooperative activities undertaken pursuant to the final work program, and recommend ways to improve cooperation under the ECA. The Commission will meet within one year after the ECA enters into force and as appropriate thereafter.

In the ECA, the Parties have identified 13 areas in which they may cooperate. These areas include: developing, implementing and enforcing environmental and natural resource conservation laws; implementing and enforcing MEAs to which both Parties are party (including, for example, CITES); sharing information about imports that fail to meet the importing Party's environmental standards with a view towards facilitating compliance with the relevant laws and standards; protecting, conserving and managing in a sustainable and integrated manner various ecosystems, including through the conservation of endangered species and the control of invasive alien species; and implementing measures to ensure that maritime vessels and related port activities are compatible with and supportive of environmental protection and the sustainable management of natural resources. Under the ECA, the Parties may agree to cooperate in additional areas.

Other areas of possible cooperation identified in the ECA include: the development of joint initiatives to combat illegal logging and associated trade, as well as the illegal harvest and sale of wildlife and wildlife parts; the reduction of air and water pollution through pollution prevention and resource conservation; the development and use of environmentally sound production methods and technologies; the development of cleaner sources of energy; and the promotion of greater public awareness of environmental issues.

Public participation is an important element for the success of the ECA. Consequently, the ECA calls for the Parties to promote opportunities for public participation in the development and implementation of cooperative environmental activities. The ECA also provides that unless the Parties decide otherwise there will be a public session at each Commission meeting.

Plan to Implement and Enforce the United States – Korea Free Trade Agreement

Prepared by the Office of Management and Budget

This report fulfills the requirements of Section 2108(a) of the Trade Act of 2002 (“the Act”). Section 2108(a) requires that when the President submits a trade agreement to Congress under the Act, the President also must submit a plan for implementing and enforcing the agreement. Specifically, the plan must include the following:

Section 2108(a)(1)—Border Personnel Requirements: A description of the additional personnel required at border entry points, including a list of additional customs and agricultural inspectors.

Section 2108(a)(2)—Agency Staffing Requirements: A description of additional personnel required by Federal agencies responsible for monitoring and implementing the trade agreement, including personnel required by the Office of the United States Trade Representative, the Department of Commerce, the Department of Agriculture (including additional personnel required to implement sanitary and phytosanitary (“SPS”) measures in order to obtain market access for United States exports), the Department of the Treasury, and such other agencies as may be necessary.

Section 2108(a)(3)—Customs Infrastructure Requirements: A description of the additional equipment and facilities needed by the United States Customs Service.

Section 2108(a)(4)—Impact on State and Local Governments: A description of the impact the trade agreement will have on State and local governments as a result of increases in trade.

Section 2108(a)(5)—Cost Analysis: An analysis of the costs associated with each of the above items.

The Office of Management and Budget has requested appropriate agencies to provide information on any additional staffing and equipment that will be required to implement and enforce the United States- Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS) and the costs associated with these needs. The Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Homeland Security, Labor, and State estimate 23.5 staff are required to implement the KORUS.

No additional budget proposals for FY 2012 are anticipated to implement and enforce the KORUS. For those areas where agencies have identified additional staffing and resource needs, the Administration intends to adjust existing budgeted resources and does not anticipate requesting additional funding from Congress.

Section 2108(a)(1)—Border Personnel Requirements

The Department of Homeland Security has identified the following staffing needs to implement and enforce the KORUS. These staff and equipment requirements indicate reassigned resources rather than indication of increased need.

Executive Summary

This report examines the labor laws and practices of the Republic of Korea (ROK). It responds to the requirement of the Trade Act of 2002 that the President provide a “meaningful labor rights report” concerning each country with which a free trade agreement is under consideration. It focuses on those labor rights identified as internationally recognized labor rights in Chapter 19 of the proposed United States-Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS).

In Chapter 19 of the KORUS, the United States and the ROK reaffirm their obligations as International Labor Organization (ILO) members. Both countries commit to adopt and maintain in law and practice the rights as stated in the 1998 ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-Up and agree not to encourage trade and investment by weakening relevant domestic labor laws. Both governments pledge to provide access to judicial tribunals for labor law enforcement; ensure that the enforcement process is fair, equitable, and transparent; and promise public awareness of their labor laws.

The ROK’s legal framework governing the internationally recognized labor rights is presented in Section 2.1 of this report, “Legal Framework for Labor Rights.” Section 4 provides more detail on each of the relevant laws. Section 2.2, “Administrative Framework for Labor Rights,” provides an overview of the adjudicative, administrative, and consultative mechanisms available for application and enforcement of labor laws. The report notes that the ROK has strengthened a number of labor laws and practices in recent years, including in 1996 in the context of the ROK’s accession to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). Most recently in January 2010, the ROK adopted amendments to the Trade Union and Labor Relations Adjustment Act (TULRAA).

The report finds that the ROK’s current laws and practices related to internationally recognized labor rights are largely consistent with relevant international standards. The Constitution of the ROK prohibits compulsory labor; grants all citizens the freedom of occupation; guarantees freedom of association and the right to bargain collectively (with certain exceptions); guarantees the right of citizens to work and to an enforceable system of minimum wages; stipulates that standards for conditions of work are to be promulgated by law to guarantee human dignity; accords special protection to working women and children; and prohibits discrimination in economic life on account of sex, religion, and social status. The laws governing individual labor rights, of which the Labor Standards Act is the most comprehensive, provide minimum standards for conditions of employment, including wages and hours of work; ban discrimination on certain articulated prohibited grounds; prohibit forced labor and unjustified dismissals; provide protections for minors and women; provide for labor inspections and penal sanctions in certain cases of egregious violations; address occupational safety and health and hazard and accident prevention; establish rules for workers’ compensation; and govern employment conditions for temporary, fixed-term, and part-time workers. The laws governing labor-management relations, of which the TULRAA is the most comprehensive, regulate the establishment, affiliation, and dissolution of trade unions; establish the scope and conditions for collective bargaining and collective agreements; regulate industrial action, unfair labor practices, and dismissals; specify procedures for dispute settlement and resolution; establish a national-level tripartite commission to consult on labor-management relations; mandate labor-management councils in workplaces; and establish tripartite labor commissions to mediate and adjudicate disputes. The ROK also has a set of well-developed institutions to implement and enforce these laws.

The report, in Section 3, also identifies laws and practices in three notable areas in which the ILO and labor rights groups have expressed concerns. These issues would benefit from continued monitoring and dialogue under the relevant mechanisms established under the KORUS.

Criminal Charges of “Obstruction of Business” Related to Trade Union Activity

The ROK’s Criminal Act permits large fines and imprisonment as penalties for “obstruction of business” through violence, fraud and other means. However, Korean labor groups have claimed that obstruction of business charges have been misused to suppress legitimate trade union activity and that the application of fines in such cases has had significant financial consequences for the affected unions. The ILO Committee on Freedom of Association (CFA) has criticized the use of the ROK’s law on obstruction of business as undermining protected union activity and expressed its view that the ROK should “revert to a general practice of investigation without detention of workers and of refraining from making arrests, even in the case of an illegal strike, if the latter does not entail any violence.” The ROK has asserted that it has a policy of not making arrests under obstruction of business laws during non-violent strikes.

Non-Regular Workers

Subcontracted (“dispatched”) and temporary workers may be more vulnerable to labor abuses due to their precarious employment status. The ROK is addressing this vulnerability through enhanced protections for temporary and dispatched workers, who comprise one-third of the Korean labor force. In reviewing a recent case involving dispatched workers in several plants, however, the ILO CFA noted concerns about laws and their application with respect to the protection of these workers’ rights to freedom of association and collective bargaining. In recent years, Korean courts have ruled in favor of non-regular workers in some cases, including a landmark Supreme Court ruling in 2010.

The Case of the Migrants’ Trade Union

Labor laws in the ROK prohibit employment and workplace discrimination on the basis of nationality or migration status and generally provide foreign and migrant workers the same legal protections as Korean nationals. As such, the High Court of the ROK ruled in 2007 that the ROK Constitution accords the right of freedom of association to all workers, including foreign migrant workers. However, the Korean Ministry of Labor and Employment appealed the High Court’s decision to the Supreme Court and continues to deny legal recognition to the Migrants’ Trade Union, a union composed of foreign migrant workers.

1 Introduction

This report on labor rights in the Republic of Korea (ROK) has been prepared pursuant to section 2102(c)(8) of the Trade Act of 2002 (“Trade Act”) (Pub. L. No. 107-210). The Trade Act provides that the President shall:

[i]n connection with any trade negotiations entered into under this Act, submit to the Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate a meaningful labor rights report of the country, or countries, with respect to which the President is negotiating.

The President, by Executive Order 13277 (67 Fed. Reg. 70305 (Nov. 21, 2002)), assigned the above responsibilities to the Secretary of Labor and provided that they be carried out in consultation with the Secretary of State and the U.S. Trade Representative (USTR). The Secretary of Labor subsequently provided that such responsibilities would be carried out by the Secretary of State, the USTR, and the Secretary of Labor (67 Fed. Reg. 77812 (Dec. 19, 2002)).

Pursuant to this mandate, the report examines labor laws and practices in the ROK, particularly as they relate to the labor rights identified as internationally recognized labor rights in the definition of “labor laws” under Chapter 19 of the United States-Korea Free Trade Agreement (KORUS).¹ These rights are:

- a. freedom of association;
- b. the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining;
- c. the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labor;
- d. the effective abolition of child labor, a prohibition on the worst forms of child labor, and other labor protections for children and minors;
- e. the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation;
- and
- f. acceptable conditions of work with respect to minimum wages, hours of work, and occupational safety and health.

Section 2 of the report provides an overview of the ROK’s legal and administrative frameworks on labor rights, examining in brief the laws covering labor rights and the mechanisms available to enforce them. Section 3 of the report identifies notable areas in which the International Labor Organization (ILO) Committee on Freedom of Association (CFA) has raised concerns regarding the ROK’s laws and practices with respect to international labor standards, providing a synopsis of the issues and a discussion of government efforts to address them. Section 4 discusses in brief the relevant laws governing each of the six internationally recognized labor rights noted above. The Annexes at the end of the report provide supplementary information about the ROK's administrative frameworks for labor law application and enforcement, including an organizational chart of the ROK's Ministry of Employment and Labor (MOEL) (Annex I) and a chart presenting the composition of the Labor Relations Commissions (Annex II).

2 Overview of Legal and Administrative Frameworks

The ROK has labor laws addressing each of the internationally recognized labor rights enumerated in Chapter 19 of the KORUS. The ROK also has a set of well-developed institutions designed to implement these laws. This section provides a brief overview of the relevant legal and administrative frameworks, discussing the key laws and the primary institutions that exist for their enforcement, including those that facilitate labor consultations and adjudication of disputes. Section 4 provides a more comprehensive discussion of laws and enforcement mechanisms related to labor rights in the ROK.

2.1. Legal Framework for Labor Rights

Labor rights are set forth in the Constitution of the ROK and in more than two dozen individual labor laws.² Most laws have separate enforcement decrees, which are presidential decrees providing concrete details on the implementation of the relevant laws.³ The ROK's labor laws can be divided into three categories: (1) individual labor relations laws, which regulate relations between workers and employers, of which the Labor Standards Act is the most comprehensive; (2) collective labor relations laws, which regulate labor-management relations, of which the Trade Union and Labor Relations Adjustment Act (TULRAA) is the primary example; and (3) general employment laws, which regulate employment policy issues, such as employment security, employment insurance, and the employment of foreign workers, of which the Act on Foreign Workers' Employment, Etc. is an example.

KOILAF is a non-profit organization established jointly by organizations representing labor, management, and government in the ROK. It seeks to promote international understanding of Korean labor-management relations. Its steering committee is comprised of leaders representing trade union confederations, national employer organizations and the Government. 2.2. Administrative Framework for Labor Rights

The ROK's system for administering labor rights consists of three sets of institutions: (1) the MOEL;⁴ (2) adjudication and mediation mechanisms; and (3) consultative and cooperative mechanisms.

2.2.1. Ministry of Employment and Labor

The MOEL is the principal governmental labor authority in the ROK. The Ministry is responsible for enforcing labor laws and for developing and implementing policies and programs on labor standards, labor relations, occupational safety and health, labor market and employment growth strategies, youth employment, vocation training and skills development, equal employment, employment insurance, and industrial accident compensation insurance.⁵ The MOEL also compiles and publishes labor statistics from survey data it collects.⁶

The MOEL, with total staff of 5,740 as of October 2010, is composed of the headquarters and regional offices. An organizational chart of the Ministry, with the particular responsibilities and functions of the different offices and bureaus, can be found in Annex I of this report. The MOEL's headquarters consists of three general offices: (1) the Planning and Coordination Office, consisting of the Policy Planning Bureau and the International Cooperation Bureau; (2) the Employment Policy Office, made up of separate bureaus dealing with Employment Policy, Manpower Policy, Skills Development Policy, Equal Employment Policy, and Employment Service Policy; and (3) the Labor Relations Policy Office, consisting of bureaus responsible for Labor Management Cooperation, Labor Standards, Occupational Safety and Health (OSH), and Public Sector Labor Relations. Policies and programs are developed and implemented by the first two offices, while the responsibility for administrative enforcement of labor laws falls on the labor inspectorate, which reports to the OSH and Labor Standards Bureaus of the Labor Relations Policy Office.

Labor Inspectorate

The ROK labor inspectorate operates through the headquarters and 47 district labor offices. As of October 2010, the MOEL employed approximately 1,400 labor inspectors. The majority (78 percent) specialize in labor standards while the remaining inspectors focus on occupational health and safety. Their activities are under the purview of the district labor offices. They are administratively managed by the Labor Standards Policy

⁴ The Ministry of Labor changed its name to the Ministry of Employment and Labor on July 5, 2010, to "better reflect the central role that the Ministry was deemed to play in the government-wide efforts to create jobs and further strengthen its function of administering employment policies." Bureau or the OSH Bureau of the National Labor Relations Policy Office, depending on their specialty.⁷

Labor inspectors are responsible both for responding to allegations of labor law violations brought to district labor offices by workers and employers and for conducting “regular” inspections to monitor labor law implementation. They have the authority to investigate, to detain and arrest employers suspected of violating labor laws, and to order fines, other penalties, and remedies where violations have been found.⁸ While inspectors are required to provide ten day notice to employers prior to conducting “regular” inspections, no such notice is required for “special” inspections conducted in response to information received regarding working conditions or potential violations.⁹ Where the corrective actions or remedies ordered by the inspectorate are not implemented within a specified period or where a penalty is not paid, the inspectorate is required to refer the case to prosecutors.

MOEL inspected 25,892 companies in 2009 and found 23,034 companies in violation of one or more law. As of October 2010, the MOEL reports that nearly all of the violations were handled administratively and remedied. Legal actions were taken against roughly 50 companies.¹⁰

In 2009, a total of 320,148 cases of alleged labor law violations were accepted and handled by district labor offices. Of that total, 213,116 cases were handled successfully by remedying the violations against workers’ rights and the remaining cases were handled through legal actions. The number of reported cases has been on the rise continually since 1992. According to the MOEL, this reflects the increasing awareness among the general public of the rights of workers.¹¹

2.2.2. Adjudication & Mediation Mechanisms

In addition to filing complaints with the labor inspectorate, workers and employers may bring allegations of labor violations and labor disputes before quasi-judicial administrative bodies called Labor Relations Commissions (LRC), which serve as the principal entities for adjudication and mediation of labor-related issues in the ROK.¹² The responsibilities of the LRCs include: investigating allegations of violations of labor laws; judging, deciding, making resolutions, and ordering redress of labor violations; and mediating or arbitrating labor disputes and providing support for interested parties to autonomously settle their disputes in accordance with the law.¹³

The LRCs consist of the following:

- 12 Regional LRCs, which report to the MOEL;
- a Special LRC, which handles special cases prescribed by specific labor laws, as directed by the chief of the relevant central administrative authority that has subject matter jurisdiction over the circumstances in question;¹⁴ and
- a National LRC (NLRC), which also reports to the MOEL, handles cases that are under the jurisdiction of two or more Regional LRCs, and handles appeals of decisions made by the Regional or Special LRCs.¹⁵

The LRCs are comprised of an equal number of worker representatives (“employee members”), employer representatives (“employer members”), and members representing the public interest (“public interest members”),¹⁶ who must meet specific qualifications with regard to expertise and experience, as stipulated in the Labor Relations Commission Act.¹⁷

Employee members are recommended by trade unions and employer members are recommended by employers’ associations.¹⁸ Public interest members are selected from those recommended by the Chairman of the relevant LRC (National or Regional), trade unions or employers’ associations who have not been excluded (by way of veto) by either of the latter two groups.¹⁹

Each LRC is divided into committees handling different types of cases. These include the following:

- the Adjudication Committee, which is composed of three public interest members in charge of adjudication, and handles matters requiring judgment, resolution, or approval, or confirmation of the LRC in accordance with the TULRAA, the Labor Standards Act, the Act on the Promotion of Worker Participation and Cooperation and other labor laws;
- the Discrimination Redress Committee, which is composed of three public interest members in charge of redressing discrimination, and handles matters concerning redress for discrimination in accordance with the Act on the

- the Adjustment Committee for Teachers' Labor Relations, which focuses on cases covered by the Act on Establishment, Operation, Etc., of Trade Unions for Teachers and handles mediations, arbitration and other related matters under the Act; and
- the Adjustment Committee for Public Officials' Labor Relations, which focuses on cases pursuant to the Act on the Establishment, Operation, Etc., of Public Officials' Trade Unions and handles mediation, arbitration and other related matters under that Act.²⁰

When allegations of labor violations are submitted to an LRC, the body is responsible for conducting investigations and issuing decisions and remedy orders.²¹ The LRC may also recommend conciliation or present a conciliation proposal, either independently or at the request of either or both of the parties, before making a judgment, issuing an order or rendering a decision.²² The LRC can also assist the parties concerned with settling their dispute autonomously by arranging negotiations prior to accepting requests for mediation.²³ For binding arbitration cases, both parties must request LRC arbitration, unless an applicable collective bargaining agreement provides for arbitration at the request of only one party.²⁴

Decisions made by a Regional LRC or the Special LRC can be appealed to the National LRC within ten days of the receipt of the notice of the decision.²⁵ Furthermore, a decision of the NLRC can be appealed to the judicial system within 15 days of receipt of such a decision through a lawsuit against the NLRC.²⁶

Finally, in addition to the LRC, parties may opt to settle labor disputes through private mediation or arbitration bodies pursuant to mutual agreements or collective bargaining agreements as long as the private bodies involved meet the qualification requirements specified in the Labor Relations Commission Act.²⁷

2.2.3. Consultative and Cooperative Mechanisms

Three different institutions support consultative and cooperative efforts on labor matters in the ROK: (1) the Economic and Social Development Commission (ESDC); (2) labor management councils; and (3) certified labor affairs consultants.

At the national level, under the authority of the President, a tripartite commission, called the Economic and Social Development Commission,²⁸ exists to promote labor-management cooperation and participation in the formation of government policies. The ESDC is comprised of representatives from labor, management, public interest groups, and the government, including members from regional tripartite committees. Since becoming a permanent legal entity in 1999 by the Act on the Tripartite Commission for Economic and Social Development,²⁹ the ESDC has reached agreements on many subjects, most notably on guaranteeing the right of teachers to form trade unions, on reducing working hours, on instituting new legal protections for non-regular workers, on improving systems and practices for mediation of labor disputes, and on reforming industrial relations legislation.³⁰

At the enterprise level, the Act on the Promotion of Worker Participation and Cooperation requires businesses with 30 or more employees to set up “labor-management councils” to facilitate consultations.³¹ The councils are composed of an equal number of employer and worker representatives.³² They have the responsibility of holding consultations on a broad spectrum of issues, including worker recruitment, education and training; worker grievance procedures; administration of work hours and break times; working conditions improvement and occupational safety and health; and profit-sharing plans.³³ While the decisions of labor-management councils are not equivalent to a collective bargaining agreement,³⁴ workers and employers are required to abide by the decisions, with failure to comply punishable by a fine.³⁵ If a labor-management council cannot resolve one of the issues listed above, it can refer the issue to an arbitral organization established by agreement between the council’s worker and employer members, to a LRC, or to a private arbitration body agreed upon by the parties.³⁶

Employers and workers also have the option of engaging “certified labor affairs consultants” to facilitate labor-management cooperation. To be a certified labor affairs consultant, the independent professional must register with the MOEL and pass a series of qualification examinations administered by the MOEL.³⁷

3 Issues of Note

In recent years, the ROK has undertaken reforms to improve its labor laws and practices. Many of these reforms took place, at least in part, in the context of the ROK’s accession to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) in 1996 and the commitments the Korean Government made to the OECD to bring its labor laws and practices in line with internationally accepted standards. Most recently, the ROK made several amendments to the TULRAA in January 2010. With these reforms, the ROK’s labor laws and practices are largely consistent with international standards governing the internationally recognized labor rights articulated in Chapter 19 of the KORUS. However, labor rights groups and the ILO have continued to express concerns regarding certain ROK labor laws and practices. This section provides a synopsis of notable issues and a discussion of current ROK efforts to address them. The KORUS provides mechanisms for regular monitoring and dialogue on labor rights issues. Recognizing the potential for the issues noted here to continue to affect labor rights, application of the relevant laws and reforms related to these issues would benefit from monitoring and follow-up under those mechanisms.

3.1. Criminal Charges of “Obstruction of Business” Related to Trade Union Activity

The ROK’s Criminal Act permits steep fines and imprisonment as penalties for “obstruction of business.”³⁸ The ILO CFA has repeatedly criticized Korea’s use of the obstruction of business provision against unionists engaged in non-violent activities that are protected labor rights, and Korean labor groups report that the application of heavy fines in such cases has had a significant negative financial impact on affected unions. The ILO CFA has recommended that the ROK refrain from detaining and arresting unionists involved in non-violent associational activities.³⁹ The ROK contends that workers are not arrested under the Criminal Act for participating in legal or illegal protests without having also engaged in violent acts or other serious offenses.⁴⁰

Laws and Practices Concerning “Obstruction of Business”: Article 314 of the Criminal Act defines “obstruction of business” as interfering with the business of another by injuring his/her credit through lies or fraudulent means, threat of force, or damaging records and record-keeping equipment.⁴¹ The punishment for violating this provision of the Act is imprisonment of up to five years or a fine of up to 15 million won (USD 13,358).⁴² The TULRAA stipulates that the obstruction of business provision cannot be used to punish justifiable, non-violent collective bargaining and industrial action.⁴³

The Government has defended the obstruction of business provisions as similar to those used in other OECD countries to prohibit acts interfering with the work of other workers through physical violence or coercion.⁴⁴ The OECD has noted, however, that Korea’s obstruction of business charge has been applied to suppress activities considered unlawful in Korea that would be considered lawful in most OECD countries or civil rather than criminal disputes.⁴⁵

Concerns Raised by the ILO CFA with Respect to “Obstruction of Business”: The ILO CFA has expressed concern that the provisions relating to obstruction of business in certain cases have been interpreted to allow the punishment of a variety of protected non-violent activities relating to collective action that halted or interrupted normal business activities.⁴⁶ As a result, the ILO CFA has called on the ROK to “revert to a general practice of investigation without detention of workers and of refraining from making arrests, even in the case of an illegal strike, if the latter does not entail any violence.”⁴⁷ In response to such criticisms, the ROK has noted that it follows a policy of minimizing arrests for obstruction of business by refraining from making arrests during strikes as long as they do not become violent.⁴⁸

discriminatory working conditions and challenges in exercising the rights of freedom of association and collective bargaining. In a recent case involving dispatched workers in several plants, the ILO CFA noted concerns about the institutional and legal protections of these rights for such workers and set forth recommendations to address the deficiencies.⁴⁹ ROK laws generally guarantee equal rights for “non-regular workers” and prohibit discrimination against them, and some workers have achieved regular status as a result of recent laws requiring companies to convert non-regular workers to regular status after two years.⁵⁰ While the ROK has yet to take up the ILO CFA’s recommendations in full, the ROK Supreme Court in July 2010 ruled that a company at issue in the ILO CFA case had incorrectly classified a dispatched worker as an in-house subcontractor and that, as a result, the worker in question should have enjoyed the protections of the Act on the Protection, Etc. of Dispatched Workers.⁵¹ Some labor experts in the ROK believe this is a landmark case that may impact the improper use of dispatch workers throughout the country.⁵²

Laws and Practices with Respect to Non-Regular Workers: Approximately 5.4 million of the 16.6 million wage workers in the Korean labor force are “non-regular workers,”⁵³ comprised of fixed-term and non-fixed-term temporary workers, part time workers, and “atypical” workers, including dispatched workers.⁵⁴ Non-regular workers are covered by TULRAA protections for fundamental labor rights including freedom of association, and the ROK has passed additional laws to ban discrimination against these workers and require conversion to permanent status after two years of employment (for a detailed discussion of relevant laws, see “Non-Regular Workers” in Section 4.5). In addition, in recent years, some courts have issued rulings that non-regular workers, who have worked continuously for two years or longer, shall be treated as directly employed regular employees.⁵⁵ With respect to freedom of association, the precarious employment status of non-regular workers may have contributed to low participation rates in trade unions. Approximately 2.5 percent of non-regular workers belong to unions, compared to 17.3 percent of regular workers.⁵⁶

Concerns Raised by the ILO CFA with Respect to Non-Regular Workers: The Korean Metalworkers' Federation (KMWF), the Korean Confederation of Trade Unions (KCTU) and the International Metalworkers' Federation (IMF) have filed complaints with the ILO CFA alleging that dispatched workers in multiple plants in the ROK metal sector are denied their freedom of association rights, as they are subject to: (a) recurring acts of anti-union discrimination, notably dismissals or non-renewal of contracts aimed at thwarting efforts to establish a union; and (b) consistent employer refusal to bargain and negotiate, with the result that none of the unions involved in this case had succeeded in negotiating a collective agreement.⁵⁷

The case, involving dispatched workers in Hyundai Motors' Corporation's Ulsan, Asan and Jeonju plants; Hynix/Magnachip; Kiryung Electronics; and KM&I, was first brought to the ILO CFA in October 2007, with additional updates and allegations made in November 2008 and July 2009.⁵⁸ Commenting on the case, the ILO CFA noted that "protection against acts of anti-union discrimination would appear to be inadequate if an employer can resort to subcontracting as a means of evading in practice the rights of freedom of association and collective bargaining."⁵⁹ The ILO CFA requested that the ROK take measures "to ensure that the use of subcontracting arrangements is not motivated by the wish to circumvent the collective bargaining provisions contained in the TULRAA, and that the trade unions representing subcontracted workers can carry on their activities in the interests of their members."⁶⁰ Among other recommendations, the ILO CFA requested that the Government "take all necessary measures, at all levels, to promote collective bargaining on terms and conditions of employment of subcontracted workers in all metalworking sector enterprises," specifically, and more generally to develop appropriate mechanisms to strengthen the protection of all subcontracted workers' rights to freedom of association and collective bargaining guaranteed by the TULRAA.⁶¹

A recent ROK Supreme Court decision could help stem the practice, particularly in the automotive sector, of disguising dispatched workers as in-house subcontractors to avoid legal protections for dispatched workers. In July 2010, the ROK Supreme Court found that a worker employed as an in-house subcontractor at a Hyundai auto assembly line was, in practice, in a "worker-dispatching position" subordinate to the third party contractor.⁶² As such, the worker was covered by the Act on the Protection, Etc. of Dispatched Workers, which stipulated that a dispatched worker shall be considered a direct employee of the using company if he/she is employed in that position for more than two years.⁶³

3.3. The Case of the Migrants' Trade Union

An estimated 520,000 registered migrant workers are employed in the ROK,⁶⁴ constituting approximately 2.4 percent of the total number of employed persons.⁶⁵ The majority are employed in manufacturing (50.7 percent), while others work in services (31.7 percent), construction (14.1 percent), agriculture and livestock (2.7 percent), and fisheries (0.8 percent).⁶⁶

The Migrants' Trade Union (MTU) was founded on April 24, 2005, and a notification of its establishment was sent to the Seoul Regional Labor Office (SRLO) on May 3, 2005.⁶⁷

Laws and Practices Concerning Migrant Workers' Rights: Labor laws in the ROK generally provide foreign and migrant workers the same legal protections as Korean nationals.⁶⁸ However, the SRLO rejected the MTU's registration on the grounds that the union failed to provide certain documents (including a list of union members, their workplaces, and their nationalities), and that the officers of the union were foreigners "without legal right of residence and employment under the Constitution," so that it could be assumed the entire union was composed of "illegally employed foreigners who do not have the right to join labor unions."⁶⁹

On February 1, 2007, the Seoul High Court ruled that the right of association, as protected under the ROK Constitution, applies to all foreign workers, regardless of immigration status.⁷⁰ The MOEL has appealed the High Court's decision and continues to deny legal recognition to the MTU. The case has been pending before the ROK Supreme Court since February 23, 2007.⁷¹

Concerns Raised by the ILO CFA with Respect to the Case of the MTU: The ILO CFA has expressed concern over the time it is taking the Supreme Court to rule on the case and called on the government to register the MTU, regardless of the outcome of the case.⁷²

4 Relevant Laws Governing Recognized Labor Rights

This section offers an overview of the laws of the ROK pertaining to the six internationally recognized labor rights defined as “labor laws” under Chapter 19 of the KORUS.⁷³

The Constitution of the ROK prohibits compulsory labor; grants all citizens the freedom of occupation;⁷⁴ guarantees freedom of association and the right to bargain collectively (with certain exceptions);⁷⁵ guarantees the right of citizens to work and to an enforceable system of minimum wages;⁷⁶ stipulates that standards for conditions of work are to be promulgated by law to guarantee human dignity;⁷⁷ accords special protection to working women and children;⁷⁸ and prohibits discrimination in economic life on account of sex, religion, and social status.⁷⁹

Among the laws governing individual labor rights, the Labor Standards Act is the most comprehensive. It provides minimum standards for conditions of employment, including wages and hours of work; bans discrimination on certain articulated prohibited grounds; prohibits forced labor and unjustified dismissals; provides additional protections for minors, women, and women during pregnancy through the first year after childbirth; stipulates requirements for individual labor contracts; provides for labor inspections; and authorizes penal sanctions in certain cases of egregious violations.⁸⁰

Other important laws protecting individual labor rights include:

- The Minimum Wage Act, which sets requirements for annual determination by the Ministry of Employment and Labor of the minimum wage by industry and worker classification and requires employers to pay at least the minimum wage;⁸¹

4.1. Freedom of Association

Right to Organize

The Constitution of the ROK provides workers, including certain public sector employees as specified by law, the right to association and collective action.⁹⁵ Under the Constitution, the right to collective action among workers employed by “important defense industries” may be restricted or denied by law.⁹⁶

The TULRAA provides workers the right to establish or join a trade union.⁹⁷ The Teachers' Act and the Public Officials' Act address the rights of teachers and most public officials to form and join trade unions. The latter two acts limit the rights available to teachers and public officials relative to those described in the TULRAA and indicate that where no limitations apply, the TULRAA controls.⁹⁸

According to Article 6(2) of the Public Officials' Act, the following four groups of public officials shall not join a trade union: “(1) Public officials who exercise the right to direct and supervise other public officials or engage in generally managing other public officials' affairs; (2) Public officials, such as those performing jobs related to personnel and

The TULRAA defines a trade union as “an organization or associated organization of workers which is formed in voluntary and collective manner upon the workers’ initiative for the purpose of maintaining and improving working conditions, or improving the economic and social status of workers.”⁹⁹

The TULRAA defines and prohibits unfair labor practices against workers and trade unionists.¹⁰⁰ It prohibits dismissal of or discrimination against a worker in retaliation for joining a union, intending to join or establish a union, engaging in union activity, or reporting or testifying about an unfair labor practice.¹⁰¹ The TULRAA also prohibits making an offer of employment conditional on the worker not joining or withdrawing from a union.¹⁰² The TULRAA further prohibits an employer from dominating or interfering with the formation or operation of a trade union or providing financial support for a union’s operation. The law provides for a “closed shop,” that is, an employer is “allowed as an exceptional case” to set as a condition for employment that workers join the union, where a trade union represents more than two-thirds of workers employed in the business and a collective agreement in effect between the union and the employer so stipulates. The employer, however, is prohibited from “performing any disadvantageous act to the status of [a] worker” on the grounds that the worker has been expelled from that trade union or withdrawn from that trade union to organize a new trade union or join another trade union.¹⁰³

Employers who commit an unfair labor practice are subject to imprisonment of up to two years or a fine of up to 20 million won (USD 17,810).¹⁰⁴ A worker alleging unfair dismissal is entitled to file an application for relief with a LRC, which is authorized to investigate the matter and to order appropriate relief (see Section 2.2.2).¹⁰⁵

All dues-paying union members have equal rights and duties with respect to participating in union activities, including being elected as union officials.¹⁰⁶ Union officials may serve up to a maximum of three years, as determined by the union’s by-laws.¹⁰⁷

The TULRAA requires that any person seeking to establish a trade union must submit a report containing information about the proposed trade union and a copy of its by-laws, which must include specified matters covering the union's structure and operations.¹⁰⁸ Persons seeking to establish an associated organization (i.e., an organization comprised of related trade unions) or a larger unit trade union (i.e., a union that spans two or more large metropolitan cities or provinces) must submit the required report to the Minister of Employment and Labor,¹⁰⁹ whereas smaller unit trade unions must submit the required report to local administrative authorities, such as city mayors or provincial governors.¹¹⁰ The relevant administrative authority must issue a certificate of union establishment within three days of receipt if the report and by-laws are complete or notify the submitter that it has 20 days to submit any required additional information.¹¹¹

Certain categories of public officials are prohibited from joining a trade union:

- (1) Public officials who exercise the right to direct and supervise other public officials or engage in generally managing other public officials' affairs;
- (2) Public officials, such as those performing jobs related to personnel and remuneration, who stand in the position of administrative agencies in relations to a trade union;
- (3) Public officials who engage in correction, investigation and other similar jobs; and
- (4) Public officials whose main jobs, such as mediating and inspecting labor relations, are considered incompatible with their status as union members.¹¹²

In 2007, the ILO CFA reiterated earlier observations that public officials of all grades should be able to establish labor organizations of their own choosing to further and defend the interests of their members.¹¹³

Under the TULRAA, a trade union can be dissolved under four circumstances: (1) according to its by-laws; (2) by merging or dividing the union; (3) by resolution of a meeting of the union membership or their representative council of delegates; or (4) by resolution of the LRC when the union has no officials and has not carried out any activity for more than one year.¹¹⁴

The TULRAA does not prohibit trade unions from engaging in political activities.¹¹⁵ However, trade unions for teachers and public officials are banned from engaging in such activities. The Public Officials' Act provides that a public officials' trade union and its members "shall not engage in political activities."¹¹⁶ The Teachers' Act also provides that "[t]rade unions for teachers ... shall not be allowed to participate in any political activities.”¹¹⁷ The ILO CFA has indicated that Korea should give public officials the right to publicly voice their concerns about economic and social policies that impact the interests of their members and has found that “a general prohibition on trade unions from engaging in any political activities would not only be incompatible with the principles of freedom of association, but also unrealistic in practice.”¹¹⁸

Right to Strike

The Constitution of the ROK grants the right of “collective action” to all workers except public officials and defense industry workers, who may be statutorily granted the right to engage in collective action.¹¹⁹ The right is protected under the TULRAA, which prohibits employers from claiming damages resulting from an “industrial action” undertaken by trade unions and workers.¹²⁰ The TULRAA also prohibits the detention of striking workers, except when they commit a crime,¹²¹ and the dismissal or replacing of striking workers during a legal strike.¹²²

Before declaring a strike or lockout, trade unions and employers are required to undergo “adjustment procedures” aimed at resolving the dispute.¹²³ The adjustment procedures include mediation and arbitration.¹²⁴ Mediation shall be conducted by a Mediation Committee established within a LRC upon request from one of the parties, or if both parties agree and the dispute does not involve “public services,”¹²⁵ mediation may be conducted instead by a private mediation service.¹²⁶ In cases not involving public service workers, an LRC Mediation Committee consists of one representative each of the employer, of the workers, and of the public interest, with the public interest member serving as the chair of the committee.¹²⁷ For disputes involving public service workers, a special Mediation Committee consisting of three representatives of the public interest who have not been rejected by the employer or the workers is set up within the LRC to handle mediation.¹²⁸ The mediation process must be completed within ten days of the ¹²⁰ TULRAA, Articles 2 and 3. “Industrial action” means actions or counter-actions that obstruct the normal operation of a business, such as strikes, sabotage, lockouts, or other activities through which the parties to labor relations intend to achieve their claims. However, no act of violence or destruction is justifiable on any ground under the TULRAA.

¹²⁶ Where private mediation or arbitration fails, the parties may still invoke LRC mediation or arbitration. See Government of the ROK, Enforcement Decree of the Trade Union and Labor Relations Adjustment Act (TULRAA Decree) (as amended through February 12, 2010), Article 23; available at http://www.moel.go.kr/english/topic/laborlaw_view.jsp?idx=238&tab=Industrial.

mediation request (within 15 days in the case of public services), but may be extended up to ten additional days by consent of the parties (up to 15 additional days in the case of public services).¹²⁹

If mediation fails, arbitration may occur if both parties to the labor dispute request arbitration or if one of the parties invokes arbitration provisions of an existing collective bargaining agreement.¹³⁰ The arbitration is conducted by an Arbitration Committee established within the LRC,¹³¹ or if both parties agree or if stipulated in their collective bargaining agreement, the arbitration may be conducted by a private service.¹³² During the first 15 days of the arbitration period, industrial actions by either party, such as a strike or lockout, are prohibited.¹³³ An arbitration award is legally binding and has the same effect as a collective agreement.¹³⁴

The TULRAA provides that industrial action may be conducted only if a majority of union members have voted by “direct, secret and unsigned ballot” in favor of the action.¹³⁵ In addition, trade unions must report in advance the date, place, number of participants and method of a planned industrial action to the relevant administrative authority and an LRC.¹³⁶

A strike is only legal if it is organized and led by a trade union¹³⁷ and a trade union is required to direct, manage and supervise the strike.¹³⁸ Acts of violence or destruction, the occupation by strikers of facilities related to certain “important businesses” (such as communications, air transport, and storage of dangerous substances), and the stopping, closing, or interruption by the strike of utilities necessary for the safe operation of a workplace are prohibited.¹³⁹

Employers have no obligation to pay wages to striking workers during an industrial action,¹⁴⁰ and accordingly, a trade union is prohibited from undertaking an industrial action in order to demand wage payment for the period of an industrial action.¹⁴¹ Employers are prohibited from hiring replacement workers or contractors to resume work during the strike, except for employers providing essential public services. public services, the employer may hire or contract out work of no more than 50 percent of the work normally undertaken by those workers who participate in the strike.¹⁴²

An employer may conduct a lockout after the initiation of a strike and must report the lockout in advance to the relevant administrative authority and an LRC.¹⁴³

During a strike, a union cannot threaten individual workers who are not party to the dispute and seek to work, or attempt to prevent such workers from working. During the strike, employers and trade unions can be “supported” by an outside party such as a union federation associated with the striking union, an employer association associated with the affected employer, other parties of which the appropriate administrative authority has been notified, or a person entitled to provide such support by a “relevant law” other than the TULRAA. However, such other parties may not intervene in, manipulate, or instigate collective bargaining or industrial actions.¹⁴⁴

The TULRAA does not specify which government organization has the authority to declare strikes illegal. The relevant administrative authorities, such as the Minister of Employment and Labor, mayors of special cities, mayors of metropolitan cities, or governors of provinces¹⁴⁵ have the authority to serve notice to trade unions to suspend strikes after a resolution by an LRC in cases where the strikes stop, close or interrupt the normal maintenance and operation of utilities necessary for the safe operation of a workplace.¹⁴⁶

ROK law bans “industrial actions” by all “public officials,” defined to include even “public officials who are engaged in simple labor.”¹⁴⁷ Teachers and defense industry workers are also banned from initiating or participating in an industrial action. ROK law also requires that in any industrial action involving “essential public services,” a minimum level of service be maintained.¹⁴⁸ “Essential public services” is broadly defined as those services that if interrupted could “remarkably endanger the lives, health, physical safety or daily life of the public and are prescribed by the Presidential Decree” and may include “railroad, inter-city railroad services, and aviation services; water, electricity, gas supply; oil refinery and supply services; hospital and blood supply services; the Bank of Korea; and telecommunications services.”¹⁴⁹

The ILO CFA interprets the right to organize as limiting restrictions or prohibitions on the right to strike to (1) the public service only for public servants exercising authority in

Note that a specified number of workers and the type and amount of work essential to provide a minimum level of services must be established; and those workers may not legally strike. the name of the State, or (2) essential services in the strict sense of the term (that is, services the interruption of which would constitute a clear and imminent threat to the life, personal safety or health of part or all of the population).¹⁵⁰ The ILO CFA has noted that too broad a definition of the concept of public servant, for whom the right to strike is banned or limited, is likely to result in an unacceptably wide restriction or prohibition of the right to strike.¹⁵¹ While the ILO CFA has indicated that the right to strike may be restricted for public servants exercising authority in the name of the State,¹⁵² it has not found teachers to be encompassed within that restriction, noting that “the possible long-term consequences of strikes in the teaching sector do not justify their prohibition.”¹⁵³

Under ROK law, when the scope or nature of an industrial action relates to a “public service”¹⁵⁴ or poses a danger of “impairing the national economy or the daily lives of the general public,”¹⁵⁵ the Minister of Employment and Labor may conduct “emergency adjustment” after consultation with the Chair of the National Labor Relations Commission. Emergency adjustment requires the immediate suspension of the industrial action for 30 days and commencement of mediation procedures by the NLRC.¹⁵⁶ In such cases, the NLRC conducts arbitration at the request of either party or if it makes a unilateral decision to do so after consulting with its members representing the public interest.¹⁵⁷

The ILO CFA has held that compulsory arbitration to end a strike is only acceptable in “public service or in essential services,” as narrowly defined by the ILO CFA, or at the request of both parties.¹⁵⁸ Many of the “public services” as defined by the ROK are not, for the most part, “essential services” according to the ILO CFA. For example, transportation, banking, and railroad, which are included in the TULRAA as “public services,”¹⁵⁹ are not considered “essential services” by the ILO CFA.¹⁶⁰

Parties to industrial disputes who violate the TULRAA provisions on strikes may face penalties of imprisonment of up to five years and a fine of up to 50 million won (USD 44,525).¹⁶¹ If the TULRAA violation involves an employer’s unlawful firing or replacement of workers during a legal strike, the affected workers can seek a remedy through procedures provided in the TULRAA. Within three months of such an offense, workers can request an LRC to investigate. The LRC will either issue an order for a

Recent Amendments to the TULRAA on Union Pluralism and Compensation for Union Officials

As of July 1, 2011, the TULRAA permits union pluralism, allowing for the establishment of multiple enterprise-level trade unions in a single workplace.¹⁶⁴

Since 1998, the ILO CFA has repeatedly recommended that the ROK take “rapid steps for the legalization of trade union pluralism at the enterprise level” and repeal its ban on wage payments to full-time union officials, stating that the matter should be left to collective negotiations.¹⁶⁵ In 2010, the ROK amended the TULRAA to legalize enterprise-level union pluralism. At the same time, these amendments formalized the prohibition on wage payments to full-time union officials,¹⁶⁶ allowing employers to negotiate a paid “time-off system” for designated union representatives to engage in union activities, with a maximum limit set by a new tripartite committee within the MOEL.¹⁶⁷ The full effects of the January 2010 amendments remain to be seen, as the changes concerning union pluralism only recently took effect in July 2011.¹⁶⁸ According to a recent MOEL survey, 12 of 14 major enterprises surveyed after implementation of the new time-off system (which took effect on July 1, 2010) reported significant reductions in the number of full-time union officials.¹⁶⁹

Background to the Recent Amendments

The TULRAA of 1997 legalized union pluralism at the industry and national levels while continuing to prohibit multiple unions at the enterprise level. The 1997 legislation also prohibited the payment of wages to full-time union officials.¹⁷⁰ The effective date on this prohibition was postponed several times until it finally entered into force in July 2010. In the interim, wages for full-time union officials and a limit on the number of full-time union officials to be paid by the employer in a workplace were set on an ad-hoc basis through collective bargaining processes.¹⁷¹

The unsettled state of these issues reflected disagreements over whether employers should continue to pay wages to full-time union officials and how collective bargaining would be handled in workplaces with more than one enterprise-level union. Employers expressed fears that multiple enterprise-level unions could lead to an increase in the number of full-time union officials they were obliged to pay and also raised concerns about complexities involved in bargaining with more than one union at a time. Employers insisted that they could not acquiesce to enterprise-level union pluralism until the law effectively banned the practice of wage payments to full-time union officials and created a process for establishing a single bargaining channel for enterprises with more than one union.¹⁷² Labor unions, for their part, argued that the decision on wage payments to full-time union officials and bargaining methods under union pluralism should be left to individual enterprise labor-management negotiations, in accordance with ILO recommendations.¹⁷³

The 2010 amendments to the TULRAA eliminate the ban on enterprise-level union pluralism, and along with an accompanying new Enforcement Decree (issued Feb. 12, 2010), establish implementation procedures. The following rules have been established for selecting bargaining representatives in enterprises with more than one union. If the employer and unions agree, the employer can engage in separate bargaining with each of the unions. If such an agreement is not reached, then the unions must try to select a bargaining representative among themselves without the employer's engagement. If the unions fail to do so, a trade union representing the majority of union members shall select the representative, subject to the legal duty of fair representation of those union members not affiliated with the majority union.¹⁷⁴ Where no such union exists, all enterprise-level unions constituting at least 10 percent of the total union members shall attempt to create a joint bargaining team to serve as the workers' bargaining representative.¹⁷⁵ If the joint bargaining team cannot be established, the matter is referred to the LRC to determine a joint bargaining team with proportional representation.¹⁷⁶

The 2010 amendments to the TULRAA continue to ban wage payments to full-time union officials and instead allow an employer to negotiate a paid "time-off system" for designated union members. The "time-off system" must be established in accordance with a maximum time-off limit and a maximum number of compensated union members, set by a new 15-member tripartite Time-Off System Deliberation Committee within the

4.2. Effective Recognition of the Right to Collective Bargaining

The Constitution of the ROK provides workers the right to collectively bargain, although it stipulates that such rights may be restricted by law for certain public officials and workers in important defense industries.¹⁸²

The TULRAA provides that a trade union and an employer or employers’ association shall bargain in good faith and “shall not refuse or delay, without just causes, bargaining or concluding collective agreements.”¹⁸³ An employer’s refusal to negotiate a collective agreement or to bargain in good faith, without “justifiable reasons,” constitutes an unfair labor practice.¹⁸⁴

Until January 1, 2010, the TULRAA generally did not permit multiple unions at the enterprise level; therefore, there has usually been only one collective bargaining agreement covering a particular workplace. Multiple collective bargaining agreements have generally been permitted across the same industry at a national level.¹⁸⁵ However, for teachers, the law requires that collective bargaining be conducted through a “unified

For union membership of 15,000 and over, the limit was set at 28,000 hours plus an additional 2,000 hours for every 3,000 members, with a 36,000 hour-cap to take effect on July 1, 2012, for unions with more than 15,000 members. The ban on wage payments to full-time union officials and the maximum time-off system went into effect on July 1, 2010. Ibid., Addenda, Article 2. ¹⁸² Constitution of the ROK, Article 33(1)-(3).

¹⁸³ TULRAA, Article 30(2).

¹⁸⁴ Ibid., Article 81(3)-(4). The TULRAA does not define “justifiable reasons.” Two examples of justifiable reasons that apply to public officials are found in Public Officials’ Act. An employer (in this case, the Government) may refuse to bargain if unions cannot agree to a unified bargaining channel; an employer may refuse to reopen bargaining over subjects covered by a collective bargaining agreement that is still in effect. See Public Officials’ Act, Article 9(4)-(5).

¹⁸⁵ Government of the ROK, Labour Law Reform in Korea: Progress Report to the ELSAC Mandated by the OECD Council, paras. 1, 32-39.

bargaining channel,” and for public officials, the law also authorizes the Government to request multiple unions seeking to bargain to “unify their bargaining” and to refuse to negotiate with them until they have done so.¹⁸⁶

There is no specific provision in the TULRAA limiting the matters subject to collective bargaining, and there is no specific collective bargaining procedure prescribed under the law, except for public officials and teachers.¹⁸⁷ The Teachers’ Act provides that teachers’ unions may bargain and conclude collective agreements on matters concerning “improvement of the economic and social status ... such as wages, working conditions, and welfare.”¹⁸⁸ The Public Officials’ Act provides that public official unions may bargain over “wages, welfare, and other working conditions.”¹⁸⁹ However, the Public Officials’ Act also explicitly states that provisions in collective agreements are non-binding if they pertain to matters stipulated by other laws or by-laws, thus effectively precluding bargaining over matters relating to wages, benefits and other matters generally determined by relevant laws and regulations.¹⁹⁰

The ILO CFA has noted that while certain matters that pertain to the management and operation of government may be excluded under the law from the scope of collective bargaining, matters that primarily relate to the working conditions of public servants not engaged in the “administration of the state” may not.¹⁹¹ As a result, all such public servants “should be able to engage in free and voluntary negotiations” and “the bargaining autonomy of the parties should prevail and not be conditional upon the provisions of laws, by-laws or the budget.”¹⁹²

There is no statutory requirement that a certain percentage of workers be covered before collective bargaining can occur. Once concluded, a collective bargaining agreement is valid for up to two years. When a collective bargaining agreement covers more than half of the workers performing the “same kind of ... job” at an enterprise or workplace, it is understood as covering all such workers. When a collective bargaining agreement covers more than two-thirds of workers in the “same kind of ... job” in a geographic area, the ROK may require that it cover all such workers.¹⁹³

¹⁸⁶ Teacher’s Act, Article 6(3) and Public Officials’ Act, Article 9(4). The law does not define what a “unified bargaining channel” is. Government documents suggest that, in cases where more than one trade union is involved, a unified bargaining channel is one that involves the employer on the one hand, and the trade union that represents the most members on the other. Disputes during the collective bargaining process, except in cases involving public officials and teachers, are subject to the same procedures as other labor-management disputes, discussed above.¹⁹⁴ In cases involving public officials' unions and teachers' unions, if disputes arise during the collective bargaining process, either or both of the parties may apply for mediation to the NLRC.¹⁹⁵ If a dispute is not resolved through mediation, at the request of both parties or by decision of the NLRC, the case may be referred to arbitration.¹⁹⁶ Arbitration decisions can be appealed through the filing of an administrative law suit.¹⁹⁷

The ROK has the authority to find a collective bargaining agreement unlawful and order that it be amended.¹⁹⁸ When disputes arise regarding the interpretation or implementation of a collective agreement, one or both of the parties may ask an LRC for a review. An LRC opinion is binding on the parties and can be appealed through an administrative law suit.¹⁹⁹

A union may bring a complaint that an employer has committed an unfair labor practice related to collective bargaining and request an LRC to investigate. Upon receipt of a complaint, the LRC is required to promptly investigate and to either order a remedy or dismiss the complaint. Either party may appeal an LRC decision to the NLRC.²⁰⁰ The NLRC's decision may be further appealed through an administrative suit.²⁰¹ An employer who violates the terms of a collective bargaining agreement is subject to a fine of up to ten million won (USD 8,905).²⁰²

4.3. Elimination of All Forms of Forced or Compulsory Labor

The Constitution of the ROK states that no person shall be subject to involuntary labor except as provided by statute and through lawful procedures.²⁰³ The Labor Standards Act also establishes that employers cannot force persons to work against their own free will through any means that unjustly "restricts their mental or physical freedom."²⁰⁴

Employers forcing workers to work against their free will can be punished by up to five years imprisonment or a fine of up to 30 million won (USD 26,715).²⁰⁵ The Criminal Act similarly provides for imprisonment of up to five years of public officials who abuse their official authority and force persons to work involuntarily.²⁰⁶ It also provides for imprisonment of up to five years for persons forcing others to work through violence or intimidation,²⁰⁷ and at least three years imprisonment in cases where persons are kidnapped and forced to work.²⁰⁸

The Military Service Act permits the temporary conscription of military reservists to act as public service workers. They may be required to serve at national government agencies, local governments, public organizations and social welfare facilities. They may also be required to engage in art or sports-related activities or participate in activities to support the economic, social, or cultural advancement of developing countries.²⁰⁹ The wide range of activities permitted under the Military Service Act appears to exceed the exceptions allowed by ILO Convention 29 (Convention Concerning Forced or Compulsory Labour) to prohibitions on forced labor. The Convention permits “any work or service exacted in virtue of compulsory military service laws” only “for work of a purely military character.”²¹⁰ Convicts in the ROK may be sentenced to terms of prison labor.²¹¹

Anyone who forces a person to offer sex for money through violence, intimidation or fraud is subject to up to ten years imprisonment or fines of up to 100 million won (USD 89,050).²¹² The trafficking of persons for commercial sexual exploitation is punishable by a minimum of three years imprisonment.²¹³ Recently passed anti-prostitution laws permit victims’ advocates to sue brothel owners and managers to nullify debts for food, rent, accessories, finders’ fees, and other services accumulated as a result of the illicit sex trade.²¹⁴ The Law on Regulations of Public Morals Businesses prohibits the forced prostitution of children and imposes penalties of one to ten years imprisonment for violations.²¹⁵

The U.S. Department of State has determined that the ROK fully complies with the U.S. Trafficking Victims Protection Act’s minimum standards. It also reports that the ROK is a source, transit, and destination country for trafficking in persons, specifically forced labor, and for women and girls in forced commercial sexual exploitation.²¹⁶

4.4. Effective Abolition of Child Labor, a Prohibition on the Worst Forms of Child Labor, and Other Labor Protections for Children and Minors

The ROK ratified ILO Convention No. 138 on the Minimum Age for Admission to Employment on January 28, 1999, and No. 182 on the Worst Forms of Child Labor on March 29, 2001.²¹⁸

The Constitution of the ROK establishes the principle that working children be afforded special protections.²¹⁹ The Labor Standards Act sets the minimum age for employment at 15 years but provides that children between the ages of 13 and 15 may work if granted a work permit by the MOEL as long as the work is in accordance with required procedures and permissions, and the work does not impede compulsory education.²²⁰ Likewise, the Elementary and Secondary Education Act prohibits the employment of children if such employment would interfere with their compulsory school attendance.²²¹

According to the Labor Standards Act, employers of minors under the age of 18 are required to maintain documentation of written consent by the child's parent or guardian.²²² Parents or guardians cannot obligate a minor to a labor contract,²²³ and a parent, guardian, or the MOEL may terminate a child's labor contract if it is determined to be disadvantageous to the minor.²²⁴

The Labor Standards Act also contains other protective measures for working minors. Persons 15 to 18 years of age may not work more than seven hours a day or 40 hours a week.²²⁵ Children under 18 are prohibited from working between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. or on holidays, unless the employee consents or the employer receives approval from the

In addition to the Labor Standards Act, the ROK has enacted other laws concerning child labor. The Juvenile Protection Act expands on the Labor Standards Act prohibition on hazardous child labor. The Juvenile Protection Act and its accompanying Presidential Decree prohibit certain types of establishments from employing, and in some cases even granting access to, persons 18 and under.²²⁸ Such establishments are those deemed “harmful” to juveniles and include: “video-show establishments”; “song-practice establishments”; dance instruction and dance establishments”; “speculative businesses”; businesses engaged as intermediaries for “voice and video conversations between unspecified persons”; lodging establishments; barbershops and public bathhouses; businesses engaged in the use of toxic material; theatres showing certain video products; “games service businesses” and businesses distributing certain “game services”; comic-book rental businesses engaged in collecting membership fees or other charges; businesses manufacturing, producing and distributing media materials harmful to juveniles; businesses manufacturing, producing and distributing drugs harmful to juveniles; and businesses manufacturing, producing and distributing other materials harmful to juveniles.²²⁹

The Act on the Protection of Children and Juveniles from Sexual Abuse prohibits the brokerage and sale of the sexual services of persons 18 and under.²³⁰ Violations are punishable by five years to life imprisonment.²³¹ The Juvenile Protection Act forbids owners of entertainment establishments from hiring persons less than 19 years of age and imposes prison sentences of up to three years and fines of up to 20 million won (USD 17,810) for violations.²³² The Law on Regulations of Public Morals Businesses prohibits the forced prostitution of children and imposes penalties of one to ten years imprisonment for violations.²³³ Under the ROK’s Criminal Act, buying or selling a female for the purpose of prostitution is punishable by at least one year of imprisonment.²³⁴ The 2004 Act on the Punishment of Procuring Prostitution and Associated Acts prohibits prostitution, the procurement of prostitution and associated acts, and human trafficking for the purposes of prostitution. 4.5. Elimination of Discrimination in Respect of Employment and Occupation

The ROK ratified ILO Convention No. 100 on Equal Remuneration on December 8, 1997, and ILO Convention No. 111 on Discrimination (Employment and Occupation) on December 4, 1998.²³⁶

The Constitution of the ROK states that all citizens have the right to work; that all citizens are equal before the law; that there shall be no discrimination in economic, social or cultural life on account of sex, religion, or social status; that all citizens shall have an equal right to receive an education; and that women shall not be subjected to unjust discrimination in terms of employment, wages, and working conditions.²³⁷ The Labor Standards Act prohibits employers from discriminating against workers on the grounds of sex, nationality, religion, or social status.²³⁸

In accordance with the Labor Standards Act, MOEL inspectors conduct inspections of workplaces in order to ensure compliance with the prohibition against employment discrimination contained in the Act.²³⁹ A person who violates the non-discrimination prohibition faces a fine of up to five million won (USD 4,453).²⁴⁰

The following sections provide additional information on the situation of specific groups of workers in the ROK with respect to discrimination.

Gender

In addition to the bans on discrimination in the Constitution and the Labor Standards Act, gender-based discrimination in employment is also prohibited under the Gender Discrimination Prevention and Relief Act of 1999.²⁴¹ The most specific and extensive legislative provisions regarding gender-based discrimination in employment are found in Article 2(1) of the Act defines gender discrimination as “all forms of differentiation, exclusion, or limitation, made without any justifiable reason on the basis of one’s sex, in the recognition, enjoyment or exercise of basic human rights in any political, economic, social, and cultural sectors.” Article 3 of the Act requires employers to “ensure gender equality in employment opportunities and treatment” and prohibits gender discrimination “in the recruitment, promotion, transfer, dismissal, and retirement of employees.” Articles 9 through 37 of the Act authorize the Presidential Commission on Women’s Affairs to remedy allegations of gender-based discrimination.

the Act on Equal Employment and Support for Work-Family Reconciliation (Equal Employment Act). The Equal Employment Act defines such discrimination as applying “different conditions of employment or work to workers or ... any other disadvantageous measures against them without any reasonable reasons on account of sex, marriage, status within family, pregnancy, or child-birth, etc.”²⁴² The Equal Employment Act requires the payment of equal wages for work of equal value in the same business.²⁴³ It also prohibits employers from:

- discriminating in recruitment and hiring based on gender;²⁴⁴
- discriminating in recruitment and hiring of female workers on the basis of “physical conditions such as appearance, height, weight, etc., unmarried status, and other conditions” determined by the MOEL, “which are not required to perform” the job being filled;²⁴⁵
- discriminating on the basis of gender in employer-provided welfare programs, such as payments of non-wage money, goods, or loans;²⁴⁶
- discriminating on the basis of gender in training, deployment, and promotion;²⁴⁷
- discriminating on the basis of gender with respect to retirement age limits, retirement and dismissal, including entering into a labor contract stipulating marriage, pregnancy, or childbirth as cause for retirement;²⁴⁸ and
- engaging in sexual harassment at work.²⁴⁹

The statutory definition covers discrimination arising both from disparate treatment and from disparate impact: “even if an employer applies the same hiring or working conditions to males and females, if the number of males or females who can meet the conditions is considerably less than that of the opposite sex, if this causes a disadvantageous result to either sex, and if the conditions applied cannot be justified as fair ones, it shall constitute a discrimination.”²⁵⁰ The following cases, however, are exceptions:²⁵¹

- when workers of a specific gender are “inevitably needed” due to the nature of a job;

- when measures must be taken to protect “pregnancy, childbirth, child-feeding, etc.”; and
- when employers temporarily take special measures to give preferential treatment to a specific gender to remove existing discrimination.

The Equal Employment Act is applicable to all businesses or workplaces regardless of size, except those workplaces consisting of blood relatives living together and to domestic workers.²⁵² In addition, businesses with less than five workers are exempt from provisions concerning wages; money and goods other than wages; training, deployment, and promotion; and retirement age limits, retirement, and dismissal.²⁵³

The Equal Employment Act provides that if an employer is informed of a gender discrimination grievance, it shall make efforts to settle it through the grievance-handling committee of its labor-management council. Should the council fail to resolve the grievance, the dispute may be referred to arbitration to be resolved under the procedures specified in the Act on the Promotion of Worker Participation and Cooperation.²⁵⁴ Employers bear the burden of proof in all disputes arising under the Equal Employment Act.²⁵⁵

MOEL inspectors may also investigate reports of employment discrimination on the basis of gender.²⁵⁶ Internal MOEL regulations specify that if a labor inspector finds a violation of the Equal Employment Act, the inspector shall give the employer a period of 25 days to remedy the violation. If the employer fails to do so, the inspector officially acknowledges the violation and sends the case to a prosecutor who determines whether to impose a criminal fine or send the case to a criminal court. Prosecutor-imposed fines may be appealed to criminal courts.²⁵⁷

Employers who are found in violation of the Equal Employment Act are subject to imprisonment of up to five years or a monetary penalty of up to 30 million won (USD 26,715), depending on the nature of the violation.²⁵⁸ Employers who are found to be negligent in their responsibilities to comply with the Equal Employment Act are subject to fines of up to ten million won (USD 8,905).²⁵⁹

The Equal Employment Act also directs the MOEL to establish and carry out certain measures aimed at realizing gender equality in employment, such as awareness

Disability

Both the Act on Employment Promotion and Vocational Rehabilitation for Disabled Persons (Disabled Persons Act) and the Anti-Discrimination against and Remedies for Persons with Disabilities Act (Remedies for Persons with Disabilities Act) prohibit employers from discriminating against workers by reason of their disabilities in personnel actions such as recruitment, hiring, promotion, wage and benefit plans, and transfers.²⁶¹ The Disabled Persons Act states that employers shall cooperate with government policies regarding employment for people with disabilities and that they are obligated to provide people with disabilities with employment opportunities suitable to their abilities.²⁶²

The national and local governments are required to fill at least 3 percent of their total workforces with people with disabilities, with the exception of certain public safety, military, and other positions.²⁶³ Private employers with workforces of at least 50 people are also required to fill a certain percentage of their total workforces with people with disabilities; the rate is currently set at 2 percent, and it is re-set every five years by Presidential Decree.²⁶⁴

An employer with a total full-time workforce of more than 100 people that fails to employ workers with disabilities at the obligatory employment rate set by Presidential Decree is required to pay a “share” (levy) to the MOEL. The shares are contributed to a fund that finances a wide variety of activities undertaken by the MOEL to promote the employment of people with disabilities.²⁶⁵

The MOEL has the authority to inspect a workplace to investigate employer compliance with the Disabled Persons Act.²⁶⁶ Employers that violate inspection, reporting, and other procedural or technical provisions of the Disabled Persons Act may be fined up to 3 million won (USD 2,672).²⁶⁷

Individuals who suffer disability-based discrimination and individuals or organizations aware of such discrimination may file complaints with the National Human Rights Commission. The Commission may also independently initiate an investigation if it has sufficient cause to believe that a discriminatory act prohibited under the Remedies for Persons with Disabilities Act has occurred.²⁶⁸ If the Commission's investigation finds evidence of discrimination, the Commission makes a recommendation for remediation and notifies the Minister of Justice of its recommendation.²⁶⁹ If the violating employer does not comply with the recommendation, the Minister of Justice may issue a remedial order to discontinue the discriminatory act, restore the injured party to his/her original state prior to such discrimination, take measures to prevent future acts of discrimination, or take other measures to rectify the violation.²⁷⁰ The Minister of Justice may also order monetary compensation for damages to the injured party.²⁷¹ Failure to implement a remedial order may result in a fine of up to 30 million won (USD 26,715). The court may also mandate relief measures, and if a finding is made that the prohibited discriminatory act was "malicious," the court may impose a penalty of up to three years imprisonment or a fine of up to 30 million won (USD 26,715).²⁷²

The Disabled Persons Act obligates the Government to effectively and comprehensively promote the employment of people with disabilities and establishes the Korea Employment Promotion Agency for Disabled Persons, subject to MOEL authority, to help fulfill such obligation.²⁷³ The Minister of Employment and Labor is charged with creating the basic plan for employment promotion among people with disabilities.²⁷⁴ The Minister of Employment and Labor, the Korea Employment Promotion Agency for Disabled Persons, and the Minister for Health, Welfare and Family Affairs are also charged with implementing vocational counseling and guidance activities to encourage the development of jobs suitable for people with disabilities and to help people with disabilities obtain such jobs.²⁷⁵ Both the national and local governments are also required to create a working environment suitable for people with disabilities who cannot work under typical working conditions.²⁷⁶

Age

The Act on Prohibition of Age Discrimination in Employment and Aged Employment Promotion ("Aged Employment Promotion Act")²⁷⁷ outlines a series of initiatives and programs that are to be undertaken by the Government in order to promote the employment of the aged and semi-aged (currently defined as persons 55 years or older, and persons who are 50 years or older but less than 55 years old, respectively²⁷⁸) and prohibits discrimination against these groups in recruitment, hiring, or dismissal.

Employers are obligated to make efforts to provide aged workers with employment consistent with their skill level, to improve working conditions for aged workers, and to extend the retirement age.²⁷⁹ Depending on industry, employers must employ aged workers at a rate of at least two to six percent of their workforces.²⁸⁰

Employers with more than 300 employees are obligated to make reports to the MOEL regarding the current state of their retirement systems.²⁸¹

Fines for violating inspection, reporting, and other procedural or technical provisions of the Aged Employment Promotion Act may range up to 5 million won (USD 4,453). An employer who retaliates against an employee for exercising rights under this Act is subject to up to two years in prison or a fine up to ten million won (USD 8,905).²⁸² An employer who unlawfully discriminates against a worker based on age is subject to a fine of up to 5 million won (USD 4,453).²⁸³ Employers who fail to comply with a MOEL order to cease the practice of age discrimination are subject to a penalty of up to 30 million won (USD 26,715).²⁸⁴

Ethnic Minorities/Foreign Workers

The National Human Rights Commission has jurisdiction to investigate discrimination in employment and make recommendations to address discrimination on the basis of place of origin, country of origin, ethnicity, race, and color.²⁸⁵ It defines discrimination to include “[a]ny act of favorably treating, excluding, differentiating, or unfavorably treating a particular person in employment (including recruitment, hiring, training, placement, promotion, wages, payment of commodities other than wages, loans, age limit, retirement, and dismissal, etc.).”²⁸⁶

²⁸⁶ Ibid., Article 4(a). The Act does explicitly permit favorable treatment of individuals or groups in order to remedy past discrimination. Ibid., Article 4.

The two primary employment laws in the ROK applicable to ethnic minorities and foreign workers do not appear to prohibit employment discrimination specifically against ethnic minorities, but they do prohibit discrimination on the basis of nationality. The Labor Standards Act states that employers shall not discriminate in relation to the conditions of employment on the basis of nationality.²⁸⁷ The Act on Foreign Workers' Employment, Etc. states that employers “shall not give unfair and discriminatory treatment to foreign workers on grounds of their status,” with a “foreign worker” defined as “a person who does not have Korean nationality and works or intends to work in a business or workplace located in Korea for the purpose of earning wages.”²⁸⁸ The Act on Foreign Workers' Employment, Etc. also extends to foreign workers, except domestic workers, the same protections afforded to Korean nationals under all labor laws²⁸⁹ and was designed to eliminate employment discrimination experienced by foreign workers by reason of their “underprivileged” status under the Immigration Control Act.

The MOEL has the authority to assess fines for violating contract terms, inspection, reporting, and other procedural or technical provisions of the Act on Foreign Workers' Employment, Etc., which may range up to ten million won (USD 8,905), but there is no penalty for violating the anti-discrimination provisions of the Act.²⁹⁰

Non-Regular Workers

“Non-regular workers” include workers who work full-time but are on fixed-term contracts, part-time workers, and “atypical” workers, such as temporary agency workers, also known as “dispatched workers.”²⁹¹ Discrimination against such workers is addressed in two laws. The Act on the Protection, Etc. of Fixed-Term and Part-Time Employees addresses discriminatory and negative employment conditions that may be experienced by those with fixed-term or part-time employment contracts.²⁹² This law applies to businesses with five or more workers, with the exception of domestic servants and businesses consisting of relatives living together.²⁹³ Businesses made up of fewer than five employees may also be subject to certain provisions of the Act, as prescribed by Presidential Decree, and the Act applies to all government agencies regardless of their size.²⁹⁴ The Act on the Protection, Etc. of Fixed-Term and Part-Time Employees prohibits discriminatory treatment against fixed-term and part-time employees, as compared to their non-fixed term or full-time counterparts in the same or similar jobs, with respect to wages and other working conditions without justifiable reasons.²⁹⁵ The Act also prohibits retaliation against fixed-term or part-time employees for exercising certain rights provided by the law, such as refusing to perform overtime work.²⁹⁶

Discriminatory treatment of temporary agency or “dispatched workers” is prohibited by the Act on the Protection, Etc., of Dispatched Workers. This law defines “dispatched worker” as a worker who, while maintaining an employment relationship with a “sending employer,” such as a temporary agency, engages in work for a “using employer” in compliance with direction and order of the using employer and in accordance with a worker dispatch contract.²⁹⁷ The law prohibits discriminatory treatment of dispatched workers, defined as “unfavorable treatment in terms of wages and other working conditions . . . without any justifiable reasons.”²⁹⁸ Both sending and using employers are prohibited from treating a dispatched worker in a discriminatory manner as compared to a directly employed worker “who performs the same work in the business of the using employer.”²⁹⁹ Employers are also prohibited from rescinding a worker dispatch contract on the basis of gender, religion, or social status, or based on involvement in legal trade union activities.³⁰⁰

The Labor Standards Act provides that the term of any fixed-term labor contract may not exceed one year, except when the term is linked specifically to the completion of a particular project.³⁰¹ In order to prevent the use of serial fixed-term contracts to employ a worker in long-term non-regular status, the Act on the Protection, Etc. of Fixed-Term and Part-Time Employees establishes that an employer may hire an individual as a fixed-term employee only for a period of up to two years (comprised of two or more fixed-term labor contracts).³⁰² An employer may exceed the two-year limit in only a few cases, such as to complete a project or particular task or to fill a vacancy for a regular worker until that worker returns to the job.³⁰³ The Act on the Protection, Etc. of Dispatched Workers also mandates that the length of an employment period for a dispatched worker may not exceed one year, which may be extended for up to one more year.³⁰⁴ If an employer

The MOEL is charged with enforcing the Act on the Protection, Etc. of Dispatched Workers and the Act on the Protection, Etc. of Fixed-Term and Part-Time Employees, and a worker may notify a labor inspector of violations under either act.³⁰⁷ If a fixed-term, part-time, or dispatched worker experiences discriminatory treatment or violation of their legal rights, the employee may also apply to an LRC for redress.³⁰⁸ Upon receiving an application for redress, the LRC will conduct an investigation.³⁰⁹ In cases where it judges that the treatment in question was, in fact, discriminatory, the LRC shall issue a redress order to the employer.³¹⁰ At any time during the investigatory process, under its own authority or at the request of one of the parties, the LRC can commence mediation or arbitration proceedings to attempt to settle the dispute. Remedies available through mediation, arbitration, or a redress order include suspending discriminatory actions, and improving working conditions (including wages) or monetary compensation.³¹¹

4.6. Acceptable Conditions of Work with Respect to Minimum Wages, Hours of Work, and Occupational Safety and Health

Minimum Wages

The ROK ratified ILO Conventions No. 26 on Minimum Wage Fixing Machinery and No. 131 on Minimum Wage Fixing on December 27, 2001.³¹⁷

The Constitution of the ROK provides that the Government “shall enforce a minimum wage system under the conditions as prescribed by law.”³¹⁸ The Minimum Wage Act obligates employers in the ROK who employ at least one worker to pay at least the minimum wage rate, with some exclusions.³¹⁹ The Minimum Wage Act does not apply to businesses employing only family members living together; domestic workers; or to seafarers and their employers, who are instead subject to the Seaman Act.³²⁰ With approval of the Minister of Employment and Labor, provisions of the Minimum Wage Act may also be waived for workers who have limited capacity to work due to a physical or mental disability.³²¹ The Minimum Wage Act allows a sub-minimum wage rate to be paid to workers during an initial three-month probationary period and to workers engaged in “surveillance” or “intermittent” work.³²² If a worker is paid on a contract basis and it is difficult to calculate the number of hours worked, the minimum wage rate is to be determined on the basis of the output or achievement of the worker concerned.³²³

Under the Minimum Wage Act, the Government establishes an hourly minimum wage rate, but the rate may also be expressed as a daily, weekly or monthly equivalent.³²⁴ The law requires that the Minister of Employment and Labor determine the minimum wage by August 5 of every year, according to the recommendation of the Minimum Wage Council.³²⁵ The Minimum Wage Council is a tripartite body composed of 27 members, with equal numbers representing workers, employers, and the public interest.³²⁶ The minimum wage rate is established based on the cost of living, the wages and labor productivity of workers engaged in similar work, and the ratio of workers’ compensation to national income. The consideration of these factors may lead to different minimum wage rates for separate industries.³²⁷

In 2010, the minimum wage rate was equal for all industries: 4,110 won (USD 3.66) per hour.³²⁸ Workers on probation and who have worked less than three months are entitled to 90 percent of the minimum wage rate; after three months, the full minimum wage rate applies.³²⁹ Workers engaged in surveillance or intermittent work are entitled to 80 percent of the minimum wage rate.³³⁰

Enforcement of the Minimum Wage Act is the responsibility of MOEL inspectors.³³¹ Employers who violate the Act are subject to imprisonment of up to three years and/or a fine of up to 20 million won (USD 17,810).³³²

Hours of Work

The Labor Standards Act sets the maximum work day at eight hours and the maximum work week at 40 hours.³³³ Amendments to the Labor Standards Act adopted in 2003 shortened the work week from 44 to 40 hours and are being phased in gradually through 2011 according to firm size.³³⁴

Workers are allowed a recess period of at least 30 minutes for every four hours worked and at least one hour for every eight hours worked.³³⁵ Recess time is not counted as working time and, as such, is not remunerated.³³⁶ The Act generally applies to all workplaces with five or more workers, except domestic work and businesses employing only household family members.³³⁷ However, the Act's provisions on working hours, recess, and days off also extend to enterprises with four or fewer workers.³³⁸ Workers involved in agricultural, forestry, livestock, sericulture, fishery, security guard, or intermittent work, as well as businesses excluded by Presidential Decree, are not covered by the working hours, recess, and holiday provisions of the Act.³³⁹

Under the Labor Standards Act, employers may require employees under a flexible time schedule to exceed the statutory limit on work hours without paying an overtime premium. However, an employee's work hours per day and per week may not exceed the legal standard when averaged over a two-week period and in no case may an employee's hours exceed 48 in a particular week.³⁴⁰ By agreement with workers' representatives, the employer may also institute a flexible working system over a three-month period, where the average hours do not exceed the legal standard, with a cap of 52 hours per week and 12 hours per day.³⁴¹ Employers may not apply any flexible working hour system to workers aged 15 to 18 years or to pregnant women.³⁴²

If the employer and the employee both agree, employers may also extend working hours up to 12 hours per week, in which case an overtime premium of at least 50 percent of the employee's ordinary wages must be paid.³⁴³ In addition, for three years from the end of the phase in of the 40-hour work week, working hours may be extended by up to 16 hours per week by agreement of the worker and the employer.³⁴⁴ Additional leave may be granted in lieu of additional wages for overtime, weekend, and night work, if agreed to by workers' representatives.³⁴⁵

Workers must be granted at least one paid day off per week.³⁴⁶ Workers who have an 80 percent or better attendance rate in one year are to receive 15 days paid annual leave.³⁴⁷ If a worker has been with an enterprise for less than one year, the employer is required to grant one day of paid leave per month if the worker has not been absent throughout a month.³⁴⁸ After the first year of service, the employer shall grant one day's additional leave for each two years of consecutive service, for a maximum of 25 days leave per year.³⁴⁹

An employer must obtain the explicit consent of women before requiring them to work at night or on their weekly day off.³⁵⁰ An employer may not require a woman within a year of childbirth to work overtime in excess of two hours per day, six hours per week, or 150 hours per year, even if stipulated in a collective bargaining agreement.³⁵¹ Women may request and employers must grant one day's unpaid menstrual leave per month.³⁵²

Occupational Safety and Health

The ROK ratified Conventions No. 155 on Occupational Safety and Health and No. 187 on the Promotional Framework for Occupational Safety and Health on February 20, 2008. Convention No. 162 on Asbestos was ratified on April 4, 2007, and Convention No. 170 on Chemicals was ratified on November 4, 2003.³⁵⁵

The Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSH Act) establishes standards on occupational safety and health and delineates the roles of the Government, employers, and workers with respect to these standards.³⁵⁶ Various types of businesses are exempted from certain parts of the OSH Act, some because they are covered by health and safety provisions of other legislation and others based on the MOEL's assessment of "the degree of hazard and danger, the kinds and scale of business, the location of business, etc."³⁵⁷

The MOEL is responsible for establishing mid-term and long-term plans for the prevention of industrial accidents and disease, including the establishment of an Occupational Safety and Health Policy Deliberative Committee composed of senior government officials and specialists, to advise on and coordinate these plans and major policies.³⁵⁸ The MOEL is also responsible for tracking statistics on industrial accidents, although it is at MOEL's discretion whether to announce those statistics publicly.³⁵⁹ In addition, the MOEL examines and classifies hazardous chemicals and physical substances and sets exposure limits and reviews the safety of new chemicals as they are submitted by employers after conducting hazard and risk evaluations.³⁶⁰ The Korea Occupational Safety and Health Agency is charged with providing technical, financial, and training assistance to workplaces to improve occupational accident prevention.³⁶¹

The OSH Act requires employers to take the following safety and health measures, among others:

- refrain from producing, importing, transferring or supplying certain hazardous substances listed in the Enforcement Decree of the OSH Act, as well as any other substances proven to cause occupational cancers and identified as hazardous to workers' health;³⁶⁷ and
- maintain accurate records on health and safety measures required by law.³⁶⁸

Employers are also responsible for taking actions to prevent industrial accidents and diseases with respect to subcontracted workers,³⁶⁹ and employers must include subcontracted employees in the employer safety and health program if the workers are employed on site.³⁷⁰ Employers must also obtain permission from the MOEL before subcontracting out any work specified as hazardous in the Enforcement Decree of the OSH Act.³⁷¹

Under the OSH Act and related regulations, workers are responsible for observing standards for the prevention of industrial accidents and diseases and to abide by preventive measures implemented by employers or other related organizations.³⁷² Workers may report any violations of the OSH Act to the MOEL or a labor inspector and cannot be dismissed or otherwise suffer adverse treatment for making such reports.³⁷³ Employers may not dismiss or otherwise disadvantage an employee who removes himself or herself from danger because of an urgent hazard that could lead to an industrial accident.³⁷⁴

EXPLOITATIVE CHILD LABOR 3

REPUBLIC OF KOREA..... 4

Introduction

This report on the laws of the Republic of Korea (“ROK”, or “Korea”) governing exploitative child labor has been prepared pursuant to section 2102(c)(9) of the Trade Act of 2002 (“Trade Act”) (Pub. L. No. 107-210). Section 2102(c)(9) provides that the President shall:

[w]ith respect to any trade agreement which the President seeks to implement under trade authorities procedures, submit to the Congress a report describing the extent to which the country or countries that are parties to the agreement have in effect laws governing exploitative child labor.

The President, by Executive Order 13277 (67 Fed. Reg. 70305 (Nov. 21, 2002)), assigned the responsibility under section 2102(c)(9) to the Secretary of Labor and provided that it be carried out in consultation with the Secretary of State and the United States Trade Representative (USTR). The Secretary of Labor subsequently provided that such responsibilities would be carried out by the Secretary of State, the USTR, and the Secretary of Labor (67 Fed. Reg. 77812 (Dec. 19, 2002)). Please see Sections 4.3 and 4.4 of the Department of Labor’s Republic of Korea: Labor Rights Report for information on the incidence and nature of forced labor and child labor.

Pursuant to Section 2102(c)(9) of the Trade Act, this report provides information on ROK laws governing exploitative child labor. The report relies upon reports and materials prepared by the ROK, U.S. Government agencies, international organizations such as the International Labor Organization (ILO), and nongovernmental organizations.

Exploitative Child Labor

There is no universally accepted definition of the term “exploitative child labor.” ILO Convention 138, Minimum Age for Admission to Employment, provides that the minimum age of admission into employment or work in any occupation “shall not be less than the age of completion of compulsory schooling and, in any case, shall not be less than 15.”¹ Countries whose economies and educational facilities are insufficiently developed may initially specify a minimum legal working age of 14 when ratifying the convention. Additionally, under Article 7(1) of the Convention, “National laws or regulations may permit the employment or work of persons 13 to 15 years of age on light work which is (a) not likely to be harmful to their health or development; and (b) not such as to prejudice their attendance at school, their participation in vocational orientation or training programmes approved by the competent authority or their capacity to benefit from the instruction received.” Countries that have specified a minimum legal working age of 14 may permit persons 12 to 14 years of age to engage in light work, as defined in Article 7(1). Examples of such light work may include work in a family business, on a family farm, after school, or in a legitimate apprenticeship opportunity that is not hazardous and does not affect a child’s attendance at school.

The ILO has defined the “worst forms” of child labor in ILO Convention 182, Worst Forms of Child Labor, which prohibits such labor for “all persons under the age of 18.”² Under Article 3 of ILO Convention 182, the term “worst forms of child labour” comprises:

- (a) all forms of slavery or practices similar to slavery, such as the sale and trafficking of children, debt bondage and serfdom and forced or compulsory labour, including forced or compulsory recruitment of children for use in armed conflict;
- (b) the use, procuring or offering of a child for prostitution, for the production of pornography or for pornographic purposes;
- (c) the use, procuring or offering of a child for illicit activities, in particular for the production and trafficking of drugs as defined in the relevant international treaties;
- (d) work which, by its nature or the circumstances in which it is carried out, is likely to harm the health, safety or morals of children.³

According to Convention 182, the types of work referred to under Article 3(d) “shall be determined by national laws or regulations or by the competent authority . . . taking into consideration relevant international standards, in particular Paragraphs 3 and 4 of the worst Forms of Child Labour Recommendation, 1999.”⁴

Republic of Korea

The ROK ratified ILO Convention No. 138 on the Minimum Age for Admission to Employment on January 28, 1999, and No. 182 on the Worst Forms of Child Labor on March 29, 2001.⁵

The Constitution of the ROK establishes the principle that working children be afforded special protections.⁶ The Labor Standards Act sets the minimum age for employment at 15 years but provides that children between the ages of 13 and 15 may work if granted a work permit by the Ministry of Employment and Labor (MOEL), provided that the work is in accordance with required procedures and permissions and does not impede compulsory education.⁷ Likewise, the Elementary and Secondary Education Act prohibits the employment of children if such employment would interfere with their compulsory school attendance.⁸

According to the Labor Standards Act, employers of minors under the age of 18 are required to maintain documentation of written consent by the child's parent or guardian.⁹ Parents or guardians cannot obligate a minor to a labor contract.¹⁰ In addition, a parent, guardian, or the MOEL may terminate a child's labor contract if it is determined to be disadvantageous to the minor.¹¹

The Labor Standards Act also contains other protective measures for working minors. Persons 15 to 18 years of age may not work more than seven hours a day or 40 hours a week.¹² Persons under the age of 18 are prohibited from working between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. or on holidays, unless the employee consents or the employer receives approval from the MOEL.¹³ Employers are also prohibited under the Labor Standards Act from employing children under 18 for any work that is deemed hazardous or dangerous to their morality or health.¹⁴

In addition to the Labor Standards Act, the ROK has enacted other laws concerning child labor. The Juvenile Protection Act expands on the prohibition on hazardous child labor contained in the Labor Standards Act. The Juvenile Protection Act and its accompanying Presidential Decree prohibit certain types of establishments from employing, and in some cases even granting access to, persons aged 18 years and under.¹⁵ Such establishments are those deemed "harmful" to juveniles and include: "video-show establishments"; "song-practice establishments"; "dance instruction and dance establishments"; "speculative businesses"; businesses engaged as intermediaries for "voice and video conversations between unspecified persons"; lodging establishments; barbershops and public bathhouses; businesses engaged in the use of toxic material; theatres showing certain video products; "games service businesses" and businesses distributing certain "game services"; comic-book rental businesses engaged in collecting membership fees or other charges; businesses manufacturing, producing and distributing media materials harmful to juveniles; businesses manufacturing, producing and distributing drugs harmful to juveniles; and businesses manufacturing, producing and distributing other materials harmful to juveniles.¹⁶
